GLOAK NOT A CANDIDATE

Corporation Counsel's Opinion Makes Him Ineligable to Tax Collectorship.

TOWNSEND THE LIKELY MAN.

William B. Clark, J. P. Murray, B. F. Coriell and Howard Tracy Are Also Mentioned.

William R. Townsend will be chosen tonight by the Common Council as successor to John W. Murray, Jr., as tax collector, according to generally credited reports. Councilman William L. Gloak has withdrawn from the contest and an opinion given by Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh is responsable for his decision not to allow his name to be presented to the city fathers.

Corporation Counsel Marsh has given an opinion which makes Mr. Gloak ineligible for the office. The law, it seems, forbids any member of the Common Council being elected by that body to another municipal office during the term for which he is chosen. This interpretattion of the law, it is said, brings into question the validity of the acts performed by County Chairman Frank H. Smith and Former Councilman Robert L. Lee while they, in turn, held the tax collectorship. Both were chosen to that position while they were members of the Common Council. It is stated today that if their election was illegal there is a serious question as to the validity of the Martin Act sales conducted by them as tax collectors.

William B. Clark is seeking the office and his written to Mayor C. J. Fisk, making a tempting offer in that connection. Mr. Fisk's reply states that he has turned the communication over to the finance committee of the Common Council, he, himself, having nothing to do with the mayor of the collectorship. James P. Murray is also being boosted for the position. He is a brother of Dr. William Murray. Still another candidate is former Sheriff B. Frank Coriell, whose friends are making an active canvas in his behalf. Howard Tracy has also been mentioned in the same connection. Mr. Clark's offer follows:

"Mayor Chas. J. Fisk.

"Honorable Sir:

"If I could be appointed as successor to J. W. Murray, Jr., who has recently resigned as collector of taxes for the city of Plainfield, I beg to make the following proposition:

"I would wish that one-third of the salary that belongs to the collector, be paid to Muhlenberg Hospital,' whether in the name of the incumbent, or of the city, it matters not which. I suggest this as a philanthropic way, as well as to secure for myself a something to keep me out of mischief.

"I am a retired servant of the Standard Oil Company, and am receiving an annuity for a long and difficult service. It goes without saying therefore that I am perfectly competent to fill the bill, and with my long experience might arrange a system to lessen to the city for doing the work. I am not a politician, but I am a good Republican, and have always supported that ticket.

"Any of the Standard Oil Company gentlemen who are residents of the city or borough of Plainfield will testify to my qualifications and would support my application if in their power.

"I place myself in your hands and hope that it will be in your power to grant my request.

"I am a freeholder and can furnish any indemnity bond that may be required.

"Yours respectfully,
"WM. H. CLARK."

New Building Started.

Work on the foundations to the extension of the Hand Storage barns on Craig place has been begun by William T. Smith, the contractor. The building is to measure 47 by 94 feet and will be erected in the rear of the present barns. It will be three stories in height and will be ready for occupancy about March 1. The house which stood on the site of the new building has been moved to a position on the lot opposite, on Somerset place.

Dinner to Union County Men.

The Union County Board of Registry and Elections, together with a few other county officials, were tendered a dinner at the Anheuser-Busch restaurant at Newark, Friday night, by Frederick Lehman, who has charge of the repairing of ballot-boxes used in Union and Essex counties. After the dinner the party attended the Newark theatre.

To Settle Speakership.

The Speakership of the House may be settled definitely tomorrow at Trenton, when the members come together again on Governor's day. Prof. H. D. Thompson, of Mercer, is the likely man.

PRESIDENT NEWBERRY ENTERTAINS CRICKETERS

The members of the Bound Brook Cricket Club, their friends and wives were entertained by A. S. Newberry, the retiring president and founder of the club, at his home on High street, Bound Brook, Saturday night. It was the windup for the season of '07. J. G. Fisher, president for 1908, was in the chair and a short business session was held. Immediately afterward an adjournment was taken that the festivities of the evening might be enjoyed. Songs, recitations, speakers and good stories combined to make a pleasant time for all.

About 11 o'clock the meeting was again called to order, when Mr. Newberry presented to the premier batter and bowler for the season '07, their respective prizes. Mr. Newberry then brought forth two handsome trophies, a silver loving cup for the best batsman and a beautiful Japanese vase for the best bowler. The cup was presented to Fred Wharton, of West Sixth street, and the vase to George Bridge, of Rockview. Each presentation was accompanied by a few congratulatory remarks, with suitable responses.

After the presentations all adjourned to the dining room, where a bountiful repast was spread and fully enjoyed by the guests. When the cigars were passed Mr. Newberry started the fun-making with an original ping-pong story, proving that there is more fun in the game than most folks imagine. Other stories were told, interspersed with songs and it was nearly midnight when the gathering dispersed, after extending their best wishes to Mr. Newberry.

PLAINFIELDER'S AUTO HIT BY CAR AT NEWARK

In the confusion just after the last car was checked at the close of the New Jersey Auto Club's endurance contest at Newark, Saturday afternoon, a trolley car going East on Clinton avenue collided with a Maxwell runabout, owned by Carlton C. Brown, of West Front street, this city.

Mr. Brown was driving the machine and seated beside him was Noble Briggs, of Albert street. The trolley car struck the rear of the automobile, sending it with such force against a nearby wagon that the radiator of the auto was smashed. There was a little alchohol mixed with the water in the radiator, and when the police on duty at the automobile clubhouse smelled it, as the radiator was dented in, they quickly clared a space about the damaged car, fearing that it might take fire. The alcohol was so diluted, however, that there was practically no danger.

The police helped Mr. Brown in getting his auto to a garage where repairs were made. Neither occupant suffered any injury in the collision.

SPECIAL PRAISE SERVICE.

Under Mr. Titsworth's Direction at Trinity.

The successful special praise service by the choir of Trinity Reformed church last night was largely attended. Under the direction of Arthur L. Titsworth, organist and choirmaster, the quartet choir rendered several selections in a delightful manner. The quartet comprising Miss Etta Raybert, soprano; Miss Winifred Carroll, contralto; E. D. Young, tenor, and F. S. Cutter, bass, sang "Art Thou Weary?" by Edward Broome; "God Shall Wipe Away All Tears," J. F. Field; "Fear Not, O Israel," Max Spicker; solo, "The Heavenly Song," Hamilton Gray; duet, "My Faith Looks Up to Thee," W. K. Bassford.

In connection with the praise service, Rev. Dr. E. P. Johnson, acting pastor, delivered a strong and helpful discourse on "Gratitude's Response," which was appropriate to the occasion.

New Bible Classes.

The first session of the new afternoon Bible class at the Young Women's Christian Association will be held tomorrow at 4 o'clock. This class will be taught by Miss Chadbourne and the course will consist of ten lessons. The fee for the ten will be $2.50. All young women interested in forming a free eight o'clock class are invited to meet at the association rooms, 212 East Front street, tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock to talk over the matter and to decide upon the best day and the subject for study.

Approaching Wedding.

The marriage of Miss Helen Hassell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Hassell, of East Seventh street, to J. F. Wells Taylor, son of Rev. and Mrs. Joseph P. Taylor, of East Seventh street, will take place at the home of the bride's parents on Wednesday, December 4.

LOCAL OPTION PROGRESS

J. Frank Burke the Speaker at Park Avenue Baptist Church.

VICTORIES AT RECENT ELECTION

Lecturer Said That An Assemblyman Who Voted Against Local Option Bill Has Pledged His Support In the Work In This State.

"The saloon problem is primarily the church problem, and the churches have declared that the saloons must go." So said J. Frank Burke, superintendent of the New Jersey Anti-Saloon League, and co-worker with Emmett H. Curtis to bring about direct license vote at the primaries, in his address at the Park Avenue Baptist church last night. As a political issue in the recent campaign, the Anti-Saloon Leaguers claim to have gained ground by their efforts in this State. The campaign for local option is still being carried on, and between 300 and 400 men, the speaker said, are speaking in the different States every Sunday in behalf of the cause.

Mr. Burke has been in this city before, lecturing on local option, and there was a large audience out to hear him last night. The speaker stated that the supreme court of the United States has declared that no man has an inherent right to sell intoxciating liquor at retail, and other courts have declared that the liquor traffic is in its nature criminal. The supreme court of New Jersey has ruled that withholding a license for the sale of liquors is withholding no right. There are 3,000 members of the liquor dealers' organization in this State, but there are about 400,000 church members in the State, and through the votes of these men, the league hopes to accomplish its local option movement.

In the South, there has been great success for the local option people. There are only three "wet" counties in Tennessee, and ninety-six out of 119 counties in Kentucky are "dry." Alabama has not half as many saloons as Newark has. Over 1,000 saloons in the United States were forced to close as a result of local option voting at the last election, and 36,000,000 people live in the territory freed from the saloons.

Mr. Burke stated that one of the members of the State Assembly who voted against the local option bill last year recently talked with him about local option and said that he would do all in his power to advance local option in the State. Not one member of last year's judiciary committee, which conspired to kill the local option bill, will be returned to the Legislature this year. "New Jersey has heretofore been a paradise for the liquor dealers," said Mr. Burke in concluding his address, "but the tide of temperance is rising and this State will soon fall in line for the support of local option."

CITY HIGH SCHOOL JUNIORS HOLD RECEPTION AND DANCE.

The junior class of the city high school held a reception and dance at the school auditorium Saturday night. A majority of the members of the class were present, and the evening was spent in dancing. Many of the members of the school faculty were present, and the grand march was led by Principal Ira W. Travell with Miss Catherine Ball as partner. Music was furnished by members of the school orchestra.

During the evening, refreshments consisting of ice cream and cake were served in the gasement lunch room, which was elaborately decorated with dark blue and white, the class colors. At the end of the room was a mammoth '09 in class colors. In the name of the class, Charles Loizeaux, the class president, presented Miss Catherine Ball, of the school faculty, with a handsome picture, sheep returning at twilight.

Home Missionary Tea.

The women of the Congregational church will hold a home missionary tea at the residence of Mrs. Frank A. Weeks, 825 West Seventh street, tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. The speaker and guest of the afternoon will be the newly-appointed and attractive secretary of the women's department of the Congregational Home Missionary Society, Miss M. L. Woodberry. Miss Annola F. Wright, of New York, will be the soprano soloist. The thank-offering envelopes will be received.

Reception and Dance.

The affair to be held at the Casino Friday night, December 20, under the auspices of the Plainfield Branch, United Commercial Travelers, will be in the nature of a reception and dance. An orchestra of ten pieces will furnish the music. It is also expected that several specialties will be offered to entertain the patrons.

CALL REV. EDWIN B. SHAW

Seventh Day Baptist Congregation Ask Pastor's Brother to Take His Place.

MEMBER OF MILTON FACULTY.

Rev. Clayton Burdick, of Westerly, R. I., Declines Invitation to Take Rev. G. B. Shaw's Place.

The members of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, through the special committee appointed to secure a successor to be present pastor, Rev. George B. Shaw, who on January 1, will assume the pastorate of the denominational church at North Loup, Neb., have extended a call to Prof. Edwin B. Shaw, a brother of the present pastor. Prof. Shaw is a graduate of Milton College, Milton, Wis., and for over fifteen years has been a professor there.

The call was decided upon at a meeting of the church held last night. The committee had previously reported that a call had been extended to Rev. Clayton Burdick, of Westerly, R. I., but that the latter declined because he believed that his work was not finished at Westerly. The committee then presented the name of Prof. Shaw and a unanimous call was extended to him. It is believed that he will accept.

Prof. Shaw is older than the present pastor of the church, and his work has attracted much attention on the part of members of the denomination.

SOLEMN VESPER SERVICE

Watchung Council, Knights of Columbus, Assembles for Annual Memorial.

ADDRESS BY REV. T. SMITH.

Noted Lecturer and Writer Tells of the Growth of the Catholic Church And Its Principles.

According to their annual custom, the members of Watchung Council, No. 552, Knights of Columbus, assembled in St. Mary's church for Solemn Vespers, last night. The organization had as its guests delegations from Bailey and Elizabeth Councils, and occupied seats in the forward part of the church. There was a large attendance in addition and every available seat was taken.

The service was in charge of Rev. Father Bogan and a committee from the Council and the sermon of the evening was delivered by Rev. John Talbot Smith, of New York, prominent as a lecturer, writer and the president of the Catholic Sunday-school of America at Plattsburg, N. Y. In the course of his remarks, Mr. Smith spoke of the power of the Catholic church, its history and achievements and also paid tribute to Pope Pius because of his capable directing and established ability. He referred to the persecutions the church endured but declared that it had triumphed and the people were now ahead, because they had a leader. Continuing he said:

"I came to tell you something more pertinent to yourselves, to give you the bare facts upon which this gorgeous structure rests and if I do not convince you that we are winners, they my endeavor is useless. The Catholic church has the home organ of all its labors in two factors. The first is the multitude, organized into one grand body and flung at the abuses of civilization to make the road and build the cities for the people to come after. And how have they become a multitude? It is not many years ago that the Knights of Columbus were not in existence and they are doing splendid work now for the salvation of men. But it is of the most importance for us to know what this multiude has done for the republic in which we live.

"In other days people had their own ideas about the service of God, mutilated ideas which had never been developed as they should have devel-

PIPE ORGAN DEDICATED

Pastor Lawrence R. Howard Conducts Ceremony at Hope Chapel.

IN H. C. SQUIRES' MEMORY.

Instrument Cost $2,000 and Is In Memory of Late Beloved Sunday-school Superintendent.

The Henry C. Squires Memorial organ recently installed in Hope chapel by the congregation in loving tribute to their late Sunday-school superintendent, was formally dedicated yesterday morning. A congregation that filled the edifice was in attendance and took part in a special service arranged by Pastor L. R. Howard.

Mrs. L. R. Howard, who is to be the organist, was in charge of the musical features of the program. It opened with an organ voluntary and was followed by several other numbers, after which the dedication took place. The congregation stood while the following dedicatory form was read by the pastor:

"Assembled in our house of worship in the presence of holy memories, especially recalling those which cluster about our late beloved superintendent, Henry C. Squires, to whom we hereby pay one more tribute of a grateful people, in the unity of Christian fellowship, and in the name and faith of Jesus Christ, our Lord, by whom the church stands, we now solemnly and reverently dedicate our new organ to the worship and praise of Almighty God. We dedicate it likewise to the service of man; to the sentiment of human brotherhood and love of country; to the offices of friendship and faith and to the hope of the life everlasting. We invoke upon it and upon all its use the ministry in our sanctuary, until the end, the blessing and grace of Heaven."

While still standing, the congregation sang the Doxology and a short prayer was offered by Mr. Howard. In his sermon afterward, he referred to sacred music as being one of the helps to religious life, his subject being "Religion and Prosperity." Special anthems were rendered by the chapel choir, and an organ recessional was given at the close.

Another large congregation was present in the evening and previous to the opening of a communion service, fifteen minutes were devoted to organ numbers.

The organ was installed at a cost of nearly $2,000. It was built by the Hillgreen, Lane Company, of Alliance, O., and has been approved by S. Archer Green, organist of the Brick church, New York, and president of the American Guild of Organists. The congregation worked for nearly two years to raise sufficient funds for the instrument.

ARRESTED FOR BEGGING; TROUBLE DROVE HIM TO IT.

Frank Wilson, a young machinist whose home is in Boston, and William Poole, a lad from Erie, Pa., were arrested in the Park yesterday afternoon by Marshal Keller, of the borough police force. The two had been going from house to house begging.

At the hearing this morning, Wilson told Recorder Dolliver that the financial troubles had made it necessary for the shop where he was working in Boston to shut down, and he had come down this way looking for a job. Poole, who was with him, put up a hard-luck story about a brutal father and no mother, a combination which made life in Erie, Pa., too much of a good thing for him. He said that whenever he did earn any money home, his father took it away from him, so he had decided to leave Erie to make his living. He told the judge he was looking for a job. After hearing these two tales of woe, Recorder Dolliver suspended sentence on the vagrants, advising them to leave town.

Reeves, of Atlantic City. The entertainment, including music, will be of a high order. The committee in charge comprises J. W. A. Bauersachs, chairmon; Peter Doeringer, Henry Nischwitz, V. W. Nash, Sr., J. D. Moon, R. V. Kinney and John G. Bicknell.

Engagement Announced.

Announcement is made of the engagement of J. Wendell Mosher, son of John P. Mosher, and Miss Marie Rogers, daughter of Charles A. Rogers, of Madison avenue. The wedding will take place early in December at the home of the bride.

PERRINE'S ASSISTANCE FOR LIGHTNING CONTRACT

In accordance with a resolution adopted by the Common Council appropriating money for the purpose, the light committee has engaged the services of F. A. C. Perrine, of New York, one of the foremost electrical engineers of the country, to assist in drafting a suitable contract to be presented to the Public Service Corporation. The city has held up the bill of the P. S. C., pending an adjustment of the contract which it is hoped will be more favorable to the city. Several conferences have been held between the light committee and P. S. C., and it is expected that a conclusion will be reached before the end of the year.

It is expected that the new contract will have provisions for several arch lights in the business part of the city on more favorable terms than heretofore proposed, and that a cheaper rate will be charged for street lighting in general.

A new arch light recently introduced in Camden, and which is supposed to represent the highest point of perfection in this method of lighting, is being considered by the light committee for Plainfield. Camden has just installed 300 arch lights of this particular patent and they are said to be giving entire satisfaction and are pronounced an improvement over any other now in use. Chairman F. L. Montgomery, of the light committee, hopes to present a complete report on the lighting matter between now and the end of the year. Mr. Perrine and an assistant have been collecting valuable data which will be incorporated in the report and it is believed that it will meet with the approval of the P. S. C.

SAN FRANCISCO PASTOR APPEALS FOR FUNDS

Rev. E. Louis Walz, a former Plainfielder, but now pastor of the Fourth Congregational church, San Francisco, whose edifice was completely destroyed during the earthquake and fire in that city, addressed a large and deeply interested audience at the Congregational church, last night. He related a story filled with pathetic incidents. He told of a number of cases of heroism on the part of members of his congregation who have since been making great sacrifice in an effort to rebuild the church.

Mr. and Mrs. Walz remained at their post of duty in San Francisco during the disaster and were able to give considerable help to many unfortunates. They are now striving hard to raise funds with which to rebuild an earthquake and fire-proof auditorium in the place of the one destroyed. About $15,000 has been secured and an additional $15,000 is needed. After his earnest talk a generous collection was given toward the work, including many private contributions of substantial amounts. At present the church is occupying a temporary building completed about August 1. In the meantime the cellar for the new structure has been dug, the foundation built and the upper part of the building is well underway.

Returned from the Mines.

Mr. Jasper Cadmus, of Cadmus Brothers, druggists, who in company with Mr. E. D. Middlekauff left ten days ago to attend the Convention of the American Mining Congress held in Joplin, Missouri, week of November 11th-16th, inclusive, has just returned, bringing glowing reports of what he saw in the lead and zinc fields of Missouri-Kansas, and of the properties operated by the National Mining and Leasing Company. Of the mines of this Company he made a careful inspection, having gone down in them and personally removed from the face of the ore bodies chunks of pure lead weighing several pounds, and at the Drug Store he has nearly a trunk full of specimens which he secured. On one of these mines, known as the "Central," several thousand pounds of newly broken ore was being hoisted, and as much more was on the dump ready for shipment. Mr. Cadmus states that the National properties are located in the very centre of this great lead and zinc mining district, and are equipped with all the modern mining machinery, including steam hoists, steam pumps, steam drills, etc. •••

Double Tracks Completed.

The gang of laborers which has been employed installing the new double trolley switch at Front and Somerset streets, worked yesterday and succeeded in making all the rail connections. The double tracks are now completed between Fourth street and Watchung avenue, west on Front street, as well as the double tracks running into the single tracks on Somerset street, near Front. Better progress was possible yesterday owing to the absence of heavy traffic, as during the week.

NEED FOR TRUST IN GOD

Warren Chapel's Pastor Referring to Unsettled Conditions Points to Motto.

A TALK ON THE TIMES.

Trusting in the Lord Brings Continual Peace of Mind Says Rev. Joseph O. McKelvey.

"Trust in God" was the topic of Rev. Joseph O. McKelvey's sermon at Warren chapel yesterday morning. In his discourse, the pastor referred to the elimination of the motto "In God We Trust" from the new ten dollar gold pieces designed by Saint-Gaudens.

"We hear a good deal of discussion

Rev. Joseph O. McKelvey.

about the omission of the motto from our new coins," he said, "but what if it be omitted? If it is not on the coin we need all the more to have the spirit of that inscription "In God We Trust' in our hearts—in our religious life and in our business life. It is true that he who does trust in God has that continual peace of mind which no storm, financial or doctrinal, can disturb."

The speaker took his text from St. Mark, 4:38, "Master, carest thou not that we perish?" He said in part:

"In Jesus' personality, duty and personality are closely joined, and this is proved by His biography as it is given in the fourth gospels. It is shown by the weariness at the well of Samaria, and by his grief at the death of Lazarus. But when we read of how Jesus taught the woman who came to Him at the well, and how He healed Lazarus, we say: 'Here is the Deity.'

"The incident with which this text is connected is an example of this. I believe that Jesus's sleep in the boat was the sleep of a tired man, but when we read of him awakening and rebuking the sea to instantaneous calm, then we see the Deity. His Deity is always the last thought given to us in these narrations, but it is the one that stays with us. There have been many great men, but only their names have lived. Christ still lives the world over as a Diety. We are many times prompted to call on God for help just as the disciples were on the storm on Galilee.

"Today we are told of a great storm that's been sweeping over this country—a financial storm, which is causing many wrecked and ruined fortunes. Some say it is subsiding now, some say it is not. In the grip of the great money powers about us, we are helpless. We are like sand grains in the desert of Sahara, we can't do a thing. Does it make any difference to God?—does God care? Or does He simply set our little beings going and let us alone,—such a thought brings mighty discouragement.

"There comes a time in the lives of all people when we have to turn to that Power or else go down in the storm—a wreck. I don't care what the storm may be, the realization comes to us that we are powerless. We need to know what the calm is that comes with the knowledge that God cares. God does care for us, every one, and every time man makes an appeal to Him, he is sure to be heard.

"We need this same faith in our adversities as a nation. God has been good to us Americans. He has brought this United States through many a storm of war and adversity. There is perhaps at present a financial danger, but our great money leaders are fighting hard to avert it. We are helpless. All we can do is to have faith and to trust in God."

WORDS ABOUT WOMEN.

What Men in Many Centuries Have Said About Us.

If Cleopatra's nose had been shorter the face of the world would have been changed.—Pascal.

Women are undecipherable. Whether they laugh or cry, one's explanation is never right.—T. Bentzon.

Their glory is to be least spoken of among men, whether for praise or blame.—Pericles.

Men and women never agree as to the merits of another woman.—La Bruyere.

Natural beauty is not everything. There is an art in being pretty.—Ludlovic Halevy.

A person in whom the perfections of both mind and body are found together alone deserves in my judgment the praise of perfect beauty.—Polystratus.

A woman's face ought to be like an April day—susceptible of change and variety.—Lord Byron.

Laughter is the test of beauty. Women that it embellishes are of the divine race.—Rougon.

There is an old saying that in England the wife is the queen, in France the companion, in Germany the housekeeper, in Italy the slave.—London Outlook.

The symbol of woman in general is that of the Apocalypse on the forehead of which was written "Mystery."—Diderot.

Is there any one with whom you converse less than with your wife?—Nenophon.

HOW TO KEEP HEALTHY.

Keep cheerful. Hunting trouble ruins more nerves than trouble when it is found.

Keep alert minded. There is nothing like getting in a mental rut to make one a hypochondrias.

Keep clean. The close connection of the pores of the skin and good health is being better understood yearly.

Keep active. The inert, lazy woman who won't exercise is usually the one who is always growling about her health.

Keep your feet warm. More cold is taken through the ankles than in any other way, so do not wear low shoes all winter.

Keep out of debt. If there is anything warranted to worry one to death it is money troubles. Care will even kill the nine lived cat, and what gives more care than a bunch of debts with no money to pay them?

Keep away from drugs. The fondness of our American women for dosing themselves on the slightest provocation is a menace to the health of the race. We deserve everything bad the president of Harvard said of us as regards the medicine habit.

THE GAS STOVE.

Do you find your gas stove a real economizer? If not, these may be some of the reasons:

Lighting burners before you are ready to use them.

Baking but one thing at a time.

Heating water or cooking in uncovered vessels.

Placing small vessels upon large burners.

Using large burners when small ones would do.

Not turning out the flame before removing food.

Not lowering the flame when food is already boiling.

Keeping the interior of the oven dirty and greasy instead of bright and clean when it reflects heat instead of absorbing it.

If You Do Not Wish to Be Disliked—

Don't meddle. In every community is found a Meddlesome Mattie who is responsible for two-thirds of the misunderstandings that make life such a problem.

Don't complain. What's the use? The chronic complainer travels a long road and pays heavy toll in the way of lost opportunities and pleasures.

Don't rehearse your ailments, physical or otherwise. People have to listen to you not because they are interested, but because they are trying to be polite.

The world is full of pains, heartbreaks. No one has a monopoly of them.

There is a certain grim sort of comfort to be derived from telling how one has lain awake all night keeping company with an aching back. But it only gains for one the reputation of being a bore.

Don't try to boss. It is one of the surest and most direct routes to unloveliness, yet many women travel there to their own undoing.

Learn to mind your own business. It is each individual's prerogative upon reaching years of discretion to shape his own affairs.

Wise is the woman who recognizes this and grants as well as exacts this privilege. She it is who numbers her friends by the score whose domestic life is serenest.

Maple Sugar Pralines.

For maple sugar pralines, such as the girls at Vassar make, boil a pound of maple sugar in water enough to keep it from burning until the syrup spins a thread. Then stir in a pound of blanched almonds cut in pieces and a teaspoonful of butter and stir until it grains. Then spread on a shallow plate until cool enough to cut into squares.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

No greater contrast can be conceived than that existing between the two rivals for college boat honors and the love of a sweet girl, Dorothy Randal, Dick Seeley and Dave Burley, the two classmates in the new college play, "At Yale," which is to be brought to the New Plainfield theatre by Manager Jules Murry tomorrow night. Of course the boat race is won by the right boat, but before the finish the audience is treated to one of the most exciting scenes shown on the modern stage.

Thrilling climaxes, startling scenic and electric effects, a natural blending of refreshing pathos and infectious comedy are the elements which is said, enter into Lillian Mortimer's successful comedy drama, "No Mother to Guide Her," which comes to the New Plainfield theatre next Thursday night, with the brilliant comedienne, Miss Alma Hearn, formerly of the "Burglar's Daughter" company as the star, supported by a New York cast of selected players. Miss Hearn's well known ability, to foil the contumacious villain and arouse the sympathy of her audience by her natural dramatic instinct are salient personal characteristics which find full vent in this latest successful comedy drama.

"He who laughs last laughs best," but he who goes to see "Are You a Mason" is sure of his. This delightful comedy has been booked to appear at the New Plainfield theatre next Friday night. Seats are now on sale and remember that he who hesitates loses many a laugh. The early bird is sure of his fun.

SEVEN KILLED IN COLLISION.

Fire Adds to Tragic Features of Train Wreck on the Canadian Pacific.

Moore's Lake, Ont., Nov. 18.—When about thirty-five miles west of Pembroke a light engine collided with the west bound Soo express of the Canadian Pacific Railway Thursday night. The scene of the wreck is hard to get at and particulars are meagre, but at least seven persons were killed and eleven injured.

A brakeman named Prendergast, who came from Webbwood, had both legs broken in a wreck near Blind River Tuesday, and his father was taking him to a hospital in Ottawa. Both father and son were killed.

It is said that the crew of the light engine was trying to reach here ahead of the express, which was sharp on time. The mail car took fire and was destroyed.

CARE OF THE TEETH.

In no one way is more injury done to teeth than by the natural acids in one's mouth.

They act quickly upon the enamel, bringing cavities as well as yellowness.

Lime water, a couter agent, should be used to rinse the mouth several times a day, and bicarbonate of soda is recommended even more highly for the same purpose.

A toothbrush should always be curved—at least a little, that the length of the centre bristles shall not interfere with the end.

Unless those at the top are longer than any other part, no benefit is derived by its use. A flat brush is good for the front teeth and that is all.

One should always be careful not to use too stiff a brush or the gums will be made to recede. A soft one is equally cleansing.

Astonishing how few people know how to brush their teeth. The brush is rubbed across the teeth, instead of up and down, and a moment's thought will show that while rubbing across will clean the flat surface, that the edges and curves are left absolutely untouched.

The movement should always be from the gums down to the tips on the upper jaw, and from the gums up on the lower.

In this way only are the particles removed from the teeth. Added to this dental floss should be used after each meal and always at night.

In Wooden Shoe Land.

Patience—Did you have any shoes made in Holland? Patrice—Well, I tried to have a pair made, but when I went to get them they told me they hadn't cut the tree down yet.—Yonkers Statesman.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

GOLF.

Saturday marked the close of the golf season at the Park Golf Club, when the clubhouse was boarded and locked up for the winter. The members removed their clubs and while there may be some playing on the course before bad weather sets in, there will be little doing there from now until next spring.

"Marty" O'Loughlin will leave within a few weeks for the Southern Pines Golf Club, where during the winter he will be the professional. He also expects to have the opportunity to play with many of the crack professionals of the country.

Horne's drive at the Beckingham Golf Club, England, as stated by himself to the committee, was of 368 yards. The distance from the tee to the face of the bunker, as measured by the club officials, is 224 yards, and 227 yards to the far side. The spot indicated by Horne as that where he found his ball is 141 yards further on. The carry appeared in the original statement as 250 yards and the total distance as 381 yards. C. H. Alison, now secretary of the Foxrock Club, in Ireland, who was here with the Oxford and Cambridge Society teams, is credited with a recent long drive at Dollymount. Playing in a foursome Alison overdrove the fourteenth green from the full medal tee. The measured distance from the tee to the back of the green is 340 yards, so that he drove about 350 yards. There was a strong following wind to help the ball.

Motor cars are now used by Harry Vardon, Taylor, Braid and Herd when on tour for exhibition matches in England. Both Vardon and Herd have been playing a brilliant game, in their last contest at Blackpool Vardon winning by 1 up. Since 1893 out of twenty-nine matches Vardon has won sixteen to Herd's thirteen. Many of the matches were very close—one being carried to an extra hole, nine ending 1 up and five 2 up.

FOOTBALL.

There is a tip out that the football rules committee will either do away with the forward pass altogether next season or curtail its use. The play has not been as satisfactory this season as last, which fact can be attributed to the ill advised move in making a distance penalty for forward passes on the first or second down that are incompleted, in other words which hit the ground before being touched. Last year any incompleted forward pass meant loss of the ball.

In discussing the Pennsylvania-Michigan game R. W. Maxwell, the former Swarthmore star, says: "In the West the coaches spend too much time on individual play and building the team around one man. Pennsylvania solved this last year when Garrells was effectually stopped every time he took the ball, and, if reports are correct, all Pennsylvania has to do is to stop Capt. Magoffin and the game should result in a victory for the Quakers."

Not nearly as many 0 to 0 games have been played this year as last in the same length of time. Last season there were twenty-five scoreless battles up to the middle of November; this season there have been but ten. The conclusion is that a second season of the new rules has gone much further toward solving scoring methods. Last year all the talk was as to how ground could be gained. Not much was heard about the defence of the revised game, but this year coaches have been sitting up nights planning a defence for offensive plays made possible by the code adopted last year. A defence for open tactics has been as prominent in the season's developments as the problem of finding an attack was last year. It is just as hard to stop a team equipped with ground gaining plays as it ever was, and the game itself has gained because the attack—the whole scope of play in fact—is more spread out and varied.

On Franklin Field, Philadelphia, this fall the policing for the football games has been done entirely by Pennsylvania students, and the innovation has worked out with excellent results. Good order has been maintained, and the work of directing the people to their seats and keeping them there has been well done. "We have sufficient authority and plenty of assistance necessary to take care of any disorderly persons that may go to Franklin Field," says Clifford Pemberton, Jr., of the athletic association. Over 200 student ushers are on hand for each game, and these are re-enforced by 25 additional students, who, under the direction of the head ushers, serve as marshals. In addition there are four husky, muscular students who are sworn in as special officers to take such action to keep order as may be deemed necessary. Regular cops are stationed outside of the gates, ready to be called in in case those inside cannot handle the situation.

Trinity Commandery, No. 17, K. T., will hold a regular conclave tonight.

John Hand Camp, No. 28, Sons of Veterans, will meet tomorrow night. New members will be initiated and other matters of importance considered.

THE PRESIDENT'S APPEAL.

The White House,
Washington, Nov. 17, 1907.

Mr. Dear Mr. Cortelyou:

I have considered your proposal. I approve the issue of the $50,000,000 of Panama bonds, which will be immediately available as the basis for additional currency. I also approve the issue of $100,000,000 or so much as you may find necessary, of $50 three per cent. interest bearing Government notes, the proceeds of the sale of which can be at once deposited by you where the greatest need exists, and more especially in the West and South, where the crops have to be moved.

I have assurances that the leaders of Congress are considering a currency bill which will meet in permanent fashion the needs of the situation, and which I believe will be passed at an early date after Congress convenes two weeks hence.

What is most needed just at present is that our citizens should realize how fundamentally sound business conditions in this country are, and how absurd it is to permit themselves to get into a panic and create a stringency by hoarding their savings instead of trusting perfectly sound banks. There is no particle of risk involved in letting business take its natural course, and the people can help themselves and the country most by putting back into active circulation the money they are hoarding.

The banks and trust companies are solvent. There is more currency in the country today than there was a month ago, when the supply was ample. Over $55,000,000 has been imported, and the Government has deposited another $60,000,000. These are facts, and I appeal to the public to co-operate with us in restoring normal business conditions.

The Government will see that the people do not suffer if only the people themselves will act in a normal way. Crops are good and business conditions are sound, and we should put the money we have into circulation in order to meet the needs of abounding prosperity. There is no analogy at all with the way things were in 1893. On Nov. 30 of that year there was in the Treasury but $161,000,000 in gold. On Nov. 14 of this year there was in the Treasury $904,000,000 of gold. Ten years ago the circulation per capita was $23.23. It is now $33.23.

The steps that you now take, the ability of the Government to back them up, and the fact that not a particle of risk is involved therein, give the fullest guarantees of the sound condition of our Treasury. All that our people have to do now is to go ahead with their normal business in a normal fashion, and the whole difficulty disappears; and this end will be achieved at once if each man will act as he normally does act, and as the real conditions of the country's conditions fully warrant his now acting. Sincerely yours,

THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

Curing a Rattler's Bite.

While crossing the arid deserts of Nevada some years ago, before Milwaukee's fame had become great enough to keep him home, a now prominent resident of the brewery city was bitten by a rattlesnake and gave up all hope. The guide threw to the ground and breaking open a cartridge covered the wound with powder. The powder was touched off, cauterizing the wound effectively. The next morning nothing more serious than a stiff leg resulted.—Popular Mechanics.

SUNRISE FOR DEMOCRACY

Party Swaying Into Power Throughout New Jersey Says Grover Cleveland.

HE TALKS ABOUT WM. J. BRYAN.

It's a Question for the Party Leaders, Says Former President—Discusses Gunning Trip.

In the opinion of former President of the United States Grover Cleveland, Democracy is gradually swaying into power in this State. The position of William Jennings Bryan on the coming Democratic nomination for president of the United States was one over with the former President and an interview sought.

The aged statesman thought the matter over for some time, talked a little of Jersey politics, saying the Democracy was coming into its own again in this State, and then speaking direct to the Bryan position as published in the Commoner, said: "I am not surprised at all at Mr. Bryan's declaration, and I do not see how any Democrat should be surprised at his seeming intention to seek a renomination.

"To me, the question seems to be, to whom we ought to look for leadership in the Democratic party.

"In view of past experiences, what are we going to do about it?

"This is a question that may well command the immediate attention of the leaders.

"I do not think this the time to say anything more on this subject."

The former President related his experiences of the past two days gunning in the vicinity of Princeton.

"I enjoy the air," he said, "but do not get in the thick of the shooting."

Grover Cleveland, the man, has lost his flesh, but his eyes are bright, his skin has good color, and his appearance gives the defi to stories about his ill health.

Were it not for the use of a cane to help out a little rheumatism he would be taken for a vigorous man just in the prime of life, but still in excellent health.

THE FORUM.

The C. R. R. Co. of N. J.

Editor, The Daily Press:

For the information of yourself and your readers, beg to tdvise that owing to the scarcity of currency which exists throughout the country, this company has found it necessary to pay October wages in part by check. These checks are uniformly drawn to bearer or order for $5.00 each, and are issued with the expectation that they will be accepted by trades people along the line of our road, and reach the bank on which drawn in usual course, and in view of the small amount for which checks are drawn, and the ease by which they can be cashed, either through the bank or our agents, it is anticipated that no premium should be exacted by the parties accepting them in lieu of cash.

HICKMAN'S EXPERIENCE.

Charley Hickman, who is deservedly popular wherever he hangs his hat, is at present making Washington his headquarters.

Hick always manages to steal away from the cares of business to take a five-mile walk daily, and his figure is well known to the average Washingtonian. The other day Charley sauntered along F street, and just as he got in the vicinity of Ninth street he was held up by a beggar, who, putting out his hand in an appealing manner, pitifully cried:

"Please, sir, won't you help a poor, blind man, by giving him a dime?".

"Why, you're not wholly blind," said Hick. "You can see out of one eye," he added.

"Well, then," said the beggar, with desperation in his tone, "gimme a nickel."

A BAKING HINT.

The trouble in making cakes in cold weather is to mix the butter with the other ingredients. Many make a failure by melting the butter, which in variably makes a poor cake. Instead of heating the butter, heat the crock with warm water, also heat the sugar, and the butter will be softened without being melted. Remember that cake dough must be smooth, and by sifting the flour and baking powder together at least three times will make it much lighter; then add a little flour, some of the beaten white of eggs and when all are blended do not beat too long, or the cake will not be light. Angel food cake depends on the stirring to assist in making it very light, but smooth dough is what is most essential in layer cakes.

The Poor Service.

Mrs. Ray Shershay had just returned from a visit to the foreign cruiser that lay at anchor in the harbor of the great American city.

"We had a fine time," she said. "They showed us all over the ship and paid us every attention. We didn't know they had arranged an elegant luncheon for us, and we were agreeably surprised, of course, when the captain invited us into the dining saloon and seated us at a long table spread with everything that could tempt the appetite. I tell you, Mrs. Upsome, we enjoyed that luncheon. We didn't have to hurry through it either, and we were waited on with the utmost politeness and cordiality."

"The service was first class, was it?" interrupted Mrs. Upsome.

"The service?" said Mrs. Ray-Shershay, lowering her voice. "No; that was nearly all imitation. I give you my word there was hardly a thing worth carrying away as a souvenir. All I grabbed was this little pickle fork, and I do believe it's nothing but plaited ware!"—Chicago Tribune.

Fashionable New Scents.

"Nerve scent" is the newest form of drugging for the smart woman. Her "vanity bag" is furnished with a dainty, innocent looking, gold stoppered scent bottle. It contains essence of Parma violets from Paris, which is heavily charged with ether. When she is tired a few whiffs of this scent stimulates her flagging energies and keep her bright and alert at a dinner or supper party.

Another favorite "nerve scent" consists of eau de cologne mixed with chlorform and a dash of ammonia. Inhaled, this is a powerful and dangerous pick me up.

Tales of Cities.

St. Joseph, Mo., is said to be the healthiest town in the world.

London, according to the census, has just passed the 7,000,000 mark.

For a city of more than 2,000,000 inhabitants Vienna certainly enjoys an amazing immunity from fires. The report of the city fire department shows that the total losses from fire in 1906 were less than 130,000. The department cost the city about $300,000. In all there were 1,169 fires, an average of a little over three a day.

HUMOR THAT DIDN'T PAY.

Friends of the Deceased Were Wholly Unappreciative.

"Once in my early career," said a well-known New York magazine editor, "I owned and edited a more or less thrifty weekly newspaper. One of my features was country correspondence, and I prided myself on the accuracy of my rural aids. In one issue, from the best point on my list, I received a notice reading as follows: 'Mr. John Grady, having purchased a plot of ground in Machpelah some months ago, has now gone into real estate body and soul. John was always an enthusiast.' The item looked all right to me, and sounded quite enterprising, I thought; but a day or two after the paper had got around among the subscribers I received a letter of indignity," which almost took my breath away. In it I was duly informed that Mr. Grady was dead and buried in the Machpelah cemetery, where he had purchased a plot some three months previously. In conclusion, I may say that my correspondent at that point has since risen to prominence as a humorist, and I suppose most of you have read his stuff in various publications. But that item was not very funny for him, or for me, because he had to get another job far away, and I lost a dozen good subscribers."

LIVING BY THE COMPASS.

New and Quaint Theory That Is Held by French Mystic.

A quaint theory is that a French mystic, who holds that the four points of the compass have an influence on human health and well-being. Traveling westward, asserts this authority, induces melancholy; traveling eastward brings cheerfulness; southward langnor and irritability, and northward calmness. It is a question of electrical currents, and the influence is felt not only when traveling, but also when at home. The best posture for working is to face either north or east, says the Frenchman. In these positions you receive positive waves of electricity, the negative currents coming from the other two points, south and west. Even the sleep is improved, it seems, if the foot of the bed be turned to the north or the east. To sleep in the contrary position induces nightmare and general uneasiness.

A Real Heroine.

Anyone who has had glimpses of the British coast with its high tides and precipitous cliffs can appreciate why "cut off by the tide" has always been a standard theme for British fiction. But none of the novelists have recorded an incident that surpasses in heroism the deed of Mrs. McNally, of Sligo bay, Ireland, who took seven children out among the rocks and was taken unawares by the rising water. She saw them on a little island and, though unable to swim, she rushed to their help. Two she could take in her arms, the rest she told to cling to her wherever they could get hold, and so the landward journey began. It was a close thing, but she brought all seven safe to land. If there are medals going to England she is entitled to a bunch.

Beautiful Eyes.

The almost universal habit of turning the head in whichever direction you look deprives the eye of the exercise to which it is entitled. The law of vision is such that, when your eyes are set straight to the front you can see in almost every direction, except behind your head. Every now and then you see a woman with eyes that seem to roll in their sockets, taking in everything without a suggestion of head movement. Those are the eyes that drive men to distraction. Ox eyes. Honest eyes. Usually brown eyes. Open eyes. Altogether different from the small, ferret eyes of the detective, which pretend to be looking at the ground, yet see sidewise out of both slits.

Duration of Animal Life.

A great variance as to length of life appears among different animals. Some insects live only for a few hours, while fish, elephants and turtles are frequently centenarians. The average life of the mosquito is three days. Toads usually live to the age of about 15 years, while carp have been known to reach a hundred and fifty. Chickens live from 12 to 15 years; dogs to the age of 10 and occasionally 15, and parrots to extreme age. These birds have been known to pass the age of 200 years. Turtles are also frequently centenarians, as are storks, and elephants are said to reach the age of 300 years.

Pastor Could Not Be Drawn Into Giving Direct Testimony.

The wealthy parishioner had with him his pastor, and miles of road were thrown into clouds of dust by the plunging automobile. "Halt!" commanded the officer, but no more attention was given to him than to the flitting telephone poles. Over those poles, however, sped a message, and at the next crossroads a barrier was encountered and also another representative of the law. "Not only did he break the speed law," complained the constable, when the party had assembled in court, but he also told me to go to the devil." "You lie," thundered the wealthy parishioner, "I never used such language." "We must protect our officers from profanity," intoned the justice. Then turning to the clergyman. "Perhaps this gentleman, who will not make a misstatement, will tell us whether or not the devil was mentioned in this controversy." "Your honor," pleaded the clergyman, "I and my brethren refer to his satanic majesty so frequently that any additional allusion to him would not impress itself upon me sufficiently to remember the incident."

NO LIVING IN THE PRESENT.

Devotion to Business Precludes All Nonsense Like That.

The messenger from Mars surveyed the multitude which had gathered to meet him with undisguised interest. Nor did he hesitate to propound such inquiries as his curiosity prompted. "Where do you all live?" he asked, speaking generally. "I live in the future," said a young man, good humoredly. "And I in the past," said an old man. "How odd! And does none of you live in the present?" "Pardon me," said the Martian, hastily. "Perhaps I press my questions too closely." At this a voice from the outskirts of the crowd spoke up, saying: "We have not yet learned how to live in the present without interruption of business, don't you know."—Puck.

AMUSEMENTS.

That David Belasco has lost none of his certainty in the display of judgment in bringing the public into touch with the highest standards of the stage was signally manifested again when he presented David Warfield in "A Grand Army Man" at his new Stuyvesant theatre. No higher praise has ever been accorded a really great actor by the press than has been bestowed upon Mr. Warfield in the character of Wes' Bigelow in "A Grand Army Man." This view is not confined to a few friendly critics, but is so universal as to be self-evident. It has found expression in every direction and especially in the satisfaction evidenced by the brilliant audiences which nightly crowd the Stuyvesant theatre and leave it in a state of enthusiasm. One critic writes: "Of Mr. Warfield's own work, columns upon columns could be written. He is one of the few actors upon the stage who can bring tears to the eyes of the most hardened person and then dispel them a moment later with comedy. It is remarkable how he holds his audiences and it may be attributed to the fact that he makes his characters living, breathing men."

Klaw & Erlanger's production of "The Right of Way," Eugene Presbrey's dramatic version of Sir Gilkert Parker's popular story, received a most auspicious premiere at Wallack's theatre last Monday evening. The piece proved a strong play, full of dramatic and heart interest and one that appeals to the imagination of every auditor. Guy Standing as Charley Steele realized, both in his portrayal of the character and in his personality, the creation of Sir Gilbert Parker and the dramatist. As the dissolute, brilliant lawyer of the first act he gave a remarkable interpretation of a man besotted with drink and harrassed by his own doubts of the present and the hereafter. In the last three acts, as the regenerated Steele, he presented a performance that appealed with thrilling force to all who witnessed it. Theodore Roberts, the co-star, has made marked successes in time past in character portrayal, but he never before achieved the success that must be accorded to him in the character of Joe Portugais, the Canadian riverman. His makeup was marvelous and his dialect true to life. The other characters in the piece were well acted and, taken as a whole, the company is one of the best that has been seen in a production in New York in a long time. "The Right of Way" will remain at Wallack's theatre for an extended engagement. Matinees Wednesday and Saturday.

The general public and the critics have for years said upon emerging from an evening at a musical comedy, "Give us again the real comic opera, with music of merit, lyrics of worth and a story which does not concern a bogus king and his lovely daughter upon a mythical isle and we will be happy." Henry W. Savage has heard the prayer and he offers "Tom Jones," which comes to America after a most phenomenal run of two years at the Apollo theatre, London. It is a delightful opera founded upon Fielding's novel of the same name. The book is by Robert Courtneidge and A. M. Thompson; the lyrics by Charles H. Taylor and the score by Edward German and in the music is found what New Yorkers have long craved, a delicate, sugary theme with here and there resounding choruses, quartettes and trios, music that will live when the average musical play has long since been relegated to the land of "Can't Remember." The melodies of "Tom Jones" are distinctive and original, the solos of dainty thought, the breezy bacarelles and jolly madrigals and rythmic dances will live long in the memory of everyone. Mr. German is unquestionably the foremost of the present day English composers and his work stamps him with a genius we have not known in many years. The narrative of the opera is taken liberally from Fielding's work and is redolent of the spirit of that time. The lyrics by Mr. Taylor are characterized as worthy of Gilbert. To properly interpret such a magnificent work Mr. Savage spent much time in the selection of his cast and his final decision brings again before the New York public Louise Gunning, VanRensselaer Wheeler, William Norris, Gertrude Quinlan, a rare singing chorus and an orchestra of thirty-five.

HOUSEHOLD HELPS.

Egg spoons that are stained should be rubbed with damp salt before polishing.

Saucepans should be as flat and broad as possible, so that no meat may be wasted.

If a few drops of glyserin be added to the starch for linens, it will be found that the iron will not stick and that the linens will have a beautiful gloss after they are ironed.

Paraffin on a stone floor may be removed by rubbing bath brick over the mark and letting it stay till next day. Then wash it in the usual way, and the floor will be perfectly clean.

Paint can be removed from glass by rubbing it with hot strong vinegar. Stains on the hands can be removed by acetic acid or salts of lemon, and ink marks will soon yield to pumice stone.

To remove ink stains from linen dip the article in milk and let it soak for about two hours, then take out and wash with soap while the milk still remains on the spots of ink. This will remove any long standing stain.

Passing the Honors Around—From Various Jurisdictions.

To the subordinate lodges let me suggest: Don't be in too much of a hurry to pass the honors around. Just because some brother has been started at the door or in the south is no reason why, regardless of qualifications, he should be advanced to the master's chair. I could site you several cases where there was once a good lodge and a good master where now we have a weak lodge all because the present master or the one who preceded him has not endeavored to do the work, post himself on the law or is lacking in ability to preside. Keep your present master if he is a good one until you are sure that the man who is eligible is better or just as good.—Z. M. Baird, Nebraska.

The new Brooklyn Masonic temple will cost over $400,000 and be among the finest in the country.

Rev. William White Wilson has been installed as grand chaplain of the grand lodge of Illinois. He is a well known clergyman, who for several years has been rector of St. Mark's Episcopal church, Chicago.

There are 221 Royal Arch chapters in Illinois, with a membership of over 25,000.

There are four Knights Templar commanderies in the District of Columbia, with a membership of 1,753, a net gain of twenty-four for the past year.

There are sixty-one Knights Templar commanderies in New York State with a membership of over 18,000.

Denver (Colo.) Masons are planning the erection of a new $400,000 Masonic temple.

The apron should be worn as the operative Masons wear theirs—over the clothing to protect it from stain. We wear it as an emblem of innocence symbolically to preserve the character pure from spot or stain. Therefore to wear it under the coat is to lose sight of its true significance. Uniformity in wearing the apron is highly desirable.—Grand Master of Kentucky.

YPSILANTI.

Nearly Four Hundred Ways of Spelling the Name.

Curious postal officers in Michigan and Washington have been keeping for years past a record of the different ways Ypsilanti has been spelled on mail matters, and by comparing the notes they have preserved a list of vertable orthographic wonders has been compiled. This list easily establishes the claim that more different ways for spelling Ypsilanti have been devised than for spelling any other geographical name in America. In all no less than 372 distinct ways of spelling the name have been counted, and it is probable that the greater number, perhaps all, have been used in good faith by persons who actually believed that the orthographic combinations reproduced were the correct combinations for representing Ypsilanti on the written or printed page. Every letter in the alphabet except "R" has been used as the initial letter of teh name, though why so obvious a combination as Rypsilanti should be neglected when others less obvious have been employed is difficult to explain. As a matter of fact the variations in the spelling are chiefly confined to the first syllable, "Y" being a letter lacking or having only an indifferent standing in many foreign languages. Tipsy Lanti and Zyp Silanti are met with, and among the spellings farthest away from the accepted and official standard are Whypsorlanter and Hipasalandder.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Paris In 1869.

From "The Reminiscences of Lady Randolph Churchill" in the November Century: The last flicker of the candle, the last flame of the dying fire, is ever the brightest; and so it was with Paris in 1869.

Never had the empire seemed more assured, the court more brilliant, the fetes more gorgeous. The lighthearted Parisians revelled in the daily sights of royal processions and cavalcades. The Bois de Boulogne and the Champs Elysees, where we were living at that time were crowded with splendid equipages. I remember often seeing the Empress Eugenie, then the handsomest woman in Europe, driving in her dainmont, the green and gold liveries of the postilions and outriders making a brave show. Nor were four horses and postilions the privilege of royalty alone. Princess Metternich, the wife of the Austrian ambassador, often went out in similar style. The beautiful Mme. de Canisy, and the Duchess de Mouchy, the empress' greatest and perhaps only intimate friend, and a host of court ladies habitually drove out in great state, and helped by the magnificence of their appearance to give Paris that ir of elegance and distinction which could neither be surpassed nor emulated by any other capital in Europe. Even among those who had forebodings of the gathering storm, no one had descried the black shadow cast on the blue sky by the approaching figure of Bellona, her fierce eyes fixed on happy, smiling, tranquil France.

CHAPTER XIV.

Before a Corsican Election.

Escorted by the mountaineers, two stalwart young men carrying Mademoiselle Paoli down the dizzy path, they skirt the dread precipices of Del Oro and passing the vinelands and the clearings, come into the main road leading from Corte, then descending the hill are in the chestnut groves of Bocognano.

Then their leader turns to Marina and says: "Have no fear, Signora; your English sister shall be returned to this gentleman, but—" he lays his hand on Barnes' shoulder—"use not the weapons I see at your belt. Thy quarrel shall be my quarrel. No foreigner shall ever be compelled to protect a woman while I, Antonio Bonelli, dominate Bocognano."

"Were it not meeting night, everything would be silent save the dogs and pigs," chuckles Tomasso. "Now they'll have light enough to see I am alive."

"Cospetto, they are making a fete for you, Monaldi," laughs one of the young men, for lanterns are dangling from the overhanging boughs of the main street of the little village; some of the houses are illuminated, and round the communal building and the wine shops are gathered many men.

The little party tramp through the lantern-lighted streets, and coming to the door of the municipal building, the loungers who are smoking their pipes make way for them, doffing their hats and saying with great reverence: "The Bellacoscia!"

Near the entrance are two illuminated placards, one reading: "Vote for Saliceti, who upholds old Corsica!" The other: "Cast your ballots for Bernardo, the man who kills!"

Surrounded by the young men, Tomasso in the dim light is not noticed, and Marina has drawn her mandile close about her face.

The party enter the low hall of the municipal, which is lighted by lamps and decorated by myrtles and cyclamen flowers. It is well filled by a crowd of farmers, peasants, wool growers and shepherds. These are now being fervidly addressed by young Bernardo himself.

Catching sight of the commanding figure of the great bandit, the adroit politician bursts out rapturously: "Ah, thanks, grand Antonio Bonelli, for thy presence and countenance. You have come to say to me, 'Bernardo, you are a true Corsican; in you is upheld the honored custom of the vendetta to the twentieth generation.' So will all here say when to-morrow I shall have the body of the one who came to Marina's nuptials and left death behind him, this American who brought with him soldiers to shoot down poor old Tomasso Monaldi."

But the savage shouts that greet this are stilled by old Tomasso, who pushes through the crowd and stands facing the platform, his eyes flashing, and says: "I, Tomasso Monaldi, tell you there is no cause of a vendetta for me, because I am alive!"

At his words shuddering cries of "Ghost!" "Spirit!" "Spectre!" rise amid the tobacco smoke of the meeting, and some would slip from the door did not Antonio Bonelli command: "Let all remain!" as three of his stalwart descendants bar the entrance.

There is a sudden cry: "Father!" from a girl in black mandile and deep mourning who has been sitting with some other women in the retirement of a corner of the hall, listening to her lover's ferocious eloquence, and Etheria, with streaming eyes, is in Monaldi's arms.

"Aye, 'tis flesh and blood you're fondling, girl," laughs the great bandit, and striding to the platform he says in ringing tones: "But this is not all!" for now the crowd are gathered about Tomasso and are greeting him with words of sympathy because for the mere killing of a man, he had been forced to take to the macchia and become a bandit.

"Attention, all!" commands Antonio "Listen to my words. If not, my followers shall give sharper notice to you!" And the crowd wisely becomes still.

"In pursuit of your suffrages, Saliceti has put a base outrage on our hospitality," continues the bandit chief in solemn tones. "He has abducted a young English lady and brought her to Bocognano to lure to death her husband, an American Signore who shoots well enough to be a bandit and who this night, with his own weapons, has slain Rochini and Romano, whose murders have made you all tremble as you went along mountain paths and whose outrages have caused our maids to have nightmares."

"Rochini and Romano dead? Impossible!" cries a shepherd, as a sigh of relief and then a yell of gratitude rises from the concourse.

"I saw him shoot the ruffians to death upon Del Oro, I, Antonio Bonelli. Don't dare say no!" This last is addressed to Saliceti, who, having recovered from his astonishment, is about to open his mouth.

"Ah, you admit it. Maladetta, where is the English lady?"

And Saliceti, being admonished to answer by a quick prick of the stiletto from [illegible] youth who has stepped behind him, the young politician falters forth: "No harm has come to her. She is with my mother."

On this Barnes has looked from a distance, wisely reflecting that his battle is being fought for him, but with difficulty restraining his hands from putting a pistol ball through Saliceti. He now cries:

"Then, for God's sake, take me to her quick!"

This brings upon him the attention of the crowd. Learning that it is he who has relieved them of the terror of Rochini, the men cry "Viva!" and embrace him, and a little girl steals up to him and timidly kisses his hand.

"Your lady shall receive you soon, Signore Barnes," remarks Bonelli. "I would like you to see Corsican justice," and at some words from him two or three of the young men having left the hall on his errand, the hawk-eyed bandit continues: "Besides, I fear common report has done wrong to the lady of our town. Marina, child, step here and make your friends love you again."

To this time, she having stood in the shadows of the rear and the lamplight of the room being very dim, in their excitement the concourse had not noticed her; but as Marina steps forward, some men turn away, a woman whispers: "'Tis a pity the blood of Pasquale Paoli flows in her," and a young cavalier remarks: "We honored your wedding, Madame Anstruther, but then we did not know that you had forgotten your oath of the vendetta and were mating with the slayer of your brother."

"Gaspardo!" cries Marina, with a gasp of horror, "my childhood's friend, how dare you say this lie?" and staggering onto the platform, and seeing condemnation, horror and disgust in the faces she had known from childhood, the girl simply but with great nobility of manner, tells them how Musso Danella, inspired by devilish jealousy, had turned the articles in a dead man's trunk into evidence that the English officer whom she had nursed to life in the Egyptian hospitals and whom she loved with her whole heart, was the principal in the duel at Ajaccio, the man who had slain her brother.

The beauty of the suppliant, with the blood of the great Corsican patriot flowing in her veins, touches their passionate hearts. A lady from the little balcony seizing some of the cyclamen decorations, throws the flowers all over her, and her compatriots, whose faces had been cold to her, fly around, embrace her and beg her to forgive them.

"But there is one I will not forgive," cries the girl sternly; "this Saliceti, Bernardo, who had known me in my youth, who spread these reports all over the mountains that I have disgraced my very womanhood in giving myself to my brother's murderer."

"A bas Saliceti!" yells a sheep farmer from the valley.

"Demonios, his lies have dishonored our race!" growls a goatherd from the slopes of La Pintica.

"Leave him to us," says Bonelli calmly; his hawk's eyes are fixed unpleasantly on the candidate, who with muttered anathema is edging from the platform.

With this, Corsica's favorite bandit commands sternly: "Men of Bocognano, no one of you will cast your ballot at the polls for this politician who has disgraced our village. Otherwise you will hear from me. You will vote for Signore Ambrose Lucitano, the cigarette smoking statesman from Ajaccio, who begs your suffrages. He may be a greater fool, but he is not so great a rascal as our fellow townsman! Don't you even dare vote for yourself!" he cries, as the abashed Saliceti flies from the room pursued by jeers and execrations and even the taunts of his own sweetheart, who is still clasped in old Tomasso's arms.

"Now, reparation to you, Signore Barnes, the only one we can make. We will bear you in honor to Marina's home, where your bride now awaits you. Your wedding fete was postponed in Nice, I understand," the grim man smiles slightly. "We will give you in Bocognano a nuptial procession to a bride whose lips are as unsullied as when she made vows to you."

So, attended by the whole of the Bellacoscia and many girls, who have pulled down the floral ornaments of the communal room, waving the flowers about him, and young men shooting off their guns in his honor, Barnes, with Marina on his arm, is escorted beneath the lantern-lighted chestnut trees to the old mansion of the Paolis. As they pass along the main street a girl comes running from the telegraph office and places an envelope in Marina's hand. After glancing at it, a wild elation is in the young wife's face. She whispers some hurried directions to old Tomasso, and tripping to Barnes' side her step is as buoyant as his.

They are soon at the doors of the country house, which are being thrown open by some of Marina's old servants. The great bandit bows and says laughingly:

"You seem to be in a hurry, Signore. Your meeting with your abducted bride should be a private one. I do not wonder at your eagerness." Barnes has already turned to the house. "My young men who conducted your lady from Saliceti's tell me she is of most marvelous beauty, though somewhat overcome by fatigue and anxiety for you and bashfulness. We take our leave, deadly pistol shot, but will watch over you and your spouse to see that no harm comes to you."

Then, it being whispered that the enraged Saliceti has notified the gendarmes by telegraph that the Bellacoscia have come down from the mountain, the illustrious bandit and his followers silently disappear in the shadows of the night.

During these words Mrs. Anstruther has hurriedly gone into her house. Barnes now, with the eagerness of happy love upon his face, runs up onto the veranda and steps into the hallway.

Here he is met by Marina. "Don't be too impatient," she observes, smiling slightly. "I haven't seen your wife, but she is upstairs in her chamber, the great front room on the second floor. Though perfectly well, my servants say, she is worn out by the constant excitement and anxiety of the last 24 hours."

"Yes, I can understand that. The front room on the second floor, you said," whispers Burton, and turns to spring up the great oaken stairway to the upper story.

"You are in a great hurry," says Marina, laying a light hand upon his arm. "You will hardly be coming down for some little time and in two minutes I shall be on my way to Bastia, so I will have to bid you good-by now."

"To Bastia?" queries Barnes, turning to her, astonishment in his face.

"Yes, I shall see my husband to-morrow morning," she remarks, in joyous excitement. "Here is a telegram from Edwin telling me he will be in Bastia by noon. I must meet him there. Everything in the house is yours, dear Burton. I know you will be as happy here with your bride, as I shall be with my husband. Ah, Tomasso is already at the door."

For at this moment there is a noise of wheels and hoofs upon the avenue.

"Better wait for the diligence to-morrow," dissents Barnes.

"No, Tomasso shall drive me toward Bastia through the night. Besides, going by the diligence, at the post-stations there will be gendarmes, and my foster father is still a fugitive. It will be best that Edwin and I take him out of Corsica entirely. I have given orders to my servants—make this place your home as long as you like." She has already stepped out upon the porch.

"You had better see Enid first," remarks Burton, following her.

"No, I think not. Your interview should be before mine and I haven't time. The drive to Bastia is so long." Barnes hurriedly puts her into the vehicle. "May you be happy as I am," she calls to him, and the young Corsican wife is driven rapidly down the great avenue of chestnut trees, Tomasso being, apparently, also eager to leave the gendarmes that have hunted him over the mountains.

NEITHER ELEVEN SCORED

City and Borough High School Teams Played a 0-0 Tie on Hope Common.

BOROUGHITES PLAYED BETTER.

Local Team Weak on Defense—Scholastic Championship to Be Decided by Another Game.

The eagle of victory, carrying in its bill the olive wreath marked "Scholastic Football Champions" hovered around on Hope Common Saturday but did not light on the goal posts of either the city or borough high school elevens. Fully 500 football enthusiasts, mostly pupils from both schools, watched the season's second game between the school boy teams, and though the borough boys were once within striking distance of their opponent's goal, neither side scored and the local football championship must be decided by another game.

As in the first game, when the teams each scored a single touchdown, the borough eleven had the advantage in Saturday's contest. Outweighed nearly ten pounds to the man, they advanced the ball toward city high's goal line by a series of formation plays through the centre of their opponents' line. The local team, one the lookout for trick plays and the forward pass, were not up to their standard of defensive play as shown in last week's game with Laurenceville, but managed to hold their opponents at critical times, though several times they only gained the ball after it had been worked down the field to the shadow of their goal posts.

"Bully" McClintock was the hero of the day. As full back on the borough eleven, Quarter back Conroy sent him crashing through the centre of the city team's line time after time for gains of five or ten yards at a play. The city school team played their secondary defense too far back and again and again the lighter borough eleven made first down on their mass plays through the line. Murphey's punting for the local high school eleven saved the game on several occasions. The forward pass failed with both teams, and there were few trick plays. "Tone" Overton, the borough captain, after failing to take advantage of a chance to drop kick a goal from the field in the second half, missed a try from a less favorable position in the last few minutes of play.

The borough eleven's left wing was weak, and Quarterback Loizeaux found this out early in the game. Lyness and Murphey were the best ground gainers for P. H. S. and the ends held better than in any previous game. A feature in the second half was a mid-air fumble, when the ball was passed high to Parsons, of the borough and was for several seconds balanced in mid-air on the finger tips of a half dozen players.

North Plainfield kicked off to Loizeaux, but on the first lineup the local eleven was penalized for hurdling. They rushed the ball steadily to the boroughites' 35-yard line by gains through the left side of the line, but were there held for downs. The North Plainfielders rushed the ball back nearly 50 yards, using formation plays through centre, but were penalized for an illegal quarterback run and Overton's attempt at a field goal from the 30-yard line gave the ball to the city team on their 5-yard line. Murphey punted out of danger and the boroughites got the ball within striking distance only to lose it on a fumble. Murphey punted out again just as the half closed.

Both teams were somewhat handicapped by darkness in the second half. The Plainfielders kicked off but soon forced their oppoinents to punt. The forward pass failed as did attempts to gain through the borough line and the local team lost the ball on downs. An attempted drop kick by Parsons was blocked, but the Plainfields couldn't work the forward pass and the boroughites recovered the ball again near their goal just as time was called. SEVEN MACHINES IN AUTO RUN HAD PERFECT SCORES

In the endurance run under the auspices of the New Jersey Automobile Association held Friday and Saturday seven machines finished with a clean score after five trips around the ninety-four mile course. The machines who completed the test without penalization were the 50-h.p. Mathewson, entered by J. B. Ryall R. G. Kelsey's 50-h.p. Haynes, R. A. Greene's 30-h.p. Oldsmobile, R. A. Greene's 40-h.p. Locomobile, A. T. Purcell's 40-h.p. Ford, F. C. Hinni's 28-h.p. Franklin, and F. J. Titus' 60-h.p. Thomas.

Thirteen of the twenty-two cars entered finished the test. P. F. Gillette's 20-h.p. Pullman being burned, and the others withdrawn. Frank Mazzacho, who drove the 20-h.p. Mitchell car entered by the F. L. C. Martin Automobile Company of this city, was penalized 105 points for delay dut to accident.

W. V. Snyder, Jr., of Newark, drove the 10-h.p. Cadillac, which, though starting twentieth, stuck with the leaders all the time and finished with three points penalization. It was the only single cylinder car in the run and beat out fourteen four-cylinder cars. The engine was stalled for a while when the machine ran into a tree at a sharp corner while running Friday night. The little machine was haled with cheers at Newark every time around, and had no trouble with engine or machinery during the entire run. It consumed only 20 gallons of gasoline during the entire 470 mile run.

Inglis M. Uppercut, driving the four-cylinder 25-h.p. Cadillac, had a narrow escape near Somerville late Friday night. Some unknown men with lanterns, gave him the wrong signal about the road, and instead of turning, he went straight into a steep bank, smashing one of the forward wheels. L. C. Williams, a Stevens Institute student, who was acting as observer on the car, was thrown heavily, but escaped with bruises. After a wait of six hours for a new wheel from Newark, the car continued in the contest, and though penalized 1,098 points for stalling the engine during the delay, making the fastest time by making the 470 miles in fifteen hours running time.

Weekly Chase of the Hunt Club.

The weekly chase of the Watchung Hunt Club on Saturday was enjoyed by a company of about twenty riders, including the members and several visiting riders from New York. The riders met at Dog Tavern and followed a course to Westfield, Rahway and back to the kennels on Park avenue. Not a spill occurred to mar the pleasure of the chase. In the absence of Lewis E. Waring, master of the houids, "Chris." Cumins, the whip, acted in his place. Next Saturday afternoon the members will meet at the Baltusrol Golf Club and ride over an entirely new course.

No Events at P. C. C.

There was only general play on the course of the Plainfield Country Club, Saturday, no events being scheduled for the day. In fact there will be no special competitions until Thanksgiving Day, when the active season will close with a cross country tournament. The delightful fall weather on Saturday attracted a number of enthusiastic players to the links and the game was enjoyed to the fullest extent.

Holy Cross Club in Tie Game.

The Holy Cross Club football eleven played a 0-0 tie game with a team of school boys at Somerville Saturday. The borough boys were outweighed, but held their opponents by good defensive play at critical times.

oped in the eyes of the republic. All that glorious array of saints and workers of the faith were forgotten; men could remember leaders of nations, but of the men who had made life worth living, no mention was made, no day set apart for them and the doctrines of Christ had no celebration, outside the individual hearts of men. Then on the surface of this rose, as if by magic, splendid temples and men stood in amazement when people whom they credited with having no brains built structures such as our Catholic churches and heard the splendid music and saw the grandeur of the sanctuary. We taught them how to sing the praises of God and how to worship the sanctuary. That is the power of the multitude.

"There is the second power in the governing activity of the church. There is a great country of Democracy. The citizen with his vote is taxed for the support of the government. But America did not invent Democracy and America with all its power could not retain Democracy if there was not something else working. That principle is the teaching of the Catholic church that every man has an immortal soul, that every man is valuable in the sight of God because he is everlasting. There is the principle of Democracy. Who taught it, who supported it, who made it what it is? The church of Christ. You are all proul of the Democracy of America.

"I close with the thought with which I began. We are the winners. We are on the winning side, we have a head that should never perish, not because we have the people with us, not because we have the power of one or the power of the multitude, but because we have the power of Jesus Christ who said to his disciples, 'Behold I am with you.' The church imposes upon everybody, for as a great man said, 'One soul with God is a majority.'"

NON-SUITED IN CASE AGAINST BROTHERS' ESTATE.

A suit brought by Joseph Weinberger, of this city, to recover from the estate of his late brother, M. Weinberger, $145, was tried in Circuit Court Saturday, before Judge B. A. Vail.

The suit was brought to recover for expenses incurred by him in going to Hot Springs, Ark., in November, 1906, and there looking after his brother. The plaintiff, who was represented by Lawyer Francis J. Blatz, of Plainfield, said that he left his business in Plainfield and went to Hot Springs in response to a couple of telegrams. He claimed reimbursement for expenses incurred in caring for his brother and later taking him to a sanitarium where he died.

Lawyer William Newcorn, counsel for the defense, asserted the remuneration demanded was excessive, and that Miss Sadie Weinberger being a minor at the time she telegraphed for him to come on, could not be considered a legally authorized agent for her father. On this latter ground he asked for a non-suit, which was grante

Dog Bites Two Children.

While Alice and Katie O'Day, daughters of Mrs. Charles O'Day, of South Plainfield, were playing Friday afternoon in front of Washington Hall, South Plainfield, a small dog belonging to A. J. Kieseki rushed through the street and snapped at the children's legs, biting them both. Dr. Van Horn was summoned, and the wounds, which were but slight, were attended to. The dog, which is believed to have had the rabies, was shot, and the children are able to be about today.

First Team vs. Second Team.

The first and second teams of the Y. M. C. A. will play basketball at the association gymnasium tonight at 8 o'clock. The game will be the last for each team before the make-up of the fives for the season is announced, and all candidates will be given a tryout as far as possible. The business men's five was to have played the team from the Congregational church between the halves, but this game was cancelled this morning, because the church five could not get together tonight.

Small Reduction in Tax List.

Twenty-seven Men Laid Off.

According to a notice previously posted, twenty-seven men were laid off at the Potter Press Works on Friday night, leaving a force of about 175 men still employed. Those laid off comprise chiefly unskilled labor and some from the foundry. The "lay-off" is for an indefinite time.

No "Time Honored Custom."

Contrary to the generally accepted belief that the motto, "In God We Trust," has graced the coin of the United States since the time of George Washington, $10 gold pieces are in existence without that inscription. Hyman Adelberg, proprietor of the People's Credit Clothing Company, paid a bill at The Daily Press office, this morning, and among the money was a $10 gold coin of 1852, which did not bear the inscription "In God We Trust," which has caused so much agitation because of the action of President Roosevelt in ordering its removal from the piece of money in question.

A private funeral service was held yesterday afternoon over the bodies of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Randolph who died within a few hours of each other, at the home of Mr. Randolph's sister, Mrs. Buckelew, of West Fifth street. It was conducted by Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, of the First Baptist church, and was very simple. Burial was made in Evergreen cemetery, the pall bearers being two nephews, the Messrs. Randolph, of Randolphville, Robert Barnes and Frank Jones.

Father Delehanty officiated and burial was afterward made in St. Mary's cemetery. Six members of the Holy Name Society of St. Joseph's church acted as pall bearers.

THANKS DUE MR. DEPEW

His Prompt Action Results in P.S.C. Using Groove Rails One Way at Least.

WARREN B. TRAVELL FAVORED.

Given Extension of Time for Completion of Pumping Station—Other Councilmanic Work.

Councilman W. L. Gloak, of the street committee, reported at the adjourned meeting of the Common Council last night that the Public Service Corporation has agreed to install groove rails on the westbound track between Somerset street and Madison avenue, before the brick pavement is laid on that side of the roadway.

This matter was brought to the attention of the Council by R. Henry Depew in a communication, it being in his opinion a wise provision to have the groove rail extend through the streets where the brick is being laid. The matter was taken up with the trolley officials and they offered to make the change on the westbound side of the street. This cannot be done on the eastbound side as the brick pavement is now laid there.

On motion of Mr. Gloak, Warren B. Travell was given an extension of time to December 31 in which to complete his contract of installing the pumping station in connection with the southside sewer system. Also on his motion a bill amounting to $142.66, charges for the use of the steam roller in macadamizing Evergreen avenue, was waived, in view of the fact that the avenue has been laid out and improved at the property-owners' expense. Mr. Gloak also reported that arrangements had been made whereby the trolley company will provide better ways for carrying off the surface water between its tracks in the city. On motion of the same member the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company was given permission to make further openings in the streets to continue the underground work.

Mr. Tyler stated that in response to a request made the New Jersey Central had caused to be lighted one of its electric lamps at the North Avenue station and that it is probable that the company will erect a light at a point near the last point of exit for passengers from trains arriving from New York, which would be near the Watchung avenue bridge.

The supplment to the building ordinance offered by Chairman Hibbard of the fire and building committee at the last meeting and returned to the committee for revision, was again offered last night and adopted on two readings and ordered advertised. It prohibits the building of additions to the frame or combustible structures either on the front, rear or sides, within three feet of any other building. This is intended more especially for the business section where there are some old buildings very close together. On the motion to adopt on two readings President Daniel alone voted no.

It was decided that when the meeting adjourned it be to meet on Thursday night.

Under the direction of Roadmaster Gordon, of the Public Service Corporation, a gang of laborers this morning began the work of taking out the old girder rail on the west side of Front street, between Somerset street and Madison avenue, for the purpose of installing the improved groove rail. The company is not required to do this, it is said. Owing to the brick pavement on the east side that rail cannot be changed now. It is expected that the work of installing the double switch at Front and Somerset streets will be completed today.

While the westbound rails are being changed the cars will go back to the use of the single tracks between Madison avenue and the stand on Watchung avenue. Contractor Meeker is making much better progress with his concrete work on Watchung avenue and has a considerable space covered in readiness for the brick pavement.

$1,200 Clerkship the Plum.

William R. Townsend is expected to hand in his resignation today as clerk of the Union County Board for the Equalization of Taxes, he having been chosen tax collector for the city of Plainfield at a salary of $2,250 a year. The vacancy will make another scramble for office, the plum being worth $1,200 a year. Edward Nelson, of this city, is the first candidate in the field.

Second Recital Friday Afternoon.

The second piano and organ recital given by Miss Carolyn Beebe and Mons. Edouard Dethier will be held Friday afternoon at the home of Miss Ella J. Corey, 1111 Park avenue. A feature of the recital will be the rendition of Beethoven's "Kreutzer Sonata," said to be his most difficult work to perform.

CAUGHT IN SHAFTING; ONLY SLIGHILY HURT

Edward Lessen, of Netherwood avenue, employed at the Rock avenue yard of the J. D. Loizeaux Company, had a narrow escape from being killed while at work in the planing department shortly before 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

He was putting a belt over a pulley when his clothing caught and he was jerked from his feet and lifted to the top of the shafting. The fact that the belt was not fully in position was probably all that saved him as it slipped off, leaving him suspended in the air. He was rendered unconscious by a blow on the head but the accident was witnessed by other men and Lessen was quickly lifted down.

It was thought at first that he was seriously injured and hurry calls were sent for the police patrol and ambulance. The former vehicle was quickly on the scene with Dr. Lufburrow but Lessen had recovered consciousness before its arrival. An examination showed that a few bruises and lacerations were all that he suffered and he was removed to his home.

JERSEY CENTRAL PAY CHECKS COUNTERFEITED

Wholesale forgeries that are expected to reach $10,000 were unearthed at Phillipsburg yesterday. Recently the Central Railroad of New Jersey issued $5 checks in payment for last month's wages.

A group of men have apparently taken advantage of the merchants who knew that the railroad had paid in checks by flooding them with counterfeit $5 papers.

A corps of railroad detectives is working on the case now and the railroad company is expected to call in their checks in a few days, as they are easily counterfeited. They need no indorsement, being made payable to the holder.

Evangelistic Meetings Continue.

Mrs. John Manley and her sons will sing several selections at the evangelistic service conducted by Rev. Charles E. Dennis, of New York city, at Rescue Mission tonight. The services are proving a great success in this city, and much good work has been accomplished in the local field by the New York evangelists. The meetings will be continued every evening this week and perhaps next week, and Mr. Dennis, a powerful speaker, is drawing good congregations every night.

—The Plainfield Board of Health will hold its next regular meeting on Tuesday afternoon, December 3.

WANTED TO HELP HUBBY

When Glaentzer Got Mixed on Witness Stand His Wife Started to Explain.

"REMOVE HER," COURT ORDERS.

Incident Occurred at Trial of Two New Brunswick Men Charged With Robbing Plainfielder.

A jury in the Circuit Court at New Brunswick, yesterday, brought in a verdict of guilty against John Waller and Cory Meyers, two residents of that city, charged by Charles Glaentzer, of New street, mail collector for the local postoffice, with robbing him on July 2 last. The men were placed on trial in the morning and their counsel took up so much time in rebutting testimony it was late in the afternoon before the case was concluded. The defendants were remanded for sentence.

In his testimony Glaentzer stated that he went to New Brunswick on the date mentioned to visit his son. Early in the evening, while waiting for a trolley car on Burnet street, Waller stepped up to him and demanded a ring he had on his hand. When he told the fellow to take himself off, Waller grabbed hold of him and hustled him around a corner. At the same moment, Meyers ran up and relieved him of a nickel watch, a gold watch, two chains and a wallet containing $40. The men then threw him down and disappeared in an alley. Glaentzer recovered his equilibrium quick enough to summon a patrolman and from the description furnished Waller and Meyers were arrested. The victim afterward positively reorganized them as the pair.

H. B. Cook, counsel for the defense, got Glaentzer pretty well mixed up on cross-examination. He stated that on the date of the robbery he left Plainfield for Newark after dinner. Later he said it was about seven in the morning. As Mr. Cook was putting in questions to make the most of this discrepency a woman's voice broke upon the air.

"He's got that a little mixed up. I can explain it for him."

It was Mrs. Glaentzer. She rose to her feet and started towards the witness stand.

"Remove that person," exclaimed Judge Booraem, who was on the bench.

Constable Gordon started to obey orders, but came back and explained to Judge Booraem that the woman was ignorant of the rights of court decorum. She was allowed to remain.

The defense attempted to show that Waller and Meyers were not the men who had robbed Glaentzer but both admitted that they had spoken to him as he stood waiting for the car.

TRI-COUNTY WORK HOUSE

Freeholder Doane's Suggestion in Line With Mrs. Tiffany's Earnest Efforts.

A SAVING FOR UNION COUNTY.

Only One Change in the Board This Year—Members Have Their Pictures Taken.

Although the Union County Board of Freeholders has purchased a strip of land near the Court House in Elizabeth, it is not proposed to establish a county workhouse there as suggested recently. In fact the freeholders are not quite sure as to how this problem will be solved. Mrs. Elizabeth Tiffany, of this city, has been greatly interested in the subject and it has been her earnest effort to have such an institution established in Elizabeth.

While the freeholders recognize the benefits that would come to the county through a workhouse, the members are not united on some of the important details. Freeholder J. Dervey Doane has suggested as one plan that a workhouse be erected at the junction of Union, Somerset and Middlesex counties, the same to be supported by all three counties. By this plan the expense on any one county would not be heavy and it would afford a convenient place to send that class of men who are forever living at the expense of the county. Mr. Doane's scheme is now being considered by the Board.

There is but one change to be made in the Board this year as a result of election. Adolph H. Gruener, of Rahway, was a candidate for re-election, but was defeated by one vote, and he will retire unless a recount should be decided upon and the returns show a different result. There is some talk of a recount, Mr. Gruener's friends claiming that a mistake in the count will show that he has been elected.

Standing — J. Hervey Doane, Adolph H. Gruener, Joseph Perry, Court House Custorian W. H. Hulsamper, John N. Cady, Clerk S. R. Ryno, S. P. T. Wilbur, R. C. Maurer, Logan Fay, County Engineer Jacob Bauer, Elston Darby, P. H. Meisel, Bradford Jones, G. B. Cladek, T. J. Pierson, C. A. Smith.

Sitting—Noah Woodruff, W. H. Swain, John Robison, County Collector Nathan R. Leavitt, Director, Major Benjamin King, County Physician Dr. F. W. Westcott, County Attorney W. R. Coddington, Henry Krausse and E. K. Adams.

Schools' Donation to Hospital.

Contributions of fruit, vegetables and canned goods were received at the city and borough schools today for use at Muhlenberg Hospital, in accordance with the regular annual custom of Thanksgiving donation. Barrels were placed in the various buildings and each of the children brought something—staple of delicacy—for the sick.

Some Good Photographs.

F. T. Puryear, the Brooklyn photographer, has been doing a good business in Plainfield during the last few weeks along his line of work. The pictures of the Plainfield High School, the Plainfield Business College and other institutions speak well for his ability and are earning him more trade.

J. E. TRACY'S HARD LUCK

Involuntary Petition in Bankruptcy Filed Against Plainfielder.

MR. GODDARD A CREDITOR.

Councilman-elect Mygratt Counsel for Mr. Tracy, Makes a Statement on Behalf of His Client.

An involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed yesterday in the United States District Court in New York against Jeremiah Evarts Tracy, of this city. He is one of the oldest lawyers in New York and was formerly connected with the old law firm of Evarts, Choate & Beaman, of No. 60 Wall street. Mr. Tracy still has his offices at the same address.

The petitioning creditors are George V. N. Baldwin, a lawyer, of No. 32 Nassau street, on notes representing loans of $2,500; William H. Hastings, note, $1,400, and George W. Goddard, $12,500, the latter secured by notes and 15,000 shares of stock in the United States Tunnel, Mining, Milling, Drainage and Transportation Company. Transfer of assets, including thirty-five shares of the Garden City Company preferred and fifty shares of the common stock of the same corporation, are alleged.

Elbert B. Hamlin, of No. 59 Wall street, New York, was appointed receiver, with a bond of $1,500. According to several of Mr. Tracy's personal friends, he became involved in various enterprises, indorsed many notes and in many cases was unable to meet the obligations. Two weeks ago, it is said, two judgments for large amounts were entered against him.

"Mr. Tracy is one of the ablest and most honest lawyers in this city," he said, "and he was simply unfortunate in his business transactions." Councilman-elect Frederick E. Mygatt., of this city, attorney for the petitioning creditors, said yesterday that Mr. Tracy's assets were $2,500. He said there was no doubt that there were many more creditors.

When the old firm of Evarts, Choate & Beaman dissolved Mr. Tracy became head of the firm of Evarts, Tracy & Sherman. He severed his connection with this concern three months ago. He is a director of the Hormiguero Central Company, with business at Cienfuegos, Cuba. In 1895 he became interested in a sewing machine invention by Mrs. Harriet Ruth Tracy, of Connecticut. The woman was no relative of Mr. Tracy. He became interested in the new enterprise and built a factory in Hartford.

After spending nearly thirty-eight thousand dollars he suddenly stopped, and before the machine got on the market the business fell through. Mrs. Tracy at first referred all creditors to him, but he disclaimed all responsibility for obligations, and as there was no incorporated company he could not be held.

Mr. Tracy is the father of Dr. Robert S. Tracy, who in 1899 disappeared from a sanatorium at Saranac Lake, where he was staying for his health. A long search was made for him, and several months later he was found.

OHIO LAWYER TO SPEAK

Vice Mayor Galvin, of Cincinnati, Orator for Elks Memorial Service.

MUSIC IS TO BE A FEATURE.

Somerville Elks To Join In Lodge of Sorrow at the Theatre, On Sunday Night, December 1.

The committee recently appointed by Plainfield Lodge, No. 885, B. P. O. E., to arrange the program for the memorial exercises on Sunday night, December 1, received word today that its efforts to secure John Galvin, vice-mayor of Cincinnati, as orator for the occasion, had been successful. He wired this morning that he had accepted the invitation with the added statement that it would afford him great pleasure to occupy the position of honor at the Plainfield lodge of sorrow.

The exercises will be held in the New Plainfield theatre and the program will include several features entirely new to those who have attended previously. Instrumental and vocal music will intersperse the various numbers and the decorations will be still more elaborate. Somerville lodge, which was instituted a short time ago, has accepted an invitation to participate and the members will attend in a body. Admission to the theatre will be by invitation only.

The acceptance of Mr. Galvin will bring to Plainfield one of the best known orators of the middle west and one who has been sought after by many B. P. O. E. lodges for the coming date. He is a leading lawyer in Cincinnati and has been identified with the city's affairs for many years. He is a past Grand Exalted Ruler of the Elks and until recently was chairman of the Committee on Laws of the Grand Lodge. He was also on the committee that prepared the new lodge constitution that was acted on favorably at the Denver and Philadelphia conventions.

MRS. OLIVE B. DUNN IS AWARDED ALIMONY

The divorce case of Olive Blanche Dunn against Wesley J. Dunn had another airing before the Chancery Court at Newark this morning, when the application for alimony and counsel fees made some time ago was renewed before Vice Chancellor Emery.

The court after reading the pleadings and the voluminous affidavits for and against the application, and after argument by counsel, ordered the husband to pay the wife five dollars a week alimony and twenty-five dollars counsel fees.

William G. De Meza and Winfield S. Angleman represented Mrs. Dunn and S. S. Swackhamer appeared for Wesley Dunn.

The Dunns lived together in Plainfield until the separation about a year and a half ago. Shortly after the separation Mrs. Dunn filed her application for a divorce on the ground of cruel treatment. The husband denied his wife's allegations, and the wife then amended her petition specifying in detail the acts complained of. The husband has filed an answer denying all the later allegations, and resisted strongly the application made today.

The case will probably come up for final trial in January at Newark.

FORT ASKS SENATORS TO LUNCHEON AT LAKEWOOD

All the twenty-one Senators have been invited by Governor-elect John Franklin Fort to be his guests at luncheon at the Laurel House, Lakewood, Friday afternoon at 1 o'clock.

The purpose of the gathering is, according to the invitations, "to discuss the future plans of the Senate" and "to get better acquainted."

The invitations were received by the legislators yesterday, and, so far as could be learned, will be accepted by all who will be in the State at the time.

Of the several Senators who had seen their invitations none would discuss them other than to say they would be glad to attend the function. The Governor-elect, who is still at Lakewood, could not be reached last night.

Funeral of Miss Brandegee.

The funeral of Miss Elizabeth Gallaudet Brandegee was held yesterday afternoon at her late home on East Seventh street. It was conducted by Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, of Grace church, and was private. The body was taken to Connecticut today for interment.

MR. TOWNSEND COLLECTOR

Common Council Chooses County Tax Board Clerk to Succeed Murray.

TYLER TRIED TO BLOCK IT.

Mayor Fisk Presented Resignation of Present Incumbent—Charge on Thursday.

William S. Tyler alone voted against the election of William R. Townsend for tax collector to fill the unexpired term of John W. Murray, Jr., until the next election, when the ballot was taken by the Common Council, last night. The ten other members of the Council were unanimously in favor of him for the place after Mayor Charles J. Fisk had presented the resignation of the present incumbent. Townsend's was the only name considered, and Mr. Tyler fought for a delay, giving the excuse that some others might want the position.

For nearly an hour the city fathers held an executive session and discussed the subject of a successor after Mr. Murray's resignation had been received. Mr. Tyler pleaded for more delay, arguing that there should be formal advertisement, and Councilmen George P. Mellick and Leslie M. Daniel and others took the position that the publicity given in the local papers during the last few days was entirely sufficient and that there was no reason for putting off the selection of a new collector.

In open session, much to the surprise of his colleagues, Mr. Tyler brought up the same argument that he had used in the private talk and succeeded in delaying the election for a time. In requesting a postponement of action until next Thursday he said: "As it is now, there is but one name before us; not that I have any objection to the man proposed. It is a political position and people are generally apt to think that the man with a political 'pull' will get the office. We may get a much better man to accept the position by waiting a few days and that possibly could do no harm. We cannot be too careful in our selection of a man for such an office."

The withdrawal of William H. Clark from the contest had been placed on file. Mr. Clark's singular offer had caused more amusement than serious consideration. In a letter to Mayor Fisk he had stated that he was a pensioner of the Standard Oil Company and if he could get the job he would donate a third of his salary to Muhlenberg Hospital. Former Sheriff B. Frank Coriell's name was not presented and neither was that of Thomas Hanna.

Mr. Townsend's record had been thoroughly investigated and his friends had filed with the city fathers letters of recommendations from all his previous employers as to his integrity, ability and faithfulness. Among them were communications from the Metropolitan Street Railway Company, of New York; Moore & Schley, of New York, and C. C. Pollard, of the Union County Tax Board. Mr. Townsend's name was presented by Councilman Ralph T. Tolles.

Mr. Townsend will assume his new office on Thursday, when Mr. Murray takes a position in New York.

Jerry Manning, the quarterback, was taken out of the game in the second half because of injury received by a kick in the side. He is not yet able to be about. The Orioles are a strong team and gave the Dunellenties the first defeat of the season, winning out 6-5. They brought with them a big squad of players, so that the lineup in the second half was entirely different from that in the first half. The new men in the game were fresh as compared to the local players and they made the touchdown in this last period of play. AMUSEMENTS.

May Robson has scored a decided hit at the Garden theatre, New York, where she appeared in the new American comedy, "The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary." In the quaint role of Aunt Mary Miss Robson has a part that is fitted to her like a glove. Her expressions of the yearning tenderness of the childless old lady rises at times to a height that is almost tragic. The play is full of bright comedy lines, novel situations and that wholesome sweetness that appeals to every one. "The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary" tells the story of a rich old maiden lady, who once had a love story of her own, but whose heart is bound up in a nephew in college, who is a little wild, but not more so than the average young man. He is unfortunate enough, however, to get involved in a number of scrapes, one of which is a breach of promise case, in which the nephew is really not to blame. The exposure causes the aunt to disinherit him, and he hurries off to New York, where he falls in love with a beautiful girl, and where finally the aunt follows him. She is treated to a dinner by the nephew's college chums, and whirled about town in an automobile and introduced to the roof gardens and other popular places. The sport completely wins her from her country life and reconciles her to the marriage of her nephew to his sweetheart.

TO CALL ON CARNEGIE.

Te trustees of the Cranford Free Public Library, who recently purchased a choice plot of ground on Miln street in that borough as the site for a new building, are busy devising plans to raise money. At present the library is located in the Opera House block, where several rooms are used to house the many thousand volumes and where reading rooms are maintained.

The trustees intend to apply to Andrew Carnegie, and should he give them $10,000 for the building, there is no question but that the people will vote the money necessary to support the institution.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

For downright, intense interest, no play of the season has given such universal satisfaction as the new college play, "At Yale," to be brought to the New Plainfield theatre tonight by Jules Murry. In it there are no end of stirring scenes and typical characters. Running through it is the sweetest love story known on the road, and in the great boat race, shown in the next to the last act, there is packed more excitement than in any two old-fashioned melodramas known to the most veteran theatregoer.

"Dad's girl," the bright little comedienne, Miss Alma Hearn, formerly of the "Burglar's Daughter" company, comes to the New Plainfield theatre Thursday night as a star, surrounded with a brand new scenic production, novel electrical effects, and a supporting company selected by her New York managers, Messrs. Long & Packard, with a view of making this tour the crowning triumph of Miss Hearn's notable stage career. "No Mother to Guide Her," Lillian Mortimer's great comedy drama, which was seen exclusively on the eastern circuits last season, is the play and it is said to possess all the elements which have made Miss Hearn famous and a permanent favorite with her Southern patrons.

"Are You a Mason" is a mirth-producer of the first water. Its wit is refined but brilliant as the face of a diamond. The theatre-goers of this city will be delighted to learn that this most laughable of comedies will be the attraction at the New Plainfield theatre next Friday night. The management has engaged a first class company of comedians headed by William Robert Leon and Charles B. Hawkins, who have won a splendid reputation in the principal roles of this play.

Messrs. Vance and Sullivan bring their latest dramatic offering called "The Great Wall Street Mystery," or King of Wire Tappers," to the New Plainfield theatre next Saturday afternoon and night. The play has an interesting story, elaborate settings and a fine cast. The story tells of the doings of the familiar type of criminals known as wire tappers, gamblers, etc., and their methods, schemes and escapades make up the thrilling situations and startling climaxes. There is plenty of love interest, too, and the attention is held from start to finish.

Messrs. Deal and Sherman, of Trenton, will open a high class moving picture theatre at 161 East Front street in a few days. Will B. Putnam will be the local manager and the house is to be called the Bijou. Mr. Putnam says that the pictures will be of the highest character and the same as shown in their other houses throughout the State.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The State Sunday-school convention began at Freehold today and will be continued tomorrow and Thursday.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church will meet at the home of Mrs. Harry Moore on Grove street this afternoon.

The Women's Home Missionary Society of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church will hold its meeting for sewing Friday afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock in the church parlors.

Under the auspices of the Women's Society for Christian Work of the Seventh-Day Baptist church a turkey supper will be given in the parlors of the church tomorrow night.

The monthly missionary prayer-meeting at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church tomorrow night will be in charge of the Men's Club, and a lecture on Japan will be given by W. D. Murray.

Miss Nettie Beeching, president of th Plainfield Primary and Junior Sunday-school Teachers' Association, will address the Park Avenue Baptist Sunday-school Sunday afternoon. There will be a special program of music also.

Next Sunday will be "Thanksgiving Day" at the Park Avenue Baptist church, when donations will be received for the Plainfield Day Nursery. It is proposed to fill several barrels and boxes of useful things for the worthy charity.

The Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, will meet in the large parlors this afternoon. The subject will be "Korea," and Mrs. Leighton Calkins will speak of "What Japan is Doing in Korea."

GOLF.

With the exception of the Lakewood fixture to be held Thanksgiving week, the open, invitation and championship golf tournaments for the season of 1907 in the North are a matter of history. But there will be no need for the devotees of the game to retire to winter quarters, and the consolation of the "nineteenth hole" unless they so desire, for there is the sunny South already becoming restless after months of inactivity. Pinehurst, that Mecca for golfers, will soon resound with the crack of drives and ring of the iron, and from then until well into the spring competitions will follow in rapid succession at the many resorts where the game is popular below the Mason and Dixon line.

But to get back to the North. A start was made hereabout with the invitation affair given by the Garden City Golf Club on April 18-20, and, oddly enough, the tournament was productive of one of the most sensational matches ever seen in this country. A gale of wind prevailed on the first day, making low scores in the qualifying round well nigh impossible. All through Marshall Whitlatch, of Montclair, had the distinction of leading the field in the qualification test with a score of 88, he was quickly eliminated at match play.

The weeding out process narrowed the field down to Walter J. Travis, of the home club, and Jerome D. Travers, of Montclair. Lack of practice during the early spring caused by the backward season told against Travers, but for all that he carried the Garden City veteran to the thirty-eighth green ere the latter finally won with a 3 after being trapped on his tea shot. This was one of the few occasions where Travers lost during the season.

In looking down the list it only requires a cursory glance to reveal the fact that the precedent set by Whitlatch was pretty generally followed. A majority of the medalists in the qualifying round failed to survive at match play.

Fred Herreshoff was a familiar figure in most of the early tournaments. In fact, he began his competitive season at Pinehurst, and after winning there won first cups at Lakewood, Virginia and Hot Springs, Atlantic City, Huntingdon Valley and Ekwanok in rapid succession. As a tournament winner Herreshoff pushed Travers closely. But the latter embellished his work by accounting for three titles—the national, metropolitan and New Jersey—an achievement previously unheard of in this country.

Right here in the metropolitan district, and, for that matter, throughout the East, interest never flagged. Tournaments followed each other with almost weekly regularity early in the season at nearby courses, while the demand for dates in the fall was so numerous as to render conflicts unavoidable.

Never in the history of the game were the tournaments so well attended. It remained for Deal to reach the high water mark in August, when 202 players were started in the qualifying round. There were also more than one hundred starters at Atlantic City in the spring, when the golfers qualified in six sixteens.

WESTFIELD EXCITED.

Thought There Was a Fire, but New Truck Was Being Tried.

The town of Westfield was thrown into a state of excitement late Saturday afternoon by the racing up and down the main avenues of the new hook and ladder truck. Many thought a fire was in progress and followed the machine.

The cause of the excitement was that the fire committee of the Town Council, with representatives of the Combination Ladder Company, inspected the new $3,000 truck, and after giving it a severe test over the roads decided to accept it. The truck is fully equipped, and of the latest pattern. R. F. Hohenstein, chairman of the fire committee, has subscriptions in hand sufficient to buy a fine team of horses for the machine. Extensive alterations have been made at the firehouse to accommodate the truck and horses.

PLAINFIELDERS AT STATE S. S. CONVENTION TODAY

Delegates and representatives from the various Sunday-schools in the State are in session today at the forty-ninth anniversary annual Sunday-school convention of the New Jersey Sunday-school Association, to be held for three days at Freehold. Rev. A. E. Finn, pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church, will preside at the session of the Home Department Institute to be held in the Freehold Baptist church Thursday morning and left today to be in attendance at the entire session. George E. Hall, superintendent of the Park Avenue Baptist church, and a member of the State board of the association, is also in Freehold today, attending the day and evening sessions of the convention being held in the Baptist and Presbyterian churches. It is probable that other local churches will also send delegates to the session.

This morning the delegates who assembled early made the trip to Monmouth battlefield and the old Tennant church, near Freehold, and the convention was formally opened this afternoon with a song service by a large volunteered choir and an address of welcome by Mayor D. P. Smith, of Freehold. The convention offering was taken at the afternoon session. Tonight, the session will be held in the Presbyterian church, and there will be a report on the year's progress in the various Sunday-schools and an illustrated address on "How the Kingdom is Coming to China," by Rev. John W. Lyell, of Camden. Sessions will be held morning, afternoon and evening, concluding with the afternoon session in the Baptist church Thursday afternoon.

MORE ABOUT VENICE AT WOMEN'S MEETING

"The Story of Venice" in its decadance was the subject of a paper of unusual interest presented by Mrs. Israel C. Pierson at the meeting of the Monday Afternoon Club yesterday at the Casino. In a graphic and attractive manner, Mrs. Pierson described the conditions and influences that led to the decay of venetian power and glory. The discussion that followed was spirited and interesting.

Current events that preceded the paper were mainly references to three prominent men who have recently died, Augustus S. Gaudens, the sculptor; Edward Greig, the musical composer, and Richard Mansfield, the actor.

Mrs. Henry M. Maxson, the president of the club, and Mrs. C. L. Goodrich were appointed delegates to the conference on Pure Food to be held by the officers of the Consumers' League at Cranford, December 3.

Herbert Chamberlain Injured.

Herbert Chamberlain, an employe of the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company, received painful injuries yesterday afternoon while engaged in erecting a booth at the office of the company. He was at work on a ladder when he slipped and fell a distance of several feet. He was cut about the face and head. Dr. G. W. Endicott, who was called to attend Mr. Chamberlain, was obliged to take several stitches to close the wounds in the face. The injuries are not serious and Mr. Chamberlain will be able to return to work in a few days.

ELECTION BILLS DISPUTE

Something of a Mix-up Regarding Compensation Causes Discussion.

NEW RATE SAVES COUNTY $600.

County Collector Leavitt Looks Up the Law Which County Attorney Coddington Interpreted.

The election officers of the city are somewhat stirred up over notice which they have received from N. L. Leavitt, county collector, stating that their compensation for services rendered at the recent election will be $25 instead of $30, as previously. When the election officers of the city were appointed, they received, along with other literature, a copy of the election laws of 1907, in which appears the following:

"The compensation of each member of the boards of registry and election for all services performed by them under the provisions of this act shall be as follows: In cities having a population exceeding 30,000, for the first registry day, including services rendered at the primary election, $10, and for each other registry day (there are two in Elizabeth) $5, and for the election day, including the counting of votes and the delivery of returns and the ballot boxes with contents, to the municipal clerk, $10, which compensation shall be the same for both the general election and the municipal election." The law goes on to state what the compensation shall be in cities with a population less than 30,000. According to their interpretation of this law, the election officers claim that they are entitled to $30 instead of $25. The postals sent out by County Collector Leavitt read as follows:

"I have been advised by the county attorney that the compensation to election officers for registry and election of the last general election must be based on the following:

"'For all such services in connection with the whole county, such compensation shall be $15 in districts where the number of registered voters is not more than 150; $20 in districts where the number of registered voters is more than 150 and not more than 300, and $25 in districts where the number of registered voters is more than 300, said sums to be paid by the county collector, which is to be in lieu of all other fees and charges whatsoever.'

"If you have not made out your bill in accordance with the above, please do so and have it reach the Board of Chosen Freeholders on or before the 19th day of November inst."

Both the Democratic and the Republican election officers in Elizabeth will meet tomorrow evening, the day before the meeting of the Board of Freeholders, to protest against this action, and to engage counsel if they deem it necessary.

"We do not care for the five dollars," said one of the election officers, yesterday, "it is the principal of the thing. The law is plainly stated, and according to it we are to receive thirty dollars for our services. We cannot understand why we should be informed that only $25 is due us."

When County Collector Leavitt was seen he said that at first he had been inclined to think that the county attorney was wrong, but that he had looked up the law, and found that on April 14 there had been an amendment to the law quoted above, and that on the following day there had been an amendment to that amendment, and altogether the law seemed to be rather conflicting on that point. However, he said that the matter was being looked up, and that other counties—notably Essex—would be consulted, and if it was found that they had anything later on the election law there would be a reconsideration of the notice sent out.

COACH PHELPS TALKS ON SCHOOL SPIRIT.

In an address at the morning exercises of the North Plainfield high school this morning, Principal Benjamin Phelps spoke in commendation of the support which the student body is giving the football eleven. Mr. Phelps, who is acting as coach for the school bol eleven this year, especially emphasized the value of supporting the team at every game by a large turnout. He congratulated the boys and girls of the school on their large turnout at the game on Hope Common Saturday and spoke especially of the enthusiasm shown on the field.

He said that with the small number of players to draw from in the school, the eleven's success depended largely on every man's application to his special position on the team, and his willingness to do his best for the team and for the school. In conclusion, the speaker urged a continuation of the support so loyally shown at the games yet to be played.

HORSE GOT TIRED OF WAITING.

So Had a Harmless Run Up Somerset Street and Waited for Its Driver.

A grey horse belonging to William H. Kirch, a local contractor living on Duer street, impatient from standing, started off without its driver from in front of Worth & Marsh's harness store this morning and ran up Somerset street. It was attached to the carpenter's wagon and started off at a brisk pace. The pedestrians made several attempts to stop the runaway, but the horse galloped on, finally slowing up at Conroy's harness store, where it was easily captured.

Drivers had given the running horse a wide birth, and there was no collisions, so that no damage was done to either horse or rig. Mr. Kirch, who was in the store, was informed of the runaway and went to Conroy's for the animal, which seemed a bot tired after its gallop, but was otherwise ready to be driven on.

Miss Hooley Takes Third Prize.

"Quaker Maid" and "Dorothea," owned by Miss Mabel B. Hooley, of the borough, took third prize in the heavy harness class at the opening of the National Horse Show in Madison Square Garden, yesterday, competing with "Lord Baltimore" and "My Maryland," and other thoroughbred entries. The blue went to the Baltimore pair, and the award was justified by their smooth way of going. Judge Moore's browns, which had begun to lather in the tryout, were second, while Miss Hooley's famous pair of clever steppers were third.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur McVoy and Master John McVoy, of West Fourth street, have returned from a visit with friends in Brooklyn.

A Supplement to An Ordinance Entitled "An Ordinance Relating to the Construction of Buildings," Approved Jan. 3, 1906, as amended.

WHEREAS, The practice of annexing to combustible frame buildings in the thickly built-up section of the City, brick, stone or other additions extending from such buildings to or toward any of the streets bounding the lots on which such buildings stand is in the judgment of the Common Council likely to increase the risk from fire in this, that such additions make it more difficult for the fire department or others to gain direct access to the combustible portions of such buildings in case of fire:

ANNIVERSARY BANQUET

Y. M. C. A. Boys Department will Celebrate Fifth Anniversary Tonight.

BOY PRESIDENT TOASTMASTER.

George L. McNutt To Be the Principal Speaker at a Banquet to a Hundred Members of the Department.

Celebrating the fifth anniversary of the founding of the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. in this city, a mammoth banquet will be held in the auditorium of the association tonight, at which a hundred members of the boys' department will be seated and where the work of the association in this department will be reviewed. Mrs. Henry Johnson, of the Park Club, will be the caterer, and the tables will be set on the main floor of the auditorium, which will be decorated for the occasion.

The speakers' table will be on the platform and here G. Stanley Robbins, as president of the boys' department, will preside. The principal speaker of the evening will be George L. McNutt, of New York city. Mr. McNutt is an ex-minister, and is better known as "The Dinner Pail Man." He will speak on the religious and athletic work in the local department, suggesting practical methods for a larger scope. Boys' Secretary L. A. Soule said today that he expected that all the former presidents of the department would be present at the banquet at the speakers' table, and would perhaps be called on for remarks. The department was founded in 1902, with Francis K. Anderson, now city editor of the Elizabeth Times, as the first president. Succeeding him were Martin Stutsman, Walter Caldwel, Harold Roobins and Russell Morris, who served before G. Stanley Robbins, who is now the president, was elected.

The organization of the department is perfect at present and there are 115 members in this branch of the association work. The gymnasium classes are perhaps the most important practical phase of the work, but there is a well-organized department for Bible study in which many of the members are enrolled.

MANNING FLATS.

Well Constructed Building Nearing Completion.

One of the best constructed buildings in the city, it is said, is the one being erected by L. L. Manning at West Front street and Central avenue, and which is nearing completion. There is a plain and substantial appearance about the structure that has attracted considerable attention. It is four stories in height and built of brick. Owing to the stringent State building laws the occupants will be safe-guarded in every way from fire or danger, through fire escapes and heavy brick walls.

The building contains ten well arranged suites, some comprising six and others seven rooms. All are light and well ventilated, which is according to a provision of the State law. The interior is to be all hardwood trim and in the hallways and the bath-rooms there will be a tile flooring. On the first floor there is one large store occupying the entire front of the building. Directly back of it is an apartment. The upper floors are devoted entirely to apartments. The main and only entrance to the apartments is through a large and spacious doorway on Central avenue. The whole building is to be heated by a large boiler in the cellar.

Townley Brothers had the mason contract, James C. Manning the carpenter work and Charles Dusched the heating and plumbing. It is expected that the building will be ready for occupancy about February 1. Thus far three of the apartments have been rented. One will be occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Francis K. Anderson, who were recently married, another one by Mrs. Sarah House, of West Front street, and a third by Dr. and Mrs. Geswein.

Miss Ida Rocap, of West Front street, leaves for Florida tomorrow, by the Clyde line steamer.

TO RE-SELL SEWER BONDS

Technicality Blocks Sale of $68,000 Worth to A. B. Leach and Company.

CITY COULD SUE THE FIRM.

But Others Will Be Given Opportunity to Purchase the Issue At An Early Date.

In connection with the $68,000 sewer bond issue which was taken up by A. B. Leach & Co., of New York, several weeks ago, a communication was received from the firm at the adjourned meeting of the Common Council, last night, informing that body that the company's attorney had not approved of the bonds and that in consequence refused to accept the issue. The firm asked for the return of its certified check given pending the closing of the deal. It was afterward learned that according to the provisions under which such bonds are issued and sold, the city had failed to advertise the issue the full fourteen days.

At the request of Mayor Fisk, the following statement of the situation respecting the dispute between the City and A. B. Leach & Company regarding the latter's bids for sewer bonds was prepared by Corporation Counsel Marsh:

"The sewer ordinance of May 18, 1904, was passed on first and second readings May 2, 1904, and on that date the Council ordered the ordinance duly advertised. The advertisement was not inserted in the official newspapers until May 5 and 6 respectively. The special meeting at which the ordinance was passed was held May 18, that is, one or two days short of the fourteen days after the first publication of the notice called for by the City Charter. A. B. Leach & Company, who bid for the bonds before the recent panic, stated in their bid substantially that the bid was not to take effect unless their lawyer approved of the bonds. Their lawyer, J. H. Caldwell, Esq., of New York city, advised A. B. Leach & Co. that the ordinance was defective because the full fourteen days' notice of intention to adopt the ordinance had not been given. The corporation counsel, on examining the proofs of publication in the newspapers, conceded that the notice of intention was not published for the full fourteen days, but he submitted a brief in support of the proposition that such fourteen days' notice was wholly unnecessary for the reason that the sewer act of 1890, under which the ordinance was passed, provided for a ten days' notice only and superseded the charter provision in that respect. He pointed out that the ten days' notice specifically required by the sewer act, P. L. 1890 p. 194 sec. 9, was given in strict confirmity with that act, before the ordinance was passed even on its first reading and that that section says in so many words:

"The notice shall briefly describe the improvement and request such persons as may object thereto to present their objections in writing, at the city clerk's office, at or before the expiration of ten days from the date of the notice, or to the 'Common Council at its first meeting held after the expiration of said ten days; and said Council may, at such meeting or afterwards proceed to consider and pass such ordinance, notwithstanding any objection.'

"Among the cases cited was the case of Hutchinson v. Belmar decided by the Supreme Court and unanimously affirmed by the Court of Errors and Appeals, in which similar language was held to supersede the requirement of the Borough Act that all ordinances shall be submitted at a regular meeting and acted upon at a subsequent meeting. Judge Collins there said 'The Borough act of 1878 does indeed require that all ordinances shall be submitted in writing at a regular meeting and be acted upon at a subsequent meeting, but this requirement is evidently superseded by the Street Railroad act of 1896 as to ordinances within its purview.'

"Mr. Caldwell admits that this case leaves the matter in some doubt, but all the same he is not satisfied and declines to approve the bonds. It remains for the Common Council to decide whether to bring suit to test the question, or to settle the dispute by obtaining a validating act at the approaching session of the Legislature, and calling for new bids."

Other arrangements will be made to dispose of the bonds in the near future. The action will not embarrass the city in the least for the issue was intended to cover old sewer work extending over a period of three years and which has been met by notes issued by the city to be liquidated when the bonds are sold.

Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh reported on several matters of a legal nature which he has been handling for the city. Regarding the chancery suit of a number of creditors against the city in connection with the sewer contract originally held by Peter Morgan, of Poughkeepsie, Mr. Marsh stated that he had secured a postponement until January 15, 1908, giving him time in which to file a plea and at the same time inquire into the validity of the claims. The case of J. E. McCormick against the city treasurer was reported discontinued, and Mr. Marsh also reported that in the case on appeal of Elston M. French against the city in the matter of a dispute over a tax assessment, Mr. French had withdrawn the suit. The case of the American Sewage Company, of Boston, against the city, for the alleged infringement of patent rights, was reported to be statue quo.

In the case of the Overseer of the Poor of Plainfield against the Overseer of the Poor of Reading, Hunterdon county, on order of removal, Mr. Marsh reported that the case would be tried at Flemington on November 29. This is an action in which the authorities of Hunterdon county seek to transfer a pauper case to Plainfield, which it is claimed by the local officials belongs in the former county.

SERPENT IN NEVADA LAKE.

Two Men Affirm That They Have Seen the Reptile.

A report from Walker lake states that a monster sea serpent has been seen at northern end of the lake. Dan Cornelison, a mining man of good reputation for veracity, brought the story to Goldfield. Cornelison says that both he and a companion named John McCorry sighted the reptile while fishing from a boat half a mile from the northern shore of the lake. The monster was then making its way toward the east shore of the lake. Cornelison says that at first sight he took the serpent for a man in a skiff, and when it disappeared for a moment he thought the boat had capsized, and rowed toward the spot, when it suddenly reappeared, giving them a good view of its proportions, which they estimated to be about 30 feet in length and 6 feet across the back. Another resident of that vicinity, a man named Peters, is said to have discovered the serpent sometime ago reposing in shallow water near the shore, and on being aroused it disappeared in deeper water. There is also said to be a legend among the Piutes around Shurz concerning the existence of a serpent in Walker lake.—Sacramento Bee.

MACHINE WAS ALL RIGHT.

Figured So Well Merchant Decided That He Needed Two.

"Sir," said the man as he entered the office, "I wish to exhibit to you my universal calculating machine—a thing that should be found in the counting room of every business man. It will add, subtract, divide, multiply, and there is no such thing as failure." "I have heard of it," replied the merchant, "but I never understood it was much of a success." "O, sir, but it is perfection! Give me any example you will, and I will guarantee a correct solution." "Very well. I bought two dozen leghorn chickens at $3 each. I built a coop at an expense of $30. In one year I bought $25 worth of feed. In the same year I got six eggs. What was my profit or loss for the year?" "Why, you paid out $127 and got back about 20 cents. In actual figures, your loss was $126.80." "I guess that's correct," sighed the merchant, "and you may leave me two machines. I'll keep one busy on my chickens and the other figuring out how much profit I make in raising my own celery and cucumbers."

Rained Sandwiches.

When hundreds of ham and chicken sandwiches fell at Eaglesmere, Pa., during a thunderstorm the other day folks wondered what miracle was being performed which should cause food to drop from the heavens. For 20 minutes the sandwiches fell, with now and then a chunk of chocolate cake to vary the monotomy. Some olives and a few pickles came along, and now and then a pie. It was explained a few hours later, when a church picnic party came along and told how a tornado had ripped up things at the grounds. The tables had been set and the dinner bell was about to be sounded when a rip-snorting wind came down through the woods and carried off every bit of food. Strangely enough several layers of cake were left behind, and the women who baked them were humiliated. They said that some unkind persons might think they were too heavy.

Transformation in Ocean Travel.

The wealthy passenger for Europe does not now book a cabin of a steamship, but engages a suite, which is in reality a commodious flat, consisting of four luxuriously appointed rooms—drawing room, dining room, bedroom and bathroom—furnished and decorated in the most costly and artistic manner with a rare and beautiful variety of woods, upholstered with silks, damasks, tapestries and brocades. Every possible convenience is provided—even the blessings of the telephone have not been overlooked, so that passengers in their staterooms may call up friends in distant parts of the ship and make appointments for dinner, etc.—Leslie's Weekly.

Why Is It?

The seats were in the orchestra, on the theater's left. "The left side of the house always sells out first," said the box-office man. "Everybody seems to prefer it to the right. I don't know why. "Boxes, especially. We can sell two left to one right box every time. Nobody takes the right side for choice. And there is no reason for this. As much goes on in the right extremity of the stage as in the left—we proprietors always look after that—and you see just as much from the right as from the left side. Why, then, is the left side always at a premium?"

The Real Century.

Gunner—"Harker says there were more wonderful inventions discovered in the nineteenth century and Brown says there were more discovered in the eighteenth. Which do you think has been the most useful century?" Guyer—"Don't know, but I can tell you which will be the most useful century any old time." Gunner—"which?" Guyer—"Why, a century bill."

A Preposterous Suggestion.

"How many inhabitants has Crimson Gulch, according to the latest census?" inquired the tourist. "There hasn't been no census in Crimson Gulch," answered Broncho Bob. "You don't suppose anybody would be fool enough to go through this town with a note book askin' all them personal questions, do you?"

GOOD TEST FOR NICOTINE.

Experiments That May Be of Interest to Smokers.

"Anyone who wishes to find out how much nicotine he might take into his system by smoking can easily get an idea by a very simple experiment," says an old smoker, who is rarely seen in public or private without a cigar in his mouth. "Puff briskly until the cigar smoke is clear white then draw a big mouthful, double your handkerchief, place it over your lips and blow out the smoke violently as though you were whistling. Look at your handkerchief and you will see a deep brown stain almost as big as a dime on the white linen. That is the nicotine and other oils distilled from the tobacco during burning. Now, of course, I don't mean to say that regular smoker would absorb all this oil into his system. Most of it passes away with the smoke, as shown by the brown deposit on the handkerchief, but still enough remains to affect the nerves, as any inexperienced smoker can testify after his first attempts to become accustomed to the weed. Whether the nicotine hurts anybody who is used to it is a question for the doctors."

EFFECTS OF THE FOG.

Even Blind Men Lose Their Way—The Ground "Sounds Different."

Nothing has such a bewildering effect as fog. Only animals which find their way by scent can get about in it with any certainty, says Chums. Birds are entirely confused by it. Tame pigeons remain all day motionless and half-asleep, huddled up, either in or just outside their houses. Chickens remain motionless for hours during heavy fogs. No bird sings or utters a call, perhaps because it fears to betray its whereabouts to an unseen foe. During one very thick fog a blind man was found wandering about a certain district of London. This man was in the habit of carrying notes and parcels, and had scarcely ever lost his way before. Asked why he had gone astray, for he was quite blind, and it was supposed that weather would have made no difference, he said that in a fog the ground "sounded quite differently."

Mixtures of Thought in Dreams.

Consider the wild mixtures of thought, displayed both in the waking life and the dreams of mankind. How grand! How mean! How sudden the leap from one to the other! How inscrutable the succession! How defiant of orderly control! It is as if the soul were a thinking ruin; which it verily is. The angel and the demon life appear to be contending in it. The imagination revels in beauty exceeding all the beauty of things, wails in images dire and monstrous, wallows in murderous and base suggestions that shame our inward dignity; so that a great part of the study and a principal art of life is to keep our decency by a wise selection from what we think and a careful suppression of the remainder.—Horace Bushnell.

Crown of Great Britain.

The crown is already of great weight—39 ounces and 5 dwts. To add to it the Cullinan diamond would increase the weight by about three-quarters of a pound avoirdupois, which, it is estimated, is what the jewel would weigh after it is cut. The crown, as it is seen today in the Tower of London, contains 2,818 diamonds, 297 pearls and many other exquisite jewels. Its chief gem is the ruby, the value of which has been estimated at £100,000, which was given to the Black Prince in Spain in the year 1367, and was worn by Henry V. in his helmet at the battle of Agincourt.

Law and Lickings.

In some of the districts of Prussia no father can dust the jacket of his boy without first securing the consent of an official appointed for the purpose. If the boy refuses to mind, the father goes to the officer and says: "My boy Fritz needs a licking. He will not mind me." How old is your Fritz?" "He is 12." "Is he very obstinate?" "He is like a mule." "Then here is your permission to go home and take him by the collar and give him 15 good cuts across the back." And the father goes home and cuts a gad and Fritz gets his thrashing and is better behaved for the next three months.

Wanted the Worth of His Money.

"All we can afford to give you, miss," said the trustee of school district No. 16 to the young woman who had applied for the position of teacher, "is $45 a month." "At that figure, of course, you wouldn't expect me to teach any fads," she said. "Fads?" echoed the trustee, taken slightly aback; "why—h'm—yes, if you can teach it we'll want that, too." "But if it isn't in the curriculum——" "You may as well understand, miss, that we ain't throwin' any money away. The $45 a month is to pay for the whole thing—fads, crickalum and everything else that's goin'."—Chicago Tribune.

A Strategist.

A little girl in Cleveland was playing with her trinkets on the parlor floor, while an older sister, with much persistency, was drumming on the piano. "Play louder, Eloria," spoke up the child. The girl at the keys felt flattered, and, with an elated smile, asked: "So you like to hear me play, do you, darling?" "No, I don't," came the unexpected and emphatic reply. "I wanted you to play louder so papa would tell you to stop."

Mr. Barnes, American

CHAPTER XV.

A Little Surprise for Mr. Barnes.

The American springs up the steps into the house again, and rapidly ascending the stairway to the second floor, sees a very faint gleam of light shining under the doorway of the great guest chamber in the front of the old Corsican mansion.

He knocks almost reverently and a faint, sweet voice answers timidly: "Come in."

His heart lighted by hope and love, his whole form trembling with anxiety to take his bride within his arms, the thought that she is his and safe making his flashing eyes very tender, the eager bridegroom opens the door.

Reclining on a lounge in a white robe her head bashfully turned from him, the long, beautiful, almost disheveled hair streaming over her shoulders, is his rescued bride.

She is in a nook of the big room well from the faint candle light.

He passes an arm about her slender waist and kisses her passionately. Her lips respond as sweetly and clingingly as ever did those of a young bride.

But even in the midst of the kiss, Barnes starts back with a sharp, amazed cry of almost horror: "My God, Sally Blackwood!"

And the lady turning to him so that the candle light shines upon her radiant features that are almost laughing, says archly: "Yes, I'm all here, La Belle Blackwood. It is a little surprise, is it not, my ardent bridegroom, Mr. Barnes of New York?"

"My heaven, how did you come here?" Burton's voice is hoarse with amazement.

"How? In Cipriano's swift yacht and afterward on a Corsican pony."

"And why?" An awful anxiety has crept into his voice.

"Why? To save your life!"

"To save my life?" Burton's tone is incredulous.

"Yes. I guessed from Cipriano that they were luring you to Corsica for your death. I came here to warn you."

"And Mr. Ruggles?" remarks Barnes, still astounded.

"Oh, Ruggles quarreled with me; got jealous of you or Cipriano, I don't know which. I was tired of Dan. Then bizarre Cipriano, he is so funny—he said to me: 'Ma chere, you want to even yourself with Barnes of New York?' I had told him you were such a gallant knight you wouldn't even kiss an old sweetheart because you were going to be married to a pretty-faced, fair-haired, blue-eyed English ingenue, and so, at Cip's suggestion, I came over to Corsica by Cipriano's fast yacht yesterday."

"But where is Enid and by what devil's chance did you take my bride's place?" asks Barnes.

"Oh, the Corsicans—they wanted you to follow them. They expected that. They didn't intend for you to get your bride, at all events not until you had given them several chances to kill you. So I was on the shore at Sagone waiting for them when Saliceti arrived per schedule on the Seagull. I saw them from a distance. They brought your bride off the yatch all right. Great Scott, she has a fine nerve, that young lady of yours. Haughty as a captured goddess."

"By the Eternal, have they killed her?" Barnes is white to the lips.

"Oh, not yet anyway. Saliceti, with two friends, hurried her on a long way ahead of me through the mountains. Some dark-eyed gentleman escorting me gave you a distant chance to see us. You were never on the same road as your wife after you left Vico—you were pursuing me!"

"My God!"

"It was such an exciting affair," she half laughs; "something so out of the ordinary, an adventure so bizaree that I liked to do it. Word was brought you were in pursuit up the mountain path. I knew they wanted to ambush you. So I told a shepherd to give you warning at the inn of Guagno. I hope you got it."

"Where did they take my wife?"

"That I shall not tell you—at least, not without a bribe. Shall I have a farewell kiss for the information?"

"Never!"

"Oh, Burton, don't kill me!" she gasps, for Barnes' hand, in his agony and rage, is nearly on her white throat.

"Pish, you are not worth it."

Uncompromisingly he tears himself from her and commands: "Tell me where I will find her now; tell me so that I can go back to her and dare to kiss my wife's lips, knowing that I am true to her. Think—think what you once were when your father and mother in Ohio loved you and believed in their little girl. By heaven, I know there is good in you, Sally—only let it come out, just this time," he entreats. "Just tell me where I can find my darling, so that I can rescue her in time, for you know these are villains who have stolen her from me."

A being of impulse, La Belle Blackwood wrings her hands, her head droops and she sobs: "Then, Burton, I'll forgive you and tell you. There is a little good in me—I'll tell you all I know of your bride, which is very little. I think the road they took her was north of the path that we followed. But where Enid is, I know not."

"Then Saliceti! I'll tear it from him."

"I hardly think he can tell you. His followers were strangely frightened and embarrassed when the Bellacoscia young men demanded your bride from them, and as an evasion, substituted me." Then, noting the fearful look on Barnes' face, she cries: "Don't waste your time here; ask the man who knows."

"Ah!"

"Cipriano Danella! The head of this affair didn't want you to find her—not until they killed you, if it were possible. Oh, this Corsican count who is playing with you is a great man—not a boy."

"This is all you can tell me? Is it the truth?"

"Yes, as God will never forgive me—yes."

"Very well," says Barnes, "I thank you for the information. I will now see that you get out of Corsica safely."

"How?"

"My friend, the great Bellacoscia, will do it for me."

"The great bandit! He will take me from Corsica? Diable, the magnificent bandit—that would be an adventure," laughs the volatile lady airily. "The ferocious bandit I have read of! This Bellacoscia who kills gendarmes as if they were flies! That's greater than even a pork packer, a cattle man or a Count Danella, isn't it? I thank you for the bandit, Mr. Barnes."

Barnes runs down the stairs and steps out upon the porch.

A happy-faced young man with elated air and dust-covered clothes is spurring hastily up the avenue, a native boy trotting beside him. Seeing the American, he calls out: "Glad to hear you and Enid are again yard-arm to yardarm; though you look love-sick enough, Barnes of New York.

Awaking with a start, Burton looks at him and gasps. "Edwin, you here?"

"Easy enough. I found a letter left with Lady Chartris' housekeeper by my wife to be delivered to me this morning, which told me Marina had come to Bocognano. So I rushed into Nice. By good luck I found Alingham's yacht was coming straight to Ajaccio. For my sake he put on steam. I made the 25 miles up here from the Corsican capital on a horse, arriving before they extinguished the lights in the inn. There they told me of my noble wife and how Marina's words had banished our vendetta from Bocognano."

This is spoken as he springs off the horse, tosses the bridle to the boy, and runs up the stairs. "Marina is inside, I imagine," he says, and calls through the doorway.

"Marina left for Bastia over an hour ago," says Barnes.

"Why did she leave for Bastia?"

"A telegram," answers Barnes, "purporting to come from you stating that you would be at that place to-morrow morning. Notwithstanding her fatigue, she went on by carriage to meet you."

"I Thank You for the Bandit, Mr. Barnes."

"A telegram? Impossible! Bastia is at the north end of the island. I arrived at Ajaccio, the south end. Besides, I sent no telegram."

Edwin is interrupted by a short cry from Barnes: "Cipriano Danella!"

With an execration Anstruther asks hoarsely: "Do you think he has aught to do with this?"

"I am pretty certain of it. You do not realize that fellow's passion for—"

"For my wife? By heaven, I'll kill him!" and the young English officer looks round to call the boy who has come with him, but the urchin, being eager for bed, is already out of hearing with the horse. Suddenly he cries: "Barnes, you're not going to leave Enid here unprotected," for the American is almost running down the avenue, Edwin after him.

"I haven't found my wife."

"The lady upstairs, whom I heard?"

"Was not Enid. It was that infernal La Belle Blackwood, and yet I forgive her, for she told me the direction she thought Enid had taken," and as they half trot, half stride down the avenue under the chestnut trees Burton epitomizes his adventures of the day.

"What are you going to do now?"

"Get horses and follow your wife. She is the one to which we have a clew. We must prevent her falling into Daniella's hands. Perhaph—I pray God—in following her we may find also the way to my wife."

"Why?"

"Because Cipriano is the real brains of this infernal outrage."

As they reach the gateway of the grounds they are abruptly intercepted. One of the young Bellacoscia, hidden in a tree, springs out to them, gun in hand, but recognizing Mr. Barnes, the young man says: "I am one of those watching that no Saliceti troubles you. I let this man pass because I saw he was a foreigner."

"That's all right," replies Burton, "but could you show me the telegraph station and where to get horses?"

"Beside Hotel Mouvrages in the main street is the telegraph station," answers the young man, "and a stable to hire horses is at the inn."

"Thank you. Also I want to see your chief, if he hasn't already gone to the mountains."

"Is it important?"

"Very."

"Then Signore Antonio will be here in a few minutes," answers the young fellow and speeds off through a neighboring lane.

The two hurry to the inn, but Bocognano has gone to bed. Its houses are all unlighted, their doors are locked. In this land of the vendetta, even at the auberge, people hesitate to open for unknown travelers knocking on the portal.

There will be no chance to telegraph to Bastia or any way station on that road before to-morrow morning. It is nearly an hour before they succeed in arousing a somnolent hostler at the inn stables, who mutters all the horses are tired and must have a night's rest. But stimulated by a gold piece placed in his sleepy hand the man finally awakens sufficiently to saddle two horses, which he says are the liveliest of any in the stable.

On two sorry beasts they dash up to Marina's home and find waiting on its steps the great bandit and one or two of his men.

"I have a favor to ask you, Signore Bonelli, in addition to the others you have done me; that you will escort to the yacht at Sagone the lady within this house and get her safely out of Corsica."

"Oh, you needn't ask that, Mr. Barnes of New York," cries La Belle Blackwood, stepping airily onto the veranda. "I have already petitioned the great Bellacoscia, and I think he will protect me against any man; won't you, Signore Bonelli?" The softness of her sweet voice is a caress.

"Sapristi, will not I!" says the magnificent man, his hawk's eyes flashing as they look upon the loveliness of the entrancing American adventuress. "Count on Bonelli to his heart's blood." Then he asks moodily: "But why are you compelled to leave your wife, Signore Barnes?"

"This lady is not my wife."

"Santa Maria, not your wife! Gran Dio, whose spouse is she?"

"Nobody's."

"Diavola suprema!" cries the great bandit, a tremendous joy flying into his face. "And you—you leave this loveliness?" he adds, as if he cannot understand.

"Her loveliness is not mine, Signore Bonelli," remarks Burton, coldly. "Besides, it is a matter of life and death that calls me. This gentleman—" Barnes introduces Edwin—"is the husband of Mademoiselle Paoli, who has been lured from here by a lying telegram to Bastia. We journey to protect her against a design upon her safety—upon even her honor. Lieut. Anstruther, unused to the language, would be of little use."

"Design against the honor of the daughter of the Paoli!" snarls Bonelli. "Impossible! I will go with you upon this errand myself."

But the enchanting tones of Sally Blackwood make him pause; she is pleading: "What, and desert me among your wild mountains?"

"No, 'tis best I go not," remarks the bandit chief. "Gendarmes, with me in your company, would be an embarrassment, and they in their bungling way may doubtless aid you. And your wife, where is she, Signore Barnes?"

"Still in the hands of Saliceti or his friends."

"They did not surrender her as they agreed?"

"No. They substituted this lady."

"Corpo di Diavolo, Saliceti has tricked me! I proclaim a vendetta against Bernardo Edusrdo Saliceti."

Y.M.C.A. BASKETBALL FIVE BEAT SECOND TEAM, 43-20

After putting up such a scrappy game against the Y. M. C. A. five at the last game, the second team never had a look-in on last night's basketball game, played in the association gymnasium. The regulars were in good form, and practise has made a big improvement in their passing, so that they ran up 43 points to their opponent's 20 and the second team was never in the lead. The play was fast at all stages of the game, and each team had its strongest line-up on the floor.

The game in the second half was largely a practise game for the first five, and the full period of play was not finished. The teams lined up as follows:

Y. M. C. A.	Y. M. C. A. 2nd.
Rumsey	Bentley
left forward
Gilmore	Templin
right forward
Collier	Martin
centre
Gavett (captain)	Davis left guard
Hoagland, Miner	Jacot
right guard

Baskets from the floor—Gilmore, 7; Collier, 5; Gavett, 3; Martin, 3; Rumsey, 2; Hoagland, 2; Miner, 2; Jacot, 2; Bentley, Templin. Goals from fouls—Templin, 3; Jacot, 3; Collier. Referee—Charles B. Morse. Twenty minute halves.

BOWLING TOURNEY STARTS OFF TONIGHT

The five-man team bowling tourney recently arranged by the city's cracks, will begin on Campbell's alleys tonight. The first series of three games will be rolled by the Bismarcks, captained by Edward Britton, and the Napoleons, captained by Frank Willett. Britton's team comprises Chauncey F. Stout, Thomas M. Muir, Charles W. Runyon and Frank McInerney, while Willett will be backed up by John Conklin, Willie Mullen, George Vanderbilt and Edward Toense.

The arrangement of the teams has met with general satisfaction on the part of all the pin-hitters interested and the tourney has aroused no little interest. The games are sure to be hotly contested and from indications the start-off tonight will be witnessed by a large crowd of rooters. Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays have been designated as the regular tourney nights and the schedule calls for at least three games each time.

The next teams to roll will be the Washingtons, V. W. Nash, Jr., captain, and the Wellingtons, Francis J. Blatz, captain.

Mrs. Richard Norwood, of Arlington avenue, left yesterday for Meherrin, Va., in response to a telegram announcing the serious illness of her father.

Plainfield Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., initiated four candidates last night.

CHURCH ATHLETIC MEET

Sunday School League Will Hold Track Meet at Y. M. C. A. December 13.

TWO CUPS TO BE AWARDED.

Two Sets of Events For the Competition—League to Play Basketball During the Winter.

With the re-organization of the local Sunday-school Athletic League for the winter, athletic activities will be begun with an indoor track meet, to be held in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium Friday evening, December 13. At a meeting of the board of governors of the association held Friday night, plans were discussed for the meet, and Physical Director George L. Listman today announced particulars of the meet.

Two individual cups will be offered, the one to be competed for by the seniors and intermediate, and the other by the juniors and boys of the Sunday-school teams. Two sets of events will be run off, in the competition for the two cups, which are offered by the league. The cups will be of silver and appropriately engraved. The senor and intermediate events will be the running broad jump, standing broad jump, running high jump, quarter-mile potato race, sack race and tug-of-war. In this last event, open to men over twenty-five years of age, five men will compete on each team. The juniors and boys will have a separate list of events, including a 15-yard dash, potato race, two standing broad jumps, and a three-legged race.

The league will consist this year of seven Sunday schools, those of the First Baptist church, First Presbyterian church, First M. E. church, Congregational church, Warren chapel, Hope chapel and Trinity Reformed church. At the organization meeting of the league, F. E. Smith was appointed treasurer in place of Charles M. Dolliver, last year's treasurer; F. H. Gates takes the place of Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, and Rev. Charles L. Goodrich takes the place of J. McClymont. The board for this year is as follows: President, Chas. W. McCutchen; vice-president, J. W. Gavett; secretary, George L. Listman; Norman H. Probasco, F. H. Gates, City Judge William N. Runyon, George E. Hall, James R. Joy and Rec. Charles L. Goodrich.

Plans are under way for the formation of a basketball league in which the various churches represented in the league will have teams. There is considerable promising material in the various Sunday-schools represented, but the league will not be organized for play until after the holidays.

RAILROAD TAX CASE IS SUSTAINED BY COURT

Justice Swayze in the Court of Errors and Appeals at Trenton yesterday filed an opinion which confirms the action of the board of assessment and revision of taxes of the city of Newark, in fixing the valuations of the second class property of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, for taxes of 1906.

The decision sustains that of the supreme court in the test case made by the railroad company against the State Board of Equalization of Taxes. The latter board sustained the contention of the Newark taxing authorities, which in turn was sustained by the Essex County Board of Taxation, that the property in question had not been assessed at less than true value.

The ruling of the question is that the State board has no right to reduce the assessment below their true value for the purpose of equalizing the taxes.

In 1906, under the then recently enacted Perkins act of that year, the Newark tax board, disregarding entirely the valuations placed upon the second class property of the railroad companies in the that city, made assessments accordingly as the judgment of the commissioners indicated them to represent the true value of the properties. This was done in connection with the equalizing movement undertaken that year by the board.

STATE POSTMASTERS WILL ORGANIZE ASSOCIATION.

Postmaster Elias H. Bird, of the local postoffice, is a member of the committee on arrangements for the convention to be held at Trenton tomorrow, when the New Jersey Presidential Postmasters' Association will be organized. Temporary organization was effected at a postmasters' convention held in Washington last month, and about ninety per cent. of the postmasters of the State will be at Trenton tomorrow to effect the permanent organization.

The officials will assemble at the Trenton House at 11 o'clock tomorrow, at which time Mayor Gnichtel will deliver the address of welcome. Guests of honor at the banquet to be held at noon will include United States Senator Briggs, and several of the assistant postmasters general.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Ellen M. Apgar.

Following an illness of three weeks with heart trouble, Mrs. Ellen M. Apgar, widow of Herman Apgar, died at her home on Washington avenue, Dunellen, last night. She had resided in the borough for a long time and beside a large circle of friends in that place, she had many acquaintances in this city. She leaves two daughters, Miss Imogene Smith, principal of the New Market school, and Miss Fanny Smith, a teacher in the Dunellen school. The funeral will be held at her late residence Thursday night at 8 o'clock and burial will be made Friday at Sparta.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

A special missionary service will be held at Hope chapel Thursday night, taking the place of the regular monthly missionary meeting. It will be under the auspices of the Mary Wright Memorial Society and the Women's Missionary Society. Miss Josephine Petrie, who recently returned from a trip through the southwest in the interest of missions, will relate some of her experiences and at the close of the meeting a social session will be held. Invitations have been extended to all the chapel organizations and their friends.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—Sale of home-made candies and Christmas gifts this afternoon and evening, following the unique entertainment, "Advertisements Come to Life," to be given in the lecture room of Trinity Reformed church under the auspices of the Young Women's Mission Band. A pleasant and profitable evening is assured all who attend.

CHRISTIANS ARE NOW NEARING UNITY 'TIS SAID.

The movement toward a untiy of of thought and purpose, if not of organization, on the part of Christian denominations, is growing the stronger with each year. The historic creeds are not held to so tenaciously as formerly, although maintained ass formal features of a church's belief. Until there is evolved a code of doctrinal views consonant with the progress of the age the historic creeds will be necessary to provide a bond to hold together a church organization. However, it is coming to be felt that an actual fraternal and spiritual fellowship is the stronger bond.

The different denominations are united in religious, moral and charitable work more than they used to be. In New England preparations are being made in the large cities for the Chapman series of evangelistic meetings. In some cities the Catholic and Episcopal churches are to hold missions under workers of their own churches at the same time that the Protestant bodies generally are having their own gatherings under the direction of Dr. Chapman. Even liberal bodies, as Universalists, are to hold at the same time special meetings, so that the movement is quite unanimous; a condition of things that indicates marked progress in the church field.

At the present the desire on the part of te regular Baptist and Free Baptist denominations to become one is strengthening. Sentiment in favor of this has been frequently expressed in publications and in addresses on public occasions. But in the regular denomination there is no body authorized to act in the matter. Each church is a law unto itself. There is no legislative body above the local church, wich usually stands firmly on its independency. There is no way to gather accurately the opinion of the numerous churches on the subject of a union. There is no system for taking a vote of these churches, nor any delegated body to act with authority in effecting the union.

FIRE VICTIMS ELIZABETH MEN.

Stephen and Louis Harlan Were the Farm Hands Burned in Woodbridge Fire.

Elizabeth, Nov. 19.—Stephen and Louis Marlan, who were burned to death in a fire which destroyed Adam Huber's barn at Woodbridge, Friday, were natives of this city. Their father, who died several years ago, was an engineer on the Jersey Central. After losing their parents, the two boys led a roving life and wandered all over the Middle Atlantic States.

A few years ago they built a dugout, or cave, on Great Island, between Elizabeth and Newark, and in which habitation they lived. They earned a precarious existence by doing odd jobs wherever they could get work.

Last year their dugout on Great Island was wiped out by the Jersey Central which made improvement in that place. Since that time they had led a wandering life. During the past summer they worked at chopping wood, husking corn or any kind of outdoor labor they could get. Stephen was thirty-eight and Louis was thirty-two.

Y. M. C. A. BOYS BANQUET

Association Officers Speak at Fifth Anniversary Celebration of Juniors.

150 ABOUT THE FESTIVE BOARD.

City Editor Anderson of Elizabeth Times, First President of the Flourishing Department.

Celebrating the fifth anniversary of the founding of the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. with a big banquet in the association auditorium, about 150 boys gathered last night at the Y. M. C. A., ate, as only boys can eat, of a big "spread" provided by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the association, and heard a series of practical speeches on the work of the department and the plans for the future. The good things, served by a corps of about twenty-five young women waitresses from the various local churches, disappeared like snow in a hot sun, and it was only after the last piece of cake and the last slice of ice cream had disappeared that there came a lull.

Planned by the officers of the association assisted by the Women's Auxiliary, the affair was in charge personally of L. A. Soule, the boys' secretary. Many of those prominent in the work of the local association were present last night, including President J. W. Gavett, who sat at the speakers' table, A. B. Beers, former General Secretary J. H. Manning, former boys' Secretary Kenneth Robbie and Physical Director George L. Listman. G. Stanley Robins, president of the boys' department, acted as toastmaster, and the principal speaker of the occasion was George L. McNutt, of New York city. At the speakers' table were President J. W. Gavett, Boys' Secretary L. A. Soule, former Presidents Francis K. Anderson, Walter Caldwell, Harold Robins and Russell Morris, and Stanley Carner, the vice president, and Alfred Manley, the recording secretary. Martin B. Stutsman, president of the department 1903-04, was unable to be present.

After the good things had been disposed of by the 150 diners, President G. Stanley Robins, as president of the department, welcomed the boys to the anniversary in the name of the association and then introduced Francis K. Anderson, first president of the department. He spoke of the increased membership and work of the department since the days when he was president. In conclusion, he said, "Whatever you have to do, no matter how small it seems, take hold of it earnestly. Develop lots of energy, and whatever you undertake, do it with all your might."

President Gavett was the next speaker. "The world is a world of doors, gates and opportunities," he said, "and the Y. M. C. A., as a means of opening them all to you, makes it easier to start in a new life right. You can put off the Old Man without putting on the Old Woman. Let every boy do something, don't let it be said that a few boys here do all the work and the rest sit back and take it easy. Don't undervalue yourselves, you never know what you can do until you try. Many of the 'old boys' who have been with the association for forty years are still working for it. Don't quit the Y. M. C. A.; stay in it and work hard."

At the conclusion of President Gavett's speech, George L. McNutt, the principal speaker of the evening, was introduced. Mr. McNutt is an enthusiastic worker in the association and his topic last night was "What the World Owes to the Country Boys." He gave many statistics to show that the great men of the country today are the country boys. "The country fellow has been winning out over the city fellow," he said, "because he has lots of room. He has lots of chance to be alone, and acts as his own advisor in his lonely difficulties. He has a big outdoor gymnasium and takes lots of healthy exercise. He thinks for himself and has to rely on his own personal initiative to succeed. The city boy now has an opportunity to beat out the country boy, and the Y. M. C. A. is his chance. Greater opportunities are now being offered in the city, which are now for a fellow, and not against him."

The speaker dwelt especially upon the power of bad influence upon a growing boy, illustrating his point by the blight which touches the apple when growing on the tree, and while not noticeable, is the cause of that apple being a worthless windfall when it reaches maturity. He said that every worker was a capitalist. His capital is clearness of mind, strength of muscle, and mental ability. Gymnasium work is a means of storing up this physical strength, and the Y. M. C. A. gives a man capital in body, soul and spirit which no one can take away from him. "Get sand

PLEADS FOR HUSBAND WHO HAD MISTREATED HER

After she had given testimony that caused Judge Runyon to sentence her husband to fifty days in jail and a fine of $50 on a charge of wife-beating, Mrs. Edward Apgar, of Johnson avenue, made a hysterical plea in the city court, this morning, for the prisoner's release.

"I never thought you would be so severe, Your Honor," she exclaimed, "and I don't want him locked up. If you will let him go with instructions to remain away from me and my house I will be satisfied."

Mrs. Apgar's change of heart surprised the judge but he remarked that it was what usually happened in a wife-beating case.

"The women come here and make me believe they have been terribly mistreated," he said, "and that the State prison is where they want their husbands to go. When I find that the evidence warrants a term in jail and give it, then comes the pleading for leniency and the wails of what will become of the family if the head is sent away."

Apgar was being taken to a cell when the court called him back and rescinded the sentence. He was told, however, to remain away from his wife and the police were given instructions to see that he obeyed. The judge also freely expressed his opinion of men who abused their wives and told the prisoner that his appearance in court again would result in his getting the extreme penalty.

COUNTERFEIT CHECK YARN DENIED BY BESLER

W. G. Besler, of the borough, vice-president and general manager of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, denied yesterday a story sent out from Phillipsburg to the effect that checks of the company issued to employes in payment of wages had been counterfeited.

Mr. Besler was incensed over the circulation of the story, which he characterized as a falsehood out of the whole cloth and an occurence that would be punished if the company could find the persons responsible for it.

The story had it that Phillipsburg railroad men had been informed that the company's checks had been counterfeited, probably to the extent of $10,000, and that a corps of railroad detectives had been put to work in an effort to cause the arrest of the counterfeiters. Continuing, the story stated that the company was sending out notices to stop payment on the alleged bogus checks until the matter could be investigated.

"You cannot make it too strong in stating that there is absolutely no truth in the story," said Mr. Besler to a reporter. "None of the checks have been counterfeited and I can only think that the story was circulated by some malicious person who wished to cause us trouble. It is stated that many of the bad checks have been in circulation for ten days, while as a matter of fact they were dated November 11 and were not issued until after that date.

"Another part of the story is to the effect that we had a corps of detectives at work on the case," continued Mr. Besler. "Well, we haven't, but we will have a corps of detectives at work running down that story, and when we get hold of the person responsible for it we will endeavor to have him placed behind the bars."

Mrs. Anna Cadmus Injured.

Mrs. Anna Cadmus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Smalley, Sr., of Craig place, is detained at home with injuries, the result of a fall at Front and Somerset streets a few days ago. She was attempting to cross the street where the trolley company is making repairs and in stepping on a railroad tie one end turn up, throwing her head-first. She struck on her shoulder with such force as to render her almost helpless. While her injuries are not considered serious, she will be laid up for some time.

Miss Fairfield to Speak.

Miss Ada L. Fairfield, president of the National Fruit and Flower Mission, will speak tomorrow night at the Young Women's Christian Association. Some Plainfield people have already shown interest in this work, by sending fruit or flowers to the sick and needy of New York during the summer months.

Lost When Sun Sets.

Bound Brook is now cut off from the rest of the world by telegraph at night. The Western Union Telegraph office is closed and no telegrams are sent or received before 7 a. m. The new move went into effect Monday night. George Somers, chief operator, says the move has been made for economy.

DISCUSS CIVIL SERVICE

Quasi-indorsement Given Mr. Ackerman's Bill by State Reform League.

TO CONFER WITH SENATOR.

Anxious to Have Measure Become a Law After Some Slight Changes Are Made—Colby President.

A quasi-indorsement was given the Ackerman civil service reform bill, which failed of enactment in the last session of the Legislature, by the New Jersey State Civil Service Reform Association at its annual meeting in the Colby headquarters in Newark on Monday night. Elliott H. Goodwin, secretary of the National Civil Service Reform League, was present and gave it as his opinion that the Ackerman measure, while it left it optional with counties and municipalities to avail themselves of its provisions, could, nevertheless, with a few light changes, be made an excellent law.

Edward K. Sumerwell, of East Orange, chairman of the association's legislative committee, after reporting briefly on the stand taken by the National Civil Service Reform League at its Buffalo meeting, spoke hopefully of the chances of securing the enactment of an efficient civil service law this winter, inasmuch as the Republican platform contained a pledge to that effect, while Governor-elect Fort had declared in favor of the "best and strongest law that could be put on the books."

S. Carman Harriot, of Harrington Park, spoke in favor of the original Colby civil service bill, which comprehended State, county and municipal officers, saying he would rather see no bill enacted than accept one with the refrendum clause in respect to other than State officials. Dr. Samuel A. Farrand said the association should declare for the original bill, but if that was not obtainable, and a fairly good bill should be offered instead, it should accept it.

"The difficulty that will confront us," Mr. Farrand went on to explain, "is, that while the Governor and Legislature are both Republican, and we have the advantage of a square indorsement on the part of the Governor and in the Republican platform, both Newark and Jersey City have Democratic mayors, and many will be found unwilling to accord to their respective appointees lasting tenue of office."

Rev. Adolph Roeder, of Orange, suggested that the better way to insure the permanence of civil service reform would be to incorporate such a law as the original Colby measure in the Constitution, and he requested the association's indorsement of the State Civic Federation's efforts to bring to pass the adoption of a new State Constitution.

To this Gardner Colby replied that while a good part of the membership of the New Jersey Civil Service Reform League might favor the aims of the State Civic Federation, it would be unwise to encumber the work of the association with other matters.

"The passage of a civil service bill," Mr. Colby explained, "will be difficult enough in itself, without undertaking to bring to pass things that we know would provoke antagonism on the part of members from South Jersey."

Mr. Roeder accordingly withdrew his request, and on Mr. Harriot's motion a resolution was adopted appointing Mr. Somerwell a committee of one, with power to increase, to confer with Senator Ackerman, Mr. Goodwin and others, to agree upon and advocate the passage of a civil service bill, "and that it is the sense of this association that such bill should comprehend State, county and municipal employes."

In the absence of Senator Colby, president of the association, J. Augustus Johnson, of South Orange, presided.

The association re-elected all its officers, who are: President, Everett Colby; vice-presidents, Grover Cleveland, Mayor Mark M. Fagan, of Jersey City; Edward K. Sumerwell, E. Everett Phillips, S. Carman Harriott, John Reed, Mayor Charles Ellis, of Camden; Edward H. Pierce, Henry Hahn and Herbert Brown; secretary and treasurer, Thomas H. Brown, of Jersey City.

Appropriate Recognition.

George Gayle, for nearly nineteen years treasurer of Trinity Reformed church, was appropriately remembered yesterday by his colleagues in the Consistory, a handsome Morris chair being placed in his room at his home on Vine street. It was accompanied by a letter of appreciation for his past services and regret at his being compelled by illness to give up the position. The remembrance was a complete surprise to Mr. Gayle, who highly prized it.

EXPECTED A VISITOR FOUND A BABY ON PORCH

The family of Edward Marcellus, colored, of East Third street, were seated in the dining room of their home at 7 o'clock last night when a loud knock sounded on the front door. A daughter hurried to open it but instead of a visitor, found nothing but a package at the head of the porch steps. As she picked it up she thought she detected a faint cry and when the covering was removed by Mrs. Marcellus a colored boy baby was revealed. The child winked and blinked at the light and gave evidence that it was sound and healthy by kicking vigorously at the group. It appeared to be about two weeks old.

The police were notified and at Chief Kiely's request the family took care of the child for the night. This morning it was turned over to Overseer of the Poor Ayers and a temporary home was secured.

The Marcellus family could furnish no clue as to the mother's identity and no one has been found who saw anyone about the house at the time the baby was placed on the porch. Detective-Sergeant John Flynn has been detailed to unravel the mystery.

MAYOR SMALLEY TO OFFER SOME "CRITICISMS"

The committee appointed at the last meeting of the Board of Trade to secure speakers and arrange programs for future sessions, has announced that it has prepared a number of features for the next regular meeting on Thursday night, December 5.

Mayor Newton B. Smalley has consented to start off the list of practical talks and will address the gathering on the subject: "Roads Leading to Plainfield." It is stated that the mayor, being plain spoken and free from artifices of subterfuge, will criticize the governments of both the city and borough. The idea of the committee has been to secure men who will air their views on subjects of practical interest, municipal and otherwise. Those who attend the meetings, and they are to be open to everybody, will hear something to their advantage, as the speakers in view are experienced in various walks of life. At the conclusion of the next meeting refreshments will be served.

SCHOOL SUPT. H. C. KREBS SPEAKS AT HIGH SCHOOL

Superintendent Henry C. Krebs, of the borough schools, gave a talk on "Success" at the North Plainfield high school this morning. Quoting Daniel Webster's definition, the speaker said that success is the result of effort, and showed that nothing worth while is accomplished without expending a proportionate amount of effort and hard work. He cited instances of men who have won success by perseverance and effort in history and politics.

Mr. Krebs especially emphasized the point that wealth was not necessary for success. He urged all the pupils to go to college, saying that in a college education lay the road to success today. He spoke of many personal friends who have had to work their way through college and who have won success as a result of their college training.

The lecture was given in the assembly room, where the high school pupils were assembled the second period of the day's work. It is planned to have a series of talks on various subjects of interest and inspiration to the pupils, and speakers from out of town will probably come to address the school during the winter.

Indians Contribute Liberally.

An interesting fact was reported at the twenty-fourth annual meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of the Classis of Newark, held in Christ Reformed church, Newark, yesterday, when Miss Edna Merritt, of the executive committee, said that the statistics showed each member of the Reformed Church in America gave about ninety-five cents a year, while the Christianized Sioux Indians gave $1.50.

Principal Ira W. Travell, of the city high school, had the school fire signal given at about 9 o'clock this morning. The pupils leftt the building quietly and without confusion in about two minutes.

HISTORY OF FAIRY TALES

Rev. Dr. Griffis Tells Big Audience Most of the Stories are 4,000 Years Old.

ARE JUST 121 ORIGINAL PLOTS.

Some Are Founded On Fact—Traditions in the Bible—Lecturer a Noted Author.

Rev. Dr. William Elliot Griffins, author of many books on Japan and founder of the public school system in that country, spoke at the lecture room of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church yesterday afternoon on "Our Fairy Tales and How They Came To Us." The lecture, which was given under the auspices of the Charity Circle of the King's Daughters, was well attended, children forming a large part of the audience. Dr. Griffis, upon his return from the East, succeeded Rev. Dr. John Sheridan Zelie as pastor of the church in Schenectady, where he was before coming to this city. He is a personal friend of Rev. Dr. George H. Whitney, by whom he was introduced to the Plainfield audience yesterday afternoon. He was the first white man to live in the interior of Japan, and has gathered many facts about the folk lore of the Eastern people as shown in their fairy stories.

"Practically all of the fairy tales we read today, are between three and four thousand years old. The stories get local coloring according to the country in which they are told, but the 121 original plots of fairy stories, based on history and some later ones on the Bible, are used all over the world. There is great popularity to some of these fairy stories; I heard only recently that the United States postoffice in New York city requires a special force of twenty-five extra men to take charge of the letters children send to Santa Claus every year.

"But fairy tales are wholesome facts. The Eastern people originated most of the plots, some are found in the Bible and some the Assyrians gave us in the "Arabian Nights." To enumerate specific examples of fairy tales and their origin, let me say that the story of Cinderella is based on history, Jack and the Beanstalk is a tale which goes back to the tower of Babel for its original plot, and "Humpty Dumpty" was a real Englishman, who had his castle on a hill. William Tell was a real man, canonized by the Swiss people, and Santa Claus is none other than St. Nicholas, and has a place in the Hollanders' church calendar, where St. Nicholas Day is December 6, entirely distinct from Christmas.

"Many of the tales are based on an allegorical sub-structure. The "four and twenty blackbirds" we read of are the hours of the day and "Br'er Rabbitt," like "Br'er Fox," typifies craftiness. The "tar-baby" stories are based upon religion, for Buddha attempted to convert a giant with sticky hair, who lived in a swamp, according to tradition, about 1,500 B. C. St. George's dragon typifies malaria, a disease much feared by the German people, and the story is based on facts. To the German, our "man in the moon" is an old fellow gathering sticks, and there is a story that he was put there for thus working on the Sabbath day. The Japanese tell their children that it is Br'er Rabbitt pounding drugs, for it is reported that Br'er Rabbitt onced saved the life of Japanese royalty by his cunning in the arts of an apothecary.

"The church was instrumental in starting several of our fairy stories, through the Passion plays and the Morality plays. In our Punch and Judy, 'Punch' was originally Pontius Pilate, and 'Judy,' Judas the traitor. Pilate's wife warned him against action for Christ's death, and these historical facts, though lost in the comedy which has been introduced since, form the plot of the Punch and Judy shows of today. The Arabian Nights Tales are found in a modified form in the Bible, and Aesop's Fables were originated by the old time preachers to make church truths plain to their illiterate congregations.

"Religion as practised in the olden times was a single religion, though there were points of divergence due to traditional beliefs. The primitive people of the East were free in thought, reverend in temper and scientific in mind. Everything about their religion was real to them then. Nine-tenths of the Bible difficulties which cause our schisms today may be traced back to tradition and are really not worth arguing about. Like the fairy tales, the stories of the Bible are everlasting truth, but without fact."

SCOTCH PLAINS ITALIANS IN WESTFIELD COURT

The selling of beer on Hunter avenue in the Italian quarter of Scoth Plains on Sunday caused Monday to be a busy day in Judge W. B. Toucey's court at Westfield.

The beer was sold by Steapan Tyrano, and caused a free fight among the countrymen. There was shooting, and bottles were used for clubs, and the fighting naturally brought a few persons into court.

Tyrano was charged by Detective John A. Galatian with Sunday selling. He pleaded guilty and wanted to pay the court a fine. Judge Toucey held Tyrano in $200 bonds for the Grand Jury. Bail was furnished by Stephen Parrett, of Fanwood.

Frank Banavigolia was arrested for atrocious assault upon Annelo Bitaghano. Banavigolia was charged with shooting twice at Bitagliano with a shot gun. He also was held for the Grand Jury in $200 bonds. Tony Banavigolia, his brother, furnished bail.

Joseph Morrall was also charged with assault by Annello Bitagliano, who claimed that Morrall shot at him with a revolver. Morrall denied the charge, but admitted that he hit Bitagliano over the head with a beer bottle. Morrall came to Westfield as a witness in the scrape, and was arrested in the court room by Detective Galatian. He also was held under $200 bail for the Grand Jury. One of the crowd was arrested with two others at Fanwood Monday morning and fined $5 and costs for disorderly conduct.

MISS EDITH LACEY BRIDE OF CHARLES M. SUHR

With only relatives and a few intimate friends in attendance, Miss Edith Lacey, daughter of Mrs. Ellen Lacey, of Franklin avenue, the borough, and Charles Marshall Suhr, of East Fourth street, were married in St. Stephen's church yesterday afternoon. The ceremony was performed at 4 o'clock by the rector, Rev. Arthur Searing Peck.

Miss Lacey was attended by Miss Mary Nixon, of Dover, as maid of honor, and Mr. Suhr had as his best man, Anton Gloeckner, of Elizabeth. The bride was given away by her brother, Alfred Lacey.

Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Suhr were tendered a reception at the home of the bride's mother. They will make their home in the residence at 614 East Sixth street, recently purchased by the groom.

Mr. Suhr is organist at St. Stephen's church and in addition is leader of the orchestra at the local theatre and a musician of note. He enjoys a wide local acquaintance. His bride was formerly a resident of Dover but has lived in Plainfield for the past ten years.

MRS. MALLINSON TELLS OF THE SPANIARD IN AMERICA.

"The Spandiard in America" was the subject of an interesting paper presented by Mrs. Alexander Mallinson yesterday afternoon at the monthly meeting of the Home Missionary Society of the First Baptist church. The Spaniard from his advent on the American continent with Columbus until the evacuation of Cuba was described by Mrs. Mallinson, who said "the Spaniard in his treatment of the natives of this country demonstrated the survival of the unfittes:."

Mrs. White, of Morristown, read some pertinent facts on "Our Missionaries in Mexico and Porto Rico." The devotional part of the service at the opening of the meeting was led by Mrs. Reuben Knox with the theme for thought "Following in His Footsteps in Ministering Sympathy.".

A statement was made that the clothing supplies sent last month to a missionary and family in South Dakota were valued at $160.

Progress on Sebring Building.

The work on Charles P. Sebring's new building on West Front street, adjoining the Babcock building, is now progressing rapidly. Yesterday there arrived from the Levering & Garrigues Iron Works three iron girders, forty feet long, weighing six tons, which will be used to support the roof on the third floor. By the use of these heavy girders Mr. Sebring will be able to do away with supporting columns on the third floor, making it an ideal place for a lodge room. This will give a clear span of forty feet.

Plainfielder Forms Partnership.

Charles A. Sturtevant, of this city, has formed a partnership with H. I. McIntyre, of Chicago, under the firm name of Sturtevant & McIntyre, selling agents for the Brown Folding Machine Company, Gullberg & Smith Gathering Machine and the Cross Automatic Feeder for folders. The firm has an office in New York and one in Chicago.

OPPOSED TO ROOSEVELT

Strong Sentiment Against Federal Administration's Head in Union County.

COUNTY CHAIRMAN FINDS IT.

In Summit, Cranford, Westfield, Roselle and Plainfield There Is a Pronounced Feeling.

While there is an anti-Roosevelt sentiment among the wealthier commuter class in Plainfield, no one here seems to know who is behind the movement to organize a Charles E. Hughes "next President" club in Union county similar to the one formed in Jersey City as told in this morning's New York Tribune. In all the commuter communities of Union, it is said that the opposition to Mr. Roosevelt is an pronounced as it is in Plainfield, but no steps have been taken to crystallize it. On the other hand, the skilled machinist, who is a strong factor here, is an ardent Rooseveltian and well informed ones say that his admiration for the President is unbounded.

When County Chairman Frank H. Smith was asked this morning whether he knew anything about the proposed Hughes boom in Union county, he declared that he knew of no such movement but that it would not surprise him to see one.

"Take Westfield, Cranford, Summit, and for that matter Roselle, in all of them you find the same feeling that you do right here in Plainfield," said Mr. Smith. "I found that out during our campaign and I tell you I would not have been surprised at a bigger cut in the Republican majority from what I learned on the eve of election. There is a strong, I could say bitter, feeling against the President. I do not say that it is warranted, but I know by investigation that it exists in our county. There are so many residents who are either bankers, bankers' clerks, insurance men, brokers and brokers' celks, who seem to feel that Roosevelt is largely responsible for the present unsettled condition of the money market. These men form a large, representative and influential class in Plainfield, Westfield, Summit, Cranford and other parts of our county. These men don't want Roosevelt any longer than his present term."

The county chairman said that he had heard of no concerted movement for Hughes or any other prospective candidate so far as the people of Union county are concerned.

"WUXTRY," FAKE STORY!

A dream in a local paper last night to the effect that Patrolman Andrew Saffron had chased "Dutch" Ives and two companions and that they escaped by getting on the borough side of Green brook and holding him at bay with revolvers, was denied today by the officer. Saffron declared that the men he chased were ordinary hoboes and the gun play was added by the reporter to lend color to an otherwise commonplace happening. "Wuxtry, Wuxtry, All About Dutch Ides!"

Telephone Men Sounded Fire Alarm.

Three taps sounded on the borough fire alarm at about 10:30 today made Lieutenant Elden Smalley, who was out exercising the horses with the truck, to speed up "Nip" and "Tuck" and whirl up Somerset street from the bridge at a great rate. The anticipation of fire proved unfounded, for the trouble came from telephone linemen, who crossed the fire alarm wire on Watchung avenue, causing the taps.

Want to be Cops.

Seven young men who aspire to become police officers, underwent the required, mental and physical examinations yesterday. The former was conducted by George B. Wean and the latter by Physical Director Listman of the Y. M. C. A. After averages have been figured four of the seven will be appointed to the force.

Receiver for Estate.

On application made by counsel for the executors, Vice-Chancellor Emery yesterday appointed J. Fred MacDonald receiver for the estate of Elizabeth Schorb. The estate comprises the property at 117 East Front street, occupied by Henry Haurand, and for which the heirs conducted ejectment proceedings against him.

Dr. Groszmann's Lecture Postponed.

The lecture to have been given on teaching methods at the city high school this afternoon by Prof. Maximilian P. E. LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

In the second act of Lillian Mortimer's latest successful comedy drama, "No Mother to Guide Her," which will present the winsome little soubrette, Miss Alma Hearn, as a star under the management of Long & Packard, a startling mechanical effect is a real tornado, which is said to be a marvellous reproduction of the western cyclone, which eliminates all vestige of nature and human contrivance in the twinkling of an eye. The play will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow night.

The authors of "Are You a Mason?" wrote Francis Wilson's great comedy success of last season, "The Mountain Climber." Like most of the funniest comedies ever produced in this country it originated in Germany. It was from that country that the late Augustin Daly derived his biggest comedy successes and William Gillette had the same experience. "Are You a Mason?" is booked to appear at the New Plainfield theatre next Friday night.

At the New Plainfield theatre Saturday afternoon and night will be presented "The Great Wall Street Mystery or the King of Wire Tappers," and for which Messrs. Vance and Sullivan have thought it necessary to provide settings of a high pictorial order, to properly present the locale of its story. They have embellished this production with the appointments both scenic and satorial that will please the eye and give proper atmosphere. They have provided mechanical features and sensations that will thrill and excite their patrons, and last but not least, we are told that they have surrounded their play with a cast of unusual excellence, each and every name contained therein is well and favorably known to the votaries of the theatre.

"The Night Before Christmas," which comes to the New Plainfield theatre next Monday night, promises to be an attraction of more than ordinary worth. It is not a new play, the merit of which is a matter of doubt, for it has been an established dramatic success for the past five years, and the popularity of the piece seems to have increased, instead of decreased, with each successive season during that period. The plot contains unusual heart interest, with which is happily blended a refreshing comedy vein, and the performance is interspersed with specialties of a high order. The cast this season is said to be fully competent and the stage settings new and elaborate.

The mid-week prayer-meeting at the First Baptist church tonight will be in charge of the pastor, Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, and will be of special interest.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church will hold an echo-meeting Friday night. Miss Florence G. Hawkins will lead and there will be reports from the recent State Endeavor convention.

The new officers of the Men's Club of the First Baptist church are planning an active season. The next meeting will be held the second Monday in December and an attractive program will be presented by the entertainment committee of which Prof. H. C. Krebs, of the borough, is chairman.

enough in your system to stick with the Y. M. C. A.," he concluded. "Get into the religious life of the association as well as the physical development side. Religion stands for life, for joy, for manhood. The Y. M. C. A. offers the best possibilities for the young fellow and my advice is to you,—catch on."

Kenneth Robbie, the former secretary of the boys' department, spoke a few words after Mr. McNutt. He congratulated the boys on the growth of the department since it was under his supervision. "The work of this department can't be done by Mr. Soule and the cabinet," he said. "All you boys have got to put your shoulder to the wheel, co-operate with the officers and help them in their efforts to reach all the boys of Plainfield and make them men." Boys' Secretary L. A. Soule was the last speaker, and he dwelt especially upon the plans underway to increase the scope of the work of the department, urging the boys to stand by the officials and make the year a successful one.

At the conclusion of the affair President Robins led three rousing cheers for the Women's Auxiliary, who arranged for the Women's Auxiliary, who arranged for the banquet. Mrs. Walter Freeman was chairman of the general committee on arrangements for the banquet.

Washington Clothing Store Ablaze.

Washington, N. J., Nov. 20.—The Washington Fire Department had a serious basement fire to combat Monday afternoon. The flames were in the basement of J. R. Bryant's clothing and furnishing store. When discovered by the clerks in the store the flames had gained headway, and stifling smoke suddenly pouring from a trapdoor in the floor was the first warning. The Washington Athletic Association occupies the second and third floors of the building. Firemen kept the flames confined to the basement. How the fire originated is a mystery. There is a furnace in the basement, but the fire started in a corner far removed from it. Bryan's stock was valued at $25,000, with $20,000 insurance. The building is owned by former Prosecutor W. A. Stryker.

Italian Lad Thrown from Bicycle.

Alexander Ecoldo, aged ten years, received a deep scalp wound while riding his wheel down Dug Way Hill, late yesterday afternoon. He was picked up unconscious by a nearby resident and taken to the office of Dr. Frederick Hughes on Somerset street. The boy was then taken to the hospital, where several stitches were necessary to close the wound.

This club has purchased a piece of ground on St. Mary's avenue, which is about half paid for and when the whole amount is subscribed and the deed secured, the members will plan to erect a clubhouse there.

Young Women's Mission Band of Trinity Church Holds Entertainment.

AUDIENCE GREATLY PLEASED.

One Hundred Dollars Is Realized for Reformed Church's Missionary Work.

"Advertisements Come to Life," an unique entertainment given in the lecture room of Trinity Reformed church, last night, under the auspices of the Young Women's Mission Band and with the personal direction of Miss Lillian A. Force as chairman of the committee, was a great success. The attendance was very large, every seat being taken in the main room as well as the class rooms on the side. The proceeds from the affair will be used for mission purposes and it is believed that nearly $100 will be the net profit. The audience was an enthusiastic one and was generous in its applause.

In part first advertisements of various well-known articles were represented. These were exceedingly clever. Mrs. Theodore Mantz appeared as "Miss Auto, of Mobile," and the other characters were as follows: "Jap Rose Soap," Miss Cora Miller; "Violet Cologne," Miss Edna Cole; "Kodak Girl," Miss Etta Raybert; "Piano Girl," (Steinway) Miss Lillian A. Force; "Baker's Cocoa," Miss Edna Dilts; "Horlick's Malted Milk," Miss Alice Vroom; "Cream of Wheat," Clarence Rittenhouse; quartet, "Sunny Jim," George Cole; "Omega Oil," Edward Honeyman; "Hans," and "Lena," Van Camps, Irving Martin and Miss Cora Gano; "Dueber Hampden Watch," Russell Van Buskirk; "Buster Brown," Adele Freeman.

Everyone had some little part and the dialogue was especially good. Miss Raybert sang "The Kodak Girl," in a way that won for her an encore, and the "Cream of Wheat," song by Clarence Rittenhouse, won hearty applause.

There was much merriment over the appearance of the quartet of funny people. They sang a topical song to the tune of "Reuben, Reuben I've Been Thinking," which convulsed all with laughter. In part first those in the program were just simply supposed to be advertisements and after a song by all the ads. they decided that they were tired of traveling all over the country in various magazines and wanted to do something. The magazines were then burned and the advertisements came to life.

Mrs. Frank E. Woodruff took the part of "Mrs. Motherly," and at her suggestion the advertisements returned and gave her their assistance, at the same time furnishing much amusement for the audience.

"Nabisco," was represented by Dorothy Martin and Marguerite Barkalew; "Ceylon Tea" by Miss Evelyn Manley and Irving Manley, who sang a catchy Japanese song; "Uneeda Biscuit," by William Pugh; "Franco-American," by Marion Blair, who sang a pretty little song; "Ralston Food," by Fred S. Cutter, who appeared carrying on his shoulder, Robert Blair, the three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Blair. Mr. Cutter sang two selections in excellent style, but the hit was made by Robert Blair whose singing of "School Days," in his own childish way, brought the house down with laughter and applause. Another amusing feature was the appearance of Russell Hoagland, representing "Gold Medal Best." He was wheeled on the platform in a barrel by Clarence Rittenhouse, after which he sang a song. Miss Anna Bodine represented "Pearline," and she gave a song, the other ads joining in the chorus. Roy Woodhull appeared as "Williams' Shaving Soap," and Irving Martin as "Hans," sang the topical song, concluding with a chorus by all the ads.

Other features of part second were solos by Mrs. Theodore Mantz and Miss Raybert, which were heartily encored. Especially noteworthy was the costuming of those in the affair. Great credit is due Miss Force for her untiring efforts in directing the entertainment. Mrs. Fred S. Cutter was associated with her but owing to a severe illness she was obliged to give up the work.

During the afternoon and after the entertainment in the evening there was a sale of fancy work and Christmas articles, a handsome assortment being arranged in the parlors; also home-made candies, and ice cream, while cocoa was served by Miss Edna Dilts, "Baker's Cocoa" girl, assisted by the funny people in the entertainment. Mrs. Frank Pierson and Mrs. William Olmsted were in charge of the fancy goods, and Miss May Van Fleet, Mrs. George Mantz and Miss Cora Laire presided at the candy table. Mrs. Cora Ryno and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Crawford were in charge of the cocoa and ice cream, while a number of the young women assisted in serving.

—A new class in dressmaking will be started this week Friday evening at the Young Women's Christian Association. It will be a short course in shirt waist and skirt making, for a term of six weeks.

Losses from Extending Credit.

Camden, Nov. 20.—There was a large attendance last night of the 300 retail grocerymen at a meeting to devise ways and means to protect themselves against losses from credit customers. The meeting was held under the auspices of the Retail Grocers' Protective Association, and Rudolph Rosenthal, secretary of the association, said: "Every year the retail grocers of Camden lose between $50,000 and $60,000 by extending credit to a certain class of customers, and the practise of not paying bills is growing to such an alarming extent that the grocer outside of the 'trust' must either stop giving credit or go out of business." A curtailment of credit to customers will likely follow.

Won't Discuss Whipping.

New Brunswick, Nov. 20.—Rev. Paul Hamborsky, pastor of the Hungarian Presbyterian church here, still refuses to discuss in detail the public horsewhipping which he received Saturday at the hands of Mrs. L. Nanassy, wife of the pastor of the Hungarian Reformed church at Alpha, Warren county. He admits that politics are behind the whipping. There has been much trouble between the local Hungarian Presbyterian church and the local Hungarian Reformed church, and this war is supposed to have extended to the Reformed church at Alpha. Mrs. Nanassy claims that, in a local Hungarian church paper, Hambrosky uttered untruths against her.

Engine's Mishap Halts Flier.

Cranford, Nov. 20.—An eccentric rod on a westbound Philadelphia flier on the Central Railroad broke as the train was going through here yesterday and damaged the train before it stopped. The rod carried away the brake rigging and several hoses and tore the bottom of the smoking car, giving the passengers in that car a scare. It also smashed the water scoop of the engine. With the brake rigging broken and the hose disconnected the train stopped automatiacly on the Union street crossing. When repairs had been made the train proceeded.

I. O. O. F. GRAND LODGE CONVENED AT TRENTON

Joseph Sheppard, of Plainfield Lodge, No. 44, and Sylvanus Hoffman, of Queen City Lodge, No. 226, I. O. O. F., are the local representatives to the Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows which convenes at Trenton today and continues tomorrow. It is expected several other local Odd Fellows will attend.

The sixty-fifth annual session of the Grand Encampment of the order was held yesterday. In his report Grand Patriarch Oscar N. Falk recommended that his successor in office be paid a higher salary in view of the increased duties of the position. Grand Scribe Frank R. Jummel reported a total membership of 3,637 in the encampment branch of the order, a gain of 151 over last year.

During the yera $10,161.77 was paid out for relief. Grand Treasurer Alfred J. Doan reported cash receipts during the year amounting to $2,-161.21 and disbursements of $1,-101.54.

These officers were elected: Grand Patriarch, the Rev. Henry D. Speakman; grand high priest, Gustav L. Erb; grand senior warden, John M. Stowell; grand scribe, Frank R. Jummell; grand treasurer, Alfred J. Doan; grand representatives, Amos B. Pierce and Walter H. Blake.

At the annual meeting of the Grand Lodge there will be a proposition to held the annual meetings in different cities, but it is hardly likely that this will go through, because the Grand Lodge records are kept in Trenton. Another important matter to be considered is the taking over 5y the Grand Lodge of the Odd Fellows' Home in Newark or the establishment of the institution in some other part of the State. The present home is owned by a number of subordinate lodges, which have been organized into a home association. They are willing to sell out to the Grand Lodge.

BUTCHER LEAVES TOWN; DEBTS ABOUT $5,000

William H. Angleman, who keeps a butcher shop on Somerset street, left town suddenly yesterday and an investigation into his business affairs shows that he leaves behind him bills amounting to about $5,000. The creditors are about twenty in number and include Swift & Co., Armour & Co., and other wholesale grocers and butchers.

S. A. Cruikshank, of Belvidere avenue, has advanced the man $2,500 in business loans and an attachment of stock for the amount and interest was secured by Mr. Crukshank's attorney, W. A. Codington, today. He rushed to Somerville in his automobile and secured Sheriff Ross to come to this city and make the attachment on stock. The store was closed yesterday afternoon. The stock is said to be worth about $3,500. Other creditors are seeking settlement by the same means.

Angleman lived at 45 Somerset street. His wife, who is a dressmaker, knows nothing about her husband's whereabouts and was not informed of his proposed trip. The butcher shop is in the building owned by Henry De Mott, but he said today that the man is up to date with the rent. Angleman is expected back tomorrow.

Testing Mr. Fort's Superstition.

Friends of Governor-elect J. Franklin Fort are wondering if Mr. Fort will accept the invitation to be toastmaster at the annual banquet of Hope Lodge, F. and A. M., in East Orange, which, it is announced, is to occur on the night of Friday, December 13. His friends are waiting to see what Mr. Fort will do, but it is thought he will brave superstitition and serve. The speakers will include General Theodore A. Bingham, Police Commissioner of New York, and Grand Master Francis J. Woodman, of the District of Columbia. Judge James B. Dill is chairman of the dinner committee.

Improving Station Park.

The New Jersey Central is making some improvements in the park at the North Avenue station, removing old trees and sodding the ground. For several years there trees have been a source of annoyance especially in high winds and storm and the comaany decided to cut them down and otherwise beautify the spot.

Barber Commission's Secretary.

Assemblyman Alfred N. Harber, of Mercer, was yesterday elected secretary of the Railroad Commission. The salary is $3,000 a year. The duties of the office had been performed since the appointment of the commission by James Maybury, an inspector of the commission.

FORT WITH FREE HAND WILL KNOW NO BOSSES

When John Franklin Fort is sworn into office in January next New Jersey will have for the first time in her history a Governor who has nothing to do but govern. In the past every Governor has had large private interests to attend to, but ex-Justice Fort will have none.

His long tenure on the bench of the Supreme Court left him without a law practice. He resigned as justice on the day he was nominated, leaving his docket cleaned up except for one case, which he turned over to Justice Pitney, who had sat with him. He had spent the summer abroad resting and getting his health in shape for the long winter court terms, so does not need rest, and for the present has nothing to do save prepare his message to the next Legislature and determine upon the appointments he will make. His induction into office will be on January 21. He will then probably declare himself most definitely on many questions, and it is believed from his admiration of Governor Hughes he may follow that Governor's lead in many things.

Unlike previous Governors, who have been content with one or two days spent in the State capital, Governor-elect Fort expects to average four days a week there, and will also make it a point to visit every State institution and enterprise at frequent and irregular intervals. These visits will be devoid of all brass band attachments.

POINTS FOR THE BUYERS

Ten Eyck & Harris, the coal dealers, are selling the best anthracite. Why not let the firm fill your bins now.

Deposit your savings in the Plainfield Savings Bank and they will be well taken care of. Liberal interest is paid on all deposits.

If there is anything wrong with your watch take it to Charles E. Vail, the Park avenue jeweler, and he will make it run accurately. His stock of jewelry is second to none.

The Rexall goods for every ailment are considered to be recognized in all parts of the world. Dudley S. Miller, the Park avenue druggist, carries a full line. The prices are reasonable.

S. Scheurer & Co., the West Front street grocers and butchers, can save you money if you trade at their store. An exceptional stock of groceries, as well as the best meat, together with fresh vegetables and fruits are offered every day at low prices.

WHICH WILL HE CHOOSE?

Presidential and Congressional Booms for Katzenbach Out.

A Presidential boom for Frank S. Katzenbach, Jr., was launched yesterday by James H. Birch, millionaire manufacturer, of Burlington, and other South Jersey leaders. Birch is a close personal friend of William Jennings Bryan and was the first Democratic leader in this State to espouse his cause.

In a public statement yesterday, he says Democrats should select a conservative Eastern man, and praises the stalwart Democracy ,sturdy qualities and career as a statesman of Trenton's former mayor. The claim is made that New Jersey's delegates will solidly back Katzenbach before the national convention, while there are also assurances of support from adjacent States. Jersey Democrats are doing all in their power to bring the national convention to Atlantic City.

Trenton, Nov. 19.—The latest political gossip about Frank S. Katzenbach, Jr., is that he is to have the Democratic nomination for Congress from this district in opposition to Congressman Ira W. Wood. It is doubtful, however, if Mr. Katzenbach wants anything more to do with politics for the present, in view of the fact that he is said to have spent about $20,000 of his own money in the Gubernatorial fight.

WHITEHOUSE BANK ORGANIZED.

James N. Pidcock, President, Will Open First of New Year.

With a capital stock of $30,000 and eighty-six stockholders, the First National Bank of Whitehouse Station has been organized, and will be ready for business by January 1 next. James N. Pidcock is president, William H. Reger vice-president, Morris R. Cook cashier and John Stone teller.

CONFIRMED PROOF.

Residents of Plainfield Cannot Doubt What Has Been Twice Proved.

In gratitude for complete relief from aches and pains of bad backs—from distressing kidney ills—thousands have publicly recommended Doan's Kidney Pills. Residents of Plainfield, who so testified years ago, now say their cures were permanent. This testimony doubly proves the worth of Doan's Kidney Pills to Plainfield kidney sufferers.

Rhoda A. Martin, of 24 Jackson avenue, Plainfield, N. J., says: "I had pain in my back and loins for about a year or more, no doubt caused by my kidneys being out of order. I felt it more in the morning, just after getting up or if I did any stooping or lifting. Notwithstanding the fact that I took all kinds of medicines I never found anything which helped me until I got Doan's Kidney Pills at L. W. Randolph's drug store. They not only removed the pain, but they strengthened me in other ways." (Statement in January, 1901.)

Statement Confirmed.

Recently, Mrs. Martin's daughter said: "The testimonial given for publication some years ago was true in regard to the benefit my mother derived from Doan's Kidney Pills, and today she is as ready and willing to repeat what she therein said as she was after using the remedy."

DEMOCRATS TO GIVE DINNER TO HUDSPETH

For his able management of the recent Gubernatorial campaign, Chairman Robert S. Hudspeth, of the Democratic State Committee, is to be tendered a dinner by the members of the Auxiliary Democratic State Committee. It will take place in Newark in the latter part of January. National Democrats of prominence will be among the guests. The dinner proposition was agreed upon at a meeting of the auxiliary committee, held at Democratic headquarters in Jersey City. It was also decided to maintain a permanent organization, and at a meeting to be held in the near future "The Democratic Association of New Jersey" will be formed.

Under the scheme of organization the association will have membership among voters in every city in the State. Leading Democrats of the different counties will be consulted and, if possible, the members of the different county committees will be included in the membership of the new organization.

Mr. Hudspeth was present at the meeing, and he was forced to listen to many complimentary speeches on the manner in which he conducted the campaign.

Job H. Lippincott presided, and Franklin H. Halliday was secretary. Permanent headquarters are to be established in the Davison building, at Washington and Montgomery streets, Jersey City.

GUMMERE LIKELY TO SUCCEED MAGIE.

What seemed a pretty definite rumor among the numerous lawyers who appeared in Chancery Chambers yesterday was that Chief Justice William S. Gummers would be appointed by Governor Fort as chancellor to succeed William J. Magie, whose term expires in May, 1908, and who will retire, it is said, on account of advancing years. Chief Justice Gummere's term also expires next year.

The chancellorship is the highest judicial honor in the State. It outranks the Chief Justiceship, although the salary is the same, $11,000 in each case. Chancellor Magie was chief justice from March 1, 1897, until he was appointed on May 2, 1900, by Governor Voorhees to succeed the late Chancellor McGill.

Another rumor current among the lawyers yesterday was that either ex-Justice Gilbert Collins or Justice Francis J. Swayze would be appointed chancellor, but it is doubted whether Mr. Collins, who resigned from the Supreme Court bench only three years ago, could be tempted to resume judicial life even by the highest honor within the gift of Governor Fort.

ROBINSON IS SLIPPERY.

After having been arrested forgery, tried, released, re-arrested and turned over to the United States authorities for desertion and made his escape, George Robison was again arrested yesterday morning at Elizabeth and will once more be turned over to the national officials as a deserter.

Robinson was arrested in September for passing several bogus checks on Elizabeth merchants. He was released under probation and was walking out of the court room when United States officials appeared and charged him with desertion. He was given into their custody. While on his way to Fort Wadsworth he made his escape. Yesterday morning he was arrested by Patrolman O'Brien, who found him wandering about in the uniform of a sailor on the outskirts of that city.

CHAPTER XVI.

Along the Cyclamen Path.

Both young men are riding light; Barnes for this speedy dash has left his rifle and his field glasses behind him, and they gallop up the pass of the Force. But the ascent is so steep they are soon compelled to walk their horses. A precipice is on one side of them and the great flanks of Del Oro are on the other. Both Edwin and Burton have been silent, thinking of their wives. The latter now remarks, pointing to a deep gorge running up the mountain side: "That, I believe, leads to La Pintica, the home of the Bellacoscia, which the gendarmes never dare to visit."

But they having reached the summit of the Col, now speed their horses sharply down the declivities into the great forest of Vizzavona, the road leading them through pines, beeches and the inevitable chestnut trees.

They have passed no one in the darkness. In fact, they have not yet gone far enough to have any hope of overtaking Marina unless accident has befallen her vehicle. Besides, her horses were fresh; theirs, according to the hostler, had been ridden during the preceding day.

Soon after, they dash through the village of Vivario, announced by the barking of some curs and the grunting of some pigs. "Every house in the village is closed and no one would open for us in the dead of night in this land of the vendetta," remarks Barnes.

They go to climbing again, and soon after descend through the gorge of the rapid Vecchio, the river foaming far beneath the road, while rocky hills and sharp mountains rise on either side.

They have knocked at no doors; they have made no inquiries; they have only hurried on. But some hour after the red-tiled houses of Corte loom up before them and a few minutes later they jog their tired steeds up one of the principal streets of the central inland town of Corsica, the great Monte Rotondo now looking down upon them.

Above them are tall elm trees that catch the rays of the rising sun. Flanked on each side by white stone, red-roofed houses, they pass between the hotels Pierracci and Paoli, almost deserted now, this being the beginning of the hot summer season. Along the street are many placards indicating the approaching election. Every time he sees the name of Saliceti, Barnes, compressing his lips, thinks of his lost darling.

At the Pierracci they learn from one of the waiters that a lady had paused to obtain a relay of horses, and had brought out to her at her request a cup of coffee.

"Was she driven by an old man?" questions Edwin, hurriedly.

"Yes, with a beard like a bandit," answers the man with a grin. "The carriage was full of cyclamen flowers. You could smell them all over the street."

"It's your wife," whispers Barnes, giving the man a 20-franc piece that makes him look almost as happy as this news does Anstruther.

"Only an hour ago! We will overtake Marina long before she reaches Bastia," cries Edwin.

They ride hurriedly, the road skirting the torrent of the foaming Vecchio until considerably over an hour after leaving Corte they reach Ponte-alla-Lecchio, where the big bridge crosses the river Golo. During this the horsemen note more signs of the coming casting of votes.

Some of the "Lucchese" workmen from Italy are throwing stones at an election placard that displeases them.

"The pests from Lucca," mutters a Corsican shopkeeper as they buy a glass of wine from him, "are always riotous, and at election times batter every one's heads with stones—their own included. They've been here since sunrise fighting and brawling. I heard their shouts when I was in bed. But everyone pardons the 'Lucchese;' they do all our hard work," adds the man with a grin, pocketing the coin Edwin hands him.

But the wine shop keeper can tell them nothing of a woman traveling, and to their astonishment, though they make many inquiries, they hear of no lady in a carriage passing through the village this morning.

"It's quite possible," says Edwin to Barnes, "she didn't stop here. Her horses were fresh. She's gone on. No one has noticed her."

"That's very true," answers Burton, though his face grows more concerned and gloomy.

Therefore they ride rapidly along over the now well-kept road, which generally skirts the Golo. Turning north, they spur on over the causeway that crosses the great lagoons and soon after passing through some small villages, they come out upon the sea and ride almost straight along its shores, to enter that miniature Genoa, called Bastia, some two hours before midday.

Barnes pilots his companion to the Hotel de France. "You should like this inn," he observes; "it's on the Boulevard Paoli."

Catching sight of a gentleman in a tall hat and a small overall coat, Barnes says: "These are the only ones in Corsica, I think, and that's Monsieur Staffe, the head of the hotel. I know him. Now we'll get news of your wife; she's probably put up here."

So they spring off their horses and dear old Monsieur Staffe, recognizing the American, is about to offer them rooms when they both suddenly question him and learn to their concern that no lady has arrived from the interior this day at his hotel.

"She is drawn by two horses driven by an old Corsican with a beard several weeks old," says Barnes.

"It doesn't matter how she was driven; no lady has arrived here, gentlemen."

"Then Marina must have gone to inquire at the steamer offices as to when I'll arrive," cries Edwin.

"Mon Dieu!" ejaculates Monsieur Staffe, his eyes lighting up, "you are the young English naval officer whose wedding to Mademoiselle Paoli created such an excitement in the island two weeks ago. Believe me, Monsieur, your wife is not in Bastia, or I should have heard of it. Everybody here honors the name of Paoli—and your sweet spouse is very much loved for her own dear self."

Despite Monsieur Staffe's assertions, the two young men stride out of his hotel, and though desperately fatigued, make inquiries at the offices of the Fraissinet and the Florio Ruballinio companies, but no lady asking for arriving boats has been there, at all events, none answering Marina's description.

"We may have passed her on the road," remarks Barnes sympathetically, his anguish making him feel for his companion. "We'll give her two hours to come in and overtake us—two hours of rest," the poor fellow stretches his limbs wearily. "I'm flesh and blood, Anstruther. You didn't climb mountains all yesterday, as I did."

But Edwin, being unaccustomed to horseback exercise, though wiry enough upon the ship's deck, is stiff and sore. Compelled from very fatigue, the young men contrive to limp back to the Hotel de France, where they are very well taken care of, and two hours' sleep measurably revives them. Barnes has had a shave and would look almost debonair when he comes down to breakfast at noon, but the cavities which hold his eyes abnormally brightened by anxiety give the lie to any appearance of lightness.

Anstruther is even more worried than before—and now as the day draws on, without his wife appearing, a look of fear comes into the young man's face that is horrible.

Gazing at him, Barnes mutters: "Are you good for another ride?"

"Yes—where?"

"We must take the back track," says the American. "We rode too rapidly this morning, thinking Marina was just ahead of us, for a critical investigation."

"Get under way," answers the lieutenant, and the two ride out of Bastia, making inquiries at every village and learning nothing.

In fact, the peasants, as they get nearer Ponte-alla-Lecchia, are too much excited over the election of the morrow to talk about much else. "Voting-day is to be enlivened by a race riot of the Lucchese," says one whom Barnes is questioning on the highway just where the Morosaglia road leaves it leading to the Tuscan sea.

Edwin has dismounted and is slouching morosely about the road to ease his tortured legs.

"Why don't they wipe out these mutinous Lucchese?" says the officer in quarterdeck tones as they get on their horses again.

"Then the native Corsicans would have to work. These Lucchese come over here from Italy and do the manual labor for them. But I can find no trace of your loved one or of mine," adds Barnes, almost despairingly, as they ride along the road, their inquiries growing more close and persistent till they reach Corte.

Together, disconsolately, the poor fellows force themselves to try to eat. The election excitement is growing higher, a brass band comes past, at its head a placard, "Vote for Saliceti!" and Barnes gnashes his teeth.

But turning from this, he rather curiously says suddenly: "Anstruther, you've got a flower in your buttonhole."

"Oh, yes, I was so miserable I hardly knew what I was doing. I picked up this crimson thing in the road when you were talking to the peasant who was telling you of the Lucchese riots down at Orezza."

"There was no tree bearing the flower where you picked it up?" asks the American suddenly.

"No, I think not. I don't believe there was a shrub of any kind within a hundred feet of it. Why do you ask?" for the other's tone is excited.

"Why, because that's the cyclamen flower, one of the kind of which Marina bore whole branches in her carriage. Was there a branch attached to it?"

"I think there was. Hang it, I remember, I pulled it off. I—what are you driving at?"

"Well could that flower have been dropped at the entrance of the Morosaglia road with design by your wife out of her carriage?"

The English seaman gasps for breath, but tired as he is and stiff as he is he staggers up and says hurriedly: "Come!" and the two, through the night again, for it has grown very dark, ride down to Ponte-alla-Lecchia.

"By heaven, I wish we had hope of my sister also," says Edwin as they hurry along, though the poor sailor has difficulty in keeping himself in the saddle.

"I have a little," answers Barnes.

"You think Enid might be with Marina?"

"Yes, if Cipriano Danella has her. He apparently wants a chance at my life if Saliceti misses it. He may have taken Enid to some out of the way place, so that striving to find her I may die in his vendetta."

So he and Edwin walk their horses up to the junction of the Morosaglia road.

"Did you find that flower here?" he asks Edwin.

"Yes, pretty well toward the middle of the path."

Though the moon has just risen they can find no more cyclamen blossoms and here a sudden complication confronts them. Another road leading toward the northwest and running to Novella, Belgodere and the Ile Rousse, also leaves the Bastia road at the same point.

"It is just as probable that Marina's course was directed toward the northwest as toward the east. In fact, it is a toss-up which way your wife went," remarks Barnes. "Now, there is only one way to settle it, if this cyclamen flower means anything. That is for you to investigate one road and I the other."

So it is arranged that Barnes takes the road toward the Ile Rousse, and Edwin follows the path leading to the east toward Morosaglia.

"If I find no more of these flowers going toward the northwest, I'll return here and follow you," remarks Burton.

After giving these directions, the American, desperately fatigued and mightily sleepy, jogs his steed in the direction of Ile Rousse, 20 miles to the northwest. In the moonlight, the distracted man, though he dismounts often, discovers no cyclamen flowers lying in the road. But he doggedly keeps on, hoping to find some of the flowers that may indicate he is following Marina.

OVER TWO THOUSAND VISITORS A DAY

Cooper Explains Reason for Remarkable Average of Boston Callers.

During L. T. Cooper's recent stay in Boston, it is estimated that sixty-five thousand people talked with him and purchased his medicine. This is an average of over two thousand a day.

His success was so phenomenal as to cause universal comment both by the public and the press. There must be a reason for this. Here is the reason given in his own words by Mr. Cooper when interviewed on the subject. He said:

"The immense numbers of people who are calling on me here in Boston is not unusual. I have had the same experience for the past two years wherever I have gone. The reason is a simple one. It is because my medicine puts the stomach in good condition. This does not sound unusual, but it is in fact the key to health. The stomach is the very foundation of life. I attribute 90 per cent. of all sickness directly to the stomach.

"Neither animals nor men can remain well with a poor digestive apparatus. Few can be sick with a digestion in perfect condition. As a matter of fact, most men and women today are half-sick. It is because too much food and too little exercise have gradually forced the stomach into a half-sick condition. My medicine gets the stomach back where it was, and that is all that is necessary."

Among Boston people who are staunch believers in Mr. Cooper's theory, is Mr. Frank D. Brown, of 57 Bloomingdale street, Chelsea, Mass. He says:

"For five years I have sought relief for indigestion, stomach trouble and dyspepsia, spending nearly all my wages with doctors and obtaining no results. I had dull pains across my back, radiating to the shoulders. I had splitting headaches, which nothing seemed to cure. There was a gnawing and rumbling in my stomach and bowels. I was troubled with vertigo and dizziness, and at times almost overcome by drowsiness.

"I felt tired and worn out all the time, my sleep was not refreshing, and I would get up in the morning feeling as weary as when I went to bed. My appetite was variable—ravenous at times, then again nauseated at the sight of food. Sometimes my face was pale, at other times flushed. I was constipated and bilious, and had catarrhal affection in nose and throat, which caused me to hawk and spit a great deal, especially in the morning. I heard so much of the Cooper remedies that I decided to try them. After taking one bottle, a tapeworm 50 feet long passed from my system. I felt better almost immediately. All my troubles disappeared as if by magic, and my improvement was rapid. I now feel entirely well, and can honestly recommend Mr. Cooper's medicine to anyone who suffers as I did."

We sell the Cooper medicines which give universal satisfaction.

BISMARCKS THE VICTORS

Captain Britton's Team Takes First Three Games in the Bowling Tourney.

NAPOLEONS THEIR OPPONENTS.

Start of the Series Witnessed by Large Crowd of Rooters—Splits Hold Down the Scores.

Three games straight for Captain Ed Britton's Bismarck team marked the start of the bowling tourney on Campbell's alleys last night. The strong-armed so-called Teutons walked away from Frank Willett's Napoleons with leads of 110, 33 and 69 pins and set a pace that will make all other contestants get busy on the practice line. The series was witnessed by a large gallery that occupied every available seat at the academy and the rooting kept up from start to finish.

Captain Britton carried off the honors of the evening by getting the only double century mark and making an average of 197.2 for the three games. He was followed by Tom Muir, of the same team, who scored an average of 182.1, while the best on the Napoleon side was 167.3, made by Captain Willett. His score woes not represent what he hight have accomplished, however, as he was forced to retire after the second game because of a badly sprained thumb. His third game was based on the average of the first two.

The shooting as a rule was not up to the average of the bowlers because of brand new pins that were placed on the alleys when the series was called. The pocket was hit for strikes repeatedly but instead of sweeping the pins into the pit, the bowlers would get rank splits. Willie Mullen and Chauncey Stout were particularly unfortunate in this respect and it held them down badly. Ed Toense smashed the timber by the speediest ball on the alley but only got away with an average of 159.1. Vanderbilt, the Scotch Plains srack, had his eye in the right place but got poor results and John Conklin almost gave up in despair when his good shots left corner pins standing with aggrevating regularity. Charles W. Runyon and his famous "hook" ball went on the score board for an average of 156 and Frank McInerney pulled out with 137.2 instead of his regular game of 180.

The scores were as follows:

Judge William N. Runyon and V. W. Nash, Jr., acted as scorers and Dr. F. C. Herbert was umpire.

The next games in the tourney will be rolled Thursday night, when V. W. Nash, Jr.'s Washington team will roll Francis J. Blatz's Wellingtons. On Friday night, the Brian Borus, captained by Harry Radin, and the Garibaldis, captained by John J. Campbell, will strive for supremacy.

PARK CLUB BOWLERS DEFEAT ELIZABETH TEAM.

The Park Club bowling team of the Central Journal Bowling League rolled a series of three games with the Elizabeth Club last night and succeeded in taking two out of the three. The Elizabeth bowlers captured the first game by a score of 866 to 838, the Parks not having struck their customary pace. After that there was nothing doing for the visiting team. The local five took the second game by a score of 880 to 817 and the third by a score of 905 to 819.

Captain F. O. Ball was in good form as usual, rolling 194 in the first game and 193 in the second, while a 166 in the third was not at all bad. Barlow also did good work, putting up a score of 193 in the first, 170 in the second and 191 in the third game.

Another high man was Monroe Long, who rolled 193 in the third game. Ackor was high man for the visitors, rolling 199 in the second game. The other scores were a little below the average. The scores follow:

ANNUAL TURKEY SUPPER

Seventh-day Baptist Women's Society Holds Its Yearly Feast.

ENTERTAINMENT IS PROVIDED.

The First Published Thanksgiving Proclamation (1767) Read By Miss Hannah Shaw.

The annual turkey supper and entertainment was given in the parlors of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, last night, under the auspices of the Women's Society for Christian Work. The supper was liberally patronized and the attendance at the entertainment following was large. The supper hours were from 6:30 to 8:30 o'clock and an excellent menu was provided by the committee comprising Mrs. Ira West, chairman; Mrs. Frank H. Smith, Mrs. William R. Mosher, Mrs. Arthur L. Titsworth, Mrs. Charles A. Rogers and Miss Lucy Dunham.

Assisting as waitresses were the Missees Etta Randolph, Eva Rogers, Helen Rogers, Frances Mosher, Evalois St. John, Mary Green, Isabel Randolph, Ethel Rogers, Anna Stillman Mildred Greene, Ethel Titsworth, and Marie Rogers.

The parlors were decorated in harvest home style, the corn husks, pumpkins and autumnal foliage combining to make an attractive picture.

The entertainment was in charge of Mrs. Charles H. Dunham and Miss Ida Spicer, and it was greatly enjoyed. The program opened with a piano trio, by Mrs. William C. Hubbard, Mrs. Frank J. Hubbard and Miss Ethel Titsworth. The selection was played on one instrument. "The History of the Seed," was the title of an appropriate exercise by Katharine Shaw, Beatrice Cottrell, Ruth Morris, Helen Shaw and John Cottrell, Jr. They explained the history of the pumpkin seed from the time it is placed in the ground until it becomes a pumpkin and is finally made into pies.

The first printed Thanksgiving proclamation in 1767 was read by Hannah Shaw, and after the singing of a harvest song by members of the Junior Christian Endeavor Society, Rev. George B. Shaw, pastor of the church, read the last Thanksgiving proclamation by President Roosevelt.

The entertainment was concluded with the presentation of "Hiawatha," in pantomine tableaux. This was exceedingly good. The characters and those representing theme were "Hiawatha," Charles Neagle; "Minnehaha," Miss Mildred Greene; "Nokomis," Mrs. Joseph G. Miller; "Arrow Maker," J. G. Cottrell. Miss Ernestine C. Smith read the story of "Hiawatha," and Miss Nan. Randolph sang several appropriate love songs. Miss Mabel Maxson was at the piano. Especial mention is due the efforts of the committee in arranging the tableaux and the costuming.

Will Sing Grand Opera.

A musical event of more than ordinary interest will be a recital to be given at the First Presbyterian church, Friday night, December 6, by Miss Anna Case, soprano soloist of the church. Admission to the recital will be by ticket and a silver offering will be received. Miss Case will sing almost entire grand opera selections in German and Italian, together with a few numbers in English. She will be assisted by Gustav Gossweiler, 'cellist of the New York Philharmonic Society, and Mme. Renard, of New York, will be the accompanist.

May Enlarge Street Work Gang.

It is possible, if the weather remains favorable, that upon the completion of the work of laying pipe for the southside sewer, a portion of the gang of laborers may be put on the brick pavement with the idea of hurrying it along. This suggestion is being considered by City Engineer Gavett. The remaining portion of the gang may be used in the Netherwood district, where sanitary sewer work is going on now under the director of Contractor Foster Callahan.

Adjourned Meeting Common Council.

There will be an adjourned meeting of the Common Council tonight to finish up some of the business left over from Monday night and to approve the bonds of Tax Collector-elect W. R. Townsend. There may be some action in reference to the $68,000 sewer improvement bonds which A. B. Leach & Co., of New York, has refused to take.

To Sail on Saturday.

Former Mayor L. V. F. Randolph and his daughter, Miss Blossom Randolph, of East Front street, will sail for Europe on Saturday on the steamship Coronia. Mrs. Ludlum and Miss Butler, of East Front street, and Mrs. Bloomfield Beach, of Rockview avenue, will go abroad on the same steamer. Mr. Randolph and his daughter will be absent at least six months.

TO PUBLISH LETTERS OF SAMUEL J. TILDEN

The letters and memorials of Samuel J. Tilden, the Democratic statesmand and philanthropist, will be published in a fortnight, the executors, including former Mayor L. V. F. Randolph, of this city, having completed a two years' arduous task in assorting and compiling the documents of public interest left by him. They will be contained in two volumes to come from the press of Harper & Brother and will shed much light on the memorable Presidential campaign of 1876, when Mr. Tildon, the Democratic nominee, was declared defeated by the Congressional commission.

In Mr. Tildon's will, his executors, John Biglow, L. V. F. Randolph and George W. Smith, were authorized to publish such of his correspondence as they might see fit. Mr. Biglow was chosen editor in chief and one of the forthcoming volumes will contain an elaborate argument for his claims to the Presidency written by Mr. Biglow, who is over ninety years of age, but who still retains the full power of his rich mental faculties.

BLOOMSBURY MAN WEDS MISS LULU GISE

In the presence of 150 guests from nearby places, Miss Lulu Edna Gise, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Firman Gise, of Dunellen, and Edward Krinie, of Bloomsbury, were married last night. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's parents by Rev. Beacom, of Bloomsbury, assisted by Rev. E. C. Dutcher, of Dunellen. The home was prettily decorated for the occasion.

Miss Gise wore a gown of white crepe de chine and carried a bouquet of white carnations. She was attended by Miss Ethel Jamison, of Dunellen, who wore white organdie and carried pink carnations. The best man was Herbert Wyckoff, of Dunellen, and the ushers were Frederick Wyckoff, of Dunellen, and Frederick Hamilton, of Bloomsbury. Miss Gise was given away by her father.

Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Krinie were tendered a reception during which they were showered with congratulations. The guests in attendance included relatives and friends from Dunellen, Plainfield Bound Brook, Somerville, Bloomsbury and other places. The couple left last night for Bloomsbury where they will spend two weeks with the groom's parents. They received many handsome presents.

"GOD AND THE REPUBLIC."

Phrase Favored for Coins by Opponents of "In God We Trust."

At a meeting of the Young Men's Chapter of the Lewis Avenue Congregational church in New York on Tuesday evening a petition was drawn up to be presented to the United States Government requesting that some phrase expressive of the Nation's recognition of God be placed upon its coins. The resolution said:

We second the objection of Mr. Roosevelt relative to the continued use of the phrase, "In God We Trust" on our Nation's coinage. The phrase is one which easily lends itself to jocularity. At the same time, we deprecate the removal of all recognition of God from the coinage. Some such phrase as "God and the Republic," on the coin of the realm would satisfy the religious sentiment which is present in the American people without violating the keenest sense of humor. Such a phrase would inject into the Nation's life an element of the sacred which President Lincoln and Secretary Chase believed to be needed in their day, and is jortentously needed in ours.

Funeral of John Kinniery.

The funeral of John Kinniery, whose death occurred at his home on South Second street, Tuesday night, was held in St. Mary's church this morning. A requiem mass was said by Rev. Father Delehanty in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends. The body was afterward sent to Millbury, Mass., for burial. The pall bearers were John Owens, Sr., Edward Coffey, Edward Strappe, Henry Brentnall, P. J. Reville and Frank Cullen. There were many handsome floral tributes.

Colored Panhandler Arrested.

Anthony Kennedy, a colored cripple, was arrested by Patrolman Dobson, yesterday, for panhandling. He promised to get out of town when arraigned before Judge Runyon this morning and sentence was suspended.

Joseph L. Moore's Funeral.

The funeral of Joseph L. Moore, whose death occurred at his home on West Front street, yesterday, will be held at the late residence tomorrow afternoon at 2:30.

WAR ON THE BILLBOARD

Agitate Scheme to Tax the Advertising Sign Out of Existence.

EX-GOV. MURPHY STARTED IT.

Some Audacious "Adv." Propositions —Scenery Along Railroads Disfigured by the Signs.

There is talk of taxing the advertising signs stretched over the fields, along the railroad routes and the public highways out of existence. But those who patronize that scheme of making themselves and their specialties known say that the advantages of it are worth more than the taxes will add to the cost and the unsightly boards are likely to keep on defacing the lanscape.

Along the line of the Pennsylvania Railroad there are between Jersey City and Trenton more than 1,000 of the signs. There are mammoth figures of cows, a whole herd of them, and of women and trunks and corsets and beer kegs and what not scattered on the intervening country to catch the eye of the passing travellers. At one point a land company has strung a fence a half mile long to make its offerings known. The skill some of the advertisers have expended in making these billboards attractive is often to be admired.

The most audacious advertising scheme of this kind was one suggested some years ago to the Hudson County Board of Freeholders. The county institutions—the lunatic asylum, the poor house and the penitentiary—are built upon the west slope of a height that rises like a monster sugar-loaf from the surrounding marsh. It used to be known as Snake Hill, because of the prevalence of snakes on the forest of trees that cover it. The Freeholders have tried to induce the people to call it by a softer name of late years, but they are not having very good luck at it, and it will doubtless be known as Snake Hill for some generations to come.

The forest trees cover the eastern slope of the prominence, and a company with a keen eye to advertising saw what a splendid opportunity it offered for a display of illuminated letters. It offered to pay the county $2,500 a year for the privilege of having its name displayed on the top of the hill in the form of electric lights. The county officials concluded that such an advertisement would be of enormous value to the company obtaining it and wanted a more adequate compensation. The dicker fell through at the time because no agreement as to price could be reached, but the proposition is likely to be renewed soon.

To Governor Murphy's aesthetic sense these advertising billboards and like devices seem a blot on the land, and he asked the Legislature three or four years ago to take steps to have the disfigurement ended. Nothing was done about it.

But a year or two ago one of the rural tax officials concluded that these signs represented investment and value that made them subject to taxation, and he listed those in his district among the local rateables. The advertising concern appealed from the ruling. The State Board of Equalization has, however, just decreed that they are properly included among the taxable things in the district, and the likelihood is that the officials of all the other taxing districts will follow the example.

The imposition of a tax may not, it is conceded, put an end to the landscape disfigurement, but it is expected to make a perceptible reduction in the extent of it.

Cricket Club May Come Here.

There is a possibility that the cricket club which has been playing its game at Bound Brook may come to Plainfield, owing to the fact that the club will not be able to use the present grounds another season. It would seem as though the club should play here inasmuch as a majority of the members on the team are Plainfielders. It is said that such a move would tend to largely increase the interest in the game.

Sewer Work Progressing.

John Sutcliffe, of Poughkeeple, who has been superintending the southside sanitary sewer work, left yesterday for his home where he will remain for a few days. Before returning here he will probably take a trip to Washington. With good weather the work of laying pipe should be completed within two or three weeks.

Enjoyed Moonlight Ride.

The Metuchen pupils of Miss Adele vonOhl's riding school enjoyed a moonlight ride Tuesday night. The start was made at Metuchen and after traversing the country roads a social time and refreshments were enjoyed at Miss vonOhl's home after which the pupils returned to the starting point.

WRITS OF ATTACHMENT FILED AGAINST ANGLEMAN

Nothing has been heard of William H. Angleman, the Somerset street butcher, since he left town suddenly Tuesday. The store is closed and attachment proceedings have been begun by several of the creditors. Francis J. Blatz, representing Councilman R. I. Tolles, for the Union Beef Company, filed an attachment for $103 in Justice Mundy's court yesterday, and Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., will make an effort to secure $300 owing to Swift & Company in the same way.

When seen at her home on Somerset street by a Daily Press reporter today, Mr. Angleman said that she had no idea where her husband is. He did not inform her that he was going away, but she expects to hear from him and is confident that he will come back.

"The reports of the amount of my husband's indebtedness are greatly over estimated," she said, "and I do not believe that the liabilities will amount to $1,000. This is, of course, excluding the money owed to Mr. Cruikshank,—a personal loan. Mr. Angleman was in very poor health, and has been uneasy about his business on account of the many book accounts outstanding. I know nothing about his business affairs."

The Angleman family is well known in the borough, having lived in their present home on Somerset street for nine years. Mrs. Angleman said that her husband would not continue his business here.

ARGUMENT BEGINS ON PERKINS' TAX ACT

Argument upon the constitutionality of the Perkins Main Stem Tax Act was started in the Court of Errors and Appeals yesterday, in Trenton. The State is represented by Attorney General Robert H. McCarter, John R. Hardin and former Justice Bennett Van Syckle.

The railroads are represented by Richard V. Lindabury, James B. Vredenburg, James H. Corbin, Charles L. Corbin, George Holmes and former Senator William D. Edwards.

Before argument was commenced the court informed counsel that they would be allowed the remainder of yesterday, all day today and as much time as they desired tomorrow to make their respective arguments.

Both the State and the railroads have prepared extensive briefs which ahe practically the same as were used in the Supreme Court at the time the act was attacked, and which was subsequently declared to be constitutional by an opinion written by Justice Pitney, in which Governor-elect Fort, then a justice, concurred.

Edwin C. McKeag, city counsel of New Brunswick, also appears in the case and will argue on an appeal taken by the Pennsylvania Railroad upon certain taxes made on railroad property by the local assessors. There has probably never been a case heard in the Court of Errors and Appeals where so many of the leaders of the New Jersey bar appeared in the same case.

ELECTION OFFICERS GET $25,000 TOO MUCH

As a result of the conference held in Elizabeth last night among the election board officers of that city, it was found that in various parts of the State there was illegally paid out this year over $25,000 for services of such officers. The money was paid under the State law of 1906, which allowed officers in wards and cities having a certain registry $30. The law was in effect on April 14, 1906, but the day following the present law went into effect repealing the former one.

Now it is learned that in many instances the present law was ignored and officers were paid $30 instead of $25. It was the opinion of those present at last night's conference that the present law will govern the payment of money to election officers and that $25 is the limit which they can receive for their services.

As for the extra money paid out under the former law there is now chance for the different municipalities acting under it, getting it back. The present law has been interpreted to read that $25 is the maximum pay to which election officers are entitled.

"MOTHER GOOSE" BAZAAR

Holy Cross Church Parishioners as Fairy Tale Characters in Pretty Booths.

A "MOTHER GOOSE" DINNER.

First Night of Big Fair, to Conclude Tonight, Proved a Big Financial Success—Mrs. Geo. O. Stevens Chairman.

"Mother Goose," Mrs. Samuel Townsend, wife of the mayor-elect of the borough, and many of the characters of the fairy tales, handsomely costumed for the various parts they took at the booths and in the supper room, were at Holy Cross parish house yesterday afternoon and night in a "Mother Goose Fair," being given by the women of the church. With Mrs. George O. Stevens as general chairman of the affair, the women of the parish took in about $150 as the result of the sales at the various booths yesterday, and the fair will be continued this afternoon and evening.

Novel in the idea, the affair is proving a great success, the costumes of those at the various booths being in accordance with the description given the story book and the booths being tastefully decorated, with the nursery rhymes in many cases displayed on placards over the booths. Contrary Mary's garden, the flower booth, is in charge of Miss Mary Barlow, and is situated in the alcove of the parish house. Here are flowers of all sorts, and with her in the booth is Miss Louise Hooley. Mrs. Creasy, as "the maid in the garden," is in charge of the linen booth, where fancy articles and linen are sold. With her is Miss Stevens. Mrs. Geo. A. Warner, wife of the rector, is "Little Miss Moffett," and at her booth, where there is a mammoth "spider's web," cushions and pillows of all sorts are for sale by Mrs. Du Bois and Miss Elizabeth Voorhees.

Above Miss Gertrude Pierson's booth is the nursery rhyme "Mary had a little lamb," and here Miss Hazel Cumback assists her in selling woolen slippers and other fancy articles, while little woolly lambs decorate the booth. Mrs. Larsson and Miss Lourburg are in genuine Swiss costume and sell fancy articles at a booth where the poem "There was a ship went sailing" is printed above. Mrs. George O. Stevens is at the doll booth, where gaily dressed dolls attract the young people. "Ding, Dong Bell, Pussy's in the Well," is the motto at the lemonade well, where Miss Mary Barlow and Miss Jean Saunders. Miss Sara Sanderson is "Queen of Hearts" at a booth prettily decorated with hearts of all sizes. With her, selling cake and candy, are Miss Helen Harrington and Miss Claire Kenworthy. "Spikes" Kenyon is costumed as the Knave of Hearts, and is with them in the booth.

There are other booths, too; one where fortunes are told and another where useful, though fancy, articles are for sale. Miss Ida Davis, with Miss Laura Long, are in charge of a see-saw, erected in the choir room. Last night turkey dinners were served to 150 people by a corps of waitresses including the Misses Jane Bennett, Susan Bennett, Iola Moore, Jean Saunders, Kate Barlow, Burt, Parker and Winans, and the viands are prepared by Mrs. George O. Stevens, Mrs. John B. Moore and Miss Ida Davis, as "chefs de cuisine." The menu is elaborate, including turkey, roast beef and "Simple Simon's" pies, with puddings for which "the cow that jumped over the moon" is reported to have furnished the milk.

NOT CONTENTED YET, P. S. C. WANTS ANOTHER CONCESSION

Since the Public Service Corporation began its work of laying double tracks through East Front street and Watchung avenue, there has been more or less talk that it was the plan to locate a "Y" in the tracks at Fourth street and Watchung avenue so that the Netherwood and Arlington avenue lines could be operated together, similar to the Fourth and Somerset street lines. As far as can be learned the company has not asked the Common Council for permission to establish a "Y" at the point named and it is not known whether such an application would be given favorable consideration or not.

Roadmaster Gordon, of the P. S. C., who is in charge of the local improvements, has had a conference with City Engineer Gavett regarding the proposed "Y" and in the opinion of the city official the extra rails are not likely to be laid at Fourth street and Watchung avenue. There certainly would be a strong protest against such a scheme from patrons of both Netherwood and Arlington cars. It is not likely that the city fathers would give away such a permit.

Mrs. Horace C. Huff, of Codington avenue, is detained at home by the grip.

MARTINE TO ANSWER ROOSEVELT'S CRITICS

"Farmer-orator" James Edgar Martine will reply to the critics of President Roosevelt tonight. Mr. Martine will get the opportunity at the reception to be given tonight by the New Jersey Democratic League in honor of the party's defeated gubernatorial candidate, Frank S. Katzenbach, at Trenton. He will be the principal speaker.

Mr. Martine is a great admirer of the Republican President, who he declares has the right amount of honesty and courage to make an ideal executive—excepting that he belongs to the wrong party. The oft-defeated veteran warrior of Democracy claims that the "money pirates" are trying to place responsibility on Roosevelt for their own acts and believes that it is time some citizens in New Jersey came to his defense. Accordingly, he says he will dwell on the subject tonight.

The other speakers include State Chairman Robert Hudspeth and Mr. Katzenbach.

POLICE RAID YIELDS BUT ONE LONE HOBO

A West End man sent a tip to police headquarters last night that a gang of desperate characters was sleeping in the Stevens barn on Grant avenue. Detective-Sergeant Flynn went to the place with Roundsman Higgins and Patrolman Saunders and by making a sortie the trio got into the loft without any trouble. When they flashed their lanterns into the corners, one lone hobo was revealed in the person of "Scotty" Fisher, well known all along the Jersey Central.

Fisher hung about the West End for several years and might have been a local resident yet but for the fact that he stole a pair of trousers from Chief Kiely's father and had to hurry out of town. He paled in with the notorious "Dutch" Ides gang and was one of the freight car thieves caught at Dunellen about two years ago. He served eighteen months in the Trenton prison and was released only a short time ago. Since then he has been making the rounds of his old haunts.

Fisher was locked up and this morning was arraigned before Judge Runyon on a vagrancy charge. The police have nothing in particular against him at the present time and sentence was suspended on condition that he would quit the city. He gave his sloemn promise that Plainfield wouldn't see him for a long time to came and struck out for the Greenbrook tanks to catch a coaler.

NONPAREIL SOCIAL CLUB HOLDS A BANQUET.

The second annual banquet of the Nonpareil Social Club, colored, was held at the Plainfield Dancing Academy, West Front street, last night. There were about 150 members and friends present. After the banquet several speeches were made as follows:

"Nonpareil," A. J. Carey; "Social," H. Karney; "Club," C. J. Mackoy; "Condition," B. Dyett; "Advancement," Richard B. Norwood; "Future," C. C. Irby; "Club History," Dr. J. C. Anderson. J. W. Maury was the toastmaster, and after the banquet and speeches, dancing was enjoyed until an early hour this morning.

The officers of the club are as follows: President, C. J. Mackoy; vice-president, Arthur Venable; treasurer, Dr. J. C. Anderson; secretary, Wm. H. Jones; assistant secretary, Robert Stevens; sergeant-at-arms, C. C. Irby. The committee of arrangements for last night's affair comprised Robert Stevens, chairman; B. Dyett, G. Johnson, S. Van Blake and E. Coles. It is the intention of the club in the near future to erect a clubhouse on St. Mary's avenue, where a piece of property has been purchased.

Gaul's "Holy City" at Grace Church.

Under the direction of William E. MacClymont, organist and choirmaster at Grace church, "The Holy City," by Alfred R. Gaul, will be rendered at a special musical service to be held at the church tonight. The famous oratorie will be given complete, and the vested choir will be assisted by Mrs. Theodore Mantz, soprano; Mrs. Bayard Hawthorne, contralto; William J. Tallamy, tenor, and Charles Jones, bass.

Miss Hooley Takes First Prize.

Miss Mabel B. Hooley's famous pair, "Quaker Maid" and "Dorothea," were again prominent at the horse show in Madison Square Garden, last night, when they took first prize, $200, in class 48, pairs for mares or geldings, driven by women. The Plainfield horses were in competition entries by Judge Moore and Mrs. Reginald C. Vanderbilt and Miss Hooley's honor was a signal one.

MORE CARRIERS ON DUTY

Postmaster Bird Re-arranges Routes Greatly Facilitating All Mail Deliveries.

CHANGE IN EFFECT TODAY.

Four Deliveries a Day In Business Section—Improved Service in Both East and West Ends.

Postmaster E. H. Bird has completed the work of redistricting the city so as to provide territory for the three new letter-carriers recently appointed and with a view to improving mail delivery service. It has been a difficult task, he says, but in nearly every case all of the old carriers have been benefited by the change and in the re-arrangement new routes have been established. The change goes into effect today.

In the business section there will be four deliveries each day. This is made possible by reason of the fact that North avenue has been taken off the route covered by the carrier in the business section. A new route, including North avenue, Fourth, Fifth and Sixth streets, between Watchung and Park avenue, has been assigned to Carrier Daniel VanWinkle.

In the East End of the city the changes, Mr. Bird says, should be of great benefit. According to the new arrangement people residing in that part of the city east of Farragut avenue will now receive their mail by 10 o'clock in the morning. Heretofore they have never obtained it before noon. Carrier F. M. Legge, one of the new appointees, will cover that territory, which will include the upper part of North avenue, East Third street, Richmond street and everything east of Berckman street as far as Leland avenue. This will also give a greatly improved delivery in the Netherwood district of the city.

In the West End, Mr. Bird has so arranged the territory that Carrier Britton Sheppard will cover the territory south of the railroad, including Fourth, Fifth, Sixth, Seventh and Eighth streets, between Clinton and Monroe avenues; also Sherman avenue.

This arrangement gives Carrier James Bailey the territory on the west-side of the railroad, including South Second street and everything between Clinton and Grant avenues. The new schedule goes into effect today and while there may be some slight mistakes before the carriers become thoroughly accustomed to their territories, but he predicts a greatly improved service throughout the city and borough.

PENHOLDERS IN CLASS OF "UMBRELLA HABIT."

The habit employed by patrons of the local postoffice in appropriating for their own use the pens and penholders furnished by the Government for their convenience has reached such proportions that the attention of Postmaster E. H. Bird has been called to it by the employes. It was learned today that during the past three months no less than six dozen penholders have been taken from the office.

Postmaster Bird in speaking of the matter today said that while the penholders in themselves are of little value the act of stealing them, in his opinion, is a serious one and should offenders be caught they would be severely dealt with by the postal authorities. These pens are placed at the registry and money order windows and it is not a common occurrence to go there and find no pen or holder. Requests from patrons for them aroused the employes and it was learned that they are being carried away almost as soon as placed in the holders intended for that purpose.

In Honor of Miss Mary Jonas.

The members of Companion Court, Westfield, No. 150, Independent Order Foresters, were entertained last night at the home of Miss Mary Jonas on South Second street. The gathering was in honor of Miss Jonas, whose marriage takes place tomorrow afternoon. During the evening a few remarks were made by Mrs. H. Howarth, after which she presented Miss Jonas with a set of silver teaspoons on behalf of the lodge. Mandolin and phonograph selections and singing by the Misses Etta Trembly and Mary Jonas helped to entertain the guests, after which refreshments were served.

A "Cordon Bleu."

A woman cook in France is known as a "cordon bleu," the title having come down from the days of Du Barry and the profligate King Louis. The king and his favorite one day had a discussion as to the relative merits of men and women cooks. The king contended that only a man could cook a dish fit for a king to eat, and Du Barry upheld the skill of her sex. The result was a dinner given by Du Barry, every dish of which had been prepared by a woman. At the conclusion of the meal the king acknowledged he was wrong. He sent for the cook and placed around her neck his own ribbon of the Order of the St. Esprit, known as the cordon bleu. Since then a skillful woman cook in France has been known as a "cordon bleu."—London Times.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

Miss Alma Hern, the well known actress of emotional roles, comes to the New Plainfield theatre tonight in Packard & Long's production of "No Mother to Guide Her" supported by a company of unusual strength. In this play, Miss Alma Hearn has made a radical departure from the line of parts she has been identified with in the past, by essaying a character comedy role. The play itself is a comedy melodrama.

"Laugh and the world laughs with you" is a saying that well illustrates the wonderful popularity of "Are You a Mason," which will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow night. "All the world loves a lover." It also loves to laugh. What would a newspaper be without a funny column and what would a season be without a big laughing success like this popular farce comedy? If the record of the past means anything "Are You a Mason" will live forever.

Messrs. Vance and Sullivan, two of the best known producers of American plays, are offering a new piece for the delectation of the clientelle of the popular play houses, in "The Great Wall Street Mystery, or the King of Wire Tappers," which will be presented at the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow, matinee and night. This piece goes deep into the expose of a gang of wire tappers, and tells a story of love and intrigue, that is highly interesting and is said to be exceedingly thrilling in its denouement. Of course in a play of this nature, comedy must be added to chase away the tears that come unbidden when the beholders witness the persecutions of the just, and this is supplied by characters not unknown—an Irish servant girl, and a young Hebrew,—the one who through her wit and naive shrewdness, and the other who through his keen calculating, aid in saving a daughter from dishonor, and a father from a term in prison for another's crime.

"The Night Before Christmas," which will be the attraction at the New Plainfield theatre next Monday night, is regarded as the greates play that has yet been written by that prolific author, Hal Reid. However this may be, it is certain that the plot upon which the piece is based is one of the most extraordinary of any play that has been written in recent years.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

FOOTBALL.

Pennsylvania, by her 6 to 0 victory over Michigan, Saturday, retains the intersectional championship between the East and West. The teams depended on the forward pass almost entirely, but Pennsylvania made her solitary touchdown on an onside kick by Gallagher. Magoffin, of Michigan, got the pigskin across the goal on a forward pass from the Pennsylvania fifty-yard line, but the referee called the play illegal and the score did not count.

The Michigan followers are very sore and vexed over the referee's decision disallowing Magoffin's touchdown, and claim that Michigan was never given a fair shake by Eastern officials when playing an Eastern team. At the same time it is acknowledged that Pennsylvania had the better offense with their superb back field, but that Michigan had the superior line, and there will be the hottest lot of fellows in Ann Arbor in forty-six States if Germany Schultz is not unanimously given the choice for centre on the All-American team.

Newhall, the Harvard quarterback, was forced to retire from the Dartmouth game on Saturday, with a bad cut over his right eye.

O'Brien, the crack Swarthmore quarterback, was a sad disappointment against Cornell, on Saturday. He was overtrained and became badly rattled. In addition to heeling a free catch he missed two chances for drop kicks inside the Cornell twenty-five-yard line.

Bowdoin won the Maine football championship on Saturday by defeating Maine by the score of 34 to 5.

Rough playing predominated to a great extent in the Cornell-Swarthmore game. Lynch, of Cornell, and McDonough, of Swarthmore, were benched during the game for indulging in slugging tactics.

Yale will lose seven players by graduation next June: Captain Biglow, Gongdon, Paige, Howard and Tad Jones, Bomar and Alcott. Of the remaining four Brides is the only player who has been on the eleven longer than this year. Coy, the star player, in Saturday's game for Yale, will probably be elected captain for next season.

The injury sustained by Gus Brown, Princeton's right end, in the Yale game on Saturday, may result more seriously than at first thought. In Princeton it is believed that his collarbone is broken.

Four members of the Georgia Tech school football team have been suspended on the charge of professionalism.

GOLF.

Apropos of courses for the amateur golf championship next year, the first gun has been fired by the Brae Burn Country Club, of West Newton, Mass. Golfers, both amateur and professional, have spoken in praise of the Brae Burn course, which was the scene of the women's national tournament last year. The quality of turf on the putting greens has greatly improved. The organization also possesses ample clubhouse accommodations and is easily accessible to Boston. At any rate, it has determined to ask for the tournament.

It is admitted on all sides that next year's amateur championship will be held in the East. Not a few of the leading players in the middle West are Harvard men. They know the Boston links and might like to visit the haunts of their college days. New York and Chicago clubs have divided the championship tournaments, with the exception of the one held at Atlantic City in 1901 and this year's gathering at Cleveland.

When the championship applications are filed early next month, the chances are that several other clubs besides Brae Burn will be found in the field. The Apawamis Club will in all probability remain quiet because of the operations on the new clubhouse. On the other hand, Deal may be heard from. Garden City also has been suggested and one of the Philadelphia organizations is likely to put in a bid.

The year of 1907 will be memorable in that no national championship was held in New York. It rarely happens that one of the three fixtures is not given to the metropolitan district, but for all that this section won its share of the honors. This was especially the case in the amateur at Cleveland, where Travis won the medal in the qualifying round with a score of 146 for thirty-six holes, while Travers and Archie Graham figured as principals in the final round.

The women kept up their rounds of the links, with little cessation. They were especially active in the Boston, Philadelphia and Chicago districts, but when the rivals met in championship battles the glory clearly rested with the East, more especially Boston. Representatives from that city not only won all the honors in the national championship tournament at Midlothian, but also formed the main strength of the team which defeated the rival forces from the Western and Canadian associations.

Tournaments and exhibition matches in which professionals took part were as numerous as ever, but there was one tournament—the Metropolitan open—that was missed this year. Although it was dropped, even after plans had been made and dates reserved, the general impression seems to be that it will be resumed next season.

Council Adjourns to Go to Fire.

The blacksmith shops at the Orchard Mine at Wharton were destroyed on Monday night in a fire which is believed to have been of incendiary origin. When the alarm came in the Wharton Borough Councilmen were in session, but they promptly adjourned at the stroke of the bell and went to the fire in a body. A locomotive in the shops was destroyed. The same building was discovered to be on fire about a month ago.

HUDSPETH'S TO COLLINS

Democratic State Chairman Explains to Party's County Chairman the Defeat.

ENCOURAGED BY SHOWING.

Greatest Harmony and Enthusiasm Existed Among the Ranks Says Campaign Manager.

General Dennis F. Collins, chairman of the Union County Democratic Committee, Tuesday received a letter from Robert S. Hudspeth, chairman of the State Committee, in which the latter thanks General Collins for his work during the campaign, and also takes occasion to give his view of the recent Democratic defeat at the polls. The letter follows:

"The election having passed, and we having experienced the elation of apparent victory and then the depression caused by defeat, it is now proper that we should look over the field to see if anything was left undone which ought to have been done, and which, if done, would have changed defeat into victory.

"The party throughout the State made a wonderful showing and gained ground in almost every section.

There existed the greatest harmony and enthusiasm among the rank and file. All worked together with the earnest purpose of restoring the Democracy to power in the State.

"We had high hopes of success and looked forward to victory, with every assurance that our wishes would be realized.

"Now we again experience the pangs of defeat, yet we are not discouraged. No one regrets more deeply than I do this setback.

"In view of the splendid organization of the party throughout the State, the vulnerability of our opponents, the great strength of our candidate for Governor before the people and the righteousness of our cause, I confidently hoped—in fact, expected—that we would win a great and decisive victory. But, with you, I have been grieviously disappointed. A much larger majority was expected from Hudson county in favor of our candidate for Governor than he received.

"In Jersey City there was a very bitter fight in connection with the selection for Mayor. It appears that almost all the organization Republicans voted for Wittpenn, the Democratic candidate for Mayor, and for Fort for Governor.

"As I understand, at the late primaries for delegates to the city and county conventions, a contest was being waged by the Faganites on one hand and the organization Republicans on the other (this primary being one of the most bitterly fought in the State); the organization's vote was about 6,000.

"Just how many of these voters voted for Wittpenn and for the Democratic candidate for Governor can only be guessed at. But this vote accounts in a great measure for the great difference between the vote in Jersey ity, of Wittpenn for Mayor and Katzenbach for Governor.

"There was also a factional fight in Hoboken. Each faction had a candidate for Mayor and Recorder. Here the Democratic Governor lost from 800 to 1,00 votes.

"All the circumstances and conditions combined to excite suspicion on the one hand and on the other to cut down the expected majority for Mr. Katzenbach.

"It is a matter deeply to be regretted that Hudson county was not able to roll up a much larger majority for the Gubernatorial candidate than it did.

"However, as I have already intimated, while we have received a discouraging setback, yet we are more determined than ever to put the party in thorough fighting trim by securing effective organization in every county and community in the State, thereby enabling us to meet our political opponents in the coming political contest with a thoroughly organized and disciplined body of harmonious enthusiastic Democrats—strong in their faith in the party and convinced of their ability to win a glorious victory over their opponents.

"I want to thank you personally and as chairman of the Democratic State Committee for the great and efficient work you performed on behalf of the party in your county. I have at all times received your hearty co-operation, and am deeply indebted to you for the aid and assistance I have received at your hands in the campaign just closed. I am, yours very truly,

"R. S. HUDSPETH."

ODD FELLOWS HOME TO BE IN TRENTON

Acting Grand Master Frank G. Crowther, of Perth Amboy, called the seventy-fourth annual session of the Grand Lodge of New Jersey, I. O. O. F., to order in Masonic Temple, Trenton, yesterday. By reason of the fact that the committees made better progress than usual, the convention was able to get down to work right after the session was called.

The morning session and a part of the afternoon was taken up with the officers' reports. t was shown that the net gain during the first six months of the year was 863 members, double that for the entire year of 1906.

A resolution was adopted which directs the grand representatives to make every effort to induce the Sovereign Grand Lodge to meet in Asbury Park in 1909. The Asbury Park lodges announced that a fund of not less than $10,000 would be raised for the entertainment of the visitors in the event of the national session being held at the seashore.

The Odd Fellows' Home proposition was before the convention for several hours, the location being the cause of the argument. It was decided by unanimous vote to purchase a property suitable for a home and a board of nine directors was named. The board was empowered to purchase the present home property on Pennington avenue, Trenton, if it can be secured for $12,000. The home association asks $15,000. The board of directors is composed of Henry J. Melosh, Jersey City; Frank W. Tussey, Camden; E. L. Pearsall, Newark, three-year terms; Walter S. Campbell, Newark; Thomas D. Mills, Jersey City; August Grassman, Hoboken; two-year terms; Chester Thompson, Clinton; W. S. Stout, Asbury Park; William McCullough, Swedesboro, one-year term. There was an effort made to have the home located at Bridgeton, but Trenton was first choice and prevailed by a majority vote.

THOMAS WITHDRAWS SUIT.

Had Asked Heavy Damages of Joseph Pulitzer.

E. R. Thomas, through his counsel, William Rand, Jr., in New York, yesterday afternoon withdrew his suit for criminal libel instituted against Joseph Pulitzer, president, and J. Angus Shaw, treasurer, of the Press Publishing Company, which publishes the New York World.

After many postponements the case finally came up before Justice Wyatt yesterday. Mr. Rand was asked that the suit be withdrawn, and Assistant District Attorney Garvan, after a conference gave his consent.

The suit was brought in connection with the publication by the Evening World of a picture of Mr. Thomas under a caption reading "The Rogues' Gallery.'

Flees from Office Seekers.

Robert Davis, the Democratic leader of Hudson county, has been so overwhelmed by importunte Jersey City office seekers that he has decided to leave the city and has gone West for a few weeks. He said he did not object to receiving them at his office, but they were at his home before he was out of bbed, and they kept flowing in until midnight. Mayor-elect Wittpenn is having a similar experience.

STATE LEAGUE SCHEDULE

Y. M. C. A. Basketball Team Entered in Contest for State Association Championship.

MATERIAL IS VERY PROMISING.

Two Teams, Major and Minor, to Be Formed, and First Regular Game Will Be Played Thanksgiving Day.

Posters announcing the basketball game between the Naval Reserves, of Hoboken, and the local Y. M. C. A. five on Thanksgiving Day have already been posted and the local association will open its regular basketball season with this game, to be played at 3:30 in the afternoon. The Y. M. C. A. five has already played four practise games and is making a good showing. Physical Director Listman has announced that the team will again be in the State Y. M. C. A. League, won last year by the Newark association. The local basketball players finished fifth, but there is a bunch of fast material out for positions this year, and to judge from the showing thus far, the local five should make a better showing this season.

There are to be two leagues among the State associations this year, and the local Y. M. C. A. will enter a Major and Minor team in the race for State honors. The so-called "second team" of the local association will play as the Minor team in these contests, which are distinct from the games to be played fo rthe championship by the regular five. A squad of twelve players has been retained after the tryouts in the four games played so far. These will form the two fives to represent the association in the two league contests, and the extra men will be retained as substitutes. Paul Collier and Fred Martin will be retained as centres, Captain "Ted" Gavett, Vincent B. Miner, John Jacot, Stryker Hoagland and Chris Utzinger are the material on hand for guards, and among the most promising of the candidates as forwards are John Loizeaux, A. B. Rumsey, Harry Gilmore, Edwin Templin and George Bentley.

Physical Director George L. Listman has practically completed the schedule, which has been announced as printed below. The games marked with a star are games in the major league for the State championship.

November 28, Thursday: Naval Reserves, of Hoboken, at Plainfield. November 30, Saturday: *Orange, at Orange. December 2, Monday: Twenty-sixth Ward Y. M. C. A., of Brooklyn, at Plainfield. December 14, Saturday: *Rahway, at Rahway. December 16, Monday: *Hudson City, at Plainfield. December 28, Monday: Maxwell House, at Plainfield. December 30, Monday: *Ridgewood, at Plainfield. January 13, Monday: *Orange, at Plainfield. January 18, Saturday: Paterson, at Paterson. January 20, Monday: *Passaic, at Plainfield. January 25, Saturday: *Ridgewood, at Ridgewood. January 27, Monday: *Trenton, at Plainfield. February 1, Saturday: *Passaic, at Passaic. February 3, Monday: *Rahway, at Plainfield. February 8, Saturday: *Hudson City, at Jersey City. February 15, Saturday: *Trenton, at Trenton. February 17, Monday: *Montclair, at Plainfield. March 2, Monday: Paterson, at Plainfield. March 7, Saturday: Twenty-sixth Ward Y. M. C. A., at Brooklyn.

Of this schedule, thirteen of the games will be played in the local gymnasium. These games will be at 8 o'clock in the evening.

WILL TEST LOCOMOTIVES.

An Exhaustive Trial of Efficiency and Economy of Five Types Now in Use.

Beginning next week and continuing for at least two weeks, the Pennsylvania Railroad will conduct at Pittsburg the most exhaustive test of locomotives ever made by a railroad company.

The object is to learn the actual worth of each of the five types of locomotives now in use on the system. The test will be made on the Crestline division of the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago, and will be in charge of D. F. Crawford, general superintendent of motive power of the Pennsylvania lines West, assisted by a corps of scientific experts.

The experts will select a piece of road which has all the different types of construction, all the grades, curves and conditions. The different machines will be weighed. The fuel, water, oil, steaming power and other technical details will be as carefully noted, and in each case the locomotives will be given the tests of speed, drawing power, relative cost, relative wear and tear on each, the effect on the roadbed and rail and even on the ties and spikes. All trains and weights will be recorded, and from the mass of data thus secured it is expected that deductions will be made that will have a far-reaching effect on the future orders of motive power for the entire Pennsylvania system.

At this time the first real test of the Pacific machine, the first of which was put in service several months ago, will be made. This is known as the largest passenger locomotive in the world. It weighs over 204,000 pounds. The official test was delayed until this time that the machine might be limebered up and at its best.

PISTOL DUEL WITH BURGLAR.

Real Estate Broker and Intruder Both Wounded—Got Cash and Watch.

A masked and armed burglar entered the residence of William E. Davies at Demarest, N. J., early yesterday morning and is probably carrying one or two bullets in his body as the result of a pictol duel that followed the discovery of his presence in the bedroom of Van Valkenberg Davies, a son of Mr. Davies. Mr. Davies is a real estate broker, with an office at 67 Wall street, Manhattan.

When young Davies was aroused from sleep he saw the burglar going through his waistcoat near the bed. As he turned to get his revolver the burglar flashed a lantern on the bed and then started to leave. Click, went Davies' revolver, as it missed fire. The burglar increased his pace and was at the bottom of the stairs when Davies got his revolver working.

The burglar stood his ground and returned the fire. One bullet passed through a finger of the elder Davies' hand. He had been aroused by the shots. The intruder jumped through a parlor window, which he had left open, and made his escape. Blood was found on the porch and steps.

Young Davies discovered that his gold watch and chain and $48 in cash were missing from his waistcoat.

Morristown Homes Robbed.

Thieves yesterday morning entered the homes of John C. Humbert, a New York broker; S. Haines Plum, and Mayor-elect William F. Redmond, of Madison. At Mr. Humbert's home they got three gunmetal watches, a handsome gold watch, belonging to Mr. Humbert, valued at $500, and $200 in cash. At Mr. Plum's they stole a pair of gold sleeve buttons, with diamonds; one gold pin, with pearl body, studded with diamonds; two gold studs and $25 in cash. The jewelry belonged to E nos Wilder, father-in-law of Mr. Plum. At Mr. Redmond's they got $80 in cash.

City Cannot Build Lighting Plant.

City Counsel William A. Lord, of Orange, yesterday received a copy of the decision of Justice Pitney in the municipal lighting plant case, in which the city is restrained from erecting a plant under the provisions of the act of April 10, 1906. The action was brought by Herbert Lighthipe. The city had made elaborate plans to build the plant as a measure of relief from the rates charged by the Public Service Corporation. Mr. Lord said that it had not been decided whether the city would take an appeal or not.

HUNDRED POSTMASTERS IN THIS ORGANIZATION

Postmaster E. H. Bird was among the Presidential postmasters who gathered at Trenton, yesterday, to effect an organization of such officials in this State. In all there were about 100 postmasters present and the New Jersey State Association of Presidential Postmasters was organized through the election of the following officers: President, Harry Bacharach, Atlantic City; vice president of first-class postmasters, G. W. Pollott, Paterson; vice president of second-class postmasters, W. H. Mackay, Ruhterford; vice president of third-class postmasters, George W. Hope, Raritan; secretary, C. D. Stainton, Englewood; treasurer, Evan F. Benner, Moorestown.

After the election of the officers and the adoption of the constitution and by-laws and hearing the reports of the various committees appointed by the temporary organization, of which W. H. Mackay, of Rutherford, was chairman, and E. D. Stainton, of Englewood, secretary, the association was addressed by Third Assistant Postmaster General E. L. Lawshe. Mr. Lawshe outlined the work of the department at the head in Washington and told the members of the association that as long as they eliminated politics from the organization they would have the support of the head of the postoffice service. Mr. Lawshe spoke on the proposed scheme of the postmaster general for the establishment of postal banks.

Among other prominent persons present were Postmasters Morgan, of New York; Postmaster Roberts, of Brooklyn, and James Cortelyou, brother of the secretary of the treasury, who is the postoffice inspector fir the division in which Plainfield is included. Each made a few remarks, referring to the postal service and ways for its betterment.

It is the purpose of the association to meet once a year.

Mrs. Fred Dixon, of West Fifth street, is visiting relatives and friends at South Amboy.

HOTEL CAN'T EXCLUDE JEWS, A COURT DECIDES

The right of a hotel to exclude Jews was passed on yesterday in a decision handed down by Justice Wanhope Lynn in the Municipal Court in New York in the case of Watson against Abbott. A peculiar feature of the case is that none of the persons directly interested is a Jew, that all the lawyers who argued the matter are Christians, with the exception of one, who was arrayed against the Jews, and that the judge who decided it was un-American to exclude a man from a hotel because of his race or creed was a Catholic.

It appeared that George H. Abbott, a lawyer, had rented an apartment at the Hotel Renaissance, but had changed his plans and wished to be released. William Watson, the manager of the hotel, agreed that this might be done if Mr. Abbott would find a tenant of undoubted responsibility.

In answer to advertisements on the part of Abbott, Walter J. Salamon agreed to take the lease off Mr. Abbott's hands.

Before this could be done, however, Mr. Abbott was told that the arrangement could not be made because the owner of the hotel, D. H. King, Jr., would not take Jews as tenants. It was shown at the trial that Mr. Abbott could find no other tenant, and the apartment remained unoccupied, and the suit against Abbott for rental followed.

In the course of his decision Justice Lynn said that a landlord had no more right to question a tenant's creed than the size of his foot or the cut of his clothing.

The judge in this decision says: "The counsel for the plaintiff, in support of his client's attitude, formally and deliberately states in his brief: 'The court will take judicial notice of the fact that among the Christian element in the community there is a prejudice against living in a community with Hebrews, and that in recognition of this prejudice owners of hotels and apartment houses throughout the country in many instances decline to extend their accommodations to persons of this race.'

"In answer to this I feel constrained to say that this contention is obnoxious to law and contrary to fact. While the prejudice may exist among ignorant, illiterate and irreligious people, it certainly cannot be said that it exists generally among the genius 'Christian element in this community,' nor could it find lodgment in the mind of any self-respecting American citizen.

"However, nothing would be gained by further considering this question of prejudice; it is not and never could be a matter whereof any court in our land would take judicial notice.

"Surely no court in any civilized community would say as a matter of law, it is a reasonable ground to be dissatisfied with a person as a tenant because he happens to be of the same racial stock. I accordingly hold that the plaintiff in law should have been satisfied with the defendant's prospective tenant Salamon, and I direct judgment for the defendant accordingly."

Hauck's Horses at Gethin Stables.

Peter Hauck, Jr., of Newark, who is a member of the Watchung Hunt Club, has sent his string of hunters and polo ponies to James Gethin's riding club stables for the fall hunting. In the string are Harry G. and Flashlight, well known as blue ribbon winners at the various shows; the thoroughbred "Modest" and two champion polo ponies. "Modest" is in the brackets as a winner on the flat. The animals are among the most valuable of the many that Mr. Gethin's has at his stables.

"Uncle Dave" an Elk, Yes!

"Uncle Dave" Carney is now wearing the antlers. He was duly initiated into Plainfield Lodge, No. 885, B. P. O. E., last night and emerged with a smile twice as broad as usual. Frank Allette, of Springdale, was elected to membership and will be initiated later. At the close of the regular meeting next Wednesday night, the lodge will conduct a Thanksgiving social session.

Ex-Prize Fighter Arrested.

Walter Bernardo, colored, was arrested by borough Marshal Kiernan for raising a rumpus on Somerset street after too many drinks last night. He is in a borough cell today, awaiting a hearing before Borough Recorder Dolliver at the session of court tonight. Some time ago the man was a prize fighter, and claims the local lightweight championship.

Another for the Armrights.

The Armright bowling team went to Bound Brook last night and continued its winning streak by taking three games straight from the Bound Brook five. The scores as a rule were low because of the poor condition of teh alleys. The Armrights lined up with Captain Britton, Chas. F. Meyer, Jr., Louis Skelly, John Campbell and Ferdinand Rockefeller.

Date for Entertainment Postponed.

It has been found necessary to postpone the date for the entertainment which was to have been given at the Casino, Monday night, by Charles Battell Loomis and George Fleming, because of Mr. Loomis' inability to come to Plainfield that night. Another date will be arranged for later.

4,000 SAILORS HONOR THE "UNCROWNED QUEEN"

Miss Helen Gould yesterday received a loving cup, given by the four thousand sailors attached to the Atlantic fleet, as an expression of their appreciation of her work. The presentation was made at the Naval Young Men's Christian Association building in Sands street, Brooklyn, which was built by Miss Gould.

Fifty men were detailed from each ship now in the navy yard to attend the ceremony, which was held in the auditorium. The cup was placed in the centre of the stage and was covered by a large silk American flag. Miss Gould is referred to by the sailors as America's "Uncrowned Queen."

No man was allowed to subscribe more than twenty-five cents toward the fund for the cup, which is of silver and more than two feet high. Ona gold mounting on one side is an inscription which reads, "Presented to Miss Helen M. Gould by the men of the United States Atlantic fleet, November 20, 1907." On the other side are the seal of the navy in relief and an etching of a new type of battleship. On the plateau bearing the cup are a gold monogram seal of the navy and an American eagle.

New Time Schedule at High School.

Beginning with tomorrow morning, there will be a new arrangement of the work schedule at the city high school. The devotional exercises, heretofore held when the pupils first assembled at 8:30, will be held by the entire school in the auditorium at 10 o'clock. There are six periods to the school day, and this arrangement will make the exercises come at the close of the second period, while recess will come at the close of the fourth period. Principaal Ira W. Travell will try the new schedule as an experiment, believing that the pupils will do better work if they do not have four consecutive periods of recitations.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Nov. 24: "Temperance." "The evil of strong drink."—Prov. xxiii, 29-35.

By REV. WALTER J. YATES, D. D.

Passages for reference—Heb. ii, 15; Isa. v, 20-25.

The Hebrew expressions in this passage from Proverbs are striking, and our translation, though it gives the meaning of the terms, does not fully preserve their forcefulness. "Who hath ah? Who hath alas?" would give rather more of the spirit of the simple original. What can be more accurate than this description of the evils which come from the use of intoxicants! The ah and alas, the contention and complaining of life, causeless or unnecessary wounds, darkness of the eyes, would be vastly less if this evil was not so universal. What mischief does it not cause! Scarcely anything will work greater havoc of the physical powers. Every vital function is disturbed, damaged, diseased and eventually destroyed by the continued use of alcoholic stimulants. Some may for a time fancy that they are benefited by their use in moderation. No one ever contended that drunkenness was beneficial. And it is too well known now to be disputed that even the use in moderation is harmful and dangerous.

What wreck alcohol makes of the mental powers! Some work for a time under its spur, more brilliantly and more rapidly, perhaps. But it is a fatal speed and a delusive keenness which is gained. It is unnatural and forced. It is not sane in results nor safe to the producer. If long continued, it proves exhausting. It cannot be trusted.

Still more serious is the wreck it makes of the moral prowess. It destroys the power of moral discrimination, blunts the edge of all sense of right and weakens to impotency the strength of good resolve.

But it is worse than this in its effects. Not only is the moral and intellectual personality of the individual ruined and bodily health undermined, but the social and political and business interests of the whole community are affected adversely.

It has been so fully demonstrated as to be undeniable that the trade in intoxicants does not benefit the community, but may be declared a nuisance. No revenue from licenses or taxes ever compensated for the evil wrought. This is accurately and exactly true regarding the material interests of a community when taken in the largest sense. It is profoundly so when the moral welfare is put into the balance.

No liquor business of any kind and no use of liquors ever made a company of people more manly and noble, more elevated in tone of life or more worthy of respect. It has never stimulated to deeds of patriotic daring, never nerved to heroic suffering and endurance. It has furnished no shining examples of philanthropy, led in no plans for the amelioration of distress and the suppression of crime.

It has been the prolific source of all crimes and vices private and public. It has defied all laws, disregarded all rights and trampled under foot all decency. It is evil and that only and continually. It should be utterly exterminated, and we should help do it.

The Best Thing.

The best thing in this world is a good man. The first thing that a human being should recognize about himself is that his character is his distinguishable feature. It is not the amount of money, the amount of power, the amount of brains, that a man has, but his character. Whatever fellow men may say or do to the contrary, this is a fact—that what separates him from others and gives him his individuality is his goodness or lack of goodness, according to its degree. Money, power and brains have their place and exert an influence in deciding a man's position and recognition, but by the standard of ages, by which every one is tried in character and in God's sight, which is the final and determined sight, men are what they are in wishes and purposes. It is not, then, too much to say that the supreme ambition of a person's life should be to secure a worthy character.

Your daily duties are part of your religious life just as much as your devotions.—Henry Ward Beecher.

Keep Happy.

Join the great company of those who make the barren places of life fruitful with kindness. Carry a vision of heaven in your souls and you shall make your home, your college, the world correspond to that vision. Your success and happiness lie in you. External conditions are the accidents of life, its outer trappings. The great, enduring realities are love of service. Joy is the holy fire that keeps our purpose warm and our intelligence aglow. Resolve to keep happy and your joy and you shall form an invincible host against difficulty.—Helen Keller.

To Grow or Not.

A stone may lie hid in the richest earth forever and not grow an inch, but give a seed a handful of poor soil in a crevice and it will push up to the sun. It is not our opportunities, but ourselves, that decide whether we shall grow or not.—Forward.

An Inner Life.

Every one ought to have a second or inner life above that life which he leads among others for the purpose of his avocation, be it to gain money or power or fame or to serve his country or his neighbors.—James Bryce.

Avoiding Trouble.

How much trouble he avoids who does not look to see what his neighbor says or does or thinks, but only to what he does himself, that it may be just and pure.—Marcus Aurelius

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Nov. 24, 1907.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—Home missions. The progress of work among the immigrants.—Num. xv, 13-16, 29-31.

The population of the United States in 1900, excluding insular possessions, was 76,303,387. Of this population 10,460,085 were foreign born and 15,687,322 the children of foreign born parents. Thus every third person in the United States is foreign born or the child of a foreign born parent. Nor has the tide of immigration from almost all European countries receded since 1900. Instead it has been greatly increased, and now not less than 1,000,000 foreigners come to our country in a year. Another fact worthy of notice today is that these millions are not coming, as formerly, from the better classes of Europe, but from the masses of the citizens of unfavored nations, and particularly unfavored so far as government is concerned. The tendency a few years back was to look upon this great immigration as a national peril and menace, but the better thought of today tends to look upon them as a future blessing. They are doing today industrial work in connection with great railroad, municipal and other enterprises that Americans would not do. Moreover, in a generation or two, under the influences of environment, the public schools and missionary labors, they will be entirely changed in appearance, disposition and in character. In all our great cities today many of the young people of these immigrants who were themselves born abroad are holding positions of trust and responsibility, and in dealing with them one would scarcely believe that they had been born in Russia, Austria or southern Italy. Our presbytery of the general assembly of the Presbyterian church has nine young Italians under its care studying for the ministry, and the average American student passes no better examinations than they nor present a more intelligent and pleasing appearance. Their conception of true religion and of the responsibility of the ministry is a superior one, and their desire is to preach the gospel to their own people.

The immigrants, therefore, in our country are making rapid strides physically, mentally and spiritually. There is no question of their progress, and the only question is for church and state to use effectively the opportunities for the advancement of "the strangers within our gates."

The great centers of foreign population are the large eastern cities, Chicago in the west and many western agricultural sections. About 40 per cent of the immigrants remain in New York state, 30 per cent settle in Pennsylvania, and the remainder is distributed now in many states, but especially in the west and northwest. Here the greatest work must be done, and the amount of work that is being done for the elevation and salvation of these people in such cities as New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburg and Chicago would be astounding to those who have never investigated the subject. Individual churches in these cities often have missions among the foreigners, and the ecclesiastical bodies of most of our large denominations carry on systematic mission work among them and have regularly organized missions and churches. In Philadelphia there is the largest and most flourishing Protestant Italian church in the country. Its membership is up in the hundreds, but this is only a small part of the great numbers, especially of the men, who attend the services. The children are taught both on Sabbath and through the week and make wonderful progress. Work is also carried on among the Chinese, Hungarians and other foreign people. So it is in New York, Pittsburg, Chicago and other cities and in our great industrial and mining sections. These millions of people are not criminals and illiterates. They work, and work hard. They are seldom lawless unless led by demagogue leaders. They want their children to have the best advantages, and in this lies our opportunity. These people in at least small numbers are in nearly every community. They can be led to Christ. They are being led to Him. Are we doing our part to win them?

Its Record Is Inspiring.

No organization has played a more important part in movements in behalf of the moral uplift in the world than the Christian Endeavor society. Its good work is written large in the world's history, and the field of its usefulness is constantly widening. Reports submitted by the officers of the organization plainly tell the colossal character of the work carried on by this band of earnest and worthy men and women.

The society's record is inspiring. With so much good achieved, it is no desperate hazard to say that the half is not yet told. Seattle is fortunate to entertain men and women who have wrought so enduringly in the world's affairs.—Editorial in Seattle (Wash.) Post-Intelligencer.

Forward.

Forward, C. E. brigade!
Fear not nor be dismayed.
Trust in God's promised aid.
Forward, Endeavorers!

To smite all forms of ill
That thwart our Saviour's will
Our mission to fulfill—
Forward, Endeavorers!

Forward shall be the call
Till sin's last rampart fall
And Christ is Lord of all.

Mr. Barnes, of New York

By Archibald Clavering Gunter

Author of Mr. Barnes of New York, Mr. Potter of Texas, That Frenchman, Etc.

A Sequel to Mr. Barnes of New York

COPYRIGHT, 1907, DODD MEAD & CO. N.Y.

"It's the only clew we have now to Marina, and it may lead me to Cipriano," he mutters, as he struggles to keep himself in the saddle.

Finally, arriving at Belgodere in the early morning and learning from the innkeeper that no carriage has passed through, exhausted, worn out and disappointed, even Barnes succumbs to nature. He has been 48 hours under headway, 30 of these on horseback and eight of them climbing precipices; and despite despair and anxiety, sleep claims him—the terrible sleep of utter exhaustion.

It is late when he opens his eyes again and with a start wonders where he is. He looks over the brilliant mountains, he sees the vines and only a few miles away, the waters beside which stands Isola Rossa. The innkeeper says "Breakfast, Signore," and serves him with crabs and lobsters from the Gulf of Fiorenzo. Mine host's little daughter places a bouquet of wild flowers on the table. In it gleams the red cyclamen. Barnes remembers and orders a fresh horse.

While this is being saddled he forces himself to eat. "Anstruther has not followed me," he reasons. "I'll have a long ride to overtake him and when we meet Cipriano Danella I want to be fit—to kill." Mounting a fresh steed, he gallops off, retracing his steps, all the time in his heart one question: "Where is my stolen bride?"

The night before, Edwin, turning to the east, begins to climb the awful hill leading to the Morosaglia. A few minutes after he has left the Corte road, in the faint glow of the coming moonlight, he springs off his horse and utters an exclamation of delight. As he pulls himself sailor fashion into the saddle, he has a branch of crimson flowers in his hand. He is not certain even now that they indicate Marina; though they have fallen from no overhanging bough, only beech and Larriccio firs being near him, he knows cyclamen flowers are very common in the island, and the little barefooted boys and girls sometimes carry them in their hands.

In the group of hamlets on the hillsides called Morosaglia, Anstruther does not pause.

But as he reaches the confines of the village, the young husband starts and his eyes, which fatigue had dulled, glisten with hope. Here are two paths, a trail leading to the north, the other and broader one pointing east toward the Tuscan sea. Along the latter, cyclamen branches have been dropped several times in a short hundred yards.

Their number is significant, they have been strewn quite continuously from the forks of the road. "My darling's message to me," murmurs Anstruther, and rides as hastily as his tired though wiry little horse will take him.

The branches of the sweet-smelling posies he still encounters on the trail hurry him up hill and down hill, over running mountain streams, through wooded vales. Yet at least Nature must have its meed—despite all efforts of the rider, his head droops and his figure becomes lax in the saddle.

His steed with a whinny of joy almost runs down into a little valley and drawing suddenly up before a high campanile stone building, Anstruther falls off his horse into the arms of a good Monk of the Convent of Piedicroce, who mutters: "Thank the Saints, you got here alive in time to drink the water of Orezza." For Anstruther's appearance between fearful fatigue and racking anxiety is now that of a man nigh onto death.

The hospitable friars put the invalid to bed and at high noon the next day the invalid, after another glass or two of the famous youth-giving Orezza water, which here springs bubbling from the earth, eats the noonday meal the good friars set before him, rises, gives them the blessing of a strong man and hurries on.

As he gallops from the little hamlet, some cyclamen branches greet him, he urges on his steed.

And what a ride it is, under the great trees of La Castagniccia, where chestnuts big as eggs drop upon him, the giant chestnuts that fed Paoli's patriot army, the bread of Corsica, each dozen trees being a peasant maiden's marriage dower.

But though the woods are all chestnuts, Edwin still sees in his road cyclamen branches, slightly withered now, their fragrance fading, and hope grows higher in his heart.

So he rides along the parklike vales of La Castagniccia, and before him is the green of the great Bavella forest fading away down the hillsides toward the distant and still unseen Tuscan sea.

Here Edwin checks his horse, springs off and picks up a cylamen branch, and as he rides along, looking at the flowers, suddenly ejaculates: "Jove, how fresh their perfume and plucked two days since."

But the lately cut flowers give no warning to the sailor; he is too eager now. Pausing at the little village of Pietra, Edwin steps into the inn to ask some questions and hears news that makes him frenzied.

The landlord, delighted at his libunnal where the voting is going on. "'The Lucchese' have got full of wine and are having a riot in that direction. They are perfect devils, these fellows from Lucca over across the sea that Danella imported to work upon his estates here."

"Count Cipriano Danella has estates here?" asks Edwin excitedly.

"Yes, now it is Cipriano. Down toward Cervione, where the cliffs run into the sea, the only place where it is not sickly and they have no lagoons. You can know it by the Genoese watch tower that was in ruins, but the count some years ago had repaired and made habitable."

"It's curious I never heard anyone mention Cipriano's properties here," mutters the sailor.

"Oh, possibly not. Till a fortnight since, they belonged to Musso Danella, the dead one, but Count Cipriano has now taken possession of them."

"He is there?"

"Why, I think so. A boy who came up the pass yesterday said the new count had come there in a vessel."

"He is there at present?"

"Quite sure!" laughs the man. "Cipriano himself rode through here yesterday escorting a lady with some of his followers."

"Aha, in a carriage driven by an old Corsican?"

"She was in a carriage, but was not driven by an old Corsican; a boy whipped the horses."

"She was young and beautiful?"

"My eyes are old, I could not see well, Signore. The carriage came rapidly past me, three or four riding about it. The lady looked as if she would say some words; she rose almost as if to spring out, but something in the carriage seemed to check her, and they whipped up the horses. Oh, Signore, how terrible you look!"

"The quickest way to Cipriano's estates?" asked Anstruther hoarsely.

"Down the road there, through the forest, over two ranges of hills and his land begins. But be careful how you go that way; the 'Lucchese' are just beyond the village. Hear them? They are rioting now," as Neapolitan outcries and Tuscan execrations and oaths and the rattle of stones are heard further to the east. "Best take a bypath."

Edwin takes the road pointed out to him; he wishes no delay with these Italian workmen, whom, imported in great numbers into the island, the Corsicans would probably butcher to a man did not their natural laziness make them prefer to let the "Lucchese" live and work for them.

But the by-path doesn't rid him entirely of the "Lucchese." Just after he has left the village he finds himself confronted by some hundred Italian workmen, who threateningly demand drink money, and unfortunately noting the cyclamen flower in the sailor's hand, the red being the color of the candidate they do not favor, they rush at him with upraised pitchforks and scythes.

But the lieutenant, remembering Napoleon's recipe for mobs, pulls out his pistol. Dodging one volley of stones, some of which come dangerously near to him, he dashes on, and there are two wounded "Lucchese" as he rides away—and three empty cylinders in his revolver.

Here a broken cyclamen branch makes him forget all else, and riding hurriedly, after some hours of mountain vistas, he reaches a little hill and gazes at a view which causes him for one moment to pause. The dark emerald of the woods descending quite rapidly, reaches the paler emerald of the sunlit Tuscan sea.

Few sails are on the quiet waters of the tropic sea, though a sailing fisher craft of some burden is anchored off the shore.

But what holds most strongly the hungry eye of Edwin Anstruther is the foreground of this wondrous picture.

Running into the gentle waves about half a mile from him is a cliff, topped by a fairy green of foliage; upon it stands a ruined turret. Its time-stained stones indicate it had been a watch tower of the Genoese in olden days and that from its top centuries ago had flamed beacons warning the fleeing people that the galleys of Barbary pirates were ravaging these shores. The mass of ruined masonry rising above the foliage has been now apparently repaired. The Englishman sees the sheen of glass in some of the little loop-holed windows. Beside it on the same cliff some 50 yards away is a comfortable Corsican farmhouse, increased by a long modern addition whose windows are large and whose portico is spacious. Of a sudden he thinks he sees a white hand waving some piece of woman's lingerie from the tower, and gallops down the road, careless of all except that it may be his wife. Though it is nearly dusk, the cyclamen flowers still greet him with their perfume. He rides across a little bridge that spans a chasm awful in its depth through which the sea rushes. It is light enough to see very indistinctly, and he finds himself on a lawn planted with ilex, citron and orange trees. On one side is the farmhouse; on the other the lone Genoese tower.

Some broken branches of cyclamen flowers lead him toward the turret. A light is now streaming from its upper story. Riding his horse to the low-arched masonry that is the entrance to the lower story, he springs off to alight upon cyclamen blooms. The odor of the flowers issues from the building itself.

The heavy oaken doors of the entrance are open invitingly, but he scares notices them. There is only one thought in his heart: "Is my wife upstairs?"

With his revolver ready in his hand, he dashes rapidly up the circular stone stairway, upon which open little loopholes. After nightfall, these give him no light. But the illumination of a lamp or candle comes down the stairway as he passes higher up. He calls:

There Are Two Wounded "Lucchese" as He Rides Away.

"Marina, are you there?" and enters the chamber at the top of the tower.

It is lighted by a lamp and fitted up for occupancy. There is a little bed in it, some old chairs and an oaken table. Upon the bed are a bunch of cyclamen flowers and articles of woman's apparel. He flies to examine them. They are not those of his wife.

Upon the table is an envelope addressed:

"Lieut. Edwin Gerard Anstruther."

Its contents, written in the same hand as that of Marina's letter, makes the young man's eyes roll in his head:

Mon Cher Anstruther:

I have been watching your coming over the hills, following the cyclamen flowers the charming Marina so astutely dropped into the path to bring you here—and am prepared for your visit.

"I'M NOT A CANDIDATE," SAYS JUSTICE GRAY

That George Gray, justice of the Third United States Circuit, composed of Delaware and Pennsylvania, will enter into no scramble for the Democratic presidential nomination, was made plain by Judge Gray himself yesterday.

"I am not a candidate," he said, smilingly, in reply to numerous questions concerning his intention.

"That is to say, you personally are making no efforts to secure delegates?" he was asked.

"That is one of the things it means?" he replied. "An office such as the Presidency should not be sought. Its honor, its duties, its responsibilities are too great to be the objects of personal ambition."

"Would you accept the nomination if —"

"Let us discuss something else," he interrupted, still smiling. "The need for improved waterways, for instance."

This is a subject on which Judge Gray is at home. His father, Andrew C. Gray, was one of those far-seeing men who developed the Delaware and Chespeake canal to the immensely useful and profitable enterprise it was before the Civil war.

"What is your opinion of the movement for canals in this country?" he was asked.

"The time is ripe," he replied, "for the development of waterways. I am deeply interested in the movement, as my presence here testifies.

"Water-borne merchandise always has been an important portion of the world's commerce. Encouragement of such traffic is part of this generation's work."

Football and General Sports

VARIOUS SPORTS.

The defeat of the city high school football eleven by the Westfield high school team yesterday afternoon showed that the local team will have to work hard to get that football championship, which the borough team now claims. The North Plainfielders have played two tie games with the city high school team, and only a sorth time ago they beat exactly the same line-up of Westfield players by a score of 10-0. This looks like the championship, but it would be better to have it decided by a third game between the two local schools.

Augustus Nash, manager of the city high school basketball team, has scheduled a game with the Manhattan prep. school, of New York, for Friday afternoon, March 6. The game will be played in this city. The team's only open date now is Friday, February 21.

Mr. Bostwick, manual training teacher of the city high school, will start a fencing class among the boys of the school. With fencing forming a more and more prominent part in college athletes each year, many of the pupils look upon this as a chance to get a good "prep." with the foils. Fancy club swoinging will also be a part of the work of the class now forming.

The borough high school girls' basketball team will play the girls' five from the Bernardsville school on the outdoor courts at the Somerset street school Saturday afternoon.

Last Saturday's game with the city high school football eleven was the last game of the season for the borough team. They will meet a picked team of the school alumni Thanksgiving Day on the North Plainfield gridiron. A challenge has been sent them by the Westfield team and the city school boys are anxious to definitely settle the local football championship by another meeting, but no dates have been announced.

Second Series in Tourney.

The second series of games in the five-men team bowling tourney will be rolled at Campbell's alleys tonight. The opposing teams will be the Washingtons and the Wellingtons. The former team is composed of V. W. Nash, Jr., captain; William Skinner, George Ortleb, James O'Keefe and Randolph Toense, while the Wellingtons comprise Francis J. Blatz, captain; Harry Montross, Harry Gilmore, William Pope and George E. Firstbrook. By "doping" out the respective merits of the ten men it looks as though the games would be still more exciting than those between the Bismarcks and Napeleons Tuesday night.

Clear Platforms On Jersey Cars.

Joseph Crawford, a trolley inspector for the Newark Board of Works, has begun a novel crusade in that city against crowded platforms on the cars, and as a result six conductors who have failed to keep a clear passageway at the rear platform have been summoned to appear in the 1st Precinct police court this morning to answer charges of violating a city ordinance. The ordinance was passed last May by the Board of Works making it obligatory on conductors to keep clear a passageway on the back platform. WESTFIELD IS CHAMPION

City High School Eleven Defeated 11-0 on Hope Common.

SMITH RUNS EIGHTY YARDS.

Westfield Held in the Second Half When Local Players Began to Play Football in Earnest.

The Westfield high school eleven clinched the title of scholastic football champions of Union county by defeating the city high school team 11-0 on Hope Common yesterday afternoon. Though they played better football in the second half, the local eleven could do but little against the strong Westfield line and their defense was pitifully weak against the formation plays of the visiting team.

The scoring was all done in the first half, Smith, the Westfield captain, making the second touchdown by an 30-yard run after getting the ball in a blocked punt. He kicked the goal just as time was called. Embleton, Westfield's full back, made the first touchdown after eight minutes of play, but Smith failed to kick the goal. The visitors backfield made consistent gains by straight football, behind interference that formed quickly and hit the line as though it meant beusiness. The backs got started quickly and, while the local players were superior in dodging in an open field, followed the interference for big gains from time to time. In the first half, Westfield had little trouble in gaining at any part of the line, and would occasionally tear of five or six yards around the end to put a little variety in the play. They would have scored twice more but for the gritty defense of the local eleven. The Plainfield line held against their attacks in two instances when they were within striking distance of the goal, taking the ball on downs on the 10-yard line in the first half and again on the 5-yard line in the second half.

Weakened by the absence of Burgaman and Hammond, the local boys played parlor football until about the middle of the second half. Then, in the half darkness, when there was no possibility of their winning, on account of the short time remaining, they started the gridiron style of play and would have given the spectators their money's worth—if it hadn't been too dark to see them. Murphy played a consistently good game, punting well and making good when it came to dodging down a broken field or getting the ball on fumbles. The other players were also in football clothes and put on extra sweaters between the halves.

Westfield received the kickoff and though the local eleven got the ball on a fumble soon afterwards, held fast in the line and forced the Plainfielders to punt. After that the visitors worked the ball down the field yards at a time and Embleton went through the line for a touchdown. Smith failed to kick the goal.

Westfield kicked off, but the local team was immediately forced to punt and the visitors, employing the forward pass with formation plays, worked the ball to their opponents' 10-yard line, where they were held for downs. Smith blocked Murphey's punt soon after this and ran eighty yards for another touchdown, extra time being granted for him to kick the goal.

In the second half the Plainfield eleven received the kick off, but were almost immediately forced to punt. Murphy blocked Embleton's attempt at a goal from the field and ran ten yards with the ball. Loizeaux's quarterback run of fifty yards was made without following the five yard rule for such a play and Westfield soon got the ball again on a fumble. The Plainfielders braced and took the ball on downs inside the five-yard line, working it down the field by good football to their opponents' 25-yard line before time was called. The summaries:

ELECTION OFFICERS' PAY

Clause in Law of 1903 Reveals Illegality of $30 Fee Now Paid.

FREEHOLDERS AGREE ON $25.

County Attorney Codington's Decision As Reported to the Board Is Agreed Upon.

The Union County Board of Freeholders met at Elizabeth yesterday to pay the election bills. The total sum authorized to be paid to the election officers was $18,500. It was officially declared by the board that according to the interpretation of the State law, the amounts to be paid election officers as as follows:

In districts where the registry is less than 150, $15; in districts where the registry is 1,500 and less than 300, $20; and $25 in districts where the registry is 300 or over.

All of the freeholders voted to pay the officers according to the present law, but Freeholder J. Hervey Doane took occasion to say that he believed the officers are paid too little and he would be in favor of an action that would give them at least the extra $5 which was cut off this year.

An explanation of the law as contained in the following resolution adopted by the Board was submitted by County Attorney W. R. Codington and approved by the committee in the first instance:

"Whereas, a question has arisen as to the amount that should be paid to the various election officers throughout the county for services rendered at the last general election.

"And whereas, it appears that the law regulating payment for said services was twice amended by the Legislature of this State as found in the laws of 1903 on page 628 and page 711 respectively; the former amendment being approved April 14, 1903, and the latter amendment being approved April 15, 1903.

"And whereas, this Board has been advised that the payment to the various election officers for said services rendered, should be made in accordance with the following provisions, to wit: $15 in districts where the number of registered voters is not more than 150; $20 in districts where the number of registered voters is more than 150 and not more than 300; and $25 in districts where the number of registered voters is more than 300; said sums to be paid by the county collector, and to be in lieu of all other fees and charges whatsoever.

"And whereas the majority of the bills presented to this board are for a greater amount than provided for in the above schedule;

"And whereas, this board is willing and desirous that said various election officers should be paid the full amount which the law will permit; but realizing that to sanction and approve the payment of a greater amount than is authorized by law, would subject this Board to criticism and prosecution.

"Therefore, be it Resolved, That the county collector, is hereby authorized to pay to the various election officers throughout the county of Union for services rendered at the last general election, the amounts to which said officers are entitled according to the number of registered voters in their respective districts as above specified; and that said payments be made without prejudice to either said election officers, or this Board of any of them, so that in case it should afterward be determined by judicial decision of our Supreme Court, that said payments so made, were not the full amount to which said election officers were, under the law, entitled, that the payments hereby authorized, would in no way bar or prevent a recovery for the balance.

"Dated November 21, 1907.
"Respectfully submitted,
"J. N. CADY,
"NOAH WOODRUFF,
"Auditing Committee."

Attended Silver Anniversary.

George Wharton Edwards, of Franklin place, was one of the guests at the twenty-fifth anniversary banquet of the Author's Club in New York, last night, and the souvenirs of the occasion were small paintings by Mr. Edwards.

WORKMEN'S LODGE GIVES THIRD ENTERTAINMENT

Columbia Lodge No. 58, A. O. U. W., conducted its third annual entertainment in Y. M. C. A. hall last night. It was attended by an audience that almost filled the hall and was far more enjoyable than either of its predecessors. The decorations were a notable feature, the space about the stage being a bank of palms, plants and flowers arranged by Peter Doeringer.

An orchestra of twenty pieces in charge of Martin A. Korff rendered catchy selections at various intervals and impersonations and pantomine numbers were given by Emil Closs. His description of a village school and the imitation of the teachers and pupils was his best effort and marked him as a decidedly clever entertainer.

Addresses dealing with the aims, objects and work of the Ancient Order United Workmen were made by Grand Master Workman Frank W. Reeves, of Atlantic City, and Past Grand Master Workman John Enright, superintendent of schools of Monmouth county. Past Grand Master E. C. Stahl, of Trenton, was to have made an address but was unable to attend.

The committee in charge of the entertainment was composed of J. W. A. Bauersachs, chairman; Peter Doeringer, Henry Nischwitz, V. W. Nash, Sr., J. D. Moon, R. V. Kinney and John G. Bicknell.

LIBERAL CONTRIBUTIONS FOR THE HARVEST HOME

Liberal contributions of fruits, vegetables, dry groceries and cash were received at the Nurses' Home of Muhlenberg Hospital, yesterday, for the annual harvest home reception. The affair was an enjoyable one, although the weather greatly effected the attendance. A feature during the hours of the reception was a popular program rendered by the orchestra from the Plainfield High School, under the direction of S. L. Howe, Jr., the instructor.

Special commendation is due to the pupils of the Plainfield and North Plainfield public schools, also the Parochial school, as well as the teachers of the Franklin school, all of whom sent generous supplies of useful things. The donations from the public schools and the Parochial school were in charge of Mrs. Edward E. Love, while Mrs. George P. Mellick and an able corps of assistants, members of the auxiliary board, took charge of the reception of donations. About $50 was received in small amounts from those who did not send fruits, vegetables, etc.

During the afternoon tea was served. Those who poured were Mrs. W. T. Pelletier, Mrs. F. D. Warren and Mrs. J. S. Zelie. They were assisted by Miss Imogene Bass and Mrs. Harry Squires in serving. The social features were much enjoyed and many attending took occasion to visit the hospital and learn something of the work being done there. The Nurses' Home was decorated, as usual, in harvest home style, there being a profusion of pumpkins, corn, the stalks and other vegetables of the season.

WILLIAM FEASTER PRESENTED WITH AN F. O. E. EMBLEM.

William Feaster, the popular dispenser at the Waldorf Hotel, was pleasantly surprised last night by a delegation from Elizabeth Lodge, No. 667, F. O. E., who came to Plainfield to present him with a handsome solid gold emblem of the order. Mr. Feaster did not know the intended visit and was taken completely unawares.

In the party were Worthy President P. Neaffey, Secretary D. J. Burke, George T. Carroll, D. J. Maloney and D. Sullivan, of the Elizabeth Lodge, John DeNise, James Wierenga, and Henry Windham, of Elizabeth Lodge. The emblem was presented to Mr. Feaster for faithful services performed by him as a member of the Elizabeth Lodge. Mr. Neaffey made the presentation. Another surprise followed when Mr. Sullivan received a silver mounted fountain pen as appreciation for his services. The affair terminated with a spread of good things provided by Mr. Windham.

Juniors to Attend Church.

The officers of Franklin, Someret, Benevolent and Plainfield Councils, Jr. O. U. A. M., and the Daughters of Liberty, are requested to meet in their lodge rooms on Sunday night at 7 o'clock for the purpose of attending divine service at the First Presbyterian church. The sermon will be delivered by Rev. Charles E. Herring, pastor, and the choir will render special music.

"Mother Goose" Bazaar at the Holy Cross Parish House Nets Good Sum.

BOOTHS DID BIG BUSINESS.

Many Partook of Mother Goose Turkey Dinner At Closing of the Novel Fair Last Night.

The unpleasant weather last night seemed to have no effect on the success of the "Mother Goose" bazaar, held at Holy Cross church parish house, and it is reported that more money was taken in at the various booths and in the supper room than on the opening night of the affair. Mrs. J. O. Stevens, chairman of the general committee in charge, has not been able to figure up the financial report, but, though the expenses will be heavy, it is believed that several hundred dollars will be cleared. Assisting Mrs. Stevens on the general committee were Rev. and Mrs. George A. Warner, Miss Ida Davis, Mrs. George O. Stevens, Mrs. I. R. Murray, Mrs. Henry A. Woodruff and Mrs. Emil G. Larrsson.

Many of the parishioners came early so as to partake of the "Mother Goose" turkey dinner before spending the evening at the various booths. The fancy articles and good things to eat, which were for sale at the prettily decorated booths in charge of the women of the parish, and in several cases, the supply of articles offered was disposed of before the evening was over. FIRE DEPARTMENT RECEIVES A LIFE NET.

The equipment of the local fire department was added to this morning by the arrival at headquarters of an up-to-date life net of the Woodhouse company make. It was ordered by the fire committee a short time ago at the request of Chief Doane who has advocated the purchase of one for several years.

The net is similar to the ones used in the big cities throughout the country and is designed to be held by the men for people to jump into when cut off from stairways by fire and beyond reach by ladder. It will be carried on one of the trucks and a special corps will be delegated to take charge of it. As soon as the men are appointed they will be given daily drills in its use until they are thoroughly competent to place it in use.

Hunt Club Schedule.

The Watchung Hunt Club will meet at the Baltusrol Golf Club tomorrow for the weekly chase over territory not hunted this season. On Thanksgiving Day morning the members will meet at Mt. Pleasant schoolhouse at 9:30 o'clock and will hunt in the vicinity of Rahway and Westfield. The last chase of the month will be on Saturday, November 30, when the club will meet at South Plainfield railroad station at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon.

Engagement Announced.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Gray, of West Front street, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Frieda Theodora Gray, to Dr. Stephen A. Aldrich, of Grant avenue.

HENRY W. LOWE WEDS QUIETLY IN NEW YORK

Henry W. Lowe, son of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Lowe, formerly of Park avenue, but now of New York, and Miss Marie Leary, daughter of Mrs. James D. Leary, of 722 Fifth avenue, New York, were married at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, at the home of the bride's mother. The Rev. Father Lavelle, of St. Patrick's Cathedral, performed the ceremony. The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Daniel J. Leary.

Miss Beth Leary, a niece of the bride, was maid of honor, and the bridesmaids were the Misses Mary Mortimer, of New York, and Mary Easton, of Albany. Oakleigh Thorne, of New York, was best man, and the ushers were W. H. Cheesebrough, R. E. Dwight, Arlo Pardee and W. N. Davey, of New York. After a wedding trip in the south the couple will reside in the Mayfair Apartments, Fifty-seventh street and Park avenue, New York.

AMERICAN AUTHORS TO BE HIS SUBJECT

Rev. William R. Mulford, a recognized authority on American literature and the pastor of All Saints' Episcopal church, Scotch Plains, has promised to give a course of three lectures on the foremost of America's authors. He has chosen as his subjects Oliver Wendell Holmes, the father of Associate Justice Holmes of the United States Supreme Court; J. Fenimore Cooper, the author of Leatherstocking Tales and other internationally famous volumes of Indian fiction, and Washington Irving, the renowned writer of "The Knickerbockers History of New York, and many other equally excellent works.

Dr. Mulford's talk on Mr. Holmes, the author of "The Autocrat at the Breakfast Table," will be given at the home of Mrs. H. Leroy Baker, No. 139 East Seventh street, on Wednesday afternoon, December 4, at 3 o'clock. His lecture on Cooper, the New Jersey fiction writer, will take place at the home of Mrs. Lemuel William Serrell on Wednesday evening, December 11, at 8 o'clock. The date and place for his discourse on Irving has not been announced.

GRACE CHURCH CHOIR GIVES FAMOUS ORATORIO

Alfred R. Gaul's oratorio, "The Holy City," was excellently rendered at Grace church last night before a large audience under the direction of William E. MacClymont, choirmaster and organist of the church. The soloists were Mrs. Theodore Mantz, soprano; Mrs. Bayard Hawthorne, contralto; William J. Tallamy, tenor; Charles Jones, bass. Mrs. Mantz and Mr. Tallamy sing regularly at the church, Mrs. Hawthorne, though a resident of this city, sings at a Cranford church, and Mr. Jones is soloist at St. John's church, Yonkers.

Considering the weather, there was a good attendance of appreciative music lovers. The rendition was well performed and impressive. The full vested choir of the church took part in the croruses. The program follows:

Introduction, chorus, "No Shadows Yonder;" air, "My Soul Is Athirst;" trio, "It Shall Come to Pass;" chorus, "They That Sew In Tears;" air, "Eye Hath Not Seen;" chorus, "For Thee, O Dear, Dear Country;" chorus, "Thine Is the Kingdom. Intermezzo. Air, "Thus Saith the Lord;" chorus, "Holy, Holy, Holy Is the Lord of Hosts;" chorus, "Let the Heavens Rejoice;" air, "To the Lord Our God;" air, "Come, ye Blessed;" chorus, "The Fining Pot Is for Silver;" air, "These Are They;" duett, "They Shall Hunger No More;" chorus, "List the Cherubic Host;" chorus, "Great and Marvellous Are Thy Works."

The offering was to defray the expenses of the rendition of the cantata.

Prisoner Signed the Pledge.

At his hearing before Borough Recorder Dolliver at the session of borough court last night, Walter Bernardo, colored, who was arrested on a drunk and disorderly charge by Marshal Kiernan Wednesday night, signed the pledge to alienate him from liquor for six months. He was very contrite and offered the sweat-off on his own initiative. The judge fined him $2 to help keep his memory of his arrest fresh.

Miss Fisk to Give a Dance.

Invitations have been issued by Miss Anna Fisk, of West Seventh street, for a "barn" dance to be given at the Casino on Thanksgiving eve. It is expected that many novel features will combine to make the affair one of much interest to the younger society set.

HE FOILED HIGHWAYMEN

James Regan, Driving Brewery Wagon, Fells Assailant with Beer Bottle.

HOLD UP ON WEST END AVENUE.

Attacked By Two Men Last Night, Bohren's Driver Saves His Roll By Stunning One Highwayman and Riding Over Other.

Stopped by two highwaymen on the bridge at West End avenue, at about 6:30 last night, James Regan, driver for Adoph Bohren, a wholesale liquor dealer, felled the man who climbed into the wagon by a blow with an empty beer bottle, and whipping up his horses, drove over the other man, who was holding the horses' heads, and made his escape. The hold-up, as Regan was driving back to the brewery after making his regular collections, was a complete surprise to the driver. As he was driving along the road in the half dark, two men sprang from the side of the road near the bridge. One seized the horses and the other climbed into the wagon, demanding money.

Quick as a flash Regan reached for a case of empty beer bottles behind him and seizing a bottle, dealt the man a stunning blow on the head as he was about to grapple with him. The highwayman fell to the ground, and the other man frightened by the display of force, loosened his hold on the horses' bridles. Regan whipped up and drove rapidly away, not stopping to see how badly the man struck was injured. He informed the borough police of the hold-up, and Marshals Keller and Pope went at once to the place, but could find no traces of the men.

Regan had about $30 with him and was returning to the brewery with a load of empty bottles and more than $15 in money from collections in New Market and Dunellen. He could give no accurate description of the men to the police, but said that the fellow who climbed into the wagon was tall and had a black mustache, while the other man was short and stocky. Neither of them seemed to be Italian. There are few houses near the bridge and the road is lonely. The borough police have as yet been unable to trace the men.

ISRAEL GODDU DEAD.

Passed Away at His Home in New Market Yesterday After a Long Illness.

Israel Goddu, a former well known West End resident, died yesterday at his home at New Market. He was forty-nine years old and had been ill a long time from a complication of troubles. Mr. Goddu was a native of Massachusetts and came to Plainfield with the Pond Machine Tool Company in 1888, having been employed by the concern in Worcester. He was a foreman in the machine department and was greatly liked by all the men in the shop. He held the position until the time his illness began, and when compelled to stop work he moved from Grant avenue and Fourth street to a small farm at New Market in the hope that a change would benefit him. He was a member of the A. O. U. W. and the Pond Mutual Aid Society. Surviving him are a wife, a step-daughter and a step-son, Mrs. L. Newton and Joseph La Fleur, both of this city.

The funeral will be held in St. John's church, Dunellen, Monday morning at 9 o'clock. Burial will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

Judgments Against Paul Nachtwey.

James Rowland & Co., branch of the American Farm Products Company, of New York, and Pettit & Reed, of New York, are complainants in the district court in a suit against Paul Nachtwey, proprietor of a delicatessen store on Watchung avenue. Judgment has been given the complainants and execution papers were served yesterday closing the store. The amount of the claims are a little less than $200. It is said that there are several other creditors, but they have taken no action as yet. Hezekiah Hand, acting under instructions from Judge Newcorn, took possession of the store yesterday and there will be a sale of the goods Wednesday afternoon, November 27, at 2 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Rowland Entertain.

Mr. and Mrs. David Hall Rowland, of West Seventh street, gave an informal dinner at their home Wednesday evening for Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Marshall, of New York. Others present were Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Bakewell, Mr. and Mrs. George Wharton Edwards, Miss Ursula Rowland and Willard Wadsworth.

—Everything for the Thanksgiving dinner but the turkey at Neuman Brothers'. Their assortment includes prepared plum puddings, high grade mince meats, table raisins, assorted fruits and vegetables and many other good things.

SERIOUSLY INJURED AT SCOTT'S PLANT

Alphonse F. Demalleggo, an Italian employed in the shipping room at the Scott Press Works, was badly bruised and perhaps internally injured at the shop this morning, when a heavy packing case, loaded for shipment, struck him a glancing blow as it toppled off the rollers on which it was being moved. The accident happened at about 8:30 this morning, and the ambulance took the victim to the hospital, where Dr. Ellis W. Hedges made an examination. His chin is badly lacerated and his side bruised; though the exact nature of his internal injuries has not yet been learned, it is believed that he will recover.

Demalleggo, with a party of fellow workmen, was moving a heavily loaded packing case on rollers through the shipping room to a flat car. Through improper placing of the rollers, the box toppled, and in his efforts to steady it again, the Italian was caught a glancing blow by it. The box struck his face and scraped along his side, crushing him into a nearby packing case. His fellow workmen quickly shifted the weight, avoiding further injury. His condition at noon today was only fair, but he is believed to be in no danger.

PUBLIC SERVICE BEGINS A RETRENCHING MOVE

A change of policy involving a shakeup of unusual proportions is being put into effect by the Public Service Corporatiton. The move is prompted by a desire to retrench financially because of existing conditions in the money market.

The new policy contemplates a cutting down of expenses for construction work and for the acquirement of new business, but it is declared that officials high in power and with correspondingly big salaries are to be let go, others are to be transferred to less lucrative positions, and still others will have to submit to substantial reductions in the compensation they draw for services performed.

President Thomas N. McCarter, when asked about the corporation's affairs yesterday, said:

"In common with other large corporations throughout the country, the Public Service Corporation has determined upon a comprehensive plan of retrenchment in its search for new business; in stopping new construction and extension, and in its managerial and executive force.

"The plan, so far as it affects a curtailment in the search for new business and in a stoppage of new construction, is already in effect. So far as economy in the executive and managerial force goes, it becomes effective January 1. The details of this I do not care to go into at the present time except to say that all who will be affected by the change have already been notified.

"Taken altogether, it is a very substantial plan of retrenchment which will enable the company to effect very large economies, which is, of c ourse, very essential just now. The more important changes will be made later on."

In the stories of the changes it is reported that Secretary Frederick Evans will go and be succeeded by Colonel E. W. Hine, now assistant to the president, and that A. B. Carlton will give way as head of the electrical department to Charles A. Stirling, now in charge of transportation.

A MISSIONARY MEETING.

Gathering at Hope Chapel Addressed By Miss Josephine Petrie.

Under the combined auspices of the various societies in the congregation, a missionary meeting of unusual interest was held in Hope chapel, last night. The feature of the program arranged was an address on missionary work in the southwest by Miss Josephine Petrie, who has but recently returned from that part of the country. Her description of the needs of the people and the manner in which the gospel is being spread held the rapt attention of the gathering.

Following the meeting, a social time was enjoyed and mission work was discussed.

DEFENDS THE PRESIDENT

James Martine Lauds Roosevelt at Democratic Banquet and Reception.

IN MR. KATZENBACH'S HONOR.

The "Farmer-Orator" Electrifies Fellow-Guests at the Democratic League of the State Dinner at Trenton.

Under the auspices of the Democratic League of the State of New Jersey, a reception to Frank S. Katzenbach, Jr., the defeated candidate for Governor, was given last night, at Trenton, and among the speakers of the evening was James E. Martine, who worked zealously during the campaign for the Trenton man's election.

In his speech Mr. Martine said:

"You, Frank Katzenbach, should be a happy man tonight, for what more magnificent compliment and tribute can be paid a man than the earnest and heartfelt plaudits of your fellow-citizens as have been given you here. Your life has been one of victory. You have never tasted of defeat in your political struggles. You are a bigger and grander man in defeat than you have ever been in victory. For while in material things defeat may be death and annihilation in contention for principles defeat has never blotted out a truth or annihilated a principle.

"The thought and truth is brighter after the contest than before it is begun. The Democratic party is not one of retrogression but of progress. Never in the history of our State was a platform more progressive in Democratic principles or American ideals than was our late platform upon which Mr. Katzenbach ran and it deserved a better fate at the hands of the people. That our candidate was ideal and our cause just we know. The disposition on the part of a certain element of our people was to find fault with President Roosevelt for intermeddling, as the cause for our financial disturbance. I feel as though nothing was further from the truth, that he had simply thrown back the screen and portrayed the condition of rottenness that prevailed in our land as the result of the seed that was sown. I say advisedly that every act that had made Roosevelt's administration popular, and it was popular, had been the result of putting into force and place Democratic thoughts and ideas as adopted in the platforms of the Democratic party.

'No one can question the fact that corruption and misgovernment has been rife in our commonwealth. I feel that the hope of our people is in the change of partisan administration in our State, as would have been administered by men of Frank Katzenbach's calibre."

Mr. Martine closed his speech by picturing a brighter day and happier dawn for the Democratic party in the State of New Jersey. He pleaded earnestly for organization in cities and hamlets that the party might be prepared for the great fight to take place one year from today when a President will be placed in nomination before the people of this country. After stating that he had personal preferences toward one great leader who had polled 4,500,000 votes in a recent contest, he would bow humbly to the decision of those whose duty it was in convention to place in nomination the Democratic candidate.

Local Gunners Join Association.

The Independent Gun Club has joined the State association for the protection of game, and Henry Haurand has been appointed official delegate by the club to attend the meeting to be held in Paterson next month, at which time the question of the abolishment of the season for spring shooting will come up for decision. The State association has published many reports on this subject, and it is the general opinion among local sportsmen that the spring shooting will be abolished for all kinds of game. There is considerable talk by the association of shortening the fall shooting season as well, because of the thinning out of the game throughout the State.

Plainfielders Among the Officers.

Rev. A. E. Finn, pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church, was re-elected president of the home department work of the State, at the closing session of the New Jersey Sunday-school Association at Freehold, yesterday. A new department of work was added to be known as "The Organized Adult Class Department," and James E. Church of the First Baptist church, this city, was chosen president of the department for the State.

—Alexander Ecoldo, the Italian lad who was injured while riding his wheel down Dugway hill, Tuesday afternoon, is improving rapidly at the hospital.

Hall Monday night.

As members of the Plainfield High School orchestra, Ray and John Dutcher played at Muhlenberg Hospital yesterday afternoon on the occasion of the harvest home festival held at the nurses' home.

Mrs. Samuel E. Merkel and son, J. Edwin Merkel, of New Market, have returned after a short visit with Mrs. Merkel's parents at Bangor, Pa.

The local football eleven will play the Mohawks on the Dunellen field tomorrow. The game will be called at 3:30 in the afternoon.

Routine business was transacted at the regular meeting of the Building and Loan Association held last night in the borough building.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The bad weather last night interfered with the attendance at the prayer-meeting held at the Methodist church. Rev. Mr. Dedrick may decide to hold the meetings for another week, the interest manifested being very encouraging.

John Schroeder and daughter, Miss Tillie Schroeder, who have been visiting Mrs. Frank Hosinger, have returned to their home in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kalloway, of Stelton, have been visiting Mrs. Kalloway's parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Coddington, of Park avenue.

As a recognition of good service, Marshal Logan has had his salary raised by the Borough Council; money well spent.

Robert Walpole, who has been detained at home for a week with a severe cold, is able to be around again.

Rev. T. Moore-Smith will lead the weekly prayer and praise service tonight at the Baptist church.

The Township Committee meet tonight in the town rooms.

FOOTBALL.

That Harvard is going to surprise the 37,000 persons expected in the stadium tomorrow to see the Yale game seems practically certain. By the way the eleven is rounding into form a far different team will meet the Elis from the one that met defeat last week at the hands of the Dartmouth eleven.

With all the coaches on the field, an exceedingly long and very encouraging secret practise was held yesterday. The scrimmage was omitted, the work being confined to breaking through, starting, punting and specific work for the men according to their positions. Much stress was placed upon the tackling by Dave Campbell, who took the most active part of any in the drill.

The signal practise was lively and several promising new formations were run through. All the varsity men, with the exception of Burr, who rested for the day, were on the gridiron. Newhall will probably be able to play tomorrow, and it has been definitely decided to shift Starr from end to quarterback, so that in case Newhall cannot continue long in the game a suitable substitute will be available.

Boston and Cambridge, it is asserted, within a day or two would have been flooded with bogus tickets to the Harvard-Yale football game but for the timely discovery of a counterfeiter's plot by the police of Portland, Me.—Harvard yesterday sent a representative to Portland to aid in the prosecution of William Leighton, alias Brooks, of Boston, and Fred Patrick, a Portland engraver, arrested Wednesday night after a block of boxwood bearing a draft of the Harvard-Yale ticket was found in Patrick's room.

Patrick, the police say, declares Leighton offered him $15 to make the engraving. The design of the football ticket is almost as elaborate as a bank note, but from the excellence of the plate it is evident the bogus tickets would have been sold without difficulty at speculators' rates.

Bermer, the Pennington Seminary quarterback, who received internal injuries in a scrimmage on Monday, was taken to the Mercer Hospital, Trenton, yesterday, where he underwent an operation. Bremer, it is expected, will recover, but he will never play football again.

Lafayette players have adopted soccer as a game to develop lung power and wind. Yesterday the regulars and scrubs went through a game in Easton in preparation for the annual game with Lehigh, that takes place next Saturday.

Secret practise is to be the rule at Harvard for the Yale game tomorrow and a lot of stiff drills are being meted out behind the barriers.

Slingluff, the Navy centre, is out of the game with a sprained wrist, and will nurse it so as to be fit for the Army game on November 30.

The dropping of Captain Cook from the Cornell team was no surprise, as he has been sadly out of condition recently. Unless he shows some return to his real form he will not get in the Pennsylvania game on Thanksgiving Day.

GOLF.

A revised constitution will be offered for adoption at the annual meeting of the Metropolitan Golf Association to be held at Delmonico's on December 10. The revision makes few changes in the matters of substance, but consists chiefly of a regrouping and better arrangement of the various provisions.

At the coming meeting each club will be entitled to be represented by two voting delegates, and the names of these delegates should be certified by the club secretaries. Following are some of the articles and sections that have been subjected to changes in the revised code

Article III—Section 2, relating to delegates, is out of place in an article relating to eligibility of clubs for membership. It should be in the article relating to meetings.

Section belongs under a different article, viz., an article relating to championships. Article IV—relating to assignment of dates, is out of place in an article relating to obligations and discipline. The article relating to executive committee should give it the right to assign dates—and that is a better place for this provision.

Article V relates to officers, and Article X relates to duties of officers. The two articles should be consolidated into a single article, entitled "Officers."

Article VI is entitled "Government." The title should be "Executive Committee," and the article should be set out the manner of election of the committee, its powers and duties, and how and when its meetings are to be held.

Article VIII relates to meetings. It contains no provision for any notice of the annual meeting or of special meetings. There should be a provision for the usual thirty days' notice.

Article IX relates to amendments. Under this article all amendments to the constitution must be made at the annual meeting. There should be a provision for amendments at special meetings also, on thirty days' notice.

The articles on "Nominations," now in the by-laws, should be in the constitution. There should be a provision in the constitution giving the executive committee full power, in its discretion, to reject any entry for the amateur championship. There should be an article setting forth the duties of the auditing committee.

VARIOUS SPORTS.

Sportsmen who have always opposed the anti-spring shooting law in Wisconsin on grounds that it would be worthless until Illinois could be induced to pass the same law, now admit that it is a grand thing and are heartily in favor of its continuance. Within a radius of 15 miles of Delevan there were, I am sure, several hundred young wood ducks raised this summer. Another pleasing feature of the effect of the law—and an important one—is the increase in the number of other waterfowl which breed on these same marshes and lakes, owing to the fact that they are not disturbed by gunners in April. I was greatly surprised this summer on my visits to the various ducking places to note the number of coots, grebes, gullmules, terns, herons, king rails, etc., which were breeding there—more than I had ever seen before. Loons bred on Delevan lake this summer for the first time in many years and the young were seen by many persons from the resort steamers. Reports from other parts of the State are also good, and while I am not personally acquainted with the present condition anywhere but in the southeastern part, the great improvement in the early fall shooting soon after the first duck migration has commenced indicates that the mallard, teal, wood ducks, schoveller and others of the species breeding in this region have summered but a little north and within the limits of the State in greater numbers than for many years.

FARMERS ARE READY TO START THEIR SCHOOL

Judging from the application and inquiries that are coming, this year's class for the short courses in agriculture at the New Jersey State Agricultural college, in New Brunswick, will be much larger than last year. The term opens on Tuesday, December 3, and will continue to March 6. Dr. Edward B. Voorhees, the director, is now preparing for the opening.

Last year thirty-nine took the course, thirty-six being from New Jersey, one from New York State and one from Halifax, Nova Scotia. Last year was the first of the school and the courses were more or less of an experimentt, and they proved highly successful, fulfilling the promises which had been made to the Legislature when the appropriation for this work was sought. During the summer a new building for testing cattle was erected, so that the school will be better equipped this season than last.

The aim of the school is to teach farmers, their sons and daughters, how to become better farmers, more skillful stockmen, dairymen, fruit growers or market gardeners. The instruction in everything is practical, with the special view of being immediately useful. The students are taught by practical demonstration how to manage soils, how to use fertilizers, how to judge farm stock, how to select varieites of farm crops, propagate plants to bud, graft, plant and prune orchards, to handle milk and cream, to make butter, and in general to more intelligently conduct farming operations. The courses fit men to take responsible positions on farms, dairies and orchards, and there is a constant demand made upon the college for such men.

The course is free to residents of the State and a fee of $25 is charged to those outside the State. Practically the only expenses of the course is the cost of living in New Brunswick, and board can be had near the college for from $4.50 to $6.50 per week.

Three courses are offered to students. Newcomers are advised by Dr. Voorhees to take the course in general agriculture; the other two courses, dairy farming and fruit frowing and market gardening, are meant for those following that special branch of work.

The course in general agriculture covers the subjects of soils, manures and fertilizers, farm crops, composition and use of commercial feeds, breeds of animals, farm buildings and equipment, and general structures, life histories and habits of insects.

The officers and instructors of the short courses are as follows: Dr. W. H. S. Demarest, president; Dr. Edward B. Voorhees, fertilizers, feeds and farm management; Professor Jacob B. Lipman, soil bacteria; George M. Lummis, soil chemistry and phyics; F. C. Minkler, animal husbandry, and farm crops; George A. Billings, dairy husbandry and butter making; Peter R. Letson, Jr., assistant in milk testing; M. A. Blake, fruit growing; R. L. Watts, market gardening; Professor John B. Smith, economic entomology lectures; E. L. Dickerson, laboratory practtice in entomology; Clara M. Chandler, secretary.

When Mansfield Couldn't Act.

Auguste Van Biene, writing on Richard Mansfield, says that "many years ago the actor was in one of the small 'Pinafore' companies. He played Sir Joseph Porter, and I was the musical director. eW lived together, and our joint salary amounted to about $35 a week. We were rehearsing 'Pinafore,' and Mansfield could never please or satisfy the stage manager, the late Richard Barker. After trying a scene through ever so many times poor Mansfield lost his nerve and said: 'Please, Mr. Barker, do leave me alone. I shall be all right. I have to act the part, not you.' 'Act!' said Barker. 'Act! Great heavens, man, you'll never act as long as you live!'"

Her Hundredweight of Coin.

Near Ahogill, Ballymena, an old woman was knocked down and killed instantly by a dray. When the police inspected the wretched dwelling in which the old creature lived they found it almost packed to the door with branches of trees and wood for the winter's fuel. Further search revealed a hoard of money. Two lorge buckets and a tin trunk were full to overflowing with all kinds of current coin as well as a bigger wooden box and about a dozen mugs, and when the whole of the money was collected and put into scales the total weight was considerably in excess of a hundredweight. The woman lease no relatives so far as is known.—St. James' Gazette.

Civilization by Sunflower.

Our Kansas sunflower is said to be invading the deserts of New Mexico and Arizona. With the advent of the Kansas sunflower come rains and clouds and crops. It has taken fifty years for the Kansas sunflower to cross the desert, ascend the mountains and lift its joyous head in midsummer bloom on the other side of the divide. Wherever goes civilization in the bounding, blooming west there goes the Kansas sunflower, the precursor of all there is in life worth having.—Eloorado Republican.

THE FORUM.

A Timely Warning.

Editor, The Daily Press:

Philadelphia and Reading coal engine No. 692, yesterday afternoon about 4:30, stood directly on the Park avenue bridge for about ten minutes, blowing off steam and the air-brake engine nicely working. My horse and the horses of several other persons refused to go under the bridge while the huge, noisy engine stood there. I hope you will print this notice in The Daily Press and that it may thus be brought to the knowledge of the railroad company, so that the habit may be stopped Otherwise some one will have a runaway by trying to get his horses under the bridge and the Philadelphia & Reading Company may be called upon to pay damages.

SITS ON CROSS ON HIGH STEEPLE

Dared, Lad Climbs Up Unfinished Spire While Many Watch from Street.

James Dugan, twelve years old, of Glen Ridge avenue, climbed the 200-foot tower of the partially constructed Immaculate Conception church, at Montclair, Wednesday evening, and finally reached the gold cross on the gilded dome, after braving dangers which would make many an older steeplejack pause.

Young Dugan and Thomas Finnerty, fourteen years old, were at the church last evening when the men who are placing the copper covering on the dome of the high church tower quit work. Dugan dared his companion to make the ascent, and both boys began climbing the steeple. Finnerty stopped at the dome, but Dugan continued to climb, and while many persons who realized his peril watched from below the silence, lest a cry might cause him to lose his hold, the boy gradually sumrounted the dome, and a few minutes later he had pulled himsely up on one of the arms of the big cross that gleams from the pinnacle.

"It's fine up here," the intrepid Dugan called down to his more timid companion. "Ye can see the Singer building in New York." Both boys received a spanking, but they are now the idols of their school companions.

PERKINS' ACT DEFENSE PRESENTED BY VAN SYCKLE

Former Justice Bennett Van Syckel argued for the sustaining of the Perkins main stem taxing law in the Court of Errors and Appeals yesterday at Trenton. Most of his argument consisted in making answer to the contentions raised at Wednesday's argument, in which Richard V. Lindabury attacked the constitutionality of the law. His argument was to the effect that the State had a right to fix an average tax rate, to be computed by the local or municipal rate.

He also argued that the scheme of dividing or classifying property was clearly within the provisions of the constitution. His argument was on lines of justification of sub-classification of railroad property.

The plaintiffs are the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey, United New Jersey Railroad and Canal Company, Pennsylvania Railroad Company, lessee; Bergen County Railroad Company, Lehigh Valley Railroad Company of New Jersey, Long Dock Company and the Morris & Essex Railroad Company. Their counsel are George Holmes, Vredenburgh, Wall & Carey, R. V. Lindabury, who opened the argument yesterday, Collins & Corbin and William D. Edwards.

The State Board of Assessors is the defendant in all the suits. The amount involved in the tax as levied by the State assessors under the Perkins act is $3,609,371.25, the rate being levied at the average tax rate of the State. Under the old law main stem steam railroad property was taxed at one-half of 1 per cent. The 1906 tax has not been paid because of the appeals of the railroads.

Another case that will be disposed of before the rest of the list of cases is taken up by the Errors Court is that of the United New Jersey Railroad & Canal Company, Pennsylvania Railroad Company, lessee, against Frank W. Parker, collector of taxes, the Mayor and Common Council of the city of New Brunswick. The question involved is whether the Pennsylvania company's charter from this State is an irrepealable contract. If the court should agree with this view as set up by the company the taxation act would not be effective as against such a contract construction. This phase of the matter will be argued after the other questions affecting the appealing companies are disposed of.

ENGLISH CHOSEN GRAND WARDEN OF THE I. O. O. F.

The Grand Lodge of New Jersey, I. O. O. F., concluded its labors yesterday afternoon with the installation of officers by Grand Sir E. S. Conway, of Chicago. The election of a grand warden was productive of a keen fight, there being six candidates in the field. Thomas E. English, of Ridgewood, won out by a scant margin on the second ballot. Rev. B. M. Lippencott was appointed chaplain.

Henry Melosh, of Jersey City; Malcolm B. Wood, of Newark, and August Grassman, of Hoboken, were appointed a committee to revise the constitution for the subordinate lodges to make it conform with recent legislation by the Sovereign Grand Lodge.

Grand Sir S. E. Conway delivered a strong address on "Odd Fellowship" at the morning session, Brand Scribe Harry Walker and Grand Master Stephen Daring, both of New State Lodge, were in attendance yesterday. In publishing the list of officers-elect the name of Stephen Schlief, of this city, as junior warden, was omitted.

Pigs Need Warm Shelter.

A fall litter of pigs cannot be raised in quarters where the temperature is liable to make extreme changes. It is as essential to avoid an extreme change from the proper to the improper temperature as it is from a proper to improper ration. As a rule, sheds which are open at one side and both ends are far from satisfactory. They should be so constructed that they can be closed if necessary during cold periods.

Killing Poultry.

The best method of killing poultry is to dislocate the necks, and one the knack is acquired it is a simple method. The legs are held in one hand and the bird's neck is taken in the other, and by a quick movement this is elongated so that it is quite dislocated. After this a sharp penknife is inserted through the roof of the mouth to allow the blood to pass away freely. It is best to pluck immediately.

London Tramways.

No doubt the majority of the London County Council is delighted at the outcome of the Council's tramway enterprises. All the fears so peculiarly expressed during the fight of last year and all the shameless allegations about account cooking and jobbery have disappeared, and the accounts of the tramways just issued for the year ended March 31 last are of the most gratifying description.—Investors' Review.

Camels and Water.

The scent of the camel for water is said to be very keen. He can smell it a great way off, and oftentimes the travelers who are suffering for water will let the camel take his own way, and he will take them to a place where water may be found.

WILLIAM R. TOWNSEND NOW TAX COLLECTOR

The adjourned meeting of the Common Council last night was chiefly for the purpose of accepting the $25,000 bond offered by William R. Townsend, tax collecter-elect. He gave the American Surety Company as his bondsman, and upon the motion of Mr. Tolles, chairman of the finance committee, it was accepted and filed, after he stated that it had been approved by Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh. This being done, Mr. Townsend became the city tax collector exactly at 8:50 o'clock last night, the time he qualified for the position, succeeding John W. Murray, Jr., and he is now in charge of the office.

Upon the motion of Councilman Henry D. Hibbard, chairman of the fire and building committee, the petition of Frederick Squires, an architect, for permission to erect a dwelling house of fire-proof terra cotta and concrete on Madison avenue for DeWitt Hubbell, was granted, as was also the petition of Joseph O. Osgood, chief engineer of the New Jersey Central, for permission to erect a small wooden office shed just west of the North Avenue station.

This shed will be used by the U. S. Express Company and will take the place of one formerly on that location. It will be covered with currogated iron.

At the suggestion of Mr. Montgomery, chairman of the light committee, the city clerk was instructed to inform the P. S. C. that the light ordered has not yet been placed in front of the West End Tabernacle.

EL MORA TO HAUL DOWN FLAG.

Hamlet Will Vote on Union With Elizabeth or Roselle.

El Mora, the hero of many a half-page ad., oftimes praised as the most beauteous spot 'twtxi the Hudson and the Delaware, is in a quandry. The residents don't know whether to come under the protecting wing of Elizabeth or join hands with Roselle. They do know there's nothing in independence.

It seems that taxes have been steadily increasing without a corresponding growth in necessary improvements. There is no police protection, no system for the removal of garbage, and no free delivery of mails. They have a school, but it's away up in Union township, with which place there is no trolley connections. Altogether conditions are getting to be beyond what even a commuter will stand.

So tonight a big mass meeting is to be held, the flag of Independence hauled down, the half-way system of union with Union township abolished, and union with Elizabeth or Roselle advocated.

STUDENT KILLED ON LIVE WIRE.

Princeton Freshman Climbs Up a Light Pole After His Coat.

James T. Walker, Jr., a freshman in Princeton University, was shocked to death by a live wire yesterday in sight of several companions at Princeton. It had begun to rain, and, running to the dormintory, Walker shouted to a friend in the third floor to toss down his rubber coat. As the coat fell it caught on a live wire about twenty feet in the air.

Walker climbed an iron pole to get it, but coming in contact with the wires received a shock from the current of 2,500 volts and was almost instantly killed.

Walker lived in Evansville, Ind. He prepared at the Haverford school at Haverford, Penn., and played end on this year's freshmen eleven. He was twenty years old. He was a brilliant player and one of the stars of the '11 team. The accident has caused general grief among the students here, as it is the first fatality in many years.

LOCAL MEN TO SPEAK AT CHARITY CONFERENCE

Leon R. Thurlow, health officer for the local Board of Health, and Rev. A. C. Nickerson, pastor of All Souls' church, have been designated as speakers at the annual meeting of the State Conference of Carities and Corrections to be held in Jersey City in February. Numerous questions relating to the aims for which the charity workers are striving will be discussed.

Mr. Thurlow has been assigned the subject, "Sanitation and Hygiene" and Mr. Nickerson will lead a discussion on "The Organization of Charitable Relief." State Senator Everett R. Colby, of West Orange, will also be in attendance and act as chairman for a discussion of the subject, "Crime, Its Prevention and Treatment."

The conference has never been held in Jersey City before and an energetic committee is working industriously to make the meeting a success. In order to interest the people all through Hudson county, a citizens' committee of over 100 has been appointed. At former meetings held in other parts of the State, the addresses aided greatly in facilitating the work and the list of speakers secured for the coming occasion is one of the highest excellence.

Mrs. Palmer Campbell, of Hoboken, is chairman of the entertainment committee, which will not only look after the social entertainment of the many visitors but will also provide accommodations over night for those who come from a long distance.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—No better coffee to be had in the city than Neuman Brothers' Mocha and Java or Old Government Java. Either will make a most delicious beverage.

—The rain yesterday put a stop temporarily to all street work. It was the intention of the P. S. C. to complete the laying of the new tracks on West Front street and connect them up last night, but operations had to be stopped early in the afternoon. Contractor Meeker's gang stopped concreting early in the morning.

PERSONAL.

James R. Blair, of Duer street, is detained at home by illness.

Silas D. Drake, of Bound Brook, is detained at home with a severe attack of nervous prostration.

"A Pipe Dream" Says Fisher.

"Scotty" Fisher, who was picked up by the police Wednesday night and arraigned in the city court on a vagrancy charge, today requested The Daily Press to deny the statement in another local paper last night that he had informed a reporter that he was with "Dutch" Ides when Patrolman Saffron chased him Tuesday. "It's a pipe dream," was the way Fisher expressed it and Fisher has a way of telling the truth about things in a few words. "Muxtry, all about Dutch Ides!"

Mr. Townsend's Successor?

The borough Board of Education will hold a meeting at the Somerset street school Monday evening. At this time the question of securing a successor to Samuel Townsend, whose resignation from the board was accepted at the last meeting, will come up for consideration. Mr. Townsend was chairman of the truancy committee of the board and it has been through his efforts that the truancy system has reached its present state of efficiency.

WON'T RAISE PRICE OF MILK AT PRESENT.

Several of the prominent milk dealers of Elizabeth held a meeting Wednesday night to discuss the feasibility of raising the price of milk to the consumers. The dealers decided not to increase the present price unless they were obliged to do so by a raise in the wholesale price on the part of the farmers from whom they obtain the fluid.

The Fairfield Daiy Company, which sells milk in Newark and its suburbs, announced through a circular last Sunday that the price of its certified milk had been advanced from 12 cents to 15 cents a quart. Along with the delivery of milk Sunday morning, the customers found the circular which conveyed to them the information of the advance. The circular stated that the advance was necessitated by the increased cost of maintenance as well as the expense incurred through the compliance with the hygenic regulations.

A Jollier.

Mayor Douglass, of Niagara Falls, said the other day of an office seeker:

"He is a jollier. He reminds me of a chicken thief of Utica."

A police reporter wrote of this thief, "The prisoner laughed aloud for mercy." And when the night editor asked for an explanation of that queer sentence the reporter said:

"It's exactly what happened. Every poor old feeble joke the magistrate made the scoundrelly thief roared fit to split his sides."

HOW MUSIC IS WRITTEN.

Composers Cannot Tell Just How They Do It.

A St. Louis composer, whose operas have achieved popularity all over the United States, was recently asked how he composed music.

"I don't know," he said, "sometimes a melody is suggested to me by the words of a poem, sometimes by a sound like the rumble of a street car, or the rattle of the wheels of a railroad train, and sometimes it comes as an inspiration without any origin that can be traced. People occasionally have the idea that, after a melody is written, the composer must sit down at the piano and hammer out a harmony, but, as a fact, no musician ever hears a melody without at the same time heading in his own mind all the harmonies that are appropriate to it."

A St. Louis orchestra leader, who is also a composer, says that he never tries to write music until he feels the inspiration.

"Sometimes days will pass without writing a line, simply because I feel no inclination to write. Then, all of a sudden, without any notice, melodies come crowding into my mind so fast that I have have not time to write them down. If I have a sheet of music paper convenient I use it, but if not I scratch the lines of the staff on any paper that may be at hand, and then make my notations on that. Often I have used the margin of newspapers in writing down my memoranda. I lost a pretty melody once that I had written on my cuff. I intended to copy it when I reached home, but found I was rather late, for there was a concert that night, so I laid my cuff aside and my wife, not noticing the melody scribbled on it, sent it to the laundry.

"They say that the biggest fish is the one that gets away, and on the same principle I feel pretty sure that the melody that was washed off my cuff was the prettiest I ever wrote."

DRAINING SWAMP LANDS.

The Process Is Going on All Over the Country.

At an expense of about $20 an acre, Dan V. Stephens, of Fremont, Neb., is said to have converted 420 acres of practically worthless Platte Valley swamp into valuable farm land, worth, perhaps, $100 an acre. While the food producing capacity of the country and its home manufacture consuming capacity are being enlarged by irrigation, the gaining of the same end by the converse process of drainage is not being neglected. The Dismal Swamp of Virginia and North Carolina, 1,000 square miles in extent, has long been shrinking as part after part has been drained and turned into the most fertile of farm land. Eventually, the entire area will be producing crops. Minnesota has recently drained swamp lands belonging to the state, and the value of the land at once rose rapidly. The state of Florida is largely a swamp which will one day be turned into a garden spot. Drainage operations are becoming common along the Missouri in Nebraska.—Kansas City Star.

Auto Seemed Out of Place.

One day last week a passenger in a Jerome avenue car noticed a smart touring car with a canopy top swing out of Woodlawn cemetery in which were seated five persons, all in deep mourning, end even the chauffeur was in a black livery. By chance both the trolley car and the automobile had to stop owing to the road being blocked, and from the manner in which the passengers in the car "rubbered" at the party of automobile mourners it was plain that their appearance in the motor struck the onlookers as unusual.

"Well," one old lady remarked, "I think they might keep those things out of the cemeteries at least."

Sequel to a Murder.

The murder of a family in a lonely country in Hungary has had a remarkable sequel. Gypsies are suspected, and every tribe and caravan in the province surrounding Buda-Pest has been placed under arrest on suspicion. It is believed the government will utilize the occasion for stamping out nomadism in Hungary.

Cause and Effect.

"Pop!"

"Yes, my son."

"I think our hen is going to lay an egg."

"What makes you think so, my boy?"

"'Cause I saw her eating the egg plant in the garden today!"—Yonkers Statesman.

Cause and Effect.

"Plump figures," said the woman who was reading the fashions, "are going out of style."

"Nonsense!" answered her husband. "Food is rather expensive. But the situation isn't as bad as that."

AMUSEMENTS.

"The Auto Race" and "The Four Seasons," is the dual title of the new spectacle to be produced at the New York Hippodrome the night before Thanksgiving. As indicated by the title, the new production will deal largely with automobiles and the prevailing craze for speed. This will be the second production at the world's biggest playhouse by Messrs. Shubert and Anderson, who are determined to out-do even the glories of "Neptune's Daughter" and the thrills of "Pioneer Days," the current offerings at the Hippodrome, which ahe now in their closing week. All the resources of the greatest playhouse in the world will be utilized to make "The Auto Race" the prevailing sensation of the season. The new spectacle will be a radical innovation for the Hippodrome, inasmuch as modern costumes and up-to-date themes are introduced for the first time. In "The Auto Race" Messrs. Shubert and Anderson will produce a spectacle which may be described as a solossal musical extravaganza, given on a scale about ten times larger than would be possible in any ordinary theatre.

When the actor-manager awoke on the morning after the first New York performance of "The Great Divide" and found the play famous, and himself and Miss Anglin in a fair way to make a fortune, the idea came to him of spending his first two thousand dollars profit from the play for a string of real nuggets taken from the mountains of the territory which furnish the picturesque setting of the play. That amount was placed in a separate bank account to be held intact until it could be devoted to the purpose intended. Gold nuggets of the uniform size desired are not easily obtainable at this distance from the source of supply. Mr. Miller was unable to further his desire until Mr. Moody went to Arizona for a three weeks' sojourn in September. Mr. Miller commissioned the dramatist to buy the nuggets and he succeeded in getting them, though not without a deal of difficulty. This precious chain does not live in the property room at Daly's with the other portables of "The Great Divide" production. Except when in use on the stage it reposes in a safe deposit box at a hotel across the street.

After having played "The Master Builder" to the longest run ever recorded an Ibsen play, Madame Nazimova has been compelled by reason of hundreds of requests, to revive her greatest success, "A Doll's House." It was through this vehicle she attracted more attention than has been the lot of any actress on the American stage, in the past two decades. Unquestionably, there has never been a performance of this most interesting of all of Ibsen's dramas, which has brought greater fame to a star or more enlightnment to a playgoer than Madame Nazimova's interpretation of the willful leading character of this absorbing drama. Many actresses have essayed "A Doll's House" but it remained for Madame Nazimova to clearly illumine what has heretofore been a opaque mental study. Supported by many of the original company the theatregoer who has not had the pleasure of seeing this clever performance of a most interesting play, will not miss anything that was pre-eminent in the original performance. As the engagement of "A Doll's House" is limited to a few weeks by reason of the production of a new modern play in which this brilliant actress will be seen in an emotional role, it might be well for those who have never seen Madame Nazimova in her strongest role to avail themselves of this opportunity. Matinees will be given on Wednesday and Saturday, with an extra matinee on Thanksgiving Day.

"The Man of the Hour," that has been witnessed by half a million people during its wonderful run at the Savoy theatre, is the play of a generation. It is one of the few plays with such inherent dramatic strength and abrorbing interest that it submerges the ilentity of the actors. Usually one playgoer says to another: "Have you seen so-and-so, in such and such a play?" But when the Broadhurst success is discussed it is, "Have you seen 'The Man of the Hour?' Never was there more convincing proof of the fact that "the play's the thing." Brady and Grismer have supplied a splendid cast of favorite players and a beautiful and artistic stage equipment. Their shrewdness as managers dictated that, but all would have been wasted upon a play of less conviction, force and vital interest. Here is a theme that appeals to every decent citizen opposed to graft and corruption in public office. Here is a love story that is wholesome, real and untheatric. Here is a comedy that snaps like a log fire at Yule tide and sends sparks of radiant humor scattering in every direction. And, most significant of all, here is the only play, of those current a year ago, that has held the New York stage without interruption ever since, with no sign of abatement in popularity or crowded houses. The 500th consecutive performance is close at hand. Wednesday, Dec. 11, is the date. Of course there will be souvenirs; promise is made that they shall have unusual significance and value. Already the sale is very large. Early application for seats will be necessary. This suggestion also applies to the holiday performances, including special matinees, for Thanksgiving, Christmas an New Year's.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

How all obstacles are overcome by a courageous woman, who by her skill argues her case before judge and jury, and wins against the most brilliant lawyers. The piece is a wonderful scenic production, with electrical effects that are entirely out of the ordinary.

The genuine merit of the play is well known, locally, and its engagement should prove highly successful from an attendance point of view, as it is sure to be equally so in pleasing qualities. The piece is a comedy of home life based upon a most unusual plot; it is filled from first to last with all the varying elements necessary to please and entertain each of the different classes of amusement lovers.

In "Why Girls Leave Home," which will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre next Wednesday night, is promised a play of exceptional merit. The story is a purely wholesome one, consistent and coherent, and in this alone has it won its remarkable success. The story is of a wilful girl, beguiled into questionable pleasures by a man of the world. A hot-headed elder brother, a sweetheart, a sister and mother, who do not understand the girl, take part and complicate the situation by misunderstandings. There is a great deal of emotional work as well as many exciting scenes while the comedy interspersed throughout the action is of the side splitting sort. The play is mounted on an elaborate scale and an admirable cast has been selected to interpret the several characters.

An Old Custom Revived.

The custom of crying "Police!" which had been virtually abandoned because it seemed futile will be revived by the experience of John McAllister.

Mr. McAllister was held up the other night near De Beliviere and Delmar avenue. In the excitement of the assault he forgot that no one cries "Police!" any more, and he revived the custom with lusty lungs.

Faith in the resort will be greatly strengthened by what happened. A policeman was within easy hearing, he ran in the right direction, Mr. McAllister was rescued, and one of the highwaymen was captured.

George Bernard Shaw has a little saying which is better philosophy than our American habit of being without faith in so many things. It is this: "You never can tell."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Checks Not Counterfeited.

The items which are being published in various papers as news emanating from Easton, Pennsylvania, stating that it has been discovered that pay checks of the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey have been counterfeited, and that the company is taking steps to recall the checks, are absolutely without foundation. It is surmised this report was started for some malicious reason, but its only effect can be to bring unnecessary annoyance upon those people who are least informed as to the use of checks in business.

FOOTBALL HINTS.

The best way to throw a football is to grasp it firmly in the hand with the thumb on the laces and toss it with the point toward the person who is to receive it. This will give it the spiral effect which makes it easy to handle.

Kicking has been and always will be one of the most important departments of the game. It gives a team great confidence to have a reliable kicker, and a team cannot be considered a first class aggregation without one. Ten yards is a long distance to be gained in three downs, and when two teams are evenly matched the punt signal invariably will be given on the third down.

The kicking game is an excellent one with a good kicker and a fast pair of ends. Practice will make one on expert kicker. Drop kicking and place kicking also have come to the front and many a game last year was won by a field goal.

Could You Believe Him?

A young fellow was being tried for an offense in the criminal court the other day. He had for his attorney one of the younger members of the bar. One of the witnesses against him was not very prepossessing in his appearance, but his testimony was quite damaging. In his argument to the jury the young attorney was claiming that this witness was not worthy of belief. He then turned and pointed to the man as he thought and said: "Look at him. Could you believe him?"

He was pointing at another attorney.—Columbus Dispatch.

Plainfield horses were again in the money at the annual horse show at Madison Square Garden, yesterday. W. J. Buttfield's "Miss Banahan," took first prize, $150, in Class 12, for horses four years old or over, substance, style of going, manners, action, bitting and shoeing and as they appear at time of showing in the ring considered. In Class 110, for jumpers, "Rifle," James Gethin's horse, and ridden by "Dick" Donnelly, was highly commended.

WASHINGTONS TAKE TWO FROM WELLINGTONS

Pulling together in the last "lap" after suffering two defeats, Captain Blatz's Wellings saved themselves from getting blanked in the bowling tourney last night. They dropped the first games to the Washingtons, captained by V. W. Nash, Jr., but landed the third with a margin of forty-eight pins. As on Tuesday night when the Bismarcks and Napoleons clashed, a big crowd was in attendance and the rattle of the pins was almost lost in the noise of cheering.

The first game was close throughout but by a strong windup, the Washingtons took it by a tally of 830 to 764. The same team took the second game by a lead of 123, leaving their opponents behind after the first few frames. Splits were the hoodoos for the losers and it seemed impossible to get away from them.

A feature of the series was the shooting of "Rudie" Toense, who finished out with an average of 186.2. In the first game he got a bad start and scored 157 but more than made up for it in the second. He landed a 233 score, the record for the series. His last figures were 157. Captain Blatz got the highest average on the Wellington side and Skinner was second on the Washingtons with 173.1. An average of 124 credited to "Fozzy" Firstbrook was brought about by a split thumb that developed in the first game.

The scores were as follows:

WASHINGTONS.
Nash	154	183	153
Ortleb	131	167	125
Toense	157	232	170
O'Keefe	192	143	122
Skinner	196	181	143
	830	907	713
WELLINGTONS.
Montross	175	148	136
Pope	147	146	167
Firstbrook	148	116	108
Gilmore	130	191	178
Blatz	164	183	172
	764	784	761

Tourney games tonight will be between the Garibaldis and the Brian Borus. They will team up as follows: Garibaldi—John J. Campbell, captain; Orrie Dodge, Elmer D. Cutting, John McLaughlin and Walter Crowley. Brian Boru—Harry Radin, captain; Harry Ackor, Dr. F. C. Herbert, Henry Kuehn and Edward McMahon.

The Athletic Association of the First Baptist church will meet at the church tonight at 7:30 o'clock. Professor Phelps, of the borough high school, will give the boys a talk on "Athletics."

N.P.H.S. FOOTBALL OVER

Season's Review Shows That Borough Boys Have Not Lost a Game.

CLAIM LOCAL CHAMPIONSHIP.

No Third Game Will Be Played With City High School With Which Boroughites Played Two Tie Games.

Though the borough high school football eleven has a game scheduled with a team of the school alumni for Thanksgiving Day, the regular football season has concluded in the borough, and the school has an unusually good showing as a result of the seven regularly scheduled games. The city high school eleven is the only team which crossed the borough's goal line during the entire season, and their single touchdown was in the tie game played between the two schools two weeks ago. The boroughites scored a total of 97 points against their opponents through the season, and the scores of the various games scheduled follows:

N. P. H. S., 25; Bernardsville H. S., 0; N. P. H. S., 17; Holy Cross, 0; N. P. H. S., 18; New Brunswick H. S., 0; N. P. H. S., 22; Holy Cross Club, 0; N. P. H. S., 10; Westfield H. S., 0; N. P. H. S., 5; P. H. S., 5; N. P. H. S., 0; P. H. S., 0. The team also outplayed Westfield on the Westfield grounds before the final defeat of that school. Undefeated, the school boys have won five of their games and tied two.

Much of the credit for this successful season is due to the able coaching of the team by Benjamin Phelps, of the school faculty. The eleven had little material to draw from in the school, there being but twelve boys eligible for the team. All of the players who took part in the season's games carried four subjects in the school, twenty hours of work a week. There were no accidents due to the game during the season and the single substitute player never aad to be used. The regular line up of the team, of which "Tone" Overton is captain, is as follows: Fred McClintock, le; Day, lt; Blecker, lg; Powlison, c; Herman, rg; H. Smith, re; Steiner, re; Russell Conroy, qb; "Tone" Overton, lhb; Parsons, rhb, and Byron McClintock, fb. Of these players Herman, Steiner, Parsons and Overton and Fred McClintock have not represented the school at football before this season, and will be awarded the school insigna for their work on the gridiron. Manager Smith, of the team, has arranged to give each of the players a black jersey, embroidered with the N. P. H. S. monogram of the school athletic association. The insigna will be awarded to the members of the team who won them this year by Principal Benjamin Phelps at the Christmas exercises at the school.

In speaking to a Daily Press reporter about the local football championship today, Coach Phelps, said: "There will be no third game scheduled by us with the city high school eleven. The last game between the two schools was scheduled extra by our management and there is no possibility of the two teams meeting again this season. Our boys have quit practise and the season is over. I believe that the city high school cannot fairly claim the local football championship, for, though our boys were unable to win, I think they outplayed them both times they met them. If the local scholastic championship cannot be awarded without a third game between the schools, let the city team claim it. I think the games with Westfield clearly show that it belongs to the North Plainfield high school."

PRETTY ACTRESS'S ADMIRER IS STILL PURSUING HER.

A young man giving his name as Henri Reinbau and claiming titled connections in Germany, was arrested last evening at Perth Amboy upon complaint of Miss Eva Lewis, leading woman with the "Are You a Mason" company.

Reinbau has been following the show for the past five weeks and each evening sent flowers over the footlights, finally gloves, laces and other pretty trinkets followed until they became a source of worry to the pretty little soubrette and when "The Baron" became so bold as to write a proposal of marriage and send it over the boards, Miss Lewis became enraged and the arrest followed.

The Baron was arrested last evening at Perth Amboy but it seemed to strike the city justice that a man had a perfect right to pay his attentions to a woman providing he did not exceed the conventional bonds that make him a gentleman and the baron was discharged, with the blessings of the court and when the show opened for the evening performance, last night, Henri was in the right hand box with the customary bouquet.

This morning Miss Lewis sent a wire to New York and shortly after she received a reply and when seen later she said, "Wait till tonight, and if that German is on hand there will be some strenuous doings and the German will be on the wrong side, for a certain young man who is waiting for me in New York is coming over and then, well just wait."

TEACHERS' CONVENTION

Interesting Program Prepared for Convention that is to be Held at Atlantic City.

MANY NEWARKERS TO SPEAK.

The fifty-third annual meeting of the New Jersey State Teachers' Association will be held at Atlantic City on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, December 26, 27 and 28. The opening session will be called to order by the president, Charles B. Boyer, superintendents of schools of Atlantic City, at 2 p. m., December 26. The president's address will be followed by an address on "The Relation of Physical Vigor to Public School Education," by Randall D. Warden, director of physical training in the Newark public schools. The second speaker will be Dr. John J. Cronin, of the Department of Public Health, New York city, who will discuss "The Results of Proper Medical Inspection of Children."

There will be two functions connected with the teachers' association in the evening. A general session will be held in the Atlantic City high school at 8 o'clock. At this session the names of the nominating committee, which were selected in the afternoon, will be made public. The other function is a banquet at the Marlborough-Blenheim Hotel at 9:30 p. m.

Superintendent J. J. Unger, of Vineland, who is one of the special committee which has been investigating defective children, will make a report for the committee during the evening session. The next address will be by David C. Corson, assistant superintendent of the Newark schools. He will speak on "The Organization of the Elementary School System." Perhaps the feature of this session will be the address by an English woman engaged in educational work in Great Britain. She is Miss Sarah A. Burstall, of Manchester, England. She teaches in the Manchester high school for girls. Her topic will be "How English Educational Methods Meet Present-day Problems of Education."

The session of the association on Friday will be divided into various departmental sessions. The Department of Education session will be presided over by Superintendent H. W. Foster, of South Orange. H. G. House, of Livingston, will act as secretary. The main address will be by Henry Turner Bailey, editor of the School Arts Book, of North Scituate, Mass.

Superintendent George E. Morris, of Bloomfield, will preside at the meeting of the Department of Supervision. E. W. Oliver, of Hoboken, will act as secretary. There will be two addresses. The first will be on "The Principles Underlying the Making of a Course of Study," by Dr. Joseph S. Taylor, district superintendent of New York city. The other speaker is to be Superintendent John Enright, of Freehold, who will speak on "The Relation of the Superintendent of Schools to Those Supervised."

The meeting of the high school department will be presided over b T. D. Sensor, of the New Jersey State Department of Education, at Trenton. Miss Florence Nelson, of Atlantic City, will act as secretary. The first address will be by Dr. Louis Bevier, Jr., the New Jersey State high school superintendent. His topic will be "Present High School Problems." Joshiah Main, of Knoxville, Tenn., who is State lecturer on agriculture of Tennessee, will speak on "Agriculture in Secondary Schools."

Eli Pickwick, Jr., supervisor of manual training in the Newark schools, will preside at the meeting of the department of art. The secretary will be Miss Helen D. Meeker, of Atlantic City. In this department there will be an exhibition of manual training in its various phases by pupils of different schools in this State where that subject is taught. The first address will be by Miss Mary Barrett, of South Orange, who will speak on the "Co-relation of Hand Work for Primary Grades." Cheshire T. Boone, director of manual training in the Montclair schools, will follow with an address. Miss Carrie E. Stephens, supervisor of sewing in the Newark schools, will speak on "Sewing in Grammar Schools." Miss Elizabeth Garrabrant, of the Newark high school, will speak on "Design in High Schools."

On Friday afternoon all the departments will assemble. Dr. N. C. Schaeffer, State Superintendents of schools in Pennsylvania, will speak on "The Rural School Problem." The next speaker will be Superintendent William E. Chancellor, of Washington, D. C., formerly superintendent of schools in Paterson, who will make an address on "Education for the Industrial Life."

In the evening there will be an opportunity for those who desire to present independent nominations. H. P. Miller, principal of the Atlantic City high school, will thean report for the committee on educational progress. The speaker of the evening will be the Rev. Newell Dwight Hillis, D. D., of Brooklyn. His topic will be "Oliver Cromwell." There will be only one session on Saturday morning. It will be opened by the report of the auditing committee. Miss Grace M. Duffy, of Newark, will speak on "Needed Legislation for New Jersey Teachers."

The retirement fund department, which provides for annuities, will hold a meeting during the session. The report will show that since the retirement fund was established $161,805 has been distributed to 176 retired teachers. The report of the State treasurer for July 1, of this year, shows assets amounting to $93,608. There are now in force 150 annuities, and out of the 10,000 teachers in the State 3,500 are members of the fund. For the fiscal year ending June 30 last, nearly $40,000 was disbursed, of which $35,624 was in annuities.

Owing to the change of the State law, after January 1, 1908, all teachers thereafter appointed will become members of the fund, and annuities will be paid amounting to three-fifths of the annual average salary for the last five years in which the person has taught. The maximum annuity shall be $650 and the minimum $250. Another provision in the new enables members who cease teaching for a while and later return to resume membership with the fund and receive credit for past payments of dues. Statistical tables will be offered at the teachers' association to show that the actual average salary of all the teachers in New Jersey during the years 1905-1907 was $593.71.

FORT MAY MAKE HIS SON HIS SECRETARY.

Recorder Franklin W. Fort, of East Orange, the elder son, said last night that so far as he knew he wasn't the man selected by his father the Governor-elect, for his private secretaryship which pays $4,000 a year, while Leslie R. Fort, proprietor of the Lakewood Times and Journal, when interviewed at his home in the famous winter resort, declared that he didn't know anything about the matter.

Edward W. Gray, secretary to Governor Edward C. Stokes, was actively a candidate for the secretaryship in the new administration, but he has not landed the place. There have been a number of others out for the appointment, but it is pretty certain that they are to be disappointed and that a son of the Governor-elect will preside over the executive suite at the State House.

Announcement of the selection for secretary and executive clerk will be made within a few days. It is said that an East Orange man will be executive clerk.

Mr. Fort is to establish an office in Newark. He will probably have a desk on the second floor of the Scheuer building, at 738 Broad street, in the suite occupied by his brother-in-law, former City Expert Will C. Stainsby. On the ninth floor of the same structure are the headquarters of the Essex County Republican League for Limited Franchises and Equal Taxation.

Next Tuesday, Governor's day, promises to be as interesting as was Governor's day at Trenton this week. While the slates for the organization of the Senate and Assembly of the incoming Legislature are made, the leaders in political circles and the members and members-elect of the two houses will be at the Capitol to keep their fences in repair and see to it that no ruthless general in the game of politics breaks into their corrals and steals the places that are being guarded pending caucuses. It will be a case of preserving the integrity of the frameups and of booming men from the State's twenty-one counties for the minor places that the Republican majorities in the upper and lower legislative branches have at their disposal.

PUPPY SWALLOWED HAT PIN, VETERINARIES OPERATED.

Puppy playfulness nearly cost the life of a valuable Boston bull dog belonging to W. H. Coade, of Cranford, and had it not been for the efficient work of Veterinaries Butler and Voorhees in removing an eight inch hat pin from the animal's stomach, the dog star would have been inhabited by one more local canine. The dog was romping about the house Monday when a long hatpin fell from the table in the room where it was playing. Quickly the animal seized the dangerous object in its mouth, and when Mr. Coade tried to get it away, ran from the room, and getting under a bed upstairs, deliberately swallowed the pin point foremost.

Realizing the danger to the dog, Mr. Code hurried to Somerville with the animal. An X-ray examination was held by Doctors Butler and Voorhees, and the pin was located, partly in the stomach of the dog, with the point projecting into the intestine. An operation was performed and the pin, which was eight inches long, removed. The dog is getting along nicely, and in its puppyish joy today doesn't realize what a narrow escape it had.

A Matter of Punctuation.

One of the eloquent writers who report the costumes and etiquette at Washington penned this in his or her account of a presidential reception: "Mrs. X. wore nothing in the way of a dress that was remakable."

The slipshod English was handsomely corrected by the pedantic but unhumorous printer thus: "Mrs. X. wore nothing in the way of a dress. That was remarkable."—Argonaut.

Proceedings of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of Union County.

OFFICIAL.

Regular meeting of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the county of Union, N. J., held on Thursday, November 7th, 1907, at 2:30 p. m. Roll call showed the following members present: Director King, Freeholders Adams, Cady, Cladek, Darby, Doane, Fay, Gruener, Jones, Krause, Maurer, Meisel, Perry, Pierson, Robison, Smith, Swain, Wilbur and Woodruff—19. Absent, Freeholder Donahue—1.

The minutes of the previous meeting, were on motion of Freeholder Cady, approved as per printed copies mailed to members.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From the Township Clerk of Springfield, as follows:

Springfield, N. J., Nov. 2, 1907.

Mr. J. Edward Meeker appeared before the committee and complained about the water running in on his property and requested that same be carried down to the corner of Springfield and Morris avenues. The committee would respectfully request that you take the matter up for adjustment as the property is on the county road.

Very truly yours,

Olin D. Sickle, Township Clerk.

On motion of Freeholder Krause received and referred to the committee on county roads and Freeholder Meisel of Springfield Township.

From Elizabeth Tiffany, chairman, etc.:

Plainfield, N. J., Nov. 1, 1907.

For two years or more the establishment of a workhouse in Union county has been a matter much discussed. An able pamphlet on the subject was prepared by Rev. Henry Elliott Mott, D. D., a member of the Union County Committee of the S. C. A. Association, which was given wide circulation in the county. The agitation of this matter was the result of the long experience of those who had dispensed charity in our midst, that the present jail system was a total failure as a deterrent influence for short term offenders.

Indeed, some are returned to the institution time and time again and seem to welcome the comfortable quarters, finding the life easier behind the bars than when subject to work to support their families. Probably the Union county jail is the best managed in the State, and the fault is in the system, which fails to exact hard labor. In many instances, sentence is suspended by the judge, knowing its futility and uselessness of burdening the county with the support of these persons while in jail.

A subcommittee of the Union county committee was appointed last spring composed of Mrs. Dester Tiffany, chairman; Mrs. Emily E. Williamson, Mrs. Charles E. Ryder, Rev. Henry Elliott Mott, D. D., and Rev. Charles L. Cooder, to consider the practicability of the establishment of a workhouse in Union county, or the combination of two counties for the purpose, a place to be shunned on account of the hard labor and few comforts.

Mercer county has a workhouse which in some respects would probably serve as a model for Union county. Judges and others in touch with the criminal classes have approved of the plan and it remains for the committee to ask its favorable reception by you gentlemen of t he Chosen Board of Freeholders.

Further in behalf of the committee I would ask that you give it a hearing early in December, for a full discussion of the matter.

I am, yours very truly, Elizabeth Tiffany, chairamn Union county committee of the State Charities Aid Association of N. J.

Freeholder Krouse moved that the communication be received and referred to a special committee of five, together with the county attorney and county collector, which was so ordered without dissent. The Director appointed as the said committee Freeholders Krouse, Cady, Pierson, Meisel and Swain.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

By the committee to settle with the county collector:

Elizabeth, N. J., Nov. 1, 1907.

Your committee to settle with the county collector respectfully report, that they have examined his books showing his receipts and disbursements, together with his vouchers, bonds and coupons paid, and bank books, and we find the same agree and are correct in every particular.

His total receipts from the beginning of the fiscal year (January 1, 1907) to November 1, 1907	$583,496 85
His total disbursements.	517,731 20
Leaving a balance in bank of	$ 65,765 65

Respectfully, Henry Krouse, John N. Cady, Charles A. Smith, committee.

On motion of Freeholder Cladek the report was received and placed on file.

By the committee on public grounds and buildings:

The undersigned committee, to whom was referred the matter of purchasing the lot adjoining the court house property in the rear on Rahway avenue, beg to report that they have investigated the matter, and have ascertained that said lot can be purchased for the sum of twenty-seven hundred and fifty dollars (2750), and are of the opinion that it would be advantageous to acquire said lot by purchase for the use of the county; and realizing that by reason of the rapid growth of the county, thereby necessarily creating a constant increase in the county business, we consider that it will be wise and advantageous that this board avail itself of the opportunity to secure said vacant lot at the present time, and before the same is disposed of or improved by the erection or construction of any dwelling or other building thereon.

We therefore advise the purchase of the same at the price above named, and recommend the adoption of the resolution hereto attached.

Dated November 7, 1907.

Respectfully submitted, Henry Krouse, J. N. Cady, Noah Woodruff, public grounds and buildings committee.

The following resolution was attached to the foregoing report:

Whereas, The vacant lot adjoining the court house property on Rahway avenue has been offered for sale to this board for the sum of twenty-seven hundred and fifty dollars (2750); and

Whereas, It is deemed advisable and necessary that said property should be purchased by tthis board for the use of the county;

Therefore, Be it Resolved, That the building committee of this board be authorized to negotiate and purchase said property from P. J. Ryan, the present owner, for the use of the county, for the sum above named, to wit, the sum of twenty-seven hundred and fifty dollars (2750), and that the title to said premises be taken in the name of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union, if upon investigation, it is ascertained that the title thereto is perfect; the dimensions of said lot being about forty feet front and rear by one hundred and thirty feet deep.

Freeholder Gruener moved that the report be received and the preamble and resolution thereto attached be adopted, which was so ordered on roll call by an unanimous vote.

And be it further Resolved, That the aforesaid amounts be paid by the county collector in January, 1908.

On motion of Freeholder Swain the resolution was adopted without dissent.

By Freeholder Perry: Whereas, The wooden box culvert crossing Hillside avenue, at the easterly gutter line of Lawrence avenue, Westfield, N. J., is in very bad condition for travel, and has holes in it, where the wood has rotted away, and should be replaced at once by a new culvert.

Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed to consider the advisability of constructing a new reinforced concrete arch culvert at the place named, the committee to report at the next meeting of this board.

On motion of Freeholder Jones the resolution was adopted without dissent. The director appointed as the said committee, Freeholders Perry, Jones and Wilbur.

By Freeholder Fay: Resolved, That the director appoint a committee of three to inspect the walks on South Broad street bridge Elizabeth, and report back the advisability of repairing the same, the committee to report at the next meeting.

On motion of Freeholder Cladek the resolution was adopted without dissent. The director appointed as the said committee, Freeholders Fay, Gruener and Robison.

By Freeholder Krouse: Ressolved, That a committee of three be appointed to inspect the bridge over a stream on Linden avenue, township of Linden, and report to this board the advisability and probable cost of replanking the same.

On motion of Freeholder Jones the resolution was adopted without dissent. The director appointed as the said committee, Freeholders Krouse, Doane and Cladek.

By Freeholder Krouse: Resolved, That the county collector pay to the city of Elizabeth the sum of $556.26 for taxes assessed against the land owned by this county on Broad street, in Elizabeth, and the sum of $54.02 for taxes assessed against lands owned by this county on Union street, Elizabeth, the sum of $15.82 for relaying sidewalks and curb on Union street, Elizabeth, said payments to be made on or before December 27, 1907.

Freeholder Cladek moved the adoption of the foregoing resolution, and on roll call it was unanimously adopted.

Freeholder Doane called attention of the board to a claim of $25 made by J. T. Vail for alleged damages to a horse owned by him, received on a line bridge between Plainfield and Somerset county. If the claim should be allowed one-half of the amount would be paid by Somerset county.

No objection being offered the directors referred the matter to the Plainfield freeholders and the county attorney.

KILAUEA WORTH A VISIT.

Hawaii's Show Volcano Is One of the World's Wonders.

Kilauea, the spur of the great Mauna Loa, is a well-behaved volcano, as it can be visited with perfect safety, even if in eruption—as it is from time to time—when exhibitions of activity are given that are worth traveling thousands of miles to witness. This volcano is on the island of Hawaii, and the shortest possible trip that can be made to it form Honolulu covers four days. This allows only half a day at the volcano, which is much too short a time to study the workings of what is considered one of the world's wonders. A week at least should be given to the trip. The sea voyage is always more or less rough, but the boats, although small, are comfortable. From Hilo, where the water trip ends, there is a railroad ride of about 18 miles through the big Olaa sugar plantation. This is followed by a stage run of 11 miles over a road leading through a perfect fairyland of tropical foliage, the highway being lined on either side with roses, magnolias and ferns, which last grow to the size of trees without losing any of their delicate beauty. Returning by the other route, there is a stage drive of 35 miles over lava roads and across the great flow which ran into the sea from Mauna Loa several years ago.—Leslie's Weekly.

TREES THAT LIVE CENTURIES.

One at Least is Known to be Over 700 Years Old.

Brazilian cocoanut palms live from 600 to 700 years, and the Arabs assert that the date palm frequently reaches the age of 200 to 300 years. Wallan's oak, near Paisley, Scotland, is known to be over 700 years old, and there are eight olive trees on the Mount of Olives near Jerusalem which are known to have been flourishing in 1099. The yews at Fountains Abbey, Yorkshire, were old trees when in 1132 the abbey was built, and a redwood in Mariposa Grove, Cal., is a manifold centenarian. Boabab trees of Africa have been computed to be over 5,000 years old, and the deciduous cypress at Chapultepec is considered to be of a still greater age. Humboldt said that the dracaena draco at Orotava, on Teneriffe, was one of the oldest inhabitants of the earth.

Hugo Wrote for All.

I wrote for all; with a profound love for my country, but without preoccupying myself more for France than for any other people. Little by little, as I advanced in life, I grow simpler and become more and more the patriot of humanity. Besides, this is the tendency of our epoch, the law of development of the French revolution; and, in order to correspond to the perpetual extension of civilization, books must cease to be exclusively French, Italian, German, Spanish, English, to become European, and, still more, human. Hence a new logic of art and certain necessities of composition which modify everything, even the conditions—so narrow in the past—of taste and language, which must now, like everything else, be broadened.—From "Victor Hugo on 'Les Miserables'" in the Century.

Dense Population.

Of the world's greatest cities Paris has the greatest number of inhabitants to the acre. For its 2,731,000 inhabitants an area of only 19,275 acres is available, so that each acre has 142 inhabitants. Berlin is almost as thickly populated, inasmuch as its city ground (now almost entirely built up) comprises only 15,568 acres, and in this space 2,034,000 people live, or 131 to each acre. The conditions are considerably better in London, where 4,536,000 people live in an area of 75,370 acres, or 60 to the acre.

Tact in Introductions.

In the desire to help in starting a conversation, when presenting people to each other, don't overdo the matter. Leave them as soon as possible. Let them choose their own topic and make their own discoveries. Each will find the other vastly more interesting under these circumstances. Especially when introducing anybody of whom you happen to have a high opinion, don't preface the presentation with laudatory remarks. They will invariably silence the most willing talker.

Husband's Beautiful Tribute.

"Oh, Phoebe, I want thee much," wrote Nathaniel Hawthorne to his wife some years after their wedding day. "Thou art the only person in the world that ever was necessary to me. I am only myself when thou art within my reach. Thou art an unspeakably beloved woman." And, when writing to her sister, he paid this beautiful tribute to his beloved helpmate, "She is a flower that was lent from Heaven to show the possibilities of the human soul."

The Glow of Glory.

We are all influenced by a desire of praise, and the best men are the most especially attracted by glory. Those very philosophers, even in the books which they write about despising glory, put their own names on the title-page. In the very act of recording their contempt for renown and notoriety, they desire to have their own names known and talked of.—Cicero.

Force of Suggestion.

"I wonder what it is that gives this room such a cold look?" "I guess it's the frieze on the walls."—Baltimore American.

THE LAST WITNESS.

He Caused a Commotion In a Suit In Chancery.

It was a suit in chancery, and there was a great gathering of deceased's family, quarreling, as relatives will, over the division of the spoils. The lawyers engaged chuckled, for the suit seemed likely to be prolonged and complicated.

There were many lawyers, too, and the judge marveled at the immensity of the deceased man's family as lawyer after lawyer rose in rapid succession, introducing themselves with the usual formula. "And I, my lord, am for the nephews [or nieces or fifteenth cousin removed, as the case may be] of the deceased." The procession seemed interminable, but at last it came to an end. Then a small voice was heard timidly saying from the back of the court, "My I be allowed to speak, my lord?" There was dead silence as his lordship adjusted his spectacles and asked rather dejectedly, "Who are you?"

The answer was to say the least, unexpected. "I am the deceased, my lord," said the modest voice from the back of the court. That ended the action.

Quite unknown to his relatives the deceased had turned up from the wilds of Rhodesia. Obviously a man of humor, he must have taken a delight in watching how "the best laid schemes of mice and men gang aft agley."—English Paper.

What He Meant.

A young man of Boston who had failed to pay his laundry bill endeavored to turn his Chinaman aside from inquiry by an attack upon the Celestial's manner of speech.

"Why do you say 'Fliday,' John?" he asked.

"Say Fliday because I mean Fliday," replied John stoutly. "No say Fliday and mean maybe week after next', like Melican man."

COPYRIGHT, 1907, DODD MEAD & CO. N.Y.

I thought you would be attracted to the light in this chamber when all else was dark.

As you read this you are already trapped.

Do you think I will spare anyone who brought about my brother's death? Ask Tomasso, who is already gone.

Do you imagine, English lieutenant, who call yourself husband to the woman I have decreed shall be mine, that you shall be scathless—

The sharp clang of the doors below makes Edwin drop the letter and spring like a topman down the stairs.

Though he is quick, somebody is quicker. The strong doors are closed. As he reaches the lower step, he hears steel bars falling into their sockets outside. From without a jeering laugh makes him know this has been planned. This is confirmed by the creaky turning of a great key.

"Unlock this door!" he commands in quarterdeck tones.

"Diable, not after having had so much trouble to trap you," is returned in almost Parisian French.

Without a word Anstruther discharges his revolver into the lock of the door. He has exhausted his three remaining cartridges, when the impingement of the bullets shows that the lock is protected by steel and his attempts abortive.

He is interrupted by loud cries of terror from almost beneath his feet: "Hang it, quit that shooting! Do you want to blow us up? I saw that scar-faced chap shove sticks of nitroglycerin all around in the crevices. This tower's mined, and that scoundrel has got a fuse or electric wire running to it."

His own language with a Yankee twang coming from below startles Edwin. He has some matches in his pocket; strikes one, looks round and sees a trap door in the flooring almost beneath his feet. He pulls it up and peers down. His eyes glare into those of another man gazing up from an underground vault. Holding the match so that he can see the face he gasps: "Great guns Emory! I thought you dead!"

"I'm almost dead," growls the detective, Edwin, almost stunned by surprise, gazing at him petrified. "By the living Jingo, where's Barnes? I guessed some of you'd find me out," adds the Pinkerton man in relieved voice. "I reckoned you'd rescue a chap who's been risking his life and getting a good deal the worst of it in your employ."

"I came to find my wife," cries Edwin shortly. "Have you seen her?"

"Oh, there's a lady, I think, in the house."

"In the house? And they have cooped me up in this tower." Anstruther frantically assaults the door again.

"Oh, I reckoned they'd be doing something underhand to you," calls Emory. "Come down and help me out first."

"Why don't you come up? There's a ladder."

"I can't. Dash it, they've got leg irons on me. They feed me on soup and bread and don't even leave a spoon with me to dig out. I was seized and smuggled from St. Tropez in that fishing craft that followed your yacht just the moment I had it fixed so I'd hear their plans. They're crafty as snakes."

"A Pinkerton man like you captured in this disgraceful way!" says Anstruther sternly. For he thinks had Emory kept his eyes open and done his duty, Enid would have escaped abduction and the rest never have come to pass.

"Oh, hang it, what have they done to you, smarty?" growls the detective angrily. Then he cries: "Glory hallelujah! Bully for you!" for Edwin has run down the ladder and is busy trying to unloosen the irons from the American's legs.

"They've got keys somewhere," snarls Emory. "Hang it, think of their cheek, manacling a detective."

Edwin is up the ladder again. He strikes another match and on the ground story finds, after some little delay, a bunch of keys hanging on the wall.

After some trouble with the locks, which are rusty, Elijah's legs are released and he ascends with Edwin, his jaws almost snapping with rage as he tells his wrongs.

"I was playing the fisherman at St. Tropez," he says. "I had got onto them, all right. I knew the head devil, the elder man, Cipriano, when, like a fool, I went on board of that big, cursed fishing felucca to them, pretending to want to get a job, thinking I would find out what the devil they were driving at. That was the end of me. I hadn't more than got in the forecastle than I was covered with two long knives, and that scar-faced fellow said to me: 'The first time, you were warned to keep out of this affair. This is the second time—' They were savage enough to kill me, but they simply corded me up and threw me in the hold, and oh, what a time I had as their infernal vessel dashed about the Mediterranean after you. When they gave up chasing you they stopped here and put me away carefully in that hole down there."

Suddenly he cries: "What are you doing?" for Edwin has his hands in an iron ring and is trying to pull up another trap door in the flooring.

"I want tools by which we can break enough masonry from one of these embrasures to get out!" says the sailor.

But pulling up the trap door, both he and the American gaze astounded into the other vault.

Two red flaming eyes encounter theirs. "If you come to kill me, I'll die like a Corsican, my teeth in your throat!" cries a low, hoarse voice.

Then as Anstruther lights another match, a shriek rises to them: "The husband of Marina, Madre di Dio!"

"Tomasso!" exclaims Edwin, adding: "In God's name, where is my wife?"

"Diavolo, of course, you have come here to find her. At the fork of the Bastia road, I thought the 'Lucchese' captured my mistress and myself and forced us to drive toward the east. Coming over the mountains, their language told me they were not 'Luchchese,' but Corsicans. I would have told Marina, but when I got out to water the horses at the little fountain up near Pietra, two of them struck me insensible and I awoke and found myself here. But, Signore, I beg you to note one thing. Your true wife and my honored mistress believes she was rescued from the 'Lucchese' by Cipriano Danella, and she is grateful to him. Get me to the light that I may aid you." The old Corsican has faintly staggered up; a moment later he is pulled from the vault by the strong hands of Anstruther and the detective.

"This is old Tomasso Monaldi," says Edwin shortly, "who was supposed to be killed."

"Holy smoke, the fellow who was believed dead and they vendettaed Barnes about!"

"Yes."

But Tomasso's words make them feel they have little time to lose. Besides, Emory is always whispering with white lips: "This tower is mined!" Together they go up the stairs, carefully examining every orifice in the building, but find them all loopholes too small to permit the exit of a man," and the masonry too solid to be broken through in any ordinary time, as the building is bare of tools and weapons.

This Glorious Orezza Water Will Make You a New Man.

"There is nothing but to get out of the upper chamber," says Edwin. "I'm a sailor. With half a chance, a single vine, with even the assistance of our clothes torn into lengths, I can scramble down. Some way I'll do it."

They have reached the upper room. Anstruther has thrown off his coat and vest, kicked off his shoes and taken off his stockings. Toes will cling to the rough stonework better than boots. He picks up the letter and the concluding sentences seem to make him crazy. He springs to the window and a muttered oath parts his white lips, for he encounters a grillage of heavy iron so securely fastened on the outside that it is impossible for him to make exit.

But even as Edwin struggles with the grating, he utters a low cry, half of longing, half of despair.

Upon the portico of the modern portion of the farmhouse, pleasant with vines and flowers, almost reclining in a hammock is Marina. Robed in white, the young wife looks like a dream of love to her despairing husband. Her face is flushed, if not happily, at least excitedly. To her, speaking—the distance is too great for Edwin to understand the words, but apparently from the gestures they are those of amity—is Count Cipriano Danella, his eyes sparkling vivaciously, his costume the romantic one of Corsica.

CHAPTER XVII.

Whiffs in the Air.

Some time after midday, Mr. Barnes, in pursuit of Anstruther, reaches Ponte-alla-Lecchia, where the people are now crowding about the polling house. He doesn't stop here and continues rapidly on, notwithstanding the sun is very hot, the dust is very heavy. As he climbs the high hills toward Morosaglia, he commences to find cyclamen flowers, quite faded now and having but little perfume.

"By Jove," he remarks, "I gave Edwin the right path. I should have turned back and followed him last night, not to-day."

This makes him hurry all the more, and his horse is quite exhausted when he descends the hill past the convent and pauses at the little inn near the famous water of Orezza.

The American has heard of their curious powers, and asks for some, as he gazes languidly on the communal of the little village, around which the men are still clustering.

The heat has been tremendous; his speed has been quite great; the hills have been precipitous. Barnes' face is again covered with lines of fatigue.

"This glorious Orezza water will make you a new man," chats the landlord pleasantly; and never had the wondrous youth-giving chalybeate a better patient to work upon, for as the effervescent fluid, cold from the springs of the mountain, flies down the American's throat, new power, new vigor seem to enter each nerve, each limb.

It is now quite late in the afternoon. Burtou soon passes the chestnut lands of La Castagniccia, still finding a few faded cyclamen blooms to guide him on his way. But now a little shock thrills him. He checks his horse abruptly, springs off and picks up a bunch of the wild flowers. As he rides along examining it he ejaculates: "This is very extraordinary. This branch, which I supposed Marina dropped out of the carriage yesterday, was certainly cut this very morning."

Suspicion flashes through him as he questions: "Can these flowers have been strewn in the road by Cipriano's agents to lead someone on?" and what had been no warning to the easy-going sailor becomes a danger signal to the man of the world.

Yet, twist it how he will, Barnes can see no reason why Danella should want anyone near him save Marina. If the Corsican's passion for that young lady is what he thinks it is, he will prefer a free hand to deal with her alone. "And yet it is evident somebody wanted somebody to follow this cyclamen trail, and whether somebody wants it or not, I am here anyway," thinks the American grimly. "And thanks to the divine Orezza water, I am rather fit for fighting." Then carefully examining his revolver, the pistol shot remarks: "And that's fit also, thank God."

With this, resolutely but more circumspectly, Mr. Barnes continues his way over the path marked by the cyclamen branches.

By the time he has come out on the hills looking down toward the Tuscan sea, it is very dark. There is no moon yet, but the light from the lone watch tower attracts him. The cyclamen flowers he occasionally picks up make him know this is the road Anstruther must have traveled.

Suddenly, but quietly, he turns his horse from the path, and in the seclusion of a thicket of wild grapes, listens. Some dozen men are coming from the east; he hears one of them growl: "Why, there's no 'Lucchese' nearer than Pietra to fight, though the count ordered every man about the farm to go out and protect the vines from them."

"Well, there's some good reason for Maestro Cipriano's orders. Perchance the Italian laborers in the Green Orezza quarry have risen up," adds another.

"Perhaps with the lady he wishes not to be disturbed," giggles a third. "The count has musicians in a boat off the shore."

The men have no sooner passed than Barnes starts quickly down the road. The "lady," he guesses, means either Marina or his own bride, though of the last he has slight hope. A subdued light from the town guides him in the darkness.

But when he is within less than a hundred yards of the building, his horse, with a sudden snort of terror, draws up right in the path, crouching on his haunches, and Barnes peering over his steed's head, gazes into the deep chasm that descends sheer to the very sea. Springing from his trembling horse, the American finds that the bridge, which is a light, swinging one not over 35 feet in length, has been swung to the other side.

The scent of a fresh cyclamen bloom enters his nostrils. He looks at the removed bridge and remarks acutely: "It's evident Cipriano has got on the other side the person he wished to follow these flowers."

So Barnes gazes across the chasm he cannot pass. The night being very still, he hears over the soft murmur of the waves beneath him the sweet romantic music of Corsica rising from a boat. 'Tis the playing of stringed instruments accompanying a sweet native love song, each stanza ending in that curious prolonged note peculiar to these island ditties.

"What the deuce is that bizarre, crafty devil's game?" wonders the American. Then he hears voices from the low Corsican house. Beyond the crevices he sees Marina in white robe amid the lights and flowers of the veranda. Her sweet tones are scarce audible. Then Danella's voice reaches him faintly in the soft night air.

He begins to understand and mutters: "Good God!"

After a little cry of love yet despair rends the heavens from the tower. It is Anstruther's. 'Tis mingled with a woman's shriek for mercy. "My husband!" in Marina's voice.

Next Barnes hears Cipriano's suave, triumphant laugh, and he mutters: "My God, for a pistol it's a fearfully long shot, but it's the only way!"

Hastily he selects a spot with a good line of sight and stands waiting—waiting for the chance; for intervening vines trouble him, and the foliage of a great orange tree, standing alone in the garden and midway between the house and the turret, jumbles the light, which is only the faint sheen of the rising moon.

* * * * *

Slightly before this, Marina had been sitting on the long veranda of the Corsican farmhouse, the lighted lamps placing some tinges of ruby in her dark brown hair and giving color to the light costume that enhances her loveliness.

Quietly entering from the house, Cipriano Danella, costumed in the old time, romantic Corsican garb, gazes upon the exquisite girl outlined by the light costume.

The eagerness of his glance draws Mrs. Anstruther's eyes to him. She looks up and says: "Ah, Count Cipriano, it was very noble of you, who I had feared would hate me, to rescue me from the 'Lucchese.' At your advice, I have rested here, but to-morrow, notwithstanding the romantic serenade you have provided for me, I must go on to Bastia."

"Oh, yes, to Bastia," murmurs the count softly, and stepping nearer, says suavely, though there is a weird suggestion in his voice that somewhat disquiets the lady: "We are alone here in my old farmhouse, only old Martha, the cook, who, far away, will snore till dawn, and my nephew, Count Enrico."

"I haven't seen him," remarks the girl uneasily.

"Parbleu, you did once, the gentleman with the scar upon his face, the one who delivered the letter that caused your nerves to jump in the Marseilles railroad station. Even now his name seems to have an ill effect upon you," for Marina has started up, and the fluttering of her light skirts shows her limbs are trembling.

"Mia Madre, was he the man?" she shudders. "And was it you who penned it?" Then some divination entering her mind, she implores pathetically: "Holy Virgin, no harm has come to Edwin? Have I not kept the cruel pact? Have I not deserted my dear husband? It was the promise of that awful letter that no evil should come to Edwin if I left his arms."

"Ah, but you intended to return to them, bella mia," smiles the gentleman.

The young wife scarcely heeds the insinuation of the subtle Italian term, but stammers confused: "Why do you think that?"

"Ma foi, you were journeying to Bastia to meet your husband, lured there by a telegram I directed to be sent to you from that place," whispers the count significantly.

"The telegram was false? Edwin is not in Corsica? Edwin is safe? Madre di Dio, I thank thee!" Marina's voice rings with a hope that produces a supreme joy in Cipriano's occult mind.

This lady upon whom he has set his fervid heart, is courage personified as regards her own safety, but the great love she bears this Englishman makes her timid for him. 'Tis Danella's plan to use for its own destruction this generous and mighty love.

"That's what I wish to discuss with you," he observes quietly, gazing upon a face to which each wave of passion adds such loveliness that he cannot restrain the monstrous proposition on his tongue. It breaks forth. "My poor brother loved you, but you gave him death," he whispers passionately. "I love you, but, per Baccho, you will not give me death—but love!"

"Love? Impossible?" Marina starts from him wildly; then scorn coming to her eyes and voice, remarks haughtily: "You are speaking to a wedded wife, Monsieur."

"Not legally wedded, I have hopes. My brother, poor Musso, perchance by his lips in private gave his consent to your nuptials, but of that I have no proof. There is no written document. You are still a child—but 20—according to the French law, you cannot wed without the consent of your guardian for several years. Anstruther, in his careless English way, thought not of it; you were too eager for his wooing to note the omission. By my poor brother's death, his authority as your guardian passes to me."

"Pish! I was wedded in Musso's very presence," answers the girl, proudly; then cries: "I am Edwin Gerard Anstruther's wife, by the church and by my love."

"'Tis a pity; you compel me to make you his widow."

"Edwin's widow?" At that awful word, Marina shudders and sinks overcome into a chair.

"Listen to me!" Cipriano's voice is deep with menace, yet soft with passion. "On the further cliff down the coast are quarries of dazzling-hued green Orezza marble that is taken from this island to deck palaces."

"Orezza marble, what has that to do with Edwin's life?" half scoffs the girl.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE!

FOOTBALL.

Because of the wet weather and the fact of the hard game with Princeton last Saturday, which resulted in a few minor injuries, the regular Yale varsity players did not go to the field Monday. Congdon is barely able to walk because of the sprained ankle, which he played on all through the second half of the game against Princeton, but the rubbers expect to have him in condition for the game with Harvard next Saturday. Murphy and Brides, who are both suffering from charley horses, are feeling considerably better today, and Goebel and Coy, with their black eyes, begin to assume the air and appearance of human beings once more.

W. H. Corbin, of Yale, and Bill Edwards, of Princeton, will be referee and umpire, respectively, in the Army-Navy game at Philadelphia on November 30.

The report that Coach Yost would leave Michigan at the end of the present season is denied at Ann Arbor. Director Baird said: "We have a contract with Yost that holds for two years yet, and until that expires there will be no thought of change. If at the end of that time Yost refuses to sign a new contract it will be time to talk about a new man. We are perfectly satisfied and so is he."

It is estimated that 98,000 persons will have witnessed Harvard's last four important games when the season ends. About eighteen thousand saw the Brown game, 30,000 witnessed the Indian conflict, and 20,000 were present when Dartmouth played. Thirty thousand persons are expected at the Yale game, making nearly one hundred thousand.

The defeat of Harvard by Yale in the annual championship game is forecasted by nearly all the followers of the game. Even at Cambridge there is a general sentiment that the Crimson team will go down to defeat.

Piekarski, the former Pennsylvania guard, who is now coaching Washington and Jefferson, was asked how professionalism could be eliminated from college football. He replied: "Throw out the regulars on every team and use the subs."

Bob Torrey, of Montclair, coach of Pennsylvania, is assisting the Haverford eleven to get in condition for its annual game with Trinity College tomorrow.

Yale men have applied for 15,300 seats for the football game at Cambridge tomorrow.

GOLF.

Now that it has been settled that the Roseville club will not be able to continue another season there is bound to be at leastn one vacancy to fill in the East Jersey Golf League. The Arsdale Golf Club, which is making big plans for the future, has decided to make application.

From present indications the chances are that Arsdale would be able to present a formidable team, headed by Howard J. Gee, a former Princeton champion. S. H. Lockett is also a member. The team championship of the league this season was won by Roseville, and it is not unlikely that some of the members of the latter organization will be found at Arsdale in the near future.

It is doubtful if a closer student of the game is to be found anywhere in this vicinity than Marshall Whitlatch, of Montclair. Years ago, before he took up golf, Whitlatch excelled in various branches of athletics. Some time ago he determined to make a success of golf.

His game has shown marked improvement during the past year and he attributes this largely to having made a close study of the style and methods of Jerome D. Travers, the national champion. During the last six weeks Whitlatch has won no less than eight prizes. He plays considerably at Dyker Meadow at this season of the year, for the reason that the turf is not nearly so soft.

The Brae Burn Country Club of West Newton, Mass., has decided to apply for the amateur championship meet next year. This is the course over which the women's national tournaments was played a year ago. There seems to be a generally accepted theory that the men's national will be held somewhere in the East next year. It is also a fact that the tournament has never been held over Boston way, but it's a safe prediction that when the applications are all in a good many other clubs will be found on the job.

The Country Club of Lakewood has issued programs for the annual fall open tournament, to be held over its course, November 28, 29 and 30. There will be nothing but an eighteen-hole qualifying round on the first day (Thanksgiving Day), contestants to qualify in four sixteens.

More than thirty members of the Eastern Professional Golfers' Association made up a party to see Harry Lauder, the Scotch comedian at the New York theatre, Monday night. After the performance Lauder was the guest at a dinner given by the association at the Hotel Astor.

HUMAN RACE AFFLICTED WITH QUEER DISEASE

Cooper Says Internal Parasites Cause Much Suffering Everywhere.

The following remarkable statement was recently made by L. T. Cooper. It concerns the preparation which has been so widely discussed throughout the country during the past year, and has sold in such enormous quantities in leading cities:

"It is now a well-known fact that wherever I have introduced my New Discovery medicine, hundreds of people have brought internal parasites, or tapeworms, to me. In many cases these people did not know the nature of the parasite, and were consequently extremely nervous until I explained the matter to them. In some cities so many have had this experience that the public generally became alarmed.

"I take this opportunity of explaining what these creatures are, and what I have learned about them in the past.

"Tapeworms are much more common than would be supposed. I venture to say that ten per cent. of all chronic stomach trouble, or what is known as a 'rundown' condition, is caused by them. An individual may suffer for years with one of these great parasites and not be aware of it.

"Contrary to general belief, the appetite is not greatly increased—it only becomes irregular. There is a general feeling of faintness, however, and a gnawing sensation in the pit of the stomach.

"People afflicted with one of these parasites are nervous and depressed. Their chief sensation is one of languor, and they tire very easily. Lack of energy and ambition affect the body, and the mind becomes dull and sluggish. The memory becomes not so good, and the eyesight is generally poorer.

"The New Discovery, in freeing stomach and bowels of all impurities, seems to be fatal to these great worms, and almost immediately expels them from the system. I wish to assure anyone who has the experience just related with my preparation, that there is no cause for alarm in the matter, and that it will as a rule mean a speedy restoration to good health."

The Cooper medicines are a boon to stomach sufferers. We sell them.

The Square Pot of the Boynton Furnace

Maximum of Heat
Minimum of Fuel
Easiest to Care for

These are the cardinal advantages of the famous Boynton Square Pot Furnaces, positively the only correctly designed furnaces on the market.

Ashes can't clog, for the sides of the square pot are perpendicular instead of sloping; quick and rapid combustion at all times; square form gives increased radiating surface; grate construction insures quick and complete ash clearance, without raking or poking. The ash pit, being square, fits the shovel—handiest to clean.

Your plumber, steam-fitter or tinsmith will explain many other points. Remember the Boynton is the only Square Pot Furnace.

There are BOYNTON heating plants of all kinds. Ask about our Round or Sectional Boilers for steam or hot water. Also ranges.

HACKETTSTOWN HAS A $100,000 MILL FIRE

Residents of Hackettstown were awakened early Wednesday morning by the burning of the silk mill of the William H. Ashley Silk Company, in Franklyn avenue. The flames were discovered by William Garrison, the night watchman, who turned in an alarm. The blowing of the whistle of the mill and the ringing of the fire alarm aroused the whole town, and hundreds were soon upon the scene to witness the most disastrous blaze Hackettstown has had since the burning of the buildings of Centenary Collegiate Institute in 1899.

When discovered the fire was in the drying-room, above the boiler-room, and in a few minutes the flames were shooting from the roof. The fire department was soon upon the scene and fought hard to save the plant. Owing to the inflammable nature of the buildings and the headway the fire had made it was impossible to save anything, and in two hours the entire plant was in ruins.

The buildings consisted of two operating mill rooms, boiler and engine room and machine shop, with contents. They were entirely consumed, except a few hundred dollars' worth of silk saved from the storeroom. Thousands of dollars' worth of silk was upon the looms in course of manufacture. The loss is estimated at $100,000, partly covered by insurance.

The mill was erected here in 1888 and has been in continuous operation since, giving employment to from sixty to a hundred employes, with a pay roll at present of about twelve hundred dollars. The origin of the fire is unknown.

TO SELL CLUB'S PROPERTY.

Chatsworth Park Company's 5,428 Acres Foreclosed On.

On December 19 Sheriff Norcross of Burlington county will sell 5,428 acres of land at Chatsworth, along the New Jersey Central Railroad. The Chatsworth Park Company is the defendant, and the complainant is the Trust Company of America. For twelve years wealthy New Yorkers have used this property exclusively for recreation purposes.

There is a clubhouse with elaborate appointments, fine drives, an artificial lake, and a number of cottages owned by members. The club purchased a portion of the land from Prince Den Marie Enapoli, who was one of the active members. The authorized capital was $100,000, and the incorporators are William J. Zelley, Brooklyn; George A. Hamill, Jersey City, and Ralph Shuttspire, New York.

To Ask Carnegie for More Money.

Andrew Carnegie has agreed to give $20,000 for the building of branch libraries at East Orange, but the city has found that the buildings will cost about $13,000 each. The board of directors of the Carnegie Library will ask Mr. Carnegie for $6,000 more to make good and $13,000 more for another branch library. It is expected that Alexander King, of East Orange, a close friend of Mr. Carnegie, will arrange the matter. It is estimated that it will cost $2,000 a year to maintain each branch library.

Writes Wife, Shoots Self.

After he had written "Good-by, Mamie," on the back of an old magazine cover, James Byrne, cook and butler for Frank E. Wallace, an architect, of No. 119 Upper Mountain avenue, Montclair, shot himself last night in the home of his employer. He died last in Mountainside Hospital. It is said that he appeared to be in his usual good spirits last evening, and his act is unexplainable.

Lindabury Asylum Treasurer

Harrison P. Lindabury, Assistant United States District Attorney, has been appointed treasurer of the board of managers of the State Hospital for the Insane, at Morris Plains. Mr. Lindabury was chosen in the place of Guido C. Hinchman, postmaster at Dover, who had held the office for several years. It was explained by John C. Eisele, president of the board, that the reason for dropping Mr. Hinchman was that "the board desired a change." The place pays $500 a year.

Historical Evidence.

The late Richard Mansfield was a patient sufferer in his last illness, and he retained his good cheer to a marked degree. One day he told his physician that he believed he would not live many weeks longer.

"Bosh!" said the physician. "You are good for a long time yet. Why, man, alive, did you ever hear of anybody near death with legs and feet as warm as yours?"

"Yes," replied Mr. Mansfield, "lots of them. For instance, there was Joan of Arc, and the Salem witches."—Harper's Weekly.

The Hottest Spot.

One who was asked to name the hottest spot on the surface of the earth would hardly guess that it is in Alasaka, but Professor Jaggar of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, who has just returned from there, says it is Perry Island, off the Alasaka coast. It was created only a year or two ago by volcanic action and is right hot from the griddle. Its surface is still soft, but hardening rapidly.—Youth's Companion.

MR. GILBERT MAKES DENIAL

President of Clearing House Association Disputes Chauncey Depew's Assertion.

SENATOR'S STATEMENT FALSE.

Association Not Opposed to Treasury Issue But Admits Influence of Morgan and Others.

Senator Depew's statment that but for the efforts of Messrs. Morgan, Stillman and Baker, the Clearing House Association would not have subscribed for the recent Treasury certificates, was emphatically denied last night by Alexander Gilbert, president of the Clearing House Association and chairman of the committee.

Former Mayor Alexander Gilbert, President of New York Clearing House Association.

"The statement credited to Senator Depew is not true," said Mr. Gilbert at his home in this city. "It implies a lack of disposition on the part of the Clearing House Association to uphold the hands of the Government in this time of financial stress," he added.

"That implication is unjust. In all the world there are no men who more keenly realize their responsibilities than do the members of the Clearing House committee. Never for a moment has that committee considered any measure to reject the Government's Treasury certificate plan.

"No individual member has even hinted at action calculated to jeopadize or curtail its success. On the contrary, the Clearing House committee has aimed throughout to give the Government hearty support.

"What really happened in the committee was this: When the new Treasury issue came up for discussion, we debated the question whether it would be wise or unwise for the banks to subscribe just at this time. Subscribing banks would be compelled to pay in gold, and as a result their gold reserves would be largely reduced.

"On this point arose the only discussion. Certain members of the committee advocated the subscription, while others contended that the building up of the gold reserves was more important just at this time.

"It is perfectly true, however, that Messrs. Morgan, Stillman and Baker did appear before the committee. But it was not to oppose any sentiment against the Treasury issue. There was no such sentiment in existence.

"Neither did these three gentlemen join the committee conference in order to avert probable action antagonistic to the Government's plan. No such action was ever contemplated.

"All that Messrs. Morgan, Stillman and Baked did was to ask us to subscribe. Some of the committee agreed right then and there to do so, and others did not. There was no swaying of opinion, nor change of purpose as a result of the arguments advanced by the three financiers.

"As to Senator Depew's assertion that sentiment in the Clearing House Association is strongly against this action by the Government, I can only say that this also is unfounded.

"The measure has never been considered outside the Clearing House Committee, no member of which would think of opposing Government action for relief.

"Already many millions have been subscribed by banks to the new treasury certificates, and I look for larger subscriptions to follow the week's report of gold reserves. Many banks who wish to make a strong reserve showing this week will, in my opinion, come forward with large subscriptions when this has been accomplished."

"Wuxtry!"

It now develops that the story sent out from Plainfield of the encounter of a desperado with Policeman Saffron, was, like the officer's name, the color of a fake.—Newark Evening News.

VOTING MACHINES TO GO?

Governor and Senators-elect Said to Have Discussed Their Further Use.

AT A "SECRET" CONFERENCE.

Australian Ballot, As Used in New York State, May Be Adopted for Them—Senators Won't Talk.

The death knell of voting machines in New Jersey was probably sounded at Lakewood yesterday, according to report. Governor-elect John Franklin Fort and nineteen of the twenty-one members of the next Senate, including Ernest R. Ackerman and Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, sitting about an elaborately decorated dining room of the Laurel House went deeply into the subject of the expression of preferences of voters by machinery.

Governor Edward Casper Stokes, whose term expires January 21, was a member of the party and is understood to have raised his voice in defense of the machines. Outside of that expression some others seemed to feel that the general sentiment throughout the State was against any further purchases and in favor of their early elimination, it is said.

It is probable that among the recommendations to be made in the first annual message of Governor-elect Fort will be a very emphatic treatment of the subject of ballot reform. It is said that the State will not necessarily return to the old-fashioned ballot used in a majority of the districts today, but there may be some movement to adopt the Australian ballot as used in New York and other States.

State Senator E. R. Ackerman refused today to discuss the subjects considered at the conference. "I am not at liberty to talk on the matter," he said, "but I can say I have received a number of requests to use my influence against the voting machine. Up to the present time I have never been requested to help in having it continued in use."

When State Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, of Somerset county, was asked this morning whether the voting machine had been the subject of discussion and whether it was true that the majority of Senators favored its abolishment, he said:

"I am not going to say one word about what we talked over yesterday. The meeting was behind closed doors and it was understood that nothing was to be given out. Attempts were made on the train to get me to discuss out conference but I would not do so, neither would the other Senators. I don't believe that any Senator has said a word about what was discussed. I am not going to make any statement on this subject."

Governor-elect Fort's son is the correspondent at Lakewood for the Newark Morning Star, which first published the story. The correspondent was not present at the meeting, and the story published in that paper was much exaggerated.

The fight against the use of voting machines is as old as the machines themselves. Since they were first introduced into the State as an experiment there has been strong opposition. The Legislature of this year wrestled long with the question of ballot reform and finally wrote on the statute books, despite the fact that there was a Republican Senate and a Democratic House, a law abolishing the Voting Machine Commission. That was taken to mean that there would be no further purchases of machines.

The Governor-elect did not mention the voting machine in his speeches during the campaign, but he is known to have decided views on the subject. He is said to have expressed himself in favor of some radical ballot reforms yesterday.

MISS MARY JONAS BRIDE OF NEW YORK MAN

Miss Mary Jonas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Jonas, of South Second street, and Richard E. Mosher, of New York, were married yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents. The ceremony was performed by Justice Hezekiah Hand and was witnessed by twenty-five guests from this city and other places.

Miss Jonas was attended by Miss Etta Trembley, of West Fourth street, as maid of honor, and Frank Mohan, of this city, was best man. The bride wore a gown of white mousseline trimmed with lace and carried white roses. Her attendant's gown was of white lace over pale green satin and hat to match. She carried pink carnations.

Following the ceremony, the young people were tendered a reception and later left for an extended trip. On returning they will make their home in New York, the groom being employed in that city as an electrician. They were the recipients of many handsome presents.

John P. Owens a Counselor.

John P. Owens, of this city, is among the twenty-eight new counselors named yesterday in the report presented to the justices of the Supreme Court as having successfully passed the examination. There were also thirty attorneys. Out of a class of thirty-two applicants for counselors' license, four were rejected.

Eighteen-Year-Old Drunk.

Harry Seader, employed by a local liveryman, was arrested on Somerset street by Marshal Pope last night in a drunk and disorderly condition. At the session of borough court this morning, Recorder Dolliver fined him $1. The lad was but eighteen years old.

Mrs. F. Anderson, of Bound Brook, is visiting her aunt, Mrs. J. H. Kenyon, of Crescent avenue.

THOMAS HANNA LEAVES FOR SOUTH AMERICA

Thomas Hanna, of East Fifth street, sailed from New York at 2 o'clock this afternoon for Colombia, South America, where he will assume charge of the mining properties of the Certigue Mining and Dredging Company, organized by Freeholder S. P. T. Wilbur. He was accompanied to the boat by several friends who wished him bon voyage and succes in his new undertaking.

Mr. Hanna will first land at Cartagina, Colombia, and from there will proceed overland to Quibdo. After that he has a considerable distance to travel by boat to Certigue where the mines are located. The product is gold and platinum and the results obtained so far show that company has a valuable property.

Mr. Hanna will practically have full supervision of the output at the mines although the workmen will continue to be in charge of experienced superintendents as heretofore. While the field is new to the Plainfielder his experience in other directions will make him a valued assistant to the Certigue organizers. If the climatic conditions are agreeable it may be a long time before he returns to the United States. His leaving will be greatly felt by the many acquaintances he has in Plainfield and Elizabeth and with whom he has been very popular.

BOROUGH TAX IS 6 CTS ABOVE THE LEGAL RATE

That the North Plainfield property owners are being taxed at a rate six cents higher than the State law allows has been ascertained by a reference to the law on the matter, as a result of a complaint made by a borough taxpayer. The borough rate for this year is $2.58 on the $100, and is made up as follows: County tax, 66 cents; State school tax, 20 cents; borough tax, 70 cents; special school tax, $1.02. The law, as given in the amendment to Section 25, on page 178 of the pamphlet laws of New Jersey, specifies that the rate shall not exceed $1.50, aside from specially provided taxation. Under this would of course come the special school tax of $1.02, but with this subtracted, the rate would be $1.56, six cents higher than the $1.50 rate prescribed in the State laws.

The law, as it appears on the statute books, reads as follows: "In no case shall the rate of taxation for county, school district and local purposes exceed in the aggregate the sum of $1.70 for each $100 of assessed valuation in cities having a population over 50,000, and $1.50 for each $100 assessed valuation in all other cities and boroughs, villages, towns and townships. Provided, however, that any municipality may by resolution adopt a higher rate, and the same shall be approved by a majority of the legal voters of such municipality at the general election next preceding the fixing of such tax rate."

In speaking about the matter this morning, Tax Assessor Justus H. Cooley said that his figures on the rate were accepted by the county board of taxation and that he knew nothing about the existence of any such law. "I made the assessments on a full basis, and I don't see what is to be done now, because a good deal of the money has been collected already."

Tax Collector George F. Brown, of the borough, has taken in nearly $30,000 of the year's budget of $78,000.

"UNITED CIGARS" BRANCH.

Big Tobacco Concern Leases Store on East Front Street.

The United Cigar Stores Company, the big tobacco concern which has been seeking to establish a local branch for a long time, has leased the store in the Vandeventer building on East Front street, now occupied by Mrs. Adams' millinery establishment, and will open for business early next month. The premises have already been measured for the familiar "United" fixtures and the business will be conducted the same as the stores in New York and other places.

Mrs. Adams, who has occupied the present quarters for many years, will transfer her business a week from Monday to her residence at 182 East Front street, near Watchung avenue.

Drag Ride and Dance.

The senior class of the city high school will have a drag ride tonight, and will wind up the evening's fun with a dance at the school. The new tel-electric piano player, which arrived for the school yesterday, will be used to furnish the dance music.

ALUMINUM PRESS FAILS

Concern Manufacturing Lithographic Presses Now in Receivers' Hands.

ITS DUNELLEN FACTORY CLOSED

Liabilities Are $178,900 and Nominal Assets $145,286—Only Half of Capital Subscribed.

The Aluminum Press Company, manufacturer of lithographic presses with offices at 42 Park row, New York, and factory at Dunellen, went into the hands of a receiver yesterday. It could not pay a note of $25,000 to the Mercantile National Bank, of New York, which fell due yesterday. Liabilities are $178,900 and nominal assets $145,286.

Justice O'Gorman, of the Supreme Court, appointed David Field Malone receiver, with a bond of $10,000, in proceedings for the voluntary dissolution of the corporation brought by the directors, John Mullaly, president; Philip W. Hall, vice president and manager; Thomas W. Hall, Jr., treasurer; W. H. Webb, secretary, and Frederick F. Meyer.

The officers stated that as it was necessary to sell the presses on long credit the business required a large amount of capital, which was obtained by borrowing on its notes. Owing to the strikes in the printing and lithographic trades, severe competition and unfortunate failure of a new kind of press recently placed on the market by the company at large expense, the business of late has not been profitable, and the company never declared a dividend. Banks from which the company borrowed have heretofore renewed its notes, but owing to the recent money stringency the banks refused to renew further. The principal creditors are the Mercantile National Bank, $75,000; First National Bank of Plainfield, $10,750, and T. W. Hall, of New Canaan, Conn., $80,000. The assets consist of machinery, $45,003; materials and presses, $25,860; office furniture, $100; notes, $6,751 pledged; accounts, $5,671; cash, $800 for receivership expenses, and $1,000 shares of stock of the Trinity Syndicate, $50,000. This syndicate built the factory at Dunellen, which the company leases.

Philip W. Hall's life is insured for $150,000 for the company. The company was incorporated May 29, 1901, and has capital stock of $800,000, of which $486,130 has been issued. The principal stockholders are Philip W. Hall and Thomas W. Hall.

UNION THANKSGIVING PROGRAM ANNOUNCED

Arrangements have been completed for the Union Thanksgiving Day service to be held in the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, Thursday morning, November 28, at 10:30 o'clock. Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, pastor of the First Baptist church, is the chairman of the committee in charge of the details. It has always been custmary for the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church to hold a Thanksgiving Day service, and there was talk this year of holding a union service in one of the other churches. Later it was decided to unite with the Crescent Avenue church.

Rev. A. E. Finn, of the Park Avenue Baptist church, will deliver the sermon and the other divines who will take part in the service include Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, Rev. C. L. Goodrich, Rev. George B. Shaw, Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring, Rev. E. Vicar Stevenson, Rev. E. E. Roberson, Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss and Rev. J. W. Musson.

An effort was made to secure either Governor-elect John Franklin Fort or State Senator Everett Colby to make the address at this service, because of the State and national importance of the occasion, but unfortunately other engagements prevented either one accepting the invitation.

All the Graduates Are Busy.

Notwithstanding present business condition Drake College continues to place its graduates in good positions. Those who have recently taken positions are William Zimmerman with the Loizeaux Lumber Company; E. W. Fuer, clerical position in New York; Miss May Myers with Moody Corporation, Elizabeth; Ernest Bedman with First National Bank. Not a single graduate of the school is unemployed.

Pastors to Exchange Pulpits.

Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, pastor of the First Baptist church, and Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring, of the First Presbyterian church, will exchange pulpits tomorrow morning. In the evening each one will occupy his own pulpit.

SHOT THROUGH THE HEART AS HE ENTERED STORE

Nine Year Old Herbert Scherholtz Instantly Killed by Accidental Discharge of Shot Gun Civil War Veteran Held.

FATALITY AT PERRY'S STORE.

Little Fellow Fell Dead on the Threshold, Struck by Heavy Charge Which Passed Through Shop Door—Penny Clasped in His Hand.

Shot through the heart as he opened the door of Albert G. Perry's grocery store, Herbert Scherholtz, the nine-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Scherholtz, was instantly killed at about 6 o'clock last night by the accidental discharge of a shot gun, which "Colonel" Perry, as he is called, had just taken down from its place in the store and was overhauling, preparatory to going out. The little fellow, who had been sent to the store by his grandmother, Mrs. Kaeding, of Wilson avenue, lived but a few minutes and died on ten-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. fore a physician could be summoned.

Mr. Perry, who is a veteran of the Civil war and a man more than seventy years of age, was sitting opposite the door of the shop, with the gun laying across his lap. He had just taken the weapon from its hook and was loosening the hanging strap when the sling caught in the hammer and the gun was discharged. The heavy charge of No. 7 shot penetrated the shop door just as the little fellow was in the act of opening it and lodged in his left breast. The lad fell across the threshold, and though Dr. P. B. Cregar was summoned by Marshal Keller, who lives nearby, was dead before the physician arrived. In his hand he clasped two pennies, and it was afterward learned that his grandmother had sent him to the store to buy a yeast cake.

Marshal Keller, who heard the shot from his home near the store, was on the spot almost immediately. He immediately informed Chief Marshal Weiss, who came to the place with Dr. A. H. Dundon. Meanwhile a neighbor had summoned Dr. Cregar, but before either physician could get to the little fellow, death came. He only lived about five minutes and did not speak. The body was removed to the home of the lad's grandfather, Frederick Kaeding, of Wilson avenue, and County Physician W. H. Long, of Somerville, was informed of the fatality. Chief Marshal George Weiss took possession of the gun and arrested Mr. Perry, who was released about an hour later, when the county physician, after viewing the body, declared that death had been accidental. The old man is on the verge of a nervous collapse and can talk but incoherently about the accident.

According to his son, Herbert Perry, who was with his father at the time, and who picked the lad up, the colonel had announced his intention of going to Westfield. Mrs. Perry had asked if he was not afraid to go at night, and he replied that he thought he would take the shot gun with im, for he would be late getting home. Personally he had not used the gun for about a year, and had hung it up unloaded. But one of his sons, who has been rabbit shooting recently, left the gun loaded when he hung it up again, and in taking off the hanging sling, the old man caught the strap in the hammer, and the gun, which was pointing directly at the door, discharged the weapon, the charge of which lodged in the little fellow's left breast.

Mrs. Scherholtz is the daughter of Frederick Kaeding and, with his mother and little sister, the boy was visiting at his grandparents' home. Edward Scherholtz, the lad's father, is employed with the Asbury Park Press as a printer. A coincidence of the fatality is the fact that Harvey Benner, a nephew of "Colonel" Perry, accidentally shot his son last Fourth of July through a door in practically the same way.

The lad's funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock from the home of his grandmother, Mrs. Kaeding, on Wilson avenue. The interment will be in the North Plainfield cemetery.

HARD LUCK FOR FISHER

Wanted Newspaper Article Retracted But Instead Got Arrested.

TRIED "SUICIDE" IN CELL.

Cops Thought He Was Trying New Game and Refused to Take Him Seriously.

Robert Fisher, or "Scotty," as he is generally called, pal of "Dutch" Ides and an enemy of honest work, was again in the city court, this morning, this time on a charge of disorderly conduct. He was arraigned before Judge Runyon Thursday as a vagrant and after securing his release on a suspended sentence, passed some remarks to Chief Kiely that were woven into a story by a reporter present and published that afternoon. Fisher took exception to the article and yesterday went to the newspaper office with the expressed determination to "clean house."

He proposed to make it a spectacular affair and invited a dozen or more friends around to see him do it. The reception accorded him, however, was far different than what he had counted upon and instead of scaring everybody half to death with talk of "shooting," "punching heads" and such nonsense, a firm hand grasped him by the collar. He was started on a run toward the door and shoved to the sidewalk so quick he landed in the middle of the group of expectant friends. When he picked himself up Patrolman McCarthy escorted him to police headquarters.

Fisher pretended to be terribly upset over his arrest and tried to throw a scare into Doorman McCue and Patrol Driver O'Gorman by a fake attempt at suicide in his cell. He made a noose out of his suspenders and after hanging them to an iron bar shoved his head through the loop. He took care, however, to see that no strain rested on his neck by holding himself up by the hands.

The bluff was witnessed by both officers and while the prisoner threshed around with his feet to attract their attention, they sauntered in front of the cell and began discussing the weather, the fearful condition of Front street and topics of general interest. Their conversation was almost drowned out by the fearful tattoo Fisher's feet beat on the cement floor and Doorman McCue finally exclaimed:

"Say, Fisher, stop your noise. The reserve men are sleeping upstairs and it might make them angry if they find out who's doing it."

"Sure," chimed in O'Gorman, "and if you don't be a good boy I won't let you play with those gallusses any more."

The remarks convinced Fisher that his grandstand effort was a failure and he pulled his head out of the noose with a look of disgust on his face. After that he went to sleep.

When the prisoner was brought before Judge Runyon this morning, he denied going into the newspaper office to cause a disturbance and asserted that his intentions were of the most peaceable sort. The evidence showed differently and he might have gone to jail but for his absolute promise that the court would never have occasion to see him again. A suspended sentence met with Chief Kiely's sanction and Fisher struck out for the free ozone on the double quick.

Congregational C. E. Active.

Under the auspices of the society an attractive program will be given Tuesday night. Emil Closs, of Brooklyn, humorist, pantamimist and impersonator; Miss Nora B. Schenck, soprano; Miss Myra Emmons and Miss Alice Morgan, pianists, together with a well-known violnist, will furnish the numbers. Miss Bessie F. Miller is chairman of the committee in charge.

G. M. LANNING REVEALS ALL HIS PECULATIONS

George M. Lanning, formerly postmaster and a leading citizen of Florham Park, in Morris county, who is now serving a seven year sentence in State prison for forgeries, was taken from Trenton to Newark yesterday by Deputy Keeper Henry K. Straley to testify before Referee in Bankruptcy Atwood L. De Coster in bankruptcy proceedings instituted against him by the several banks in which he had forged notes which purported to have been issued by the Florham Park borough government.

The witness was examined by Assistant United States District Attorney Harrison P. Lindabury, counsel for Edward A. Quayle, of Morristown, who is trustee for the bankrupt estate, and by Kinsley Twinning, of counsel for the Bernardsville National Bank.

Lanning was extremely nervous and several times during the giving of his testimony broke into tears. He said that as far as he was able to figure his forgeries amounted to about $65,980. Pressed for an explanation of why he had the forged notes discounted and what he did with the money which he obtained on them, he buried his face in his hands, sobbed audibly and said that it was a sad story, dating back almost to the very day of his marriage in 1873.

"For thirty-two years I have been operating," he said. "My little grocery store in Florham Park, which was then Afton, did not pay me enough to live on and I ran behind. I could not seem to make a living, and it was a hell for me. I don't like to tell it all, it is too hard for me. One thing which I have never mentioned before that years ago I foolishly promised my brother-in-law that I would remain in Afton as long as father and mother lived."

At that point Lanning broke down completely. When he was able to continue he said the first note he ever discounted was one at the National Bank, of Morristown, thirty years ago. It was his personal note for $117, but the indorsements on it were forgeries. His notes, of an official character, which were forged extended over a period of twenty-five years.

"I found it very easy to get money from the banks," he said, "so I discounted one note after another. I used the proceeds from one to pay the other. It was a case of one hand washing the other."

Under considerable pressure Lanning said that about ten years ago he speculated in Wall street for about three years, in the hope that he could make enough to pay his debts, but that instead he lost about $10,000. He did not want to tell who he operated through in the stock market, but as the referee told him he must answer he said:

"Oh, he's dead now; he's dead. He didn't commit any crime. It is my brother-in-law, G. S. Goldberg. He died eight years ago. I used to give him the money when I got sure tips and he did the speculating."

Lanning then said that in the Orange National Bank he had an account as chairman of the finance committee of Florham Park, and that there is now a balance there of about $1,000. In the Commercial Trust Company, of Jersey City, he said, he has a balance of $3,960 from notes amounting to $10,000 which he had discounted. In the Bernardsville Bank, he declared, there is a balance of about $1,000 from about $5,000 in discounted notes, and in the First National Bank, of Arlington, a balance of $1,000 from notes amounting to $6,000.

Lanning was also examined as to his real estate, amounting to $5,673.79, against which there are mortgages and some personal property and a life insurance policy which has a surrender value of $2,483.50. It was finally decided to ask for an order to dispose of Lanning's entire estate at private sale.

SUICIDE PREVENTS ARREST.

Arthur Schneider, Charged with Forgery, Shoots Himself and Jumps Into River.

Paterson, Nov. 23.—Arthur Schneider, a floor walker for a five and ten cent store, committed suicide early yesterday morning by shooting himself in the head. Schneider's body was found in the Passaic River, near the Wesel Bridge. The revolver was found on the bank. Warrants had been issued for the man's arrest for forgery and he would have been arrested yesterday morning.

Schneider had not been in this city more than seven weeks. He was employed at a local store soon after his arrival here. He boarded with William Huebner, of No. 38 Bridge street. He soon got into trouble trying to pass worthless checks. He raised $40 on a worthless check through William Lindsey, of No. 20 Belmont avenue, and also passed other worthless checks and forgeries of names of local business men.

Schneider is said to have a wife, who is well to do, and children in the Bronx. It is also stated that he had a wide acquaintance in Manhattan and Brooklyn fraternal societies. He boarded at the Continental Hotel for a time as Albert Black, and was also known as Albert Schmidt.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick V. L. Jones, of this city, have been visiting Rev. Henry T. Jones, of Whitehouse.

Coy's brilliant work for Yale against Princeton last Saturday has made him the leading candidate for fullback in the All-American line-up, according to some gridiron critics.

There is practically no betting on the outcome of the Yale-Harvard game in Cambridge today. A few bets at 5 to 1 on Yale have been made in New York, it is reported.

The Carlisle eleven will be weakened for its contest against Chicago next Saturday by the absence of Mount Pleasant, its star quarterback. The great player had two small bones broken in his right hand in the game against Minnesota last Saturday and will not be able to play again this season.

President Roosevelt, who is a graduate of Harvard, will witness the game between the Crimson eleven and Yale today.

Bucknell's eleven is confident of defeating Swarthmore when the teams meet today. Judging by the records of the respective teams the game should be close, as the elevens appear to be evenly matched.

Frederick E. Platt, a University of Pennsylvania student, fractured his spine while playing an impromptu game of football on Sunday. He is not expected to survive the injury.

There is a big demand for tickets to the West Point-Annapolis contest, which will be played on Franklin Field November 30. The requests for tickets number three times as many as there are seats on the field.

At a meeting of the Wesleyan Athletic Association Thursday afternoon John Gregg Paine, '09, of Columbia, Pa., was elected manager of the football team for next season. Arthur T. Vanderbilt, '10, of Newark, was elected assistant manager.

A novel way of figuring out the champion eleven of the year is to subtract the total points made by opponents from the total scored and then compute the average points per game. Figuring it out this way, Princeton has an average of 29 points a game; Yale, 21; Pennsylvania, 19; the Indians, 19; Cornell, 15, and Harvard, 7. Were this system a solution it would be easy to go right down the line and figure the ranking of every team in the country. But aside from the fact that teams meet a common opponent at different periods of the season, when circumstances may be entirely different, there is that fact that every schedule furnishes a different list of opponents. That in itself knocks the spots out of the foregoing system. According to the subtraction arrangement the Trinity eleven has an average of 24 points, placing it next to Princeton. For the unfortunate person who undertakes to rank the teams at the end of the season the fewer his calculations the better. He will find himself in an interminable tangle otherwise. If Harvard beats Yale today there will have to be additions to the batty houses to accommodate the depositors.

GOLF.

There will be nothing but general golf play on the Plainfield Country Club links, today, the schedule providing no special event. The season will close on Thursday with a cross country tournament in which a great many members are expected to take part. This play will begin at 9 o'clock in the morning. Last year was the first introduction of the cross country tournament and it proved popular. Prizes will be awarded the winners.

It is to be regretted that Leighton Calkins' scheme for the difficult playing of the ninth hole at the Plainfield Country Club was not in effect earlier in the season. However, it promises to become a strong feature of play on the course. A very deep ditch in front of which is placed several railroad ties on end should make it exciting enough for any player.

"Marty" O'Loughlin, the 'pro" at the Plainfield Country Club, will leave soon after Christmas for the Southern Pines Golf Club, where he will have a similar position for the winter. He is already planning to play several matches with some of the crack "pros" who will spend the winter in the South.

Soon after Thanksgiving Day the committees at the Plainfield Country Club will announce the result of the season play, giving the names of the winners of the various competitions which have been played.

Charles B. Morse, of the golf committee of the Park Golf Club, is compiling a report on the season's play, giving the names of the winners in the competitions on the course.

The annual meeting of the Plainfield Country Club will not be held until early in the New Year. This is in accordance with previous custom.

MR. FORT OUTLINES POLICY TO SENATORS

Governor-elect John Franklin Fort entertained the State Senatorial Senators and Senators-elect, Governor Stokes and Captain A. M. Bradshaw at an informal luncheon at the Laurel House, Lakewood, yesterday. While the event was strictly social and was lacking in political significance, Mr. Fort took occasion to outline briefly and without partisan emphasis the general plan of legislation that he would like to see followed at Trenton this winter.

Regrets were received from Senator Edmund W. Wakelee, who was prevented from being present by pressure of business. Private affairs also detained Senator Everett Colby. With the exception of these two the roll call for the incoming Senate was complete.

In the words of Mr. Fort, he had chosen this method of "getting the Senators acquainted." The luncheon was quite private. At its conclusion no one would discuss the speeches that had been made, but the statement was given out informally that a general review of the political situation had formed the topic of the day.

Those present included Edward A. Wilson, Robert E. Hand, Bloomfield H. Minch, William J. Harrison, Oliver H. Brown, William J. Bradley, John B. Avis, William Plummer, Jr.; Samuel K. Robbins, Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, Ernest R. Ackerman, Thomas J. Hillery, William C. Gebhardt, Jacob C. Prince, James F. Fielder, Harry D. Leavitt, George S. Silzer, Johnston Cornish and John Hinchliffe.

DEUTSCH GUILTY.

Perth Amboy Banker Convicted of Embezzling $180 of Depositor's Money.

New Brunswick, Nov. 23.—The jury which has been trying Joseph Deutsch for the last three days retired at 1 o'clock yesterday and early in the evening brought in a verdict of guilty. Deutsch's wife went on the stand in his behalf yesterday morning to strengthen his claim that if there was anything wrong with his banking business in Rahway and Perth Amboy it was because it had been mismanaged by his clerk while he was ill. She testified that when she visited the offices that the clerks ordered here out and threatened to shoot her if she did not go out.

John W. Beekman, who, it was alleged, advised Deutsch to flee to Holland when there were reports that he was in financial difficulty, testified that he was summoned to Deutsch's house and that he was in bed. His clerk, David Jules, was there, and Jules and Deutsch talked in German. Jules told him that Deutsch was in trouble and wanted to know if he could go away. He added:

"I said that I didn't see anything to hinder him from going away, but I remember remarking that he was a pretty sick man to be traveling."

"Did you have any business transaction with Jules?" asked counsel for Deutsch.

"Yes; he asked me what my charge was. I had done some work for the company and I said about $25, and he paid it."

"Did he take much money from his pocket?"

"Oh, quite a wad of it. I remember kicking myself afterward for not charging more," said the lawyer.

Deutsch was tried for embezzling $180 from a depositor in his Perth Amboy bank. There are several other indictments of a like nature against him.

—On account of the rails and frogs being new, the pony wheels on the Somerset and Fourth street trolley cars easily jump the tracks at Front and Somerset streets unless the motormen use great care in turning the corner. After a little service this trouble will be obviated.

Dr. Sydney Titsworth, formerly of Plainfield, but now of Bridgeport, Conn., has just completed his service as an interne at the General Hospital in that city and is practising medicine there. At present he is visiting his mother on Lincoln place for a few days.

MADE KNOWN P. S. C. REORGANIZATION PLANS

In a general statement issued yesterday Thomas N. McCarter, president of the Public Service Corporation of New Jersey, set forth in detail the changes in the managerial force of the big concern which will become operative on January 1 next. He also tells of various economies which are contemplated and estimates the annual saving which will result at about $500,000. As was intimated on Thursday, the principal officers to be retired are Frederick Evans, secretary, who will be succeeded by Colonel Edwin W. Hine, and A. B. Carlton and Charles A. Stirling, vice presidents, who were in charge of the electrical and transportation divisions of the company, respectively.

The former will be succeeded by George J. Roberts, at present chief engineer of the United Gas Improvement Company, of Philadelphia, and the latter by John J. Burleigh, at present a vice president of the Public Service Corporation. Mr. Roberts will be in charge of the operation of practically the entire system, and Mr. Burleigh will have charge of the commercial department. The present office of Colonel Hine, assistant to President McCarter, will be combined with his new one of secretary, and Assistant Secretary Harry C. Stevenson will retain his position. The commercial agents and a few other executive officers will be assigned to other positions and wherever possible positions will be doubled up.

Public Service will continue to operate the gas, electric and trolley interests, and no segregation of the different departments of the business of the corporation has even been thought of, says Mr. McCarter. There has been no change of any moment in the stockholding interest of the Public Service. It is the intention to take care of all the business that comes to its several departments and to give even better service than in the past, but the pursuit of new business and all new construction work will be postponed. About twenty members of the managerial forces of the several departments will be retired and others will have their salaries reduced, while in cities where offices are maintained for each branch they will be consolidated. Mr. Roberts will become first vice president of the company and will have charge of its entire operation, being especially qualified in each branch of its work.

COMMISSION AFTER THE ERIE.

State Railroad Board Insistent for Detailed Reports of Accidents Since July 1.

Because of the failure of the Erie Railroad to forward the State railroad commissioners a daily report of accidents which happen upon their lines, a resolution was recently adopted ordering the company to make these reports, in accordance with a resolution passed by the commission some time ago. The resolution further provided that the company should also perpare forwith a full and detailed statement of the accidents which had occurred between July 1 and November 1.

The result of the resolution has had its effect, and the company has forwarded to the commissioners a batch of accident reports, which show that during this period there were nineteen persons killed and thirty-one injured. Of the number killed, one was a passenger, ten employes, four trespassers and four "others." Of the injured, four were passengers, eighteen employes, three trespassers and six "others."

The commission reports eleven killed and twelve injured on the various railroads during the week ending November 17. This is the largest number reported as killed since the commission has been preparing the accident bulletin.

Trenton, Nov. 23.—At a cost of $80,000, the State Council of New Jersey, Junior Order of United American Mechanics, have purchased two properties on East State street, this city. It is the intention of the council to erect a lodge and office building costing $200,000 to be used as State headquarters.

The order has a membership of 48,000 in this State, and the wealth of the 294 councils is estimated at more than $1,000,000.

Cranford Thief Captured.

"Dutch" Ides, who recently escaped from the Rahway Reformatory, Thursday night, with two pals, attempted to rob the dry goods store of Abraham Shapiro, at South and Walnut avenue, Cranford. They had broken the glass of a front window when Policeman James Hennessey rushed at them and captured one of the trio. Ides, however, and the other thief got away. The prisoner gave his name as William Pittius. Hennessy had been watching the thieves from behind a tree near the store and when he saw them break the window tackled them.

—The Women's Auxiliary to the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital will meet Friday, November 29, when a detailed report of "The Gathering of the Clans" will be presented.

HOW ROOSEVELT IS TO BLAME.

Apropos to the present stringency in the money market, one of the best explanations is to be found in an "essay" by a Jersey editor, who soliloquizes in this fashion:

"All this chatter about President Roosevelt being responsible for the financial crisis through which we are now passing can be sized up as follows:

"There has been a scarcity of currency.

"The scarcity of currency has been caused by the people drawing their money from the banks and hoarding it.

"The people have drawn their money from the banks because they lost confidence in those institutions.

"They lost confidence in those institutions because they learned of the unsafe methods of investment on the part of some of the institutions, and found out that some of their officials were corrupt.

"These things were brought to light because an effort was being made to clean the rascals out and restore business dealings to a firm foundation.

"This was being done because the people have as chief executive of this nation, Theodore Roosevelt, a man of sterling worth, who cannot be controlled by the big corporations, who is not afraid of the biggest job on earth, and who is determined to do his duty.

"That is all there is to the matter. There is really no reason for a panic. Because a few Wall street gamblers and stock manipulators have been exposed and kicked out of their high position where they were robbing those who trusted them, does not say that all financial institutions are unsound. Far from it. The country, as a whole, is prosperous. The banks and trust companies are in excellent condition. The fact is, the financial atmosphere has been greatly cleared by the weeding out. There is no better time than the present for good, honest, safe investments. Let everyone do his part and business will soon be back where it was before."

Inasmuch as the union Thanksgiving day services here partake of the dual nature of a festival of both State and Church, it would not be amiss to invite some representative layman, such as Grover Cleveland or Woodrow Wilson, to make the address. Of course as the plans are already made for the celebration next Thursday this suggestion could not be considered, but it is presented to those who may be selected to arrange next year's program.

"Jimmy" Martin, editor of the Newark Evening Star, has gone on a vacation. Are we to understand that his editorials made him tired?—Trenton State Gazette.

Not at all; Mr. Martin takes this method of expressing appreciation to Star readers.

Let's see, isn't that the same Brewer who thought the country was going to the bow-wows if it retained the Philippines? Isn't he the same calamity howler who argued that the lamented McKinley was an "imperialist?" Oh, yes, we've heard of him.

The voting machine may have to go but not until a better device for registering a ballot is brought forward. The Australian ballot system has its merits but then, on the other hand, it has its defects just the same as the automatic machine.

Justice George W. Gray is again mentioned as a Democratic Presidential nomination possibility, but then who would accuse that party of selecting such dignified, scholarly and capable candidate?

It is safe to say that neither the Senator from Union nor from Somerset will consent to the abolishment of the voting machine until an improved method is demonstrated to them.

THE FORUM.

Editor, The Daily Press:

Can it be true that the taxpayers of Plainfield must bear the expense of school teachers fares on trolley cars in this city? In a recent issue of your paper I noted a communication which intimated that such is the case. The letter in question also gave some intimation of an alleged fact that the notices of meetings sent out to members of the Board of Education are printed on highly engraved stationery imported from New York. In my personal opinion, I think that these are serious matters and should not be given publication unless they can be substantiated for they do a great harm to the reputation of the city.

Sometime ago I was shocked to find that $50 had been paid an unknown man to deliver the oration at the dedication of the new $125,000 high school building. I wondered then why a college president or some man noted in educational work was not obtained as the speaker, for surely it would have been an easy matter to get one. Why was $50 of the taxpayers' money used for such a purpose. Can you tell me?

JOHN BROWN'S AID, THE LAST, PASSES AWAY

With the death of Captain James H. Holmes on Thursday at the home of William Hockman, of Newman Springs road, near Red Bank, the last figure directly connected with John Brown and the early struggles of the Kansas abolitionists passed. He was seventy-five years old.

Born in New York, the son of a wealthy broker, he migrated to Kansas when only nineteen years old. There he threw himself unreservedly into the fight to keep the soil free, joining John Brown's "militia" company and serving in the battle that gave his leader the nickname of "Ossawotamie." During the troubles that continued in Kansas until close upon the outbreak of the Civil War he played an active part. He had a federal claim near Emporia and this spot became a rendezvous and headquarters for Brown and his followers. It is a matter of record that Brown regarded Captain Holmes as one of his most valuable recruits and was wont to speak of him as "my little hornet."

Entering the army at the call for volunteers he took part in the southwestern campaign and was under fire on many occasions. When mustered out he made his home in Washington, where he obtained a small position under the government. He was promoted and under the Lincoln administration was brought to the attention of the President. A Secretary for the Territory of New Mexico was needed at that moment and Captain Holmes was appointed.

In the remaining years of the administration he acquitted himself well of his responsible office. The secretaryship required talents as widely removed from those of a good soldier as from those of a successful agitator and guerilla warrior.

His body is to rest near the grave of John Brown, in the Adirondacks.

VIOLIN AND PIANO RECITAL AT HOME OF MISS CORY.

The second recital of the season under the arrangement of Miss Maud Van Boskerck, was held yesterday afternoon at the home of Miss Cory, of Park avenue, and like the first one was largely attended. The program comprised three classical sonatas for violin and piano which were given by Mons. Edouard Dethier, violin, and Miss Carolyn Beebe, piano, and the numbers aroused the greatest enthusiasm.

The selections were typical of the classical period represented, 1790 to 1830, being the works of Mozart Schumann and Beethoven. Especially delightful was the rendition of Beethoven's sonata, "Kreutzer," which is seldom heard under such favorable circumstances. It is considered one of the composer's best works. The work of the artists called forth the highest praise, both from an artistic standpoint and the brilliancy displayed.

The first recital comprised the earliest selections, while yesterday's recital afforded an opportunity to hear selections from the middle period. The next and third one will present the very modern numbers of well-known composers.

FIVE YOUTHS ON TRIAL.

New Brunswick, Nov. 23.—Robert Adrain, who was president of the "Rump" Senate and who was also prosecutor of the pleas in Middlesex county some years ago, again appeared as prosecutor yesterday afternoon, having been deputized by Prosecutor Berdine to try the five little boys charged with atrociously assaulting Joseph Chikinsky. The defendants are John Bartow, George Holzworth, Charles Harris, Joseph Erhart and Joseph Lout. Mr. Adrian was retained by the friends of the family of the dead boy, and worked up considerable of the evidence. As Prosecutor Berdine has had a busy week and is not in good health, he decided to let Mr. Adrian look after the prosecution. Former Senator Theodore Strong and former Judge Cowenhoven are counsel for the boys.

The boy assaulted died on the steps of the Hebrew synagogue during the assault and the five boys now on trial were arrested for murder. The Grand Jury indicted them for atrocious assault and battery. The members of the Richmond Street Synagogue are greatly excited about the case, many of them having been led to believe that it was a deliberate murder, and that the American boys committed the assault because the other was a Jew.

The coroner's inquest showed that the boy died of a ruptured blood vessel, caused by over-excitement, and that there were no marks upon the body. The trial was continued at a night session.

LINEMAN NEAR DEATH.

Passaic, Nov. 23.—George Burke, of 122 James street, Newark, a lineman employed by the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company, was almost electrocuted at the top of a telegraph pole in the yards of the Manhattan Rubber Company, of this city, yesterday. By mistake he grabbed a wire of the Public Service Corporation. He received the full current, 1,000 volts, and was thrown across an arm of the pole, upon which he lay unconscious fully five minutes.

Frank Ball, master mechanic of the Manhattan mills, saw the limp body, procured a ladder and carried it to the ground, assisted by David Terhune. Burke was revived with difficulty. His arms and hands were badly burned, and after they had been dressed he was sent to his home.

Chauffeur Gets Off Easy.

Louis Kenzel, the chauffeur who was arrested at Summit Wednesday night, after he had turned upside down a large touring car belonging to Benjamin C. Fincke, proprietor of the Summit garage, in Morris avenue, and who, the police say, drove the machine at an illegal speed, was convicted yesterday before Police Justice Hicks, who suspended sentence. The court's action in this case caused much surprise. According to Mr. Fincke, the damage done the machine, which Kenzel drove, will amount to nearly $1,500, as he informed the police that the car was rendered practically useless.

—Sheriff-elect Ross, of Somerset county, will on Tuesday next draw his first petit jury to serve at the December term of court.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

In Vance and Sullivan's new play, "The Great Wall Street Mystery or King of Wire Tappers," which plays at the New Plainfield theatre this afternoon and tonight, the patrons are promised a treat. There is the grand salon on an ocean steamer, a raid on a den of wire tappers, electrical and mechanical devices, and an interesting court room scene. The spot is original and the situations thrilling. The company is competent in every respect.

The story of "Why Girls Leave Home," which will be at the New Plainfield theatre next Wednesday night, is said to be one of the unusual dramatic plays of great intensity. The story is that of a young and beautiful girl whose character is misunderstood by her older brother, who seeks to drive instead of coaxing her and she is induced to believe that there is more in "Bohemian" life than in the quiet life of her home. She is saved from the evils of that kind of a life by good friends and a constant lover and all ends happily with virtue triumphant and villainy exposed and punished. Messrs. Vance and Sullivan are said to have spared no expense in staging the play; the scenic investiture being very elaborate, while the members of the company are people especially suited to the characters they portray.

Plays whose prominent features are love, heart interest, heroism, comedy, pathos, vice and virtue, always find popular favor. They are sought after by theatre-goers who appreciate real merit. That is why "The Convict's Daughter," an original melodrama booked at the New Plainfield theatre for Thanksgiving afternoon and night, has met with such brilliant success. It contains five acts and the scenes are laid at Sing Sing prison. Various types of life, good and bad, including a unique "hobo" character, are introduced, while the scenic display is said to surpass in vividness all previous attempts at stage realism.

"The Original Cohen" will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre next Saturday afternoon and night. It is a scenic musical comedy melodrama founded on the people who live on New York's East Side. The play has a whirlwind swing of hilarious comedy, but the element of heart interest is not forgotten. The play is well mounted and the company numbers thirty.

Lillian Russell, who is playing the role of a lively widow this season in a new racing comedy called "Wildfire," under the direction of Mr. Brooks, is planning to make a tour of the world next season in a series of new and old comedies under Mr. Brooks' management. The tour will open in London next May. "Wildfire" will be at the New Plainfield theatre on December 2.

TAXPAYERS LOSE OCEAN GROVE FIGHT.

Asbury Park, Nov. 23.—After a prolonged discussion at the annual meeting the Ocean Grove Camp Meeting Association, through Dr. Ballard, yesterday made public a resolution passed before adjournment which refuses representation to the taxpayers of the city in the council of the Board. The reply to the petition of the taxpayers sets forth that the power of taxation is not provided for in the Ocean Grove charter, that power remaining in the township of Neptune, of which Ocean Grove is a part. The association is a religious corporation and so-called taxpayers stand in the relation of lessees and are therefore, not entitled to be represented upon the official Board, except in cases of when proposed general improvements would impose additional burdens upon the lessees other than those provided in the leases.

The members of the association say in their resolution that they have no objection to printing in the annual report the financial statement of the year asked for by the petitioners. The request for open meetings of the Board is also denied.

The association failed to elect a president and Dr. A. E. Ballard, the vice-president, will continue to act indefinitely in that capacity.

The movement to install gas in the camp meeting city was defeated and a petition of the hotel keepers to hold the camp meeting in July instead of August was lost. The camp, however, will be continued next year until after Labor Day. Owing to pressure of business before the Board an extra meeting will be held in June.

Identified By a Button.

Bloomfield, Nov. 23.—Isaac Miller, of Bloomfield, who had an encounter with a negro burglar in his home Sunday morning last, positively identified Charles Diamond, a prisoner at Police Headquarters in Newark, as the man whom he had the battle with. During the struggle a button was torn from the burglar's waistcoat and this was brought to the police station by Miller, and it tallied with those on the negro's waistcoat, thereby making the identification complete. After the struggle and his escape Diamond, hatless and coatless, boarded a trolley car for Newark. The conductor of the car, John Vanderhoof, also identified the negro, and he, with two companions who were arrested at the same time, was held without bail for the Grand Jury's action.

"But it may have something to do with his death," observes Danella. "For the blasting of the rock is used much dynamite. I have robbed the quarries and have mined the base of yonder turret with the explosive. In it are three men: one, old Tomasso, whose knife entered my brother's heart; the other, an American detective who has placed his Yankee nose into this vendetta, unfortunately for himself. Emory is in that turret. You will give something for these men's lives?"

"For Emory and dear old Tomasso? Certainly—anything in reason." The lovely eyes are filled with a strange alarm.

"Ah, but it must not be in reason—it must be in a passion as exalted as my own—for you. When I direct my nephew, who is bound to me not only by ties of blood, but of gratitude, and who is inflamed against you all by his oath of vendetta for the murdered Musso, he will light the fuse leading to the mine, and puff!—that tower, with every man who's in it, goes into the air!"

"Murderer!" shudders Marina, who has listened astounded.

"Ah, you have sympathy for these poor fellows! That is well; I shall love you more for your tender heart," continues Cipriano softly.

"But the law!" half screams the lady.

"Pah—in Corsica—in a vendetta. Besides, the blown-up tower will be thought but another outrage of the rioting 'Lucchese.' Oh, this is no worse than dagger thrusts or blows from bullets which always come in a blood feud. And in that mined turret," Cipriano's voice is low but terrible, "there is another man, who following the cyclamen flowers you dropped in the road and a few more we added to lead him into that fatal tower—"

"Edwin!" Marina's limbs hardly uphold her.

"The man you foolishly call husband." The finger of the suave wooer points to the turret's upper floor.

Then the game is on!

Her eyes following this gesture, a shuddering cry, low, broken, despairing yet full of tenderest love, issues from the girl's lips that have now become white as death itself: "Edwin, my husband—my flowers brought you to this—following for love of me—"

"He is caught like a rat in my trap!" smiles the count.

"Not without warning, wretch!" She would spring from the veranda and run over to the base of the tower and call up to the man whose face she sees outlined against the grillage of the upper window, through whose iron bars he is struggling to force his way.

But Cipriano's strong hand clutches her white arm; he pulls her back into the seat and commands: "Not until you've heard my words, which may save his life!"

"His life? Tell me!"

"I have explained you are not legally this man's spouse," Cipriano's voice is trembling with desire. "Become mine! I had purposed in Nice to give you a very cruel death for what you had to do with my brother's killing, but when I saw your beauties and knew that the little child I had once seen had grown into a Venus, but no marble one, to myself I said: 'Corpo di Baccho, 'tis in the blood of the Danellas to love this woman. I am enamored of her as wildly as poor dead Musso. 'Tis a medieval idea; instead of slaying her, I'll have revenge in winning her—against herself, the wife—also against the husband."

"Not against Edwin! You have no cause of hate against him."

"Vendettas are caused by love as well as hate! He dares to call you wife. Each moment my eye rests upon you increases thy sweetness to me. You are Corsican—so am I—no foreigner should stand between us."

"Holy Virgin, you expect me to love you?" stammers the girl.

To this he answers with Machiavellian subtlety: "Of course not now, but that may come in time. At present you love Edwin! Because of this devoted love—to save this gentleman you adore—you give yourself to me."

At his hideous mathematics the girl utters a cry of horror.

"If you would save the life of this Englishman whom I should dispatch by my oath of the vendetta, at once your kisses."

"Would Edwin wish to live, his wife untrue? Monster!" Marina's face blazes with shame.

"Oh, no, not monster; simply a man who has gone crazy for thee. Understand, if you are mine, the man in that tower lives. To-night on the vessel that is anchored here, I'll bear you away to some far distant isle of Greece."

"My husband would follow us forever!"

"Not if he knew you were faithless! 'Tis not their English way. A woman who is dishonored is no more to them than a tainted orange."

"Dishonored in his eyes? Never!" cries the girl. "I'd sooner you killed him—sooner you killed me, much! I'm in your power; I'm alone here, helpless in your hands. Kill me. Let my darling go."

As Danella has clutched her, the old neck fastenings of the ancient gown have given way; she plucks its laces further apart over her dazzling bosom and begs: "Bury your stiletto here, but spare my husband."

Her pose only makes her the more alluring to his devouring eyes.

"What, kill the being I adore!" shudders Cipriano. "I have no stiletto and I have taken care no knife is near your desperate hands, my lady. Besides, I'll never let you go. If you will not leave your husband as his wife, leave him as his widow."

"Here, Enrico!" he calls.

The young cavalier with the scar above his eyebrow comes onto the veranda and says: "My uncle, I honor thee, you have decided to give this woman death?"

"No; life—life and love! and death to those who stand between me and her! The torch to the lone orange tree in the center of the lawn—you placed the fuse—when I give the signal to you, light it."

"He will be blown to atoms?" screams the girl.

"Certainly, then you are free to marry me and can say your prayers with a good conscience!" laughs the count.

"My uncle, I am bound to your orders by the oath of the vendetta and thy promise to pay my gambling debts and make me rich again," said the young man. Enrico passes from the verandah and Marina sees the flame of the torch moving to the orange tree. She raises her voice and shrieks with all her force: "Edwin, my husband, you have only a minute to save your life. In some way, descend from the tower! They are going to blow it up!"

And a cry comes to her: "My wife, impossible!"

And over it are frantic curses from the American detective, and the voice of old Tomasso, croning: "It is the will of the Devil!"

Marina shouts: "I can only give you life by being this devil's!"

The answer of the young sailor comes, calm as the voice of an English officer should be facing death: "Not at that price, darling! Don't think of me!"

Then the tortured girl begins to wring her hands and sob as she sees the men in the tower struggling to break out, struggling as men in the turret of a sinking battleship. The face she adores is before her in its death agony—the weird music from the sea comes faintly to her, telling of woman's devotion, for the barbaric ballads have been selected with uncanny subtlety. For one dread moment, Marina wildly thinks: "I'll save my Edwin's life—then I'll keep myself from this crafty fiend by death in the waves from off the vessel on which he bears me away!" But the thought shoots through her: "My dear husband will believe I am a faithless and dishonored wife!"

To Cipriano, who is triumphantly murmuring: "I see, by your blushes, you're mine!" she shouts: "Never!" and desperately would run to the base of the tower and die with her husband.

But the arms of Danella encircle her, holding her firm as bands of steel. Inflamed by the propinquity of her loveliness, the contact of the perfect figure he clasps, the subtle perfume of her waving hair that tosses in tresses about, Cipriano is whispering: "You have still time. Anstruther may yet live, I have not given the signal. Be mine! But one long, sweet kiss to prove it."

"And never dare to look on the face of any true man or woman? No, no!"

Frantically she has broken from his arms; she is running towards the torch, desperately hoping to snatch it from the hands of the satyr holding it ready to apply it to the fue.

After one unsuccessful step to overtake her swift feet, Danella cries savagely: "Fire the mine!"

Enrico, the fuse in one hand, the blazing torch in the other, is applying the flame to it.

There is a sharp whiff of the still night air like the faint snap of a distant whip and the man with the scar falls, as if struck from Heaven.

"Diavolo, what mystery is this? Myself to light the fuse!" cries Cipriano, and runs to the flambeau flaring on the ground.

But Marina, her eyes baneful with agony, mutters: "I am a Corsican," and as he picks up the torch, the desperate girl seizes him with her delicate hands and struggles with him frantically.

But her slight strength is naught to that of his wiry frame. Danella picks up the torch. "Take your choice," he whispers. "The Englishman lives and your are my mistress; he dies, and you are my honored wife!"

He is holding her down with one knee pressed on her. He is moving the torch slowly to the fuse; he is giving her a chance to save the life she loves by despairing surrender—he is giving himself just one more chance to win the beauty of the woman who loathes him—when, even as the flame is licking the fuse, another whiff rends the atmosphere, and from a spot midway between his longing eyes spouts something that is red in the torch flame, and with one shrill scream, "Morte!" Cipriano, springing high in the air, falls stark dead beside Marina's prostrate form.

The detective and Edwin are thundering at the tower door. Marina staggers to it, with a great effort turns the key and lifts up the steel bars, and stands faintly leaning against the stone masonry as Edwin, springing out, catches her in his arms.

"What did it? What wondrous thing wrought our deliverance?" he asks between kisses that make the girl wife think she is in heaven.

"By gum, was it lightning?" asks the detective, scratching his head. Then hearing a cry he runs down the chasm and moves the swinging bridge into place across the crevice.

Over this comes Mr. Barnes, leisurely walking, humming the sweet romantic tune the minstrels are sending up from the distant sea.

Looking at the two dead men, Tomasso, in his old-time Corsican way, is saying solemnly: "'Tis the hand of God!"

But Marina, running to the American, cries: "I know the 'hand of God!'" and sinks down uttering blessings on the great pistol shot.

"By Goliah, 'tain't possible to do that with a revolver in this light," mutters Emory, pacing off the distance. "Holy smoke, you should be proud of them shots."

"It was that wondrous Orezza water that did it. That toned up my nerves after two days of devilish misery," remarks Burton modestly.

"But grub's what I'm thinking about," says Emory; "you haven't been fed on spoon-victuals for two weeks!" and he dashes into the farmhouse.

Edwin, after slapping Barnes upon the back, has carried his wife, half-swooning now with joy, onto the verandah, when of a sudden, with a roar like that of a hundred-ton gun, the whole tower rises from its base and falls tumbling, a mass of ruined masonry, and on high there is a flight of rocks like fireworks. Fortunately the explosion has been so strong that the missiles nearly all fall into the sea, with great splashing of the water. They can hear the cries of terror from the minstrels in the boat as they hastily row away.

"My last shot wasn't quick enough," says the American dolefully. "Hang me, if Cip didn't get the torch to the fuse before he died." Then Barnes suddenly questions: "Where's my wife? Can't anybody tell me where is my wife?"

"She was not in that tower, anyway; that we know," answered Edwin. "We examined every portion of it, trying to escape."

"Your wife?" cries Marina. "You should know! I left you going up the stairs to her chamber in Bocognano."

"She wasn't there?" mutters Burton.

"Wasn't there? My servant said she was there. Who was the lady?"

Barnes doesn't answer, but says moodily: "Then I've got to find Enid. My horse is just on the other side of the crevice."

"But you are too tired."

"I'm never too tired to find my best girl," says the poor worn-out fellow, trying to be cheerful, and steps down toward the bridge.

But from a distance a pretty feminine voice is heard crying excitedly: "This is the way to the explosion, young Signore Bellacoscia."

Then Barnes' voice rings, really happy for the first time in twenty-four hours: "Enid, that you? This way, little girl. Look out for the crevice," and his long sought for bride comes cantering across the bridge followed by two young bandits, who announce themselves as Conrad and Rodrigo Bonelli. The next second Enid has been lifted in Barnes' arms from the saddle.

"Where have you been all this time?" he asks eagerly.

"Following you ever since this morning, when the great Bellacoscia sent me on with these two gentlemen, his nephews, charging them with their lives to deliver me safe into your hands. I came from Bocognano."

"And where were you two nights ago when I was seeking you there?"

"I was asleep at Saliceti's home under the influence of a narcotic. Oh, mercy, don't look at me so," stammers Enid. "I was beneath the care of Saliceti's mother."

"Asleep under a narcotic?"

"Yes; when they were planning the ambush for you, I struggled so that Saliceti and his men forced an anodyne down my throat. When I became conscious, they told me that when the great Bellacoscia demanded my surrender Bernardo was afraid to explain to him, and some other woman was substituted for me. But when Saliceti learnt that Bonelli for his deceit had declared against him a vendetta that meant his certain death, he went to the great bandit, confessed and surrendered me to him. Whereupon, with many kind words, Bonelli sent me to his 'dear friend, Monsieur Barnes, of New York, the celebrated pistol shot.'"

"Oh, the most divine pistol shot upon earth," calls Marina, running out and embracing him. "By his skill, Burton has killed the man whose life forever would have been a menace to us." Then gazing at Barnes, she laughs: "And I supposed you happy for the last twenty-four hours. You remember I left you going up to your wife's chamber in Bocognano."

"Going up to my chamber in Bocognano?" almost yells the young English bride. "I cannot understand; I was asleep under opium in charge of Saliceti's mother."

"Oh, no, you were at my house. You were waiting for Burton in the guest chamber on the second floor. Mr. Barnes went up to you—— Good gracious, Edwin, don't! Dio mio, what are you squeezing my hand so for?"

"A word in private with you, Mr. Barnes," whispers Enid in suppressed tone.

Barnes, sheepishly muttering to himself, "Our first row," follows his wife into the shrubbery of the verandah, where they are quite apart.

"The lady who was substituted for me?" asks his bride haughtily.

"Sally Blackwood," answers Burton boldly.

"La Belle Blackwood! Good Heavens! What brought her there?" sudden tears springing up in Enid's blue eyes.

"She said she came to Bocognano to save my life from the vendetta. You remember she had warned me before, the other evening in Nice."

"Yes, I remember," she sighs; then adds more brightly, "I remember also, that you told me."

Never up to this time has Barnes so thoroughly appreciated the latent nobility of his sweet bride.

She gazes at him anxiously, but only for a moment—the awful lines about her husband's face proclaiming his unremitting pursuit of her for three merciless days and nights softens Enid's tender heart. She slips one rounded arm about his neck and whispers: "I shall never question you about this. If you feel you can kiss me, Burton, kiss me!" and for this gets a kiss whose longing ardor makes her blush.

"Ah, that was an honest husband's kiss," she says rapturously, and for the speech receives another that makes her tremble with joy.

Running to Marina, she cries: "Fancy, it was that awful La Belle Blackwood, who wanted to save Burton's life."

"I am very glad she didn't want to save my husband's life," laughs Marina.

"The superb Madame Blackwood," cries Rodrigo Bonelli, who with excited exclamations has with his brother been examining Barnes' shots, "has received my great uncle's favor and is about to become his spouse. Let no one mention her name lightly."

"The great bandit's bride!" half shrieks Enid.

"The wife of the grand Antonio!" ejaculates Marina.

Mrs. W. W. Mills, of 86 Summit avenue, Plainfield, N. J., says: "I am willing to reiterate my former statement given in behalf of Doan's Kidney Pills, feeling that some other person may be benefited thereby. I had suffered from a severe pain in the small of my back and across the hips, and if I did any lifting or stooping my back became lame and sore. I used plasters but they only helped me for the time being. I was feeling unusually bad when my attention was called to Doan's Kidney Pills and they were so highly recommended for troubles like mine that I procured a box at L. W. Randolph's drug store. In a few days I felt their good effect, and when I had finished taking them I was relieved in every way. I am glad to recommend this reliable remedy."

GARIBALDI TEAM LOSES TO BRIAN BORUS

The Brian Boru and Garibaldi teams met in the tourney at Campbell's alleys, last night, and the former walked away with two out of the three games played. There were no especially high team scores but Captain Harry Radin of the Brian Borus, smashed out a 234, just one better than the record of "Rudie" Toense, of the Washingtons, Thursday night.

Followers of the sport had doped out the Brian Boru team as sure winners of the series, but they got a jolt when the Garibaldis took the first count. Captain Radin was one of those most surprised and he set the pace in the second game that gave him the double century mark. His men fell in line in bully shape and the five won out with a nice margin. They kept up the pace in the last try and ended with another good lead.

Ed McMahon, the Cranford man, developed some good speed and took his stand with the best bowlers in the series and Elmer Cutting also showed up in good form. Harry Ackor, Walter Crowley and John McLaughlin were all below their averages.

The scores:

GARIBALDIS.
Campbell	199	175	159
Crowley	127	105	123

Umpire, Harry Montross; scorer, Leslie Dodge.

The next game in the tourney will be rolled Tuesday night between the Grants and the Roderick Dhus. They will be composed of the following bowlers: Grants—Chief Kiely, captain; Edward A. Laing, William Kiely, Dr. E. A. Giddes and Thomas McInerney. Roderick Dhus—Charles F. Meyer, Jr., captain; Harry Van Emburgh, Charles Ortleh, Tunis Vail and Fred Koller.

FOWLER OPPOSES ISSUE

Head of House Banking Committee Says Government's Action is Unlawful.

HE URGES ITS WITHDRAWAL.

Bankers Had the Situation Well in Hand, He Alleges, When the Administration Acted—Strong Words Used.

Congressman Charles N. Fowler, representing Union, Morris and Warren counties, as chairman of the House Committee on Banking and Currency, publicly criticised on Saturday the action of the Secretary of the Treasury last week in issuing $100,000,000 one-year 3 per cent. certificates of indebtedness and $50,000,000 additional Panama Canal bonds. He says he hopes the administration will have the courage to withdraw the issue.

Though it is personally unpleasant to him to have to criticise the administration, he said, his duty to the public, in view of his study of the question involved, compelled him to set forth the reasons "why the action of the administration is surprising, extraordinary, unwarranted, and most unfortunate." He goes so far as to call the increase in debt illegal.

The financial situation was well in hand by the bankers who had been importing gold for the preceding weeks, it had been further aided by the issuance of Clearing House certificates, and the crisis had been passed by these aids, Congressman Fowler said in his statement issued yesterday, when the administration intervened "against the opinions of the best pudges of the situation." Although the bankers of the country may prevent any serious consequences at the moment, he thinks, the Government's action "must be a most disturbing factor."

"The Government did not need the money," Mr. Fowler says in his statement. "It has $240,000,000 to its credit, which it has taken from the people through taxation. Therefore, the interest-bearing debt of the Government should not have been increased $150,000,000 — especially when such increase of debt is clearly in violation of the intent and purpose of the law; and because the action of the Treasury is a most violent violation of economic law for which the people must yet pay the penalty.

Taking up first the Panama bond issue, he asserts that while the Government does not need the money derived from the issue, even if it did it could not take any part of the proceeds for the present, as the banks could not afford to exchange their reserve money for banknotes.

When the reaction comes, as it will, according to his expectations, about January 15, increasing until the bank reserves exceed those of any preceding year since 1900, he predicts that the increased banknote circulation will not be retired, but will find a place in the reserves of State banks and trust companies and to some extent with the National banks. This contingency will displace gold and drive it out of the country, as did the silver purchases between 1879 and 1894.

"I am confident that the effect upon the situation will be most disastrous, economically, when the reserves begin to accumulate in January, because there will be no way of getting this vast mass of immobile currency out of the way. In conclusion, let it be remembered as absolutely certain that the process now invoked of forcibly injecting into our currency this fixed mass will bring us the same danger from which we are now suffering, if only some exciting cause be present to precipitate the trouble.

"For the honor of the Government but more particularly for the welfare of the whole country, I sincerely hope that not a single three per cent. certificate will be issued now and that the administration will have the wisdom, courage, and patriotism to withdraw the offer of the $100,000,000 three per cent. certificates immediately, thereby relieving the present situation and protecting the people against the future consequences of a most grave and serious mistake."

No Sermon on Hard Times.

Because of the storm last night, there were only about thirty people at the evening service at the Monroe Avenue church last night. Rev. E. E. Roberson pastor of the church, who was to have preached a sermon on "The Prevailing Hard Times," announced that he would postpone the discourse indefinitely. The text of the evening was from Ruth 1: 16, and Dr. Roberson drew two forceful lessons, the power of a strong character, and the influence of a pure life.

YESTERDAY WAS "TEMPERANCE SUNDAY"

In observance of "Temperance Sunday," because of which special services were held by churches and temperance unions at many churches throughout the country, yesterday, Mrs. M. D. Tomlinson, county president of the W. C. T. U., gave a temperance address at the Congregational church before the Sunday-school yesterday. Mrs. Tomlinson has just returned from the national W. C. T. U. convention held at Nashville, Tennessee, and spoke at length upon the reports received at the convention.

Prohibition has made wonderful gains all over the country since last year, and the speaker said that even the temperance workers assembled in convention were surprised at the suddenness of the big gains. The south is far in advance of the north in banishing the liquor traffic, but there has been a steady increase in the results of the various associations throughout the northern states in the past year. The speaker concluded with an exhortation that all Christians, both clergymen and laymen, work in co-operation with the Anti-Saloon League, the Prohibitionists, and the W. C. T. U. to free this State from the curse of the liquor traffic.

HERBERT G. JOHNSON BECOMES A BENEDICT

Miss Clara Adelaide Greene, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Greene, of New Bern, N. C., and Herbert Gardner Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Wesley Johnson, of East Seventh street, were married at the home of the bride's parents on Thursday morning, November 21, in the presence of the relatives and a few intimate friends. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. A. Ayers, of New Bern.

The bride was bowned in a gray cloth traveling suit and carried a large bouquet of white chrysanthemums. After the ceremony and reception, Mr. and Mrs. Johnson left on a westbound train and will visit in Atlanta, Ga., and Montgomery, Ala., after which they will reside at Caryville, Florida, where they will be at home after December 10.

Mr. Johnson is well-known here where he has many friends and acquaintances. He is connected with a firm doing a large lumber and turpentine business at Caryville.

HERBERT SCHERHOLTZ'S FUNERAL THIS AFTERNOON.

The funeral of nine-year-old Herbert Scherholtz, who was fatally shot as he entered "Colonel" Perry's store Friday night, will be held from the home of his grandmother, Mrs. Frederick Kaeding, of Wilson avenue, this afternoon. The lad's father, who is employed in the composing room of the Asbury Park Press, arrived in this city Saturday afternoon, and both he, and Mrs. Scherholtz, who was visiting Mrs. Kaeding at the time of the fatality, are grief stricken.

"Colonel" Perry is prostrated with grief as a result of the accident in which he so unfortunately figured. He has sent a large floral wreath to the bereaved parents of the lad. Rev. George Bowers, of Warrenville, will officiate at the service, and the interment will be in the Methodist cemetery.

OLD FASHIONED DANCE ENJOYED AT TRUELL HALL.

The guests of Truell Hall to the number of about 100 engaged in an old-fashioned country dance Saturday night, the festivities being held in the large and handsome ball-room. Some of the guests were attired in the old-fashioned dress. A feature was the music, the old style of "calling off" the figures being adopted. Following the dance refreshments comprising crullers, coffee, pumpkin pie, etc., were served in the Japanese tea room.

The affair was arranged by several guests, assisted by Mrs. J. R. Truell, and the ball-room was appropriately decorated for the occasion. The dance was concluded shortly before midnight.

Thanksgiving Dinners.

Mrs. E. T. Van Winkle, representing the Ladies' Christian Work Society of Trinity Reformed church, will be in the lecture room of the church on Wednesday morning from 10:30 to 12 o'clock to receive donations of poultry, provisions, fruit, money, etc., to be distributed among those families in the church whose means provide only for the necessities of life.

TALKING THROUGH RIBS

It is not Necessary Any More to Put Your Lips to the Hard Rubber Funnel.

JUST HOLD IT TO THE CHEST.

Discovery Made By St. Louis Girls Has a Plainfield Test That Astonishes "Central."

It is not necessary to place one's lips to the transmitter of a telephone to be heard at the other end of the wire. The same results may be obtained by placing the transmitter firmly against the chest or in fact nearly every part of the body and speaking in a clear, natural tone.

The new system was discovered last night by two young women, one living in Westminster place, St. Louis, and the other in Delmar Boulevard, in that city.

If you have any doubts place the transmitter to your chest and tell "Central" the number you want. This fact probably was not known to the telephone experts when they prepared the instructions for the use of the contrivance. They advise you to stand close to the receiver.

The "chest system" is sure to gain favor among those who have fear of contracting diseases from using the 'phone. The new way is sanitary, as there is little chance of communicating germs from the transmitter to the lips or nostrils of the person using the telephone. Moreover, it is non-fatiguing and convenient, as one may carry a transmitter about the room and talk while walking, and switch it from place to place.

Prof. Calvin M. Woodward, a scientist at Washington University, said that there was nothing surprising about the principle involved in the "chest system," although he frankly admitted that it had never occurred to him or any one else before to test its practicability.

"The sound vibration in the lungs is communicated to the transmitter through the chest, instead of through the lips, and is then carried over the wire in the usual way," he said.

The "chest system" is in accordance with the principle of the stethoscope.

The telephone experiment suggested in the dispatch from St. Louis was tried today in The Daily Press office. A reported talked to a representative of the Plainfield Organized Aid Association this afternoon. He had a transmitter placed against his chest, with the receiver held in the ordinary manner. The reporter carried on a conversation in that way easily. At no time did he have to place his lips to the transmitter. The conversation was husky in tone, but clear.

A Park avenue barber was conversed with by a Daily Press reporter in the same way.

It was suggested that in time the holding of a transmitter to the mouth might be done away with entirely, so that people who have to use the telephone a great deal will be able to wear a sort of chest transmitter all the time they are talking. It might be helpful, also, to the "Central" girls, who would thus be able to look around at one another's hair, or out of the office windows, and still attend to business.

WON FIVE BLUE RIBBONS

Buttfield Stables Captured Rich Honors at Biggest Horse Show on Earth.

BROUGHT HOME TEN PRIZES.

W. G. Buttfield's Awards Aggregated $850—His Daughter a Close Second For Honors.

Aside from the achievements of Miss Mabel B. Hooley, with her string of thoroughbreds, the honors won by W. J. Buttfield with his fine pair, "Miss Banahan" and "Miss Westcott," were among the most notable at the National Horse Show held at Madison Square Garden last week. Mr. Buttfield's team won the championship for the roadster class in single and pairs.

In view of the large number of entries of thoroughbreds from the best known stables in this part of the country, Mr. Buttfield's blue ribbon winners are deserving of great praise. His total winnings for the week amounted to $850, representing four firsts.

Miss Hooley won one first, one second, three thirds and one fourth prize for a total of $410. "Quaker Maid" and "Dorothea," were the most notable of her string of blue ribboners and time and again the judges commended the pair for general all-round excellence. James Gethin, superintendent of the Plainfield Horse Show grounds, was one of those who received a highly prized ribbon.

JERSEY TURKEYS SCARCE

With Thanksgiving Close at Hand, Local Marketmen Ask High Prices.

GAME ALSO CONTINUES HIGH.

Turkey 25 to 30 Cents—Chicken 18-23 Cents — Rabbits 75-80 Cents—Woodcock $1.-25 a Pair.

While turkeys will be very scarce this week, there will be plenty of the western and southern birds in the market, as well as chickens and ducks at prices that are not considered high in view of the top notch prices. The price of turkeys for Thanksgiving average between twenty and thirty cents per pound, while chickens may be had at rates varying from eighteen to twenty-three cents. Ducks are bringing about twenty-five cents. All of the local butcher shops will have a generous supply of turkeys, chickens and ducks at these prices.

The price of game is also high. Rabbits are a little lower than last week, coming down from seventy-five and eighty cents to sixty-five and seventy cents a pair. The other prices of game are: Woodcock, $1.25 a pair; squirrel, forty to fifty cents a pair.

At the vegetable and fruit stands the following prices are quoted: Potatoes, 20 cents a half peck; sweet potatoes, 30 cents a half peck; string beans, 10 cents a quart; cabbage, 10 to 15 cents a head; lima beans, shelled, 15 cents a pint; cauliflower, 15 to 25 cents a head; spinach, 25 cents a half peck; lettuce, 10 cents a head; watercress, 3 cents a bunch; eggplants, 15 to 25 cents apiece; celery, 15 cents a bunch; mushrooms, $5 cents a pound.

A larger supply of Jersey turkeys are expected for the Christmas trade, which will make the price drop at least three cents per pound.

Additional Indictments Returned.

The Union County Grand Jury returned an additional twenty-eight indictments to the court at 12:30 o'clock this afternoon and retired for further deliberation. This makes a total of seventy-three indictments that have been returned. It was expected that the Grand Jury would complete its labors about noon today and it was announced that the members would have a banquet at 2 o'clock at Russ' restaurant.

Meetings to Continue This Week.

Rev. Charles S. Dennis, the evangelist, who has met with such success in the services being conducted by him for the Rescue Mission in the W. C. T. U. rooms, has decided to remain another week. There was a good attendance at the meeting last night, despite the storm. There will be special music this week.

Barn Dance at P. C. C.

SKILLMAN TRIAL BEGINS

Former President of State Horticultural Society Again Faces Forgery Charge.

IN SOMERSET COURT TODAY.

Indictment Resulted From Alleged Will of Wm. Lanehart, Which Gave Estate to Defendant.

William H. Skillman, a former president of the New Jersey Horticultural Society, who has been prominent in the political and social affairs of Somerset county for half a century, was placed on trial a second time in the Somerset Court at Somerville today to answer to the charge of forging the will of his friend and neighbor, the late William Lanehart, a retired business man of New York.

The Skillman will case is one of the strangest and most sensational in the history of the Somerset courts. By the terms of the will executed and filed in the Somerset Surrogate's office by Skillman, purporting to be that of the late William Lanehart, one-half of Lanehart's $19,000 estate was bequeathed to Skillman. At the time of his death Lanehart had deposited in a vault in the Hopewell National Bank a will which bequeathed his entire estate to his next of kin, who were disinherited by the terms of the will filed by Skillman.

Lanehart's relatives declared the Skillman will a forgery and pointed out the fact that the alleged signature of Lanehart affixed to the will filed by Skillman had been first written with a lead pencil and then traced over with ink. The will was contested in the Somerset Orphans' Court. Judge Schenck decided the signature to the will was a forgery. Skillman appealed from this decision to the higher courts.

While the civil case was still pending in the higher court Skillman was indicted on a criminal charge of forgery and placed on trial in the Somerset Court last May. Skillman had aged suddenly under the serious charge and tottered into court a physical wreck. The trial lasted a week, and during its progress it was rumored that strong influences were at work to save Skillman, and Judge Booream, who presided at the trial, repeatedly warned the jury against these influences. After a long deliberation the jury disagreed, and it was reported at the time that it stood nine for conviction and three for acquittal.

After the jury was discharged two of the jurors went before court and swore that they had been approached in behalf of Skillman during the progress of the trial, and the foreman of the jury swore that a deputy sheriff had visited the jury room and called one of the jurors out during the deliberation. As a result of these revelations Judge Booream imposed a heavy fine on the two constables and sentenced the deputy sheriff to pay a fine and to spend ninety days in the county jail for contempt of court. The deputy sheriff appealed from the sentence and was released on bail and his case is now pending before the Supreme Court.

Since the disagreement of the jury in the Criminal Court Chancellor Magie has rendered a decision in the civil case affirming the verdict of the lower court that the will filed by Skillman is a forgery.

Miss Anna M. Fitzpatrick.

Miss Anna M. Fitzpatrick, aged thirty-three years, died this morning at the home of her mother, Mrs. Julia Fitzpatrick, of West Fifth street. JULIAN SCOTT PICTURE GOES TO ESSEX CLUB

The Board of Governors of the Essex Club, of Newark, has been notified by President Frelinghuysen that former Governor J. Franklin Murphy had offered to present to the club a picture, "The Battle of Antietam," by the late Col. Julian Scott, formerly of this city. The gift has been accepted by the board with thanks. A few years ago Mr. Murphy present it with the famous Salon picture, "The Hunt Ball."

The club, besides other paintings and some excellent engravings, has a fine bronze figure, "The Life Saver," the gift of A. Pennington Whitehead, the former president, and portraits of Mr. Whitehead and of Colonel Edward H. Wright.

Local interest attaches to the latest gift by Mr. Murphy because Col. Scott resided in Plainfield for many years and up to the time of his death. His fame as an artist was known throughout the country, but not thoroughly appreciated until he died. His collection of paintings and valuable relics were perhaps among the finest in the State and were eagerly sought after his death by those who knew of their intrinsic worth.

SEWER JOB WATCHMAN OVERCOME BY COAL GAS

John Laugh, fifty years old, of Mauch Chunk, Pa., employed as watchman on the Southside sewer contract, almost lost his life early yesterday morning through partial suffocation by coal gas. He was discovered in his little relief shed in an unconscious condition and efforts to revive him proved futile until after his admission to Muhlenberg Hospital.

Becoming cold early in the morning, Laugh went into the shed and started a fire on the floor with soft coal. As it flared up he became drowsy and fell asleep, the fire afterward sinking down to slow burning mass. The gas was generated and as Laugh slumbered on the place became filled with the fumes. It was nearly 7 o'clock when John Wierenga, who lives nearby, chanced to walk past the shed and idly stopped to see if the watchman was about. He found the unconscious form on the floor and surmising the trouble notified police headquarters after seeking in vain for a physician.

Patrolman John Kelley was sent to the scene and with Mr. Wierenga made attempts to revive Laugh but without success. The work was continued at the hospital and later in the day he recovered partially but is still in a very weak condition. The doctors declare that Laugh had been discovered not a moment too soon.

CAME HOME DRUNK, FATHER AND SONS MAKE COMPLAINT.

Returning to his home on Westervelt avenue after sampling various intoxicants at various saloons in the borough, William Callaway engaged his two brothers, Albert and James, in fistic combat early yesterday morning, not forgetting to pass out a few slashes and uppercuts to his father, Stephen Callaway. At the outset he made good with a vengeance, for it was about 2 o'clock in the morning and the family were not awake for their best fighting. But later on, the tide of battle turned, and father and brothers united to give the drunken William a severe beating, finally ejecting him from the house.

Yesterday the father brought action against his fighting drunken son through Justice of the Peace Clark Mundy's court, getting a warrant for his arrest. The son, by this time penitent, gave himself up to the police this morning, and his case will be brought before Judge Mundy at the borough court tonight. He has retained William G. DeMeza as his counsel.

Dr. Johnson's Discourse.

Despite the severe storm twenty-two worshippers gathered at Trinity Reformed church last night, including several women. Two members of the choir were also present. Rev. Dr. E. P. Johnson, acting pastor, stated at the outset that he "would not deliver a sermon" from an old mid-week prayer-meeting topic that he might have up his sleeve, but would preach from the announced subject, "A Convenient Season." It was a strong discourse and amply rewarded those who braved the elements to hear it.

High School Seniors' Social Time.

With a large percentage of the class present, the senior class at the city high school took a drag ride Saturday evening and later held an informal dance at the school building. Music for the dancing was furnished by the tel-electric piano player recently purchased for the school and used for the first time at this affair.

OPPOSES VOTING MACHINES.

Members of Franklin, Somerset, Benevolent and Plainfield councils, Jr. O. U. A. M., together with the Daughters of Liberty, according to the annual custom, attended divine services last night at the First Presbyterian church and listened to a strong patriotic sermon by the pastor, Rev. Dr. Charles E. Herring. He declared himself in no uncertain terms to be in favor of the high ideals which govern this country, in favor of limiting the great mass of people that are flocking to these shores from other countries and against the voting machine.

Dr. Herring spoke as follows:

"I am going to speak to you tonight of a certain town mentioned in the Old Testament which was cursed by the prophetess because she came not to the help of her nation in time of need. We are interested in the town for the simple reason that this extraordinary woman, this Joan of Arc and this Israelitish history is proclaiming Jehovah's detestation of the people that come not to her help against the mighty.

"Deborah's curse is none other but Jehovah's curse of an unpatriotic city. The greatest eternal lesson of the story is this. That is is a crime to be neutral in a great crisis—when our help should be enlisted against a common enemy.

"This is the story: The Cananites were Israel's bitter enemies, and were hard to entirely subdue. It was dangerous for Israel to venture out in the highways for the enemy of Israel was prowling about. So men traveled in the by-paths. Efforts had been made by Deborah's predecessors to conquer these people that were the constant menace to life and property. But their efforts were only partially successful. So Deborah arose on Israel and endeavored to stir up all Israel to conquer all Canaan which Deborah had promised to them.

"So every Israellite had an interest in this contest and every Israelite was obliged to engage in it with all earnestness. Deborah called upon Barek to proceed against the general and chief of the Canaanites. Barak asked for her presence too with the troops and they met Sisera at the brook Megiddo. It was a terrible conflict and Israel was defeated ignominously. Sisera in fleeing sought refuge in the tent of Jael, the wife of Haber, the Kenite. She received him but during his sleep drove the tent pin into his temple.

"This chapter is a chant of victory. She extols the patriotic, she denounces the weaklings, the indifferent, and among others she denounces the little town of Meroz which was near to the scene of conflict in these words: 'Curse be Meroz, because she came not to the help of the Lord against the mighty.'

"Now, what does it all mean? How was this old story related to the present? We certainly do not read this story because it is a history of that time. As interesting as history is this record has not been preserved to us because of its historic interest, but rather because in a very particular way God was the guide of this people, teaching that they might be the teachers of the world. This in God's record. This is His thought of patriotism and indifference—and for that reason we are interested. God says to me in this story: 'It is a grevious sin to remain neutral when common interest teach that we should take sides.'

"This course is upon the city of the Old Testament. Not because she gave any positive aid to the enemy, but because of her lative character—because she came not to the help of God, when the mightiness of Canaan demanded the interest of every man in Israel.

SERMON TO JR. O. U. A. M.s

"Did not our Lord utter a similar thought when He said: 'He that is not with me is against me,' and again when He said, 'Inasmuch as ye did it not unto the least of these ye did it not unto me.' Dives in the parable was not a positively wicked character, simply a useless, selfish indifferent man, who had enough for himself—who did not even hinder Lazarus from sitting at his doorstep, a respected kind-hearted man in the community, yet the Lord condemned him. Proclaimed him suffering in the world to come for his indifference.

"We criticize the woman who when the defated Canannitish general sought refuge in her tent smote him in his sleep.' Yet mark this, that while to us that act was treacherous this woman lived in a semi-civilized age.

"The historian was simply weighing that deed with the indifference of Meroz and with all the barbarity of her deed, her patriotism against the dark background of Meroz's neutrality—she did the best she could according to her light. If that was wrong how much worse was the indifference of Meroz. The great lesson for you and me is this—that it is a great crime not to take sides when a man should identify himself with some great movement for good. We can speculate on the reasons of this city for not helping—she feared the power of the enemy—and she for her self-interest preferred to remain neutral. The lesson is taught that we have other interests besides self interest. A man is a complex being. He has his business to look after, his home to support, but this is not all, he is a citizen of a great Republic, of a State, of a city and each one of these interests should receive his attention.

"He should not so lose himself in his own personal and business interests that he should fail in his duty to his country. It is an impressive thing to read of the President of the United States leaving Washington to go to his home in order to record his vote. The pressing duty of that office are not so great as to forbid that duty. It is a great opportunity a man has every year to vote for the great principles and men he believes for the country's good.

"That is one way of coming to the help of the Lord's country. It is a means of grace for a man to conscientiously and intelligently cast his ballot, and he should rejoice in the privilege of stating his choice for measures and the men that represent them.

"I love the old ballot where a man can see his vote inside the box and am at the prospect of dispensing with our wonderful trick cabinets—where a man votes by juggling a few pointers, pulling a bar and hearing a bell ring.

"We need not machine voting, but conscientious intelligent voting, intelligent in that a man will not ignorantly vote for a man that does not represent him, because he is one of the candidates of his party and he always votes a straight ticket.

"The religion Jesus teaches that a man should love the world and at the same time love his own land in a way that he does not love the world. A man loves his own family in a way that he does not love the world, in a way that he cannot love the world. Love reaches then beyond the limits of the nation and touches the ends of the earth. Christianity is broader than patriotism, for in Christ we are conscious that God has made of one blood all nations for to dwell on the face of the earth. Yet while all that is true Christ teaches love for one's own land. He displayed that love in His own earthly life. He wept over Jerusalem and said: 'How I would have gathered her, but ye would not.' He had a peculiar interest in the Jews for he called them 'His own,' but behind all that patriotism there was this thought—that the Jews were God's chosen to bless the world. This was the commission to the Father of the Jews, Abraham. 'I will bless thee and make thy name great and thou shalt be a blessing.'

"And they were to bless the world with the great ideals he had taught them in their history. It is not usual to love our country simply because it is our country. Just as it is natural to love our own family for no other reason than this that they are our flesh and blood. The affection, therefore, we bear to them is beyond explanation. I know when I see the flag of my country in some distant land te sight thrills me. It thrills me because it symbolizes my country, and we love our country, because in some particular way it fills the need of our own nature.

"Other countries may be beautiful, and we love to travel through them because of their picturesque or historic interest, but eventually we long for the homeland, unless we belong to that class of ex-patriots who give evidence that they have soured on things American. There are, happily, but few of these unfortunates whose ample purse permits them to abide in a distant land and rave against things at home.

"And yet, it seems to me we love our land for still other reasons. We love it for the great ideals that lie at its very base. We don't say that these ideals are not cherished in other lands. Other countries are so old that it is very difficult to see what rests at the basis of their life. But we know the great ideals that were cherished by the men who first settled this land, and we do glory in these self-same ideals. The ideals of freedom and popular education. What is it we admire in the Pilgrim Fathers? It was religious freedom that they wanted. Freedom to worship God according to the dictates of their own conscience. They said God needs no intermediarie in order to speak to us. He can come to every man, speak to him and every man can speak in return to God. These men had toe great an idea of freedom for England so they sought it in Holland, but the people of Holland were not kind, but were even lax in conduct. So they sought America, and in winter they sailed to find freedom here. It was a desolate coast that greeted them and the sea as it broke over their tiny vessel froze on their garments. Oh! what a contrast between this and their cozy English homes. Why did they change? They knew, for 'amid the storm they sang and the stars heard and the sea and the sounding aisles of the dense woods rang the anthem of the free.' They were intensely religious people, who demanded freedom to worship God. They built churches. Besides the church they planted the school and college, which meant education for the people. The Pilgrim Fathers were the greatest men of England at the opening of the Seventeenth Century and these are the men who gave us the great ideals of freedom and popular education, and we have learned to love these great ideals and are ready to fight for them.

"God chose Israel for special instruction that the great ideals of the nation might be passed on to the world. We love to study these great ideals today. I have a certain amount of sympathy with the thought expressed in the adage: 'America for Americans.' Well, who are the Americans? That native born or foreign born resident who loves the ideals of the country and claims them as his, and does the utmost to support them. We sympathize with those who would make this their home and are amalgamated with this people. There are still those on the other side of the Atlantic who will in years to come make faithful, loyal American citizens, but while this is all true we are sure that a limitation at once should be made to the increasing numbers that are yearly pouring into this land faster than they can be assimilated. We depreciate that practically nothing is being done to limit the numbers that pour in annually upon us, many of whom have no intention of becoming loyal to this nation and many who we believe to be a detriment rather than a help.

"I sometimes think that this is God's country in a very special way, its very position geographically among the nations of the world is very unique. It seems to be the land of great opportunity, in fact it has been said that America is simply another world for opportunity and we may be sure if God writes opportunity on one sire of an open door on the other side of that door is written responsibility. If America is simply another world for opportunity, America is simply another world for responsibility.

"Did you ever think that God is on the side of the great ideals. Notice that in the lesson that while Israel fought with whole-hearted enthusiasm against Canaan God fought with them, for it is said, 'the stars fought in their courses against Sisera,' a figure of course, but the thought is that the powers of heaven were on the side of Israel.

"Perhaps you have criticized the extraordinary woman because of her intensity, when she said, 'Cursed be Meroz,' when Meroz was simply indifferent. Perhaps the word cursed would have been more applicable if she had taken up arms against Israel, but Scripture makes a great deal of the sins of omission, but frequently these sins are of more heinousness than the sins of commission.

"Notwithstanding the word 'cursed' is rather strong—did you ever think that one of the marks of strong character is hatred. It is not an evil to be a good hater. A man possessed with a spirit of love for everything will never make a reformer. Deborah was devoted to God and Israel and she naturally hated everything that stood opposed to these great ideals.

"Jesus knew how to use the whip cords in the temple. He then said that it would be more tolerable for the cities of Sodom and Gomorrah in the day of Judgment than for Capernaum, because of her negative unbelieving attitude to Christ.

"In proportion as you are true to the great ideals you will hate all that opposes these ideals. I would not have a man emulate the Puritans in everything they did. They lived in another age. Some things they did have passed away forever, but they left a legacy that should never pass away. England feels the effect of these ideals today. New England feels it and the entire country. These ideals are imbedded in our nature.

"We love our country not because it is our country, but because of the ideals of our land and we mean to do all in our power that these great truths may remain our permanent possession."

THE VOTING MACHINE.

In the course of a patriotic discourse yesterday, Rev. Dr. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, took occasion to condemn the voting machine. His remarks are of general public interest for it cannot be denied that there is a growing sentiment against the new fangled ballot device. Particularly does this appear to be true in Plainfield, but whether the arguments advanced by the opponents of the automatic machine are sound is a serious question. The standing of some of those who are arraigned against its continuance, however, makes the subject deserving of consideration by the next Legislature.

State Senator Ackerman stated recently that he has received many requests to use his influence to have the machine scheme abandoned, and he has added that not a single member of his constituency has ever asked him to have it kept in use. This, it must be admitted, appears to reflect a strong sentiment in this locality at least. More than one valuable citizen refused to cast his vote at the recent election it is known merely because he would be compelled to register his preference through such a device.

The truth is that the clergyman echoed the views of many of his fellow residents when he said: "I love the old ballot where a man can see his vote inside the box and am glad at the prospect of dispensing with our wonderful trick cabinets—where a man votes by juggling a few pointers, pulling a bar and hearing a bell ring."

But this necessarily brings up the question, if not the machine, what? And that is what the Legislature should decide at its very next session.

A PERTINENT WORD.

At this time, when the proposed omission of the Christian motto from our gold coin and the prohibition of the Christmas celebration with the debarring of the Christmas story and carols from the New York public schools are stirring much anxious thought and serious comment, the words of those whose character and position give weight to their opinions possess general and local interest. To both these classes belong the words of Rev. Dr. Herbert Welch, president of Ohio Wesleyan College, whose wife was Miss Anna McGee, daughter of the late Rev. James McGee, of this city. Dr. Welch says in Saturday's issue of the New York Herald, under the heading "Absurdity in History:" "This is a Christian country. The declaration of our highest court confirms the verdict of our national history, whether the words 'In God we Trust' are stamped upon our dollars or not, the spirit of the phrase must be stamped upon our hearts. Without religion, morality languishes; without morality, the nation fails. To celebrate the birthday of Washington and Lincoln and ignore the birthday of Jesus Christ is an absurdity in history and a tactical mistake in training for citizenship."

Here's hoping that Miss Gladys Vanderbilt's venture may be more successful than ninety-nine out a hundred of those of foolish girls with rich papas that marry into the nobility.

It is estimated that more than $660,000,000 has been withdrawn from the banks since October 16. Is it any wonder that there are "hard times?"

Hats off to Mr. Edward S. Hooley. Five blue ribbons from the greatest horse show on earth; what do you think of it!

Evidently the President forgot to consult Dr. Fowler. What a crime!

What Fowler words ever annoyed the administration?

FORT SPEAKS AT CHURCH

Governor-elect Says There is Need for Good Young Men in Politics.

COMPLIMENTS YOUNG LAWYERS

Three Things That Men Need in Public Life—Courage, Intelligence and Integrity.

Governor-elect J. Franklin Fort yesterday afternoon delivered a short address in connection with the sixty-third anniversary of the Linden Avenue Methodist Episcopal church, Jersey City.

"One thing that struck me while I was on the Supreme Court bench," said Judge Fort, "was the high moral character of the young lawyers that appeared before me. There was Leake, who has just finished making an eloquent address; Tumulty, Carey, McCarthy, Lane, Hendrickson and others who are identified with politics. It is men of this character who are needed to conduct affairs of State. Some of us get careless and old and pass away. We want such men as I have mentioned to uphold the hands of the government. I hope politics will not have a bad influence on them. I have no use for a man in public life who has not faith in God."

Discussing the incoming State administration, he said that results would depend upon the moral support given by the churches to those in power, and added:

"Good men should stand back of every moral movement permanently and aggressively. There are three things that men in public life need—courage, intelligence and integrity. In the campaign just closed there was one established fact. No one in New Jersey may fear evil if good men will stand behind the government. If anything shall result from what we have so far achieved that may be contrary to the wishes of the church folk, it will be the fault of the churches—not mine."

NEW JERSEY MAY BE WITHOUT CHANCELLOR

The opinion prevails among prominent members of the local bar that because of an unusual condition which will exist from January 14 to 21 there will be no chancellor in the State of New Jersey. Chancellor Magie's present term expires January 14, and that of Governor Stokes on January 21. As the latter official is prohibited by constitutional provision from making any appointment or nomination to office during the last week of his term, Governor Stokes would not have the power to name Chancellor Magie's successor.

One lawyer offers a solution of the matter, in having Chancellor Magie resign January 1, in which event Governor Stokes could appoint a new chancellor. It is believed that the present chancellor will not be reappointed.

In this connection several names have been mentioned for the place, it being generally believed that Governor Stokes will name a man approved by Governor-elect Fort. Among the names mentioned are those of Chief Justice Gummere, said by many to be the choice of the Governor-elect; Supreme Court Justice Francis J. Swayze and former Supreme Court Justice Gilbert Collins, of Jersey City.

If Chancellor Magie should not resign, there seems to be no doubt that no Chancellor could be appointed between January 14 and January 21, and with no Chancellor business of the Court of Chancery would be at a standstill practically. No injunction or restraining order can be made nor any process of decree of the court issued during that time. Vice-Chancellors might hear testimony and arguments in cases set down before them in that time, but that is all.

Twice, lawyers now pracaising remember similar emergencies in the Court of Chancery. From February, 1859, to early in 1860 the court was without a chancellor. Benjamin Williamson, of Elizabeth, was appointed for a term ending in February, 1859. A Republican was named to succeed him by Governor Newell, the first Republican Governor of New Jersey, but a Democratic Senate refused to confirm the appointment, and it was not until early in 1860, when Charles S. Olden, another Republican Governor, named Henry W. Green as chancellor, who was confirmed by a Democratic Senate, that the court had a chancellor.

Again, in 1900, Governor Voorhees did not name a successor to the late Chancellor McGill until three days after the latter died.

Injured By Fall Over Fence Stake.

John Moore, a resident of West Fourth street, is confined to his home today as the result of falling over an improvised wire fence at the southeast corner of Duer street and Park place last night. In the darkness Mr. Moore did not notice a small cornestakae and was thrown headlong. His left leg was badly cut in several places and so severely wrenched that he had to secure assistance in reaching his home.

FOR CHURCH AND LABOR

Fundamental Principle Closely Blended in Relations Between Two Factors.

THE BROTHERHOOD OF MAN.

No Reason Why the Two Great Forces May Not Meet On Common Ground.

In an address before the Episcopalian Clerical association in Baltimore recently Mr. W. Moore Kenner, a labor unionist, made some pertinent remarks on the relations of the church and organized labor. Following are given some of the leading thoughts of the address:

"The principles of the gospel of Jesus Christ and the fundamental principles of trades unionism are so inseparably blended and intwined that a man can scarcely be a consistent trades unionist without becoming imbued with the spirit of that 'pure religion and undefiled' taught by the Carpenter's Son amid the plains of Galilee and by the waters of its tranquil lake.

"He preached the doctrine of the equality and brotherhood of man, his disciples were chosen from the humble walks of life, and all through his earthly ministry the common people constituted the great bulk of his following.

"But the question is asked, 'Can the church and labor meet on common ground?' Assuredly. Note this excerpt from the obligation of the American Federation of Labor: 'We pledge ourselves to the emancipation of men from ignorance, poverty and selfishness, to respect the word and action of every woman, to protect the widow and the orphan, the weak and defenseless, to defend freedom of thought, whether expressed by tongue or pen; to never willingly wrong a brother or see him wronged if in our power to prevent. We will endeavor to subordinate every selfish impulse to the task of elevating the material, moral and intellectual condition of the laboring class.' Is there a single principle in that pledge which is not in full accord with the teachings of Jesus Christ?

"The American Federation of Labor was organized in Baltimore on Aug. 20, 1866. Today it numbers 119 national organizations, 28,000 locals, 538 city unions and over 2,000,000 members, and there are 245 papers and magazines published in the interest of organized labor. It has secured for the majority of its members an eight hour work day. It has been largely instrumental in securing legislation abolishing the sweating system, tenement house labor and child labor in factories. It has aided in securing factory inspection, broad extensions of employers' liability acts, the abolition of distraint for rent, the exemption of wages from garnishment for debt and the protection of the poor from unscrupulous money lending Shylocks. It has advocated one standard of wage, responsibility and morality for men and women alike and has favored the raising of the age of consent, the protection of children from vice and the abolittion of white slavery. It has set its face against violence and intimidation and has adyocated, instead of strikes, arguments, conciliation and an appeal to just and equitable arbitration.

"The American Federation of Labor has sought and largely succeeded in securing for labor a more equitable share in the wealth which it helps to produce. Is not this just? There are three elements that enter into the production of wealth—raw material, labor and capital. Has labor received in the past her fair proportion of the increment resulting from a combination of this trinity of industrial elements? Certainly not, but labor is slowly but surely coming into her own. That the worker has an inherent right to a fair compensation for his work and labor done is a fundamental concept of the law of contracts. Adam Smith in his 'Wealth of Nations' says, 'The wages of labor are the encouragements of industry, which, like every other human quality, improves in proportion to the encouragement which it receives.' Henry George declares, 'Where wages are highest there will be the largest production and most equitable distribution of wealth.' Professor Paton in his 'Theory of Prosperity' says, 'The workman has a right to a home, to become a head of a family, to self development, to a share in the social surplus sufficiently large to make him comfortable and to the leisure that is necessary to the revival of his physical and mental powers.' This last citation aptly illustrates the position of the American Federation of Labor on the wages question—in a word, that a fair day's work is entitled to the compensation of a fair day's pay."

In closing the speaker makes this eloquent appeal:

"We want youp rractical help, as evidenced by the use of the label upon all your printed matter, but as trades unionists we want your moral support in the fight we are waging all along the line for the betterment of mankind and the implanting of new ideals of social service, in which 'our field is the world and our cause —humanity.' Can we not as two brotherhoods—the church and organized labor—walk hand in hand? Shall we not bury the misunderstandings of the past and become colaborers in the cause of truth and justice and applied religion until all men come into the full realization of that glorious concept to which our organizations are mutually pledged—the fatherhood of God and the universal brotherhood of man?"

THE BABY POST.

A Curious Institution That Once Flourished In England.

Although few people are probably not aware of it, the fact remains that there once flourished in England a regular "baby post," the rates of postage being fixed on a strictly business basis, according to distances traversed.

The curious institution came into existence in connection with the foundling hospital in Guilford street. When this charity was first established, it was understood that its operations would be confined to London and its environs. But the people of the country towns and villages heard of it and showed a decided disposition to share in its advantages; hence the "baby post!"

All over the country there were men and women who entered vigorously into the business of carrying children to London and depositing them at the gates of the foundling hospital. The charge was 8 guineas from distant localities like York and Monmouthfi down to a guinea from places situated within thirty to fifty miles of the metropolis. The unfortunate infants were borne on horseback in panniers, two to each pannier, or in wagons lined with straw, for which the charge was somewhat less.

Naturally abuses grew up in connection with the traffic. But, even apart from them, the mortality among the "posted" babies was terrible. Thus, out of 14,934 received at the hospital in four years, only 4,400 lived to be "apprenticed out," being a mortality of more than 70 per cent.

Eventually parliament passed a measure abolishing the practice, and the "baby post" ceased."—London Answers.

A BRIDE'S DUTIES.

A bride's duties at the church are only to respond to the minister's questions. She leaves the altar at once with the groom and drives to her house. At a reception to which no one is invited but the bridal party you do not have to receive congratulations, as there will be no guests. The bridal party goes at once to the table, the bride and groom seated at the head. It would certainly spoil the bridal cake to touch the decorations. It is brought in to the bride at the end of the meal and she cuts it into slices. There are symbols of good luck baked in several of the slices and the mridal party try their luck in drawing for them. These cakes are not made to eat, as they are not even sweetened. As the bridal party sit with bride and groom at one table, the latter rise first and the others follow.

Euphemisms for "Mad."

In order to avoid the blunt word "mad" many euphemisms are resorted to in the English langauge. While "lunacy" refers to the supposed influence of the moon, "insane" simply means unhealthy; "imbecile" signifies only weak, and "crazy," meaning decrepit, almost corresponds to the slang "cracked." "A tile off," "not all there," "a bee in his bonnet," are only a few of the efforts slang has made to carry off the sad fact with an uneasy joke. "Lunatic asylum," for the old "madhouse," represents not only a great improvement in the institution, but also in the term used to designate it.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The mid-week prayer-meeting at the Park Avenue Baptist church Wednesday night will be appropriate to Thanksgiving.

Rev. Dr. Daniel Halleron, presiding elder of the Elizabeth district, will have charge of the quarterly conference at Grace M. E. church Wednesday night.

"The Beauty and Utility of Gratitude," will be the Christian Endeavor Society topic at the Park Avenue Baptist church Friday night. Miss Ethel Lorton will be the leader.

Neil Neilson will lead the devotional service at the meeting of the Sunday-school Teachers' Union in the Y. M. C. A. tonight, and F. H. Andrews will teach the lesson. Martin A. Korff will lead the discussion on "Christmas Exercises."

Under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Congregational church a Thanksgiving entertainment will be held tomorrow night. A program of merit has been prepared. Donations are asked for to supply dinners on Thanksgiving Day to several poor families.

The Home Mission Circle of the Park Avenue Baptist church will meet in the church parlors tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. Rev. S. K. Herwitz, of Newark, will make an address on the subject, "Work Among the Jews of New Jersey." The leaders will be Mrs. S. A. Krom and Mrs. Lyons, and Mrs. Peter Wyckoff will conduct the devotional exercises.

The Sunday-school of the Park Avenue Baptist church will vary its Christmas service this year, giving a sacred cantata, "King of Kings," instead of the usual set program of recitations, songs, etc. The main school and primary department will participate. For the school entertainment, "What Happened to Santa Claus" is the name of the cantata to be given.

LINER AGROUND.

Baltic, Probably, Pokes Her Nose Into Deal Lake Bar.

Asbury Park, Nov. 25.—About noon yesterday a big ocean liner, believed to have been the Baltic, of the White Star Line, poked her prow into the outer bar opposite the Deal Lake life saving station. The life guards were settled at their midday meal when they were startled by the steamer's whistle. They rushed to the water's edge and saw the liner apparently stranded.

The steamer's twin screws were throwing up sand, the crew could be seen rushing from one part of the ship to another, and the big anchor chains were thrown tuot. More than an hour passed before she steamed away in the fog. Captain Van Brunt says he plainly discerned the White Star Line smokestack.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

The problem "Why Girls Leave Home," is one that has taxed the minds of many parents to solve, but, it is said, a careful study of the melodrama, "Why Girls Leave Home," which will be presented at the New Plainfield theatre Wednesday night, will assist materially in the solution, and also point out a moral that cannot go unnoticed. The story is one that is told in a new manner, and by the use of dramatic license forms many stage pictures of interest. It deals principally with four persons, mother, brother and two sisters, one of whom, being susceptible to flattery, is induced to leave her home against the wishes of her mother, and is lured to a dubious restaurant which answers to the name of wine room, and there induced to drink and associate with debonair scoundrels and women without principle or aim in life. The story is unfolded in a cogerent and connected manner, and is absolutely devoid of all horseplay, so usual in melo-dramatic productions of the present day. Throughout the entire production there is an abundance of lively action, and all the climaxes are worked up to such a point of perfection that they bring forth loud attestations of approval.

At the New Plainfield theatre Thanksgiving afternoon and night, will be found an ideal type of thrilling and sensational melodramatic art in "The Convict's Daughter." It is said to be original in conception, plot and development, and is described as a high-grade melodrama with a scenic production and containing those elements that always insure success—realism, love, passion, comedy, heroism and self-sacrificing devotion. The author, J. A. Fraser, Jr., has constructed his five-act play on original lines, avoiding the old wornout love story and in this and other respects it is a radical departure from the well-beaten path of melodramatic productions. He has given to the stage a play that appeals in many ways to the hearts and minds of all theatre-goers who delight in sensations and scenes of startling realism.

Music and drama make a happy combination, and when both are well blended the results is highly acceptable, as, for instance, in "The Original Cohen," a comedy drama of the New York Bowery, in which there is plot, action and music. The attraction is under the management of the Rowland and Clifford Amusement Co., and appears at the New Plainfield theatre Saturday afternoon and night.

Lillian Russell's new play, "Wildfire," by George Broadhurst and George V. Hobart, will be presented at the New Plainfield theatre next Monday night. The comedy deals with a widow, Mrs. Barrington, whose husband left her nothing but a racing stable. Her trainer developed a colt, a certain "Wildfire," who is entered in a big stake. She races her horses under the name of John Duffy. Well, a real man by that name turns up, he's a bookmaker, and in the end he causes all the trouble.

Can Many Fly?

If it be true that Dr. Rose, a Shropshire medical man, has constructed a pair of wings "with which he has flown a considerable distance" he may be congratulated on having succeeded where so many of his predecessors in this branch of aeronautics have often tragically failed. In Louis XIV.'s day a French tight rope dancer called Allard assayed a flight from the terrace at St. Germain only to fall with serious results at the very foot. foot of the terrace. A French locksmith, M. Besnier, succeeded in flying over a cottage roof from the eminence of an adjacent attic, but a mountebank who brought his wings paid for them with his life. In 1742 the Marquis de Becqueville attempted to fly across the Seine and broke a leg by falling on a barge a few yards from the near bank. Letur and Vincent de Groof, the Belgian "flying men," both met their death by trusting to wings, and Lillenthal eleven years ago while flying at a height of sixty feet lost his balance, wasprecipitated to the ground and instantly killed.—Westminster Gazette.

His Substitute For Ink.

"Who has a fountain peen?" asked thee nervous man as he fished out his check book in a downtown cafe one afternoon last week. "I hate to pay mine host his bill, and as I'm going out of town for a couple of weeks I want to get the job off my hands. He hasn't pen and ink here."

"Here is an indelible pencil," said a friend as he reached into his vest pocket.

"That won't do," snapped the nervous man. "No bank will take a check written with a pencil."

"Oh, yes, even the Chemical National will take it, provided you wet the check first," said the friend soothingly. "If you can't get water lick the check as you would a stamp, and then do your writing while it is still moist. An indelible pencil is filled with nothing but ink powder compressed into solidity. When it is moistened it becomes ink. Try it."

"I see," said the nervous man as he signed his check with a flourish, "that there are more ways of killing a cat than choking it with hot butter."—New York Press.

Mr. Barnes, American

By Archibald Clavering Gunter

Author of Mr. Barnes of New York, Mr. Potter of Texas, That Frenchman, etc.

A Sequel to Mr. Barnes of New York

Copyright, 1907, Dodd Mead & Co. N.Y.

"Aye, and that is why we must soon take our leave. To-morrow is their nuptial day in Bocognano."

Then the ladies get to discussing this wondrous news, and Barnes, leading Edwin aside, whispers: "We must get the girls out of here quick. If we vamoose now, probably the explosion of the tower and those bodies will be attributed to the riotous 'Luchese.'" The American's tone is awed, he reflects that till this last dire episode of his life, no human being had ever fallen to his fat 1 pistol.

"By gum," remarks the detective, who is gaunt with much fasting, coming out of the house, "there was a fine supper for two setting there, with white flowers and champagne. I finished it all."

Marina's face flames. She knows for whom the nuptial dinner was designed, and as Edwin suggests leaving, cries: "Yes, quick, from this awful place!"

"You're quite right—now get away smart—they may think it was bloody Italians," observes Emory, and makes himself useful helping the ladies down to the sea, to which some steep steps on the further side of the cliff lead them.

From a little jetty Barnes hails a boat that is apparently in waiting from the fishing vessel. To the captain of the craft who is in the boat's stern, he cries: "The 'Lucchese' are making a row all along the coast. We must leave at once."

"Yes, the rocks that fell about us from the explosion told us that," answers the captain, anxious to leave this dangerous anchorage. But as the party board his boat, he mutters: "Count Cipriano and his nephew?"

"They are trying to protect their vines and crops from the 'Lucchese.' We are not to wait for them. You remember, the count said a lady would be on board. Your charter money."

"Oh, yes," cries the captain, pocketing some bills, as his men row them to the fishing vessel, where he orders his sails set.

Barnes tells the skipper to steer to Villefranche harbor. As he turns away Emory edges beside him and whispers: "This is the infernal felucca, in whose hold I banged about from St. Tropez."

The two Bellacoscia have assisted the ladies to the deck.

"Now, gentlemen," asks Barnes of the young bandits, "what can I do for you for bringing me my wife?"

"You can give us the pistols that make incredible shots," answers one of the young men.

"By them we will kill many gendarmes," whispers the other.

"Sorry for the gendarmes, but the pistols go," laughs Barnes, and passes his weapons to these nice young bandits, who, after kissing the ladies' hands, take their leave with many words of gratitude and thanks.

"I fear I'm leaving murder behind me," sighs the American.

"Yes, nothing will cure this country but half a dozen railroads," remarks the detective. "Then you're able to get about and handcuff a man."

The vessel is soon under way, leaving the Corsican coast. The ladies, worn out with fatigue, are asleep in the little cabin, where there is only room for two.

As their husbands seated on the deck are smoking languidly their cigars, Barnes whispers to Edwin: "I rather imagine this vendetta is settled for good. Marina is again beloved by the people of her commune, and you will be honored when you go back with her to visit her estates."

"And the Danellas?"

"Oh, I don't think there will be much said about them. The 'Lucchese' have been raising the devil in the last few days. Anyway, Cip had to be planted; he was the dangerous one; he was the money of the affair. You and I will be now able to walk down Piccadilly or Fifth avenue and not squint over our shoulders—and if our brides disappear we'll seek for them at Delmonico's or the Langham, and not at some Baxter street rendezvous of the Black Hand or some Whitechapel haunt of foreign stiletto gentlemen."

On the following noon the felucca is anchored at Villefranche. As the party disembark at the pretty landing stage, Maud, running down the path greets them with: "My, you are scarecrows!"

"Happy scarecrows!" cries Enid, as Barnes tenderly lifts her from the boat. Then they all go up to Lady Chartris' villa, followed by old Tomasso, contentedly smoking a pipe, and Emory in consultation with Barnes and Edwin as to silence in regard to the slain Danellas and bringing Graham and the Seagull back. In her parlor they are received with many sighs by Lady Chartris, who says mournfully: "I'm going back to London. Do you know that after that night you left, that wretched Cipriano has never visited me?"

To avoid discussing Danella, Enid and Marina run upstairs to get on civilized clothes, the former says.

"Oh, mama," cries Maud breaking into the room with the Nice morning paper in her hand, "that detective is eating up everything in the house, and old Tomasso is chuckling over this telegram from Corsica: 'Saliceti, the vendetta man, is defeated for the chamber of deputies'—and—here's bad news for you, Barnsey—La Belle Blackwood is being married this morning in Bocognano to the great bandit who kills so many, the one they call the Bellacoscia."

"Hush, my child," shudders her mother, "don't mention that horrible creature's name."

"Oh, I can speak of her now, mama, dear," remarks Maud, naively; "Blackey is now an honest wife."

"You bet Sally will make Bonelli a thoroughly honest wife," sneers Barnes in a whisper to Edwin. "No flirtatious glances at other mountain cavaliers, or the dagger in the back for both, biff! I reckon that kiss I gave Sally the other night in Bocognano is Sally's last outside kiss for a deuced long t-t-time."

The careless words gurgle in his throat. Enid standing in the conservatory, dressed in some light white carriage costume, looking like a fairy bride, cries sweetly but possessively: "Burton, I'm going to take you with me into Nice, shopping!"

"Oh, good Lord, now I know I'm married," laughs Mr. Barnes.

"Gee, you'll never be married really till you give me that bridesmaid present!" pouts Maud savagely.

Exquisite blushes rise to Enid's face.

"Right you are, Maudie," cries Mr. Barnes excitedly. "We'll get you the finest kind of gift this very morning."

"Oh, it must be something very handsome," answers the bride enthusiastically. "We're going to be so happy."

Burton leads his wife to the victoria, puts her carefully in, seats himself beside her and says casually to Lady Chartris, who has come to the door with them: "By the bye, we shan't be back for a week."

"Oh, mercy, I—I have no baggage," falters Enid.

"Sent on ahead with Tompson."

"Where are you going to take me, dear?"

"To a nice little Swiss canton where there are plenty of mountains, but no bandits or vendettas. By the lord Harry, I'm tired of taking separate wedding tours," he adds savagely.

"Y-e-s, Burton." His beautiful wife snuggles a little closer to the ardent Barnes. Then she starts up with a little scream as an old slipper thrown by Maud nearly knocks off her hat, and Edwin and Marina from the window above are laughing and showering rice and flowers on her.

The sun is shining very brightly as Mr. and Mrs. Barnes of New York drive into Nice.

FORTUNE FOR ROUSTABOUT.

Aged Exiled Hungarian Falls Heir to $75,000.

Passaic, Nov. 25.—Gabriel Namess, 60 years old, a roustabout of this city, has just received word that he has been left $75,000 in Hungary. Namess comes from one of the foremost families in Hungary, and was the youngest of five children. He entered the army as a member of the royal staff and was promoted rapidly. After three years of service he formed the acquaintance of a young woman of royal blood, and they agreed to marry.

The parents of the young woman, however, objected to the match, and Namess had to quit the country. He came to New York and later to Passaic, where he has lived for more than twenty years. For a long time after coming here he was prosperous and lived highly, but his setback in Hungary preyed upon him and he allowed himself to degenerate. For years he has been a mere hanger-on in saloons and stores in the business section.

Namess has relatives in Montpelier, Vt., from whom he received word of his good fortune. They forwarded his transportation to Montpelier, and he left here yesterday to consult them. He will sail for Hungary early next week.

HIGH VAUDEVILLE SALARIES.

Of all the people who work for their living, vaudeville performers are the best paid. Of three-fourths, yes, seven-eighths, of the traveling theatrical companies, the whole salary list does not amount to $2,500 a week, and yet in vaudeville that much is paid to one performer who is given an eighth of the performance. It is true that a $2,000-a-week performer doesn't appear often in any one theatre, but an act that costs $1,000 a week has become the rule rather than the exception in every bill, while a great majority of the acts cost from $250 to $500, and in the best vaudeville houses no act costs less than $75 a week. "Chasers," employed to drive audience out of houses giving continuous performances, get that much. In the good vaudeville houses the salary list of performers range from $2,500 to $4,00 a week, and the maximum is paid more often than the minimum. Occasionally the cost will run to $5,000 a week. The standard in practically every first-class vaudeville house in the country is $3,200 a week and each manager tries to keep as close to that as possible. It has been found that this will provide an attractive bill, and yet leave a fair margin or profit.—Everybodys Magazine.

P. H. S. LOSES LAST GAME

Rutgers "Prep" Eleven Overwhelms City High School Team by 44 to 0.

VISITORS HEAVY AND FAST.

Local Eleven Outclassed in Every Department of the Game and Had to Play Defensive Football.

Outweighed twenty pounds to the man and outplayed in every department of the game, the city high school football eleven was unable to score against the fast team of Rutgers Preparatory school and were defeated 44-0 in a one-sided game played on Hope Common Saturday afternoon. It was the last game of the season for both teams. Both sides played good clean football, but against the overwhelming odds of weight, the local eleven had no show and the outcome of the game was never in doubt from the whistle.

The Rutgers team gained at will at all parts of the line, and there was no need to resort to the forward pass or trick plays to gain ground. Coming through behind quickly forming interference, each member of the back field seemed equally successful at ground gaining. For the city team, Lyness and Bingaman were the best ground gainers, making the distance through the left wing of the Rutgers line. Time after time the city eleven was held for downs and Murphey postponed the touchdowns by some good punting before the New Brunswick school boys took the ball. The local eleven was able to make first down but twice in the whole game. The summaries:

DUNELLENITES IN TIE GAME WITH FAST MOHAWK TEAM.

Scored on in the last three minutes of play after making a touchdown in the first half, the Dunellen eleven tied with the Mohawks, of Paterson, in a fast game played on the Dunellen gridiron Saturday afternoon. The Mohawks had a game scheduled with the local eleven on November 9, but were forced to cancel it the day of the game.

The game was marked by fast play on both sides. Dunellen had the advantage in the first half, making consistent gains time after time by line bucking and formation plays. Smalley made the touchdown about the middle of the half. In the last period, the visitors braced up, and taking the ball rushed the local eleven down the field, making their only touchdown a few minutes before time was called. Maltby was in the game again for the Dunellenites and proved a good ground gainer. The Dunellen team lined up as follows:

Miller le; Smalley, lt; Carman lg; Myers, c; Snyder, rg; Caulifield, rt; Rutledge, re; Lake, qb; Smith, rhb; Dineen, lhb; Maltby, fb.

THE VALUE OF SPORT.

Thin-blooded people sometimes imagine that Young Ameerica pays too much attention to sport, and this feeling comes to the surface most readily in the bracing days of autumn when red-blooded youth finds the air exhilarating and an imperative invitation to strenuous endeavor, while the aforesaid thin-blooded minority feel only that it is chilly. October is certainly an out-of-door month with such Americans as are able to enjoy the glorious weather Everybody seems to be playing something whenever they can get away for a few hours from busfness. All the way from riotous Rugby to grave and reverend golf, we use our games as excuses to go out of doors and get the last of the genial sun.

Even winter does not kill sport in America. It merely enliveens it. We theen play at hoskey, which is about as swft a game as we know this side of manslaughter, and we toboggan, which is still a trifle swifter. At all seasons, we are an out-of-door people, and it is to this that we owe much of our vitality. We would be a feebler folk if we cared less for sport. Those who are criticising us now because we are enthusiastic over the games which our young athletes are playing, are not stopping to think what this all means in pure blood and vigorous bodies. It is true that the "grand stand athletes," who sit shivering, do not get so much out of it as those who participate, but these very people are inspired by the interest taken in the prowess of others to go and do as nearly as possible likewise themselves.

Then there are few of us who cannot "get into the game" at some point. We may take only a mental share in some games, but we plunge all the more vigorously into the physical side of other games because of our interest in those we watch. There is a brotherhood in sport which extends to all forms of recreation, and we like to hear of the victories of our brothers in another game the better when we are striving for victory in our own. The races which do not go in for sport are not the vigorous races. They are apt to be races of the lily finger and the enlarged waistline. They find their pleasures in occupations which lessen rather than augment their strength. They are the weaker for their recreations, while we of sporting stock are the stronger.

Let us not, then, decry sport, or listen tamely to its belittlement. It may take up some of the time of the student which he might have spent in adding a few figures to his examination percentages or in capturing a prize or two; but the day will come when he will have plenty of time for that sort of thing and when the demands of evercise will not be so imperative. He will have his growth, and he will have it with substantial foundation which will enable him to stand more of the strain of the real struggle of lifee than the anaemic prize-winner can approach.

TO GET $18,102 UNDER CORPORATION ASSESSMENT.

Under the assessment of the annual franchise tax against the public utility corporations recently made by the State Board of Assessors, the total for Middlesex county will amount to $18,102.66. Of this money, New Brunswick must pay $2,818.99, Piscataway $2,229.43, Woodbridge $2,440.18, Perth Amboy $1,985.20, Raritan $1,735.81 and Sayerville $1,085.98. The other taxing districts will not have to pay as much as $1,000 apiece. Dunellen will have to pay $407.24 as its share.

The tax is assessed by the State Board Assessors and by that board is certified by each taxing district, where it is collected for the benefit of the municipality. The rate of assessment is two per cent. on the gross receipts, except for trolley companies. They are taxed at a graduated rate, which will increase one-half of one per cent. annually until it reaches five per cent. of the gross receipts, when it will remain stationary. This year the rate is two and a half per cent.

CHARLES HOPE DIES IN TRENTON PRISON

Word was received in this city yesterday that Charles Hopes, the colored youth sentenced to two years in prison for his attempted attack on Margaret Mead, the little daughter of George Mead, of West Second street, had died in the State institution at Trenton Saturday morning.

According to the details furnished his mother, who is employed by a Myrtle avenue family, the young man had been taken ill and was kept in a damp cell. His physique was not of the robust sort and pneumonia developed, causing his death within a short time. The body will be brought to this city for burial.

Hopes was eighteen years old and was arrested on April 21 of the present year. Feeling against him at first was very bitter but when finally sentenced after many delays there were numerous petitions in his behalf. It resulted in Judge Atwater giving him two years at hard labor. Accordingly he had only been imprisoned in all but seven months from the time of his arrest.

SEVENTEEN RIDERS JOIN IN WATCHUNG CLUB CHASE.

Seventeen members and friends of the Watchung Hunt Club enjoyed the weekly chase on Saturday afternoon, starting from the Baltusrol Golf Club, at 2:30 o'clock and following a new course which included Springfield, Milburn, Scotch Plains and vicinity. The going was especially good over the entire territory covered by the hunters and the hounds led all a lively chase. Interest in the weekly hunts has been increased because of the number of fine horses available at the horse show grounds and which are in charge of James Gethins.

Considerable attention was attracted Saturday to the riding of James Robins, a young rider, about fourteen years old, and Miss Fraleigh and Miss Hawthorne, who have been following the hunts during the past few weeks. They took the jumps in a way that called forth great praise.

Value of the Separator.

Professor Eckles, the well known dairy expert connected with the Missouri experiment station, says: "By using the separator from one fourth to one-third more butter can be made than when the cream is raised by gravity in the common crock or pan. NOTED PHYSICIAN DEAD

Doctor Walter John Norfolk Passes Away Following an Operation.

RETIRED FOURTEEN YEARS AGO

For Many Years a Leading Practioner in Boston—Leaves a Wife—Funeral Tomorrow.

Dr. Walter John Norfolk, aged aged fifty-nine years, famed throughout the world as a physician, died at 6:30 o'clock last night at his home on Belvidere avenue, following a third operation for intestinal trouble. The first operation was performed in Germany over a year ago, and since moving to Plainfield seven months ago two additional operations were necessary, the last one a few days ago being performed by Dr. Gant, the well-known specialist of New York.

Dr. Norfolk was born in Salem, Mass., and was a graduate of Harvard College and the Harvard Medical school. For many years he was one of the leading practioners in Boston and was on the staff of the Boston Medical Institute. On account of health he gave up practicing fourteen years ago, and spent much of his time in travelling abroad, where he made many friends. He possessed considerable wealth and was a liberal contributor to charitable objects both in this country and abroad. He was also a member of several clubs abroad and of the Harvard Club, of Boston.

After returning from his last trip abroad less than a year ago he decided to make his home in Plainfield, where climatic conditions appeared to be beneficial to him. The intestinal trouble again distressed him to such an extent that the operations were found to be imperative. Dr. Norfolk is survived by a wife.

The funeral services will be held at the late home tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 and the burial will be in Forest Hill cemetery, Boston, Thursday.

HEART ATTACK FATAL.

Death Comes to Miss Frances M. Veysey Shortly After Being Stricken.

Miss Frances Marcella Veysey, sister of Walter R. P. Veysey, of Park avenue, died suddenly at her brother's home yesterday afternoon. She was making preparations to go to New York when she became quite ill and decided not to start. She grew worse rapidly and death ensued in a short time. Heart failure was the cause.

Miss Veysey had been a resident of the city for a long time and always lived with her brother at his Park avenue home. She is survived by her mother, who also resides with Mr. Veysey.

The funeral will be held at the late residence tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Dispensary Patients Will Pay.

The Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital has decided that on and after December 1, patients visiting the dispensary at the hospital will be charged ten cents for each visit, this being done to cover the cost of dressings which in the course of a year amounts to a considerable sum. In explaining the new order, the board says that this is a practice in many hospitals throughout the country.

TOWNSEND QUITS BOARD

J. Herbert Case Succeeds Mayor-elect as a Borough School Trustee.

PLAN THE CENSUS OF PUPILS.

Fellow Directors Praise Retiring Member for His Work— Borrow $3,800 On a Note.

The meeting of the borough Board of Education last night was the last meeting for Mayor-elect Samuel Townsend, who has been for five years an active worker on the board. In the presence of the board, Mr. Townsend's resignation was formally received and accepted with regret. J. Herbert Case was unanimously elected to fill the vacancy caused in the board by Mr. Townsend's resignation. Mr. Case will only serve with the board until the regular election next spring, when the borough voters will fill the vacancy. Mr. Townsend's term would not have expired until a year from next spring, but the election of Mr. Case was only temporary, and a regular member will be chosen by ballot in the spring.

After the resignation of Mr. Townsend was formally presented to the board, James R. Joy, president of the Board of Education, Rev. J. O. McKelvey and Justus H. Cooley, members of the board, made informal remarks of farewell to Mr. Townsend, referring to his zeal as a member of the various committees. It has been through the efforts of Mr. Townsend, as chairman of the truancy committee, that the present efficient truancy system has been introduced in the borough schools. Mr. Townsend was also a member of the building and grounds committee, and his conscientious work in connection with the large expenditures necessitated by all the new building work was heartily commended by the speakers.

In the executive session, Justus H. Cooley was appointed a special committee of one to arrange for securing the school census of all children in the borough between the ages of five and eighteen. This is to be done so that the law which compels all children between these ages to attend school for a certain percentage of the year may be complied with. The census taker has not yet been appointed. The census will involve a cost of four cents per name.

The usual monthly budget of bills was presented and the board authorized the borrowing of $3,800 on a demand note to meet the payment of the month's budget. The thanks of the board were formally extended to the Potter Printing Press Company of this city for the donation of a blue print showing the full drawing of a job press made for the United States government, and also for two shaft collars donated to the manual training department. A drinking fountain was ordered to be secured for the use of the smaller pupils of the Somerset street school. It will be placed in the basement at the north end of the building. Messrs. Joy, Townsend, McKelvey, Nichols, Miller, Cooley, Laing and Woodruff were present at last night's meeting.

Thanksgiving Exercises Tomorrow.

The exercises will be appropriate to Thanksgiving and there will be special music under the direction of Herbert Lloyd, instructor of music at the school.

NO NEW CARS 'TIL SPRING

But General Manager Danforth Says He is "Keeping an Eye on Plainfield."

NEW "PAY-AS-YOU-ENTER" CARS

P. S. C. Will Experiment With This Type of Car in Newark and May Have Single End Cars Equipped This Way.

The new type "pay-as-you-enter" trolleys, being adopted for general use in several of the western cities, will be given a trial by the Public Service Corporation and will be used in Newark for the first within a few months. On cars of this type, the conductor stands on the rear platform, where passengers pay as they enter the car. The conductor gives the signal to start the car, while the passengers signal for it to stop with push buttons at their seats.

In speaking to a Daily Press reporter today about the probable introduction of these new style cars on the main line, General Manager Danforth said: "The company will merely experiment with this type of car, and if it is a success, the cars will be used in the larger cities, though probably not on the main line for some time to come, even provided that the news cars give satisfaction. They will not be used for the local lines in Plainfield, and as things stand now, there will be no new cars for the local traffic until spring. I know there is dissatisfaction, but I'd like you to say that we are keeping an eye on Plainfield for the best interests of the city."

The "pay-as-you-enter" trolleys have been adopted in Chicago as well as in Montreal and other Canadian cities, and tend to hasten rather than interfere with the boarding and unloading of cars. The new style of single end cars in use at present, can readily be equipped for the new system. The platforms of the new type are larger, in order to accommodate the passengers before they pay fares and enter the car. For this reason there can be no smoking on the rear platforms of these "pay-as-you-enter" cars. In some cities trailers are being run for the special accommodation of smokers.

TRUANT OFFICER MAKES HER FIRST COMPLAINT

Miss Adelaide Ball, who was recently appointed truant officer for the local schools, appeared in the city court in that capacity this morning for the first time.

On complaint preferred by Miss Ball, Patrick Reed, colored, of West Third street, was arraigned before Judge Runyon on the charge of keeping his daughter out of school. It was stated that the girl seldom failed to be absent at least one day a week and under the compulsory education law Reed was responsible.

The defendant informed the court that his daughter was kept at home only when it was extremely necessary that she should take care of younger children. He promised, however, that an effort would be made to have her at her lessons regularly and on that condition, sentence was suspended.

Since her appointment as school officer, Miss Ball has been very active and has disposed of many cases without having to resort to the city court.

STATE ENDS ARGUMENT IN TAX APPEAL CASE.

Following a general conference of the Court of Errors and Appeals at Trenton yesterday Attorney-General McCarter concluded his argument for the State in the appeal by which the United New Jersey Railroad and Canal Company and the Pennsylvania Railroad, as lessee, claim exemption from taxation under the act of 1888 and its supplement.

The case is a side issue of the "main-stem" tax argument to which the Court of Errors and Appeals has been listening since last Wednesday.

Will Report on Hospital Work.

The Women's Auxiliary to the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital will meet at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church Friday morning to receive a final report on "The Gathering of the Clans," also one regarding the donations made to the hospital at the "Harvest Home" affair.

WARDEN COMPLIMENTED BY THE GRAND JURY

The Union county Grand Jury came into court yesterday afternoon and handed to Judge Atwater twenty-eight additional indictments which, with forty-five previously presented, makes a total of seventy-three true bills found so far for this term. This, with one exception, is the largest number of indictments rendered by any grand inquest in many years.

The grand jury made an inspection of the county jail yesterday afternoon and found everything connected with it in excellent econdition. Warden Charles W. Dodd was complimented for the manner in which he has kept the institution. It is now understood the jury will make its final report to the court next week.

The grand jurors, together with some of the county officials, were to partake of a banquet yesterday afternoon, but an unlooked-for event occurred and threw a damper on the proposed feast. Foreman Cissel and Jurors Dr. James S. Green and former Mayor Samuel J. Berry, of Elizabeth, were summoned from the court house, owing to the sudden and dangerous illness of Mr. Cissel's sister, who is married to a son of former Mayor Berry. They hurried to the sick woman's bedside.

MUST BOTTLE MILK AT DAIRY FARMS

For the purpose of still further protecting the consumer of milk in Plainfield, it is the intention of the Board of Health to put in effect a new order on May 1, 1908, whereby no loose milk will be served in the city. After that date all milk must be delivered to customers in bottles. This is a rule in many other cities and it is considered that it will greatly minimize the possibility of danger from the use of the lacteal fluid.

In the opinion of physicians, it is said, handling milk in a loose form carries disease to consumers. The members of the Plainfield Board of Health therefore have decided to take no chances and to adopt every possible means to prevent the outbreak of disease that might result from the milk supply.

The new order will compel all dealers to bottle their milk at the dairy under strictly sanitary conditions. In this way it will have no chance of contagion from the place of bottling to the hands of the consumer. Whether this will still further increase the price cannot be learned at present, but in the opinion of those interested especially in the matter it should not result in a raise over the present charge of nine cents a quart.

ACCIDENT VICTIM'S FUNERAL.

Service Over Body of Herbert Schierholtz is Largely Attended.

With a large gathering of relatives, friends and playmates in attendance, the funeral of Herbert Schierholtz, the victim of the shot gun accident in the borough Friday night, was held at the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William Keading, of Wilson avenue, yesterday afternoon.

The service was conducted by Rev. George Bowers, of Warrenville, who also sang "Abide With Me." There was a wealth of flowers from friends of the family and the little fellow's schoolmates. Burial was made in the North Plainfield cemetery.

Drunkenness Not Disease.

Rev. Dr. E. G. Read, pastor of the Second Reformed church, Somerville, Sunday denounced the sentiment that drunkenness is a disease. He declared that it was a sin and the disease came as the result of the sin. He preached a strong sermon in favor of temperance reform and said that the temperance people of the State would go to Trenton again this winter and every other winter until they became dominant in the State, instead of the liquor dealers who, he said, now dominate politics.

Skull Broken By Fall.

While playing with some other boys in a partly built house on Anna street, Elizabeth, Sunday afternoon, Christopher Donegan, aged thirteen, tumbled from the top floor to the bottom, a distance of twenty-five feet. He is believed to be fatally injured. His skull was fractured and one arm broken. The boy is still unconscious in the Alexian Hospital. His father, Patrick Donegan, is employed by the Central Railroad and resides at 235 Jefferson avenue.

Samuel Clouston, of East Fifth street, returned Sunday after a five weeks' stay in Chicago and Englewood, Ill., on business.

Mrs. John Swan, of Kinwid, Pa., and Mrs. Samuel Porter Williams, of Hartford, Conn., are visiting at the home of their brother, Irving W. Clark, of Webster place.

F. W. FROST A BENEDICT

Son of George H. Frost Takes Miss Alice Birney Blackwell as His Bride.

DR. GROSVENOR OFFICIATES

Ceremony Takes Place at the Church of the Incarnation in New York—Couple to Reside Here.

The marriage of Miss Alice Birney Blackwell and Francis W. Frost was solemnized in the Church of the Incarnation, New York city, this afternoon, the Rev. Dr. William M. Grosvenor officiating. The bride, who was attended only by her sister, Miss Janet D. Blackwell as maid of honor, wore a gown of ivory white satin, trimmed with old rose point lace. Her veil of tulle was caught with a cluster of orange blossoms and she carried a shower bouquet of lillies of the valley and gardenias. Miss Blackwell was gowned in a creation of apricot chiffon, trimmed with gold lace. Her hat was of brown tulle, trimmed with fur and ostrich feathers. Her bouquet was of sunrise roses. Mr. Frost was attended by Harry F. Woods, of Cincinnati, as best man, while his brothers, Messrs. Harwood and Edwin H. Frost, and Messers. Frederick W. Goddard, Robert A. Beebe and Wylie Brown, of Plainfield were the ushers. The altar of the church was beautifully decorated with chysanthemums and palms and torches of chrysanthemums were tied to the ends of the pews.

Following the cermony a reception was held at the home of the bride, attended only by members of the families and intimate friends of the contracting parties.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Engs Blackwell, of New York and Astoria, Long Island, and for several years she has been identified with the summer colony at Easthampton.

Mr. Frost is a son of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Frost, of Watchung avenue, and has been a resident of this city for twenty years. Two years ago he was a member of the party which accompanied Secretary Taft to the Far East and the Philippines and after leaving the Taft party he made a circuit of the globe accompanied by Mr. Woods.

Upon their return from a short wedding tour Mr. and Mrs. Frost will reside at 745 Watchung avenue.

TO ARGUE QUESTION OF LEGAL NEGLIGENCE

The decision on certain low points to be argued on a demurrer filed in the $10,000 damage suit of Garret T. Dunham against the Public Service Corporation, at the February term of the Supreme Court, will have an vital bearing on the outcome of the suit. The chief point to be argued is the question of negligence on the part of the company, which the plaintiff claims on account of the overcrowding of the trolley car on which Mr. Dunham was a passenger when injured.

The company claims that it was not negligent because of this fact, while the plaintiff contends that the operation of a car under such conditions shows negligence. It is said that if Mr. Dunham can prove his claim it will be largely instrumnetal in helping him to win the suit. George W. V. Moy is counsel for Mr. Dunham and he will, it is said, quote a decision recently given in Georgia in which the contention of negligence was upheld.

At the time of the accident Mr. Dunham was a passenger on a crowded trolley car, returning home from a day's outing. Near West Front street and Clinton avenue, he was thrown off the car, he claims, and received serious injuries which incapacitated him from work for a long time. The suit will not be tried until after the negligence is decided.

Boroughites To Wed Tomorrow.

The wedding of Miss Margaret Shepherd, daughter of Mrs. Phebe Shepherd, of Watchung avenue, North Plainfield, and Percy Gaddis, of Regent street, will take place tomorrow afternoon in the study of Rev. J. O. McKelvey, pastor of Warren chapel. The ceremony will be a quiet affair, witnessed only by the immediate relatives and friends of the couple. Mr. Gaddis is local agent for the Sperry & Hutchinson Trading Stamp Company. After the wedding, the couple will reside in the borough.

TRY NEW 'PHONE METHOD

All Plainfield Experimenting in Talking Through the Ribs.

"CENTRAL" GIRLS MUCH BORED.

Telephone Operators Busy Asking Subscribers to Put Lips to Transmitter—Scientific Explanation.

Since The Daily Press printed a story yesterday to the effect that it is possible to talk through a telephone by pressing the transmitter against the chest or other parts of the body, almost every subscriber in the city has been trying the experiment. The most "tired lot of girls in the city today are the ones at the Central office who have been answering chest, rib and feet calls by the hundred and the end isn't in sight yet. The rush of business has been almost doubled as people who never thought of using the 'phone have been ringing up friends for the sake of taking a chance at the new "gag."

The story acted as a boomerang to a Daily Press reporter who made a call in the ordinary way last night. For some reason the transmitter clogged a bit and the number evidently sounded a bit faint. The smart young miss who took the call was sure she had an experimenter on the wire and she exclaimed in a decidedly sassy voice:

"Say, quit talking through your chest or your won't get any party."

The reporter indignantly denied that he was talking through his chest, his left lung or his hat but a sniff was all he received in reply. A second attempt brought no better success and he was about to hurry to the East Fourth street building and annihilate the offending young woman when the offending transmitter cleared itself.

"Now, that's more like it," said Miss Freshie in a 'you-can't-fool-me" tone of voice; "if you'd a-talked like that before you'd-a-had your call an hour ago."

One of last night's experimenters called up his wife on the telephone.

"How are you? It's Jim," he said, through his chest.

The wife, whom he hadn't called up in at least three years except to say that he would be home for dinner, was surprised and pleased till her husband's next remark spoiled the effect.

"I am talking through my chest," he said.

"What do you mean?"

"Now I am talking through my head."

"Jim—"

"And now I am talking through my foot."

"Jim," she said, "have you been drinking?"

Then he told her about the article in The Press, but she wouldn't listen to more.

"I shall smell your breath when you come home tonight," she said, and rang off.

In some pay stations the attendants didn't understand at first what had come over people. In the Iroquois Hotel a man came out of the bar and entered a booth. A few moments later a page went to the clerk's desk with the information:

"You'd better call a policeman. There's a man drunk or crazy in the booth."

In such cases, explanations, if backed with copies of The Press, were accepted.

"Hello, girlie; I'm talking to you through my chest," said one man at a drug store instrument.

"Number, please," said the girl, witheringly.

He hesitated.

"Aw, go and talk through your chest some more," she told him, and then cut him off.

At last the "Central" girls became convinced that there really was something in it. One or two of them experimented and told the others. But after a time the subject became tiresome. So the remark of the subscriber that he was talking through his foot or head was answered with:

"Aw, that's an old one. Did you just get on to it?"

Callaway's Case Adjourned.

At the session of Justice of the Peace Clark Mundy's court held at borough police headquarters last night, William G. DeMeza, Esq., counsel for William Callaway, whose father and brothers have preferred charges of disorderly conduct against him for brutality at the Callaway home Saturday night, asked for a postponement of the case. He furnished $50 bonds for his client and the case was adjourned until the evening of Devember 9.

MERCHANTS' THREATS BRING GOOD RESULTS

Business Men's Committee Serve Notice that they Will Act Promptly Unless Relief is Afforded.

WAIT ON STREET COMMISSIONER

Aggravated by the needless delay in street improvement work, especially the part being performed by the Public Service Corporation on West Front street, between Somerset street and Madison avenue, a committee comprising A. E. Force, proprietor of "The White Store," U. B. Crane and T. P. Kolb, waited on City Engineer Gavett this morning and made a determined protest that will probably bring results.

Acting as its spokesman, Mr. Force declared to Mr. Gavett that unless the dirt and brick were removed from in front of their places of business tomorrow morning and unless the work is started by 9 o'clock in the morning, horses and carts will be employed to throw the obstructions over the trolley rails and the brick into the street. Mr. Gavett said that he did not blame the merchants for threatening to throw the dirt into the streets, but he advised them to leave the brick alone as they would be taken care of by the city or by Contractor Meeker under his orders.

"I never have witnessed such delay in street work in all my life," declared Mr. Force. "It is now six weeks since a pile of brick was placed in front of my store, completely hiding from view my show windows and I am thoroughly sick and disgusted with the whole procedure. I remarked at a recent Board of Trade meeting that the streets would be torn up all winter and interfere with holiday trade, but others said that the improvements would be completed before that time. It now looks as though my words would come true.

"Why, during the past three weeks my store was repeatedly shut off from an electric current for lighting purposes and after many efforts to ascertain the cause from local officials and failing, I wrote to President McCarter, of the P. S. C., stating my complaint and informing him that unless I was given relief at once I would install an independent lighting system in my store and would do all in my power to have my friends do likewise. This brought a quick reply and an immediate remedy, which, I understand, has resulted in a complete change in the local lighting department of the company.

"Now I don't propose to have the Public Service Corporation interfere with my business," continued Mr. Force, "by blocking up the street with dirt and allowing it to remain there for a number of weeks. I think that the city engineer should have authority to do this work and charge it up to the company provided there was unneccesary delay."

The sentiments expressed by Mr. Force were concurred in by Mr. Crane and Mr. Kolb, and all agreed that strenuous measures must be adopted to relieve the present undesirable conditions of affairs. At the suggestion of Mr. Force, Mr. Gavett called Roadmaster Gordon, of the P. S. C., on the telephone and explained to him that a committee had waited upon him and he promised to have the dirt removed from West Front street tomorrow morning without fail. He explained that on account of the bad weather today the gang of laborers had gone home and would not be available for the rest of the day.

While the committee was discussing matters with Mr. Gavett, J. Fred MacDonald walked into the office and added his word of complaint for the wretched condition at East Front street and Watchung avenue, which he said had been allowed for six weeks.

In explaining the condition later Mr. Gavett said that the present state of affairs showed conclusively the wisdom of action on the part of the Common Council. He said that no street or sewer work of any size should be contracted for after a certain time of the year which would permit its being completed before bad weather arrives. He hoped that when the new Common Council takes office that special attention would be devoted to this department of the city work.

"There was delay from the very start in the matter of the brick pavement," said Mr. Gavett, "and it has naturally proceeded slowly owing to one thing holding up another. Or-

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

FOOTBALL.

It is reported on excellent authority that Princeton and Harvard will renew athletic relations next year and that the elevens representing the two institutions will meet next fall. Bill Roper, chief coach of Princeton's football team this season, has been coaching the Harvard eleven, giving it the benefit of the Tigers' experience against Yale last week. That the chief coach of a Princeton team should coach a Harvard team the day before its game with Yale is considered conclusive proof.

Harvard men are elated over it, and Yale men, while commenting freely on the incident and discussing it from every point of view, are not prone to criticise Roper, although they characterized it as being "most unusual and extraordinary."

An annual football game between Princeton and Harvard would be looked upon most favorably by football men throughout the East. It has been long felt that Yale was at a disadvantage in having to meet both Princeton and Harvard. With this game added each of the so-called "big three" would play two championship matches each year.

Athletic relations between Princeton and Harvard so far as football goes were severed in 1896. Princeton won that year by the score of 12 to 0. Since then the two teams have not met.

In 190 Harvard decided not to meet the University of Pennsylvania on the gridiron. Since then the Crimson has wanted another championship match on her schedule. Princeton has not been statisfied with Cornell as a substitute for Harvard, and there is a possibility of her dropping the Ithacans from her schedule if she plays Harvard.

The football team of the Dr. Holbrook school closed its season on Thursday by defeating Mohegan Lake school, 53 to 0. This has been Holbrook's most successful season in football. Out of six games scheduled with schools along the Hudson river not one has been lost. Holbrook has made a total of 85 points to her opponents' 0. This does not include the victory of 17 to 0 over Taft's school, Watertown, Conn. The team broke training with a dinner at Briarcliff's Lodge, given by D. B. Plume.

It is said that the reason Capt. Lubo, of the Indians, was put out of the Pennsylvania game by Umpire "Bill" Edwards was that he used a word which that official considered a criticism of his efficiency. Lubo declares that he never loved an umpire more than Edwards and that his outburst was due to a Quaker swinging his closed hand in such a manner that Lubo felt his nose protruding through the back of his skull. Carlisle's leader is a Mission Indian and can speak Missionese but his progress in recherche English has reached that stage usual to foreigners who quickly acquire certain Americanisms.

Even in the first feeling of satisfaction at having made a worthy fight against the champion Yale team more than one Harvard man asked himself why a team that could play as well as that could not have done better all season, why men who could put up such a stiff fight and show so much native football ability could not have been developed into a champion. The answer is up to the coaching system. Those who saw Harvard play the Indians recognize the fact that there was excellent material there in the raw. It looked so raw then that it did not seem at all likely that it would be whipped into shape to make any sort of a showing against Yale; but it was material that was capable of much better football than it showed, and had its full ability been realized on it would have had a more successful season.

The coaching Harvard received in the final week or two weeks did accomplish a good deal and is entitled to some credit for the brace. The excellent individual work of the men themselves, their unfaltering mental and physical efforts right up to the last moment were what accounted for the valiant game put up once they were on the field. Yale had these things too, and the brave fight made by the Harvard men was not sufficient to stand off eleven men who also were resolute and who had been drilled into a powerful team by masterly coaching based on more football knowledge than is possessed elsewhere. So Harvard again was beaten, but not disgraced. That's the way to be beaten if you have to be beaten, but it is more agreeable to be victorious and not disgraced.

There are plenty of sound principles in Harvard football instruction, in the organization of the attack, in the way the individuals play their positions. That is shown by the way the Harvard attack makes headway through Yale—whose defense is the best in the country—and by the way the Harvard defence puts the Yale defence to a severe test. Yet generally the finality to bring about results is missing—that supremeness or finish or whatever it may be that is needed to change defeats to victories. When this quality of completeness is had at Harvard it is had in impressive quantity, as witness the superb teams turned out at Cambridge in 1898 and 1901. Those two teams scored heavily, the only Harvard teams that have scored on Yale since 1894. Incidentally, not since 1894—thirteen years ago—have both Harvard and Yale scored in one of their battles.

GOLF.

The Country Club of Lakewood open tournament on Thursday, Friday and Saturday will wind up the competitive season in the East. On Saturday in the final for the club championship, Layton de Forest did 76 and Curtis 77, the former winning by 1 up. The record is 74, held by Wylie Carhart and the professionals Will Norton and Will Smith. De Forest and Curtis had a remarkable match. They were even at the seventh hole, but de Forest was 1 up at the turn. Two down at the eleventh, a 3 at the thirteenth left Curtis but one to the bad and he squared the match on the seventeenth. A par 4 saved the title for de Forest on the home green.

There will be contests at Baltusrol, Montclair, St. Andrews, Dyker Meadow, Fox Hills, Englewood, Nassau and the Richmond County Country Club on Thanksgiving Day, and with a clear sky the golf balls will be flying on all sides. The entries for the Lakewood tournament close on Wednesday evening with Sherman de Forest, and the players will include some from Boston, Philadelphia and Atlantic City.

The British advertising men are forming a golf association under the presidency of Frank Newnes, M. P. The enterprise of the American league in the interest of the game makes imminent an international golf match as soon as the Englishmen are ready.

Jack Kirkaldy, who was almost as prominent in British golf as his brothers, Hugh and Andrew, died of pneumonia on November 10 at St. Andrews. He was more noted as a coach than a player, although Jack was third for the open championship of 1882 at St. Andrews, and had twice holed the old course in 73, with a record of 73 for the new course. A few years ago he gave lessons to King Edward when engaged in laying out the golf course at Windsor Castle.

John Ball, the British amateur champion, is retaining the game that enabled him to win the title for the sixth time after a period of desuetude last May at St. Andrews. On November 9 he gained the record of 70 at the Lytham and St. Anne's course, the previous mark having been Arnaud Massy's 71.

It has been figured out that something like 4,000 golfers took part in the regular open tournaments in New England during the season of 1907. This does not include tournaments held in Connecticut nor in the mountains. Club competitions for members and friends are of course omitted.

Richard Kimball had low medal score in seven tournaments, and he played Woodland in 74, Brae Burn in 74 and Myopia in 83. The latter score was made during the invitation tournament which was won by Jerome D. Travers, the national champion. With hardly an exception for the last three years no player has won two tournaments during the season with his handicap.

THE CRISIS—ITS LESSON.

Since the panic began on October 16, forty-five banks have been the victims of "runs," and ten of this number have been New York institutions. Only three men have been indicted for responsibility but eighteen deaths have resulted from either suicide or business worry. Altogether seventy-one houses have suspended payment, wholly or in part, fifty-four of which are located right in New York. In less than three weeks, more than $600,000,000 has been withdrawn from banks all over the country because people have been scared as a result of exposures of piratical bank officials principally in New York.

The resulting hard times has caused over 125 factories to close up to say nothing of hundreds of others which have been compelled to reduce their forces. This has thrown out less than 150,000 men out of employment, bringing untold suffering. The total amount of failures represents little less than $30,000,000.

The cause of all this trouble can be laid up against a few "financiers," men who occupy positions of trust and use the funds criminally for their own selfish and unlawful benefit. The fact is that people are too prone to deposit with institutions, whose officials they know nothing about, all their hard savings. Right here in Plainfield there are those who put their money away in New York banks rather than entrust it to sound and wisely administered banking houses whose officials are irreproachable men of the highest integrity. Is it not time that some of these Plainfielders transfer their accounts to local institutions where they know the funds will be safe?

OUR BANKERS.

One more banker has been added to the list of public servants, J. Herbert Case having been chosen to fill the vacancy on the North Plainfield Board of Education caused by the election of Samuel R. Townsend, another banker, to the borough mayoralty. When Mr. Townsend takes the reins of office again, the two municipalities will bot have bankers as their chief officers, Mayor Charles J. Fisk being an eminent representative of that profession. There has seldom been a Common Council in Plainfield in recent years in which a banker has not been a member. George P. Mellick is a city father at the present time and William F. Arnold has long been the city treasurer. Among those in the past who have helped Plainfield run its government, probable the most notable of that profession is Alexander Gilbert, who is prominent in the public eye today as the president of the New York Clearing House Association.

If ever there was justice behind a complaint, it was found in the protest made by West Front street merchants this morning against the delay in finishing up the improvements on that thoroughfare. Were the merchants along that section to carry out their threat to pitch the brick blocks and dirt into the street, there could be no ground for complaint. It is no small wonder that some of the business men have not resorted to the law before this for relief.

The Board of Health proposes to compel dairymen to put the milk up in bottles. The way prices are going, however, it may not be long before silver pitchers with lock and key will be in general use.

Mr. Taft is a wise man. Few mortals in a free land know how to get Uncle Sam to bear their campaign expenses.

APPROVE DR. HERRING'S VOTING MACHINE IDEAS

In support of the declaration by Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring, of the First Presbyterian church, Sunday night, against the voting machine, James E. Martine has written a letter to the divine, commending him for the stand taken. Mr. Martine's letter is as follows:

"Rev. Dr. Charles E. Herring:

"My Dear Sir—As an American citizen and voter in New Jersey I write to thank you for the position you have taken and words expressed by you in your sermon last night against the voting machine. Such efforts must result in good, through maintaining the dignity of manhood suffrage. The contrivances are only valuable to a 'lobby' and the owners, a greedy corporation. They do not conduce to honest nor independent voting. A thousand thanks.

"Your friend,

"JAMES E. MARTINE."

The Newark Morning Star in commenting on Dr. Herring's words said today:

"That worthy pastor, the Rev. Dr. Charles E. Herring, of Plainfield, has views on the subject of the voting machine that correspond exactly with the views of thousands of professional and business men in the State, and who do not, as has been publicly asserted by Secretary of State Dickinson's malapert Assistant Secretary, J. B. R. Smith, belong to the criminal classes. Mr. Herring expressed his views in these words in a sermon last Sunday night. He said: 'I love the old ballot, where a man can see his vote inside the box, and am pleased at the prospect of dispensing with our wonderful trick cabinets, where a man pulls a bar and hears a bell ring. We need no machine voting, but conscientious, intelligent voting; intelligent in that a man will not ignorantly vote for a man that does not represent him because he is one of the candidates of his party and always votes a astraight ticket.' Mr. Herring points out only one of the defects of machine voting while asserting the right of the voter to handle his ballot and place it in the ballot-box is the way that American citizens have voted ever since the establishment of the government. The petty argument in favor of machine voting which its few supporters have made has no force against the simple reasons offered by the Plainfield pastor."

ders have been given by the street committee to make no further excavation of the streets until it is seen what kind of weather is to follow. The parts of the streets where the concrete foundation has been laid between the trolley tracks will be paved with brick and the remaining parts left as at present, unless there should be an especially good spell of weather."

At 1 o'clock this afternoon the trolley company began the work of removing the dirt from West Front street, a small gang of laborers being engaged to load it on one of the company's big cars. The work of brick paving on Watchung avenue was also resumed this afternoon, four pavers being employed there.

KUSER MADE CHIEF OF GAME COMMISSION.

Benedict C. Kuser was yesterday made president of the new Fish and Game Commission, and Walter H. Fell, of Trenton, was named secretary. The salary of the secretary was not made public, but it is understood that it will be $1,200 a year.

Benjamin P. Morris, of Monmouth county, president of the old commission that was legislated out of office because of the disclosures of the Hahn committee, was there and turned over the books of the old commission.

Members of the commission commenced housecleaning yesterday by ordering Louis E. Foulks, of Ocean county; Charles Ross, of Cape May; H. L. Cook, Mercer, and A. W. Hughes, Passaic, to surrender their badges as game wardens and quit the force. Game Protector James M. Stratton, of Long Branch, was retained.

The new commission will recommend these changes in the law: Licenses for resident and non-resident gunners; no spring shooting; no sale of game; woodcock shooting from November 1 in south Jersey, from October 1 in north Jersey; bass fishing to open June 15; no nets, save for minnows; no fish nets or eel weirs and no pound nets within one mile of coast.

The other members of the commission there were: Simeon H. Rollison, of West Orange; William A. Logue, of Bridgeton; Percival H. Chrystie, of High Bridge, and James M. Stratton, game protector under the old board.

Tries to Slay Family With Penknife.

John Steiner, thirty-eight years old, of No. 35 Kent street, Newark, became suddenly insane in his home early yesterday morning, and with a penknife attempted to slay the members of his family as they lay sleeping. All made their escape except his sister-in-law, Mrs. Ignatz Lawrence, and her husband. Steiner brought the knife down on the woman's shoulder. Lawrence was stabbed in the neck. A policeman called by the family found Steiner lying face down in a pool of blood, with his throat cut. The madman was taken to a hospital and a doctor dressed the injuries of his victims.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

An enjoyable evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Pyatt, on Clinton avenue, when they celebrated the twentieth anniversary of their wedding. The assembled guests partook of an elegantly prepared repast, and the young folks were entertained with games and other amusements. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Gray, of Metuchen; Rev. and Mrs. Attlee, of South Plainfield; Mrs. Edward Gray, Misses Clara and Emma Gray, of Dunellen; Mrs. Conger, Mrs. William Clauson, Mrs. Mary N. Pyatt, Mrs. M. E. Sturges, Mrs. H. Mullison, Mrs. Mary Hall, Raymond Payne and Mrs. Mary Thecksten, of Clinton avenue; Robin Horn, of South Plainfield.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Voorhees, of Brooklyn, have just returned from a day's visit with Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Thorne, of Plainfield avenue.

On account of the stormy night there was no service in the South Plainfield Baptist church Sunday night.

DUNELLEN.

After the excellent showing made by the local eleven against the Oreoles two weeks ago, the borough football enthusiasts feel that the team is in line for the county championship. This title is claimed by the Orange Y. M. C. A. eleven and Manager Gus Ayres is negotiating for a game with that team. The two elevens will probably meet at Elizabeth within two weeks sharing the expenses of an enclosed field there and dividing the receipts. Tyler and Manning, who are at present out of the game on account of injuries, are able to be about and possibly would be with the local team again for that game.

About fifty people were served at the annual Thanksgiving supper held last evening at the Seventh-Day Baptist church under the auspices of the ladies of the parish. In addition to this several meals were sent to those who were unable to be present. During the evening entertainment with reading and music was furnished by local talent.

At the meeting of Court Dunellen held last night the officers for the coming year were elected. At the conclusion of the business meeting a collation was served and the lodge men enjoyed in social hour with informal speeches by the newly-elected officers.

Thanksgiving afternoon the local eleven will play a picked team from the Somerville A. C. at Somerville. The present enthusiasm over the team's playing makes it probable that a good-sized party of fans will accompany the team.

Rev. E. L. Dunphy, of St. John's Roman Catholic church, conducted the funeral service of Israel Goddu at his late home yesterday morning. The interment was in St. Mary's cemetery, Plainfield.

G. Summer Smith, for many years owner of "The Ellsworth" boarding house on Grove street, has recently sold it to the former owners, the Birbeck ompany, of New York.

A rehearsal for the entertainment to be given by the G. E. Club was held last night at the home of Mrs. William Ackerman, of New Market.

The ladies of the First Baptist church will hold a bread, cake and pie sale in the lecture room of the church tomorrow afternoon.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

A number of little friends of Miss Anna Muff tendered her a surprise party last night at her home on Front street, the hours being from 7:30 until 11. The little hostess and her guests enjoyed a pleasant evening playing games and enjoying music and refreshments.

No special Thanksgiving exercises will be held at the Public School tomorrow, the program only consisting of reading the President's proclamation and the singing of songs appropriate to the day.

Because of the stormy weather, Twilight Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., did not have its service at the Methodist church Sunday. It was put over until Sunday night, December 8.

Mrs. Rose Thomae and daughter, Miss Rose, have returned from an European trip of several months, during which time they visited many of the points of interest abroad.

Miss Nancy Wade has returned to her home at Milburn, after a visit of several days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Abram Wade, of Stanbery avenue.

Thanksgiving service will be held in the Baptist church Thursday morning at 10:45. Rev. T. Moore-Smith will preach a special sermon.

Benjamin Elliott has entered some of his prize winning poultry stock in the White Plains (N. Y.) Poultry Show, which opens today.

The special meetings being held in the Methodist church will be continued this week, service being held every night.

Mrs. Charles Frentz and son, Carl, of Boston, are spending two weeks with relatives and friends in town.

STATE MILITARY BOARD AND THE NEW DICK LAW.

First Regiment affairs were among the principal topics discussed at the meeting of the State Military Board held at Trenton Friday. The meeting was for the purpose of rearranging the division, brigade and regimental staffs in accordance with the Dick law, which requires the State militia to be organized on the same lines as the United States army.

To comply strictly with all the requirements at once it was found it would be rather difficult, and it was decided to have Adjutant-General Brientnall and General Howard, of the division staff, go to Washington and endeavor to obtain the consent of the War Department to a modified plan of reorganization.

It was only in an informal way that the First Regiment matters were referred to, when General Campbell, in whose brigade the regiment is located, and Colonel Freeman, its commandant, declared that some of the published reports concerning the recent election of a major were without foundation.

Captain Arthur MacKie, the successful aspirant, it was declared, was chosen at an informal election in accordance with the custom of the regiment, and later formally elected. The refusal to receive other names at the formal election, it was agreed, was not warranted by law, but no official protest against such action was submitted by any member of the regimental board.

As for the allegation of discrimination on account of religious belief in the selection of officers, General Campbell declared that when chosen colonel of the regiment in 1880 he issued an order forbidding even religious or political discrimination in the armory. So far as he knew that rule had never been violated. Unless a formal complaint is made no action will be taken by the military board.

Wanted to Shoot Someone.

Mt. Holly, Nov. 26.—An Italian, about 35 years old, created a scare here last night, and amid much excitement was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Fleetwood. He tried in vain to buy a pistol at the hardware and other stores, stating that he was going to kill someone. When searched at the jail some money and a razor were found on him.

Almost Killed by Coal Gas.

Mountainville, Nov. 26.—Former Postmaster Joseph C. Farley, 65 years old, narrowly escaped asphyxiation at his home here Sunday night by coal gas from the parlor stove, which had recently been set up. When stored for the summer paper was placed inside the pipes to keep them from rusting and had not been removed.

GOVERNOR-ELECT TO VISIT THE EXPOSITION

Governor-elect John Franklin Fort left for the Jamestown Exposition last night. Colonel Lewis T. Bryant, Commissioner of Labor and head of the New Jersey commission for the fair that commemorates the settlement of English colonists in Virginia, will, so far as can be learned, be the only companion of the next Governor.

The stay of Mr. Fort will be but brief. He expects to be back in Newark by Thursday. Next Monday he will start South on his annual hunting trip. In accordance with his custom he will go to North Carolina, according to present plans.

The hunting trip has been planned for the purpose of getting absolute change and recreation before getting down to the hard work that will be the portion of the Governor-to-be from the time he begins the preparation of his inaugural address and message to the Legislature.

No public announcement of policies or appointments is to be made before Mr. Fort formally assumes the reins of government, as was stated in the first interview to which he submitted after election. That does not cover the statement of who is to serve him as secretary and who will be executive clerk. It is probable that the names of the men who will be selected for those positions will be made public within a few days.

The Governor-elect has been forced through pressure of business to give up the Jamestown trip to the present time. Twice arrangements have been made for a visit with him as the guest of honor, but he has been prevented from going.

Mr. Fort said last night that he was very desirous of paying the Exposition at least a flying visit, and as this is the last week of it, he has arranged to break away and catch a night train with Colonel Bryant.

Speaking of statements that have been published to the effect that he "would reappoint" the members of the State judiciary whose terms expire next year, Mr. Fort said last night that anything said on that subject could not be based on anything that he had said publicly or otherwise. It was wholly gratuitous, he averred.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

"Why Girls Leave Home" has often been alluded to as the most wonderful play of the age, and in most respects it is true. It has lived and flourished through four years of opinions so widely differing that one can scarcely comprehend its success. It has mae thousands of people better for having seen it, made them laugh and cry, and then go home and think. It has turned hundreds away when other plays have been presented to empty seats. It has come back year after year and repeated its former success. You will have an opportunity of seeing it at the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow night, when a first-class company will present it with proper scenic equipment, at popular prices.

A powerful melodrama abounding in startling sensations, beautiful scenery and a strong acting company, constitute the main characteristics of "The Convict's Daughter," which will be at the New Plainfield theatre Thanksgiving Day, matinee and night. The author has made the central figure that of a tramp—an escaped convict—innocent but unjustly sentenced for another man's crime, that of murder. He finally escapes from prison and becomes a tramp, or "Weary Willie" as he is now termed. Col. Gould's confidential bookkeeper, who is a villain at heart, discovers his identity and by threatening to send him back to prison, compels him to become an unwilling accomplice to his villainous scheme of winning the hand, or ruining Col. Gould's beautiful adopted daughter.

Melodramas of the better type are growing in favor. This is proven by the record-breaking attendance given "The Original Cohen" in other cities. There is much snap and jingle, many laughs, tender heart interest, specialties and musical numbers. Scenically few productions are as well equipped. The attraction comes to the New Plainfield theatre Saturday, afternoon and night, under the management of the Rowland and Clifford Amusement Co.

Theatre-goers of this city will have the opportunity to see Lillian Russell in her new racing comedy, "Wildfire," by George Broadhurst and George V. Hobart, at the New Plainfield theatre next Monday night. The play made a good impression in the cities of the Middle West and is coming East to begin a run at the Criterion theatre in New York city. Miss Russell has one of the best parts she has ever essayed. As a comedienne she promises to be even more popular than she ever was as a prima donna. In "Wildfire" she plays the role of a young widow who owns a racing stable which she has to run secretly under the name of John Duffy. A bookmaker tries to have her horse beaten in a big race, but with womanly strategy she foils him. Mr. Joseph Brooks has surrounded Miss Russel with an excellent company.

Corporation Notice

Notice is hereby given that the following Ordinance has been introduced before the Common Council, read the second time and ordered engrossed preparatory to its third reading, and that it is the intention of the Council to adopt the same.

J. T. MacMURRAY, City Clerk.
Plainfield, N. J., November 18, 1907.

A Supplement to An Ordinance Entitled "An Ordinance Relating to the Construction of Buildings," Approved Jan. 3, 1906, as amended.

WHEREAS, The practice of annexing to combustible frame buildings in the thickly built-up section of the City, brick, stone or other additions extending from such buildings to or toward any of the streets bounding the lots on which such buildings stand is in the judgment of the Common Council likely to increase the risk from fire in this, that such additions make it more difficult for the fire department or others to gain direct access to the combustible portions of such buildings in case of fire:

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That no addition to any frame building within the fire limits of the City of Plainfield specified in the ordinance to which this is a supplement, which addition shall extend from the present front, rear or either side of such building to or toward any street which bounds the lot on which such building stands shall be built, made or allowed in any case in which any part of the front wall or rear wall or either side wall of such frame building shall be within three feet of any other building.

CHAPTER I.
The Tragedy.

My feet touched the narrow ledge. I was safe. But Willoughby? Brave Willoughby?

I tried to call to him. No sound came from my lips. I was too exhausted. The last atom of strength was spent. For the moment I was paralyzed—body and mind. I could only lean helpless against the mountainside, gasping for breath. And almost immediately Willoughby's voice came, quite cheerfully, quite steadily:

"All right? Bully for you. Look out, here's the rope. Now if I have decent luck, be ready to bear a hand."

Again I tried to cry out, to warn him. If he would wait five minutes, three minutes, one minute, I might be myself again. Still no sound came from my frozen lips.

The rope fluttered over the overhang. It struck the icy ledge of the jutting rock to which I clung. Then slowly it fell over until it swayed loosely in the wind, still suspended from my body.

I did not attempt to draw it in. I was too exhausted for an exertion so slight as that. It swayed gently to and fro, and it seemed to me that presently an unseen force would grasp it and pull me headlong to destruction to the glacier below. In the meanwhile Willoughby was started.

Now I dared not cry out. I could only look up and wait, still struggling fiercely for my breath. But if I had been too exhausted to warn him, to unfasten that rope from my waist, how was I to give him the assistance he would surely need presently?

A stone fell, and then another, as he fought for a foothold. I could hear him breathing deeply, though as yet I could not see him. I stood rigid, looking upward, a prey to such fears, to such terrors as no man can imagine.

Now he came slowly into sight, his feet feeling with infinite caution. The difficulties of the descent were appalling. Even for me, supported by the rope held by Willoughby from above, they had been all but impossible. Willoughby was no amateur; but without assistance—no, I could not hope to save him. It must be death for us both. But, and this was the agonizing thought, when the crisis came, would the awful stimulus release my imprisoned will? Or would horror still hold me?

And still he came. I could almost touch him now. He was actually near me—and then, what I had feared, what I had known must happen, did happen. His feet lost their foothold. He was hanging by his arms over the ragged, blue-green glacier that yawned to receive him a thousand feet below.

A moment he struggled frantically. Then he hung absolutely still.

"Can you reach me?" he panted. "Brace yourself and reach me if you can. But be quick."

I did not move. I was not afraid to die with him, though the world has refused to believe me. I did not move because I could not. Horror for the moment bereft me of my very reason to think and act. My will was frozen. My brain was numb.

Then the nightmare passed. Suddenly I was calm. I took in a deep breath. I braced myself against the grim cliff for the shock as he should fall into my outstretched arms.

But at that instant Willoughby quietly loosened his hold—even while I gathered all my poor strength for that last fight; and before he perished he cried one word, without passion, without despair:

"Coward!"

His body brushed my own as it fell. I heard it strike brutally the glacier below. Then there was stillness.

He was dead, and I lived.

The stillness was awful—and a solitude still more awful—vast, savage, and frozen, and always the whiteness of the eternal snows. And then darkness came.

Hours later guides found me still lying there. I saw them scrambling toward me. I gazed at them stupidly, indifferently. When they called I did not answer. They bore me back to the Alpine village we had left the day before. There were black nights of delirium. And in my delirium I cried:

"I might have saved him. I am a murderer. He died cursing me as a coward."

And so they judged me. When I was convalescent and crawled into the sunshine again, it was too late to make excuses even if I wished. People had already passed sentence.

No one spoke to me. I was looked at askance. If any pitied, it was a pity tempered with scorn. More than once a kodak was snapped in my face. I was a curiosity. I was a coward.

CHAPTER II.
The Beacon Light.

To return to America, to work; to forget if possible—that was the feverish impulse that dominated me now. And yet I lingered a week at Grindelwald. It was Quixotic, perhaps, but at least I refused to run away.

It was not a pleasant week. If I walked up the village street the guides, loafing about at the corners, nudged each other and indulged in brutal jests at my expense. In their stupid, if honest, eyes I had committed the unpardonable sin. I had failed a fellow-climber at a moment of peril. They delighted to buttonhole the tourists—to make me still more notorious by reciting to them the story of my disgrace. I was completely ostracized. No one took the trouble of asking if the blame were wholly my own. I was labeled the coward. That was the end of it.

But when I had lived through the interminable seven days, each marked with an insult, I packed my things, vaguely hopeful after all. I was going home. I was going to America, and America is a long distance from Grindelwald. It was unlikely, I tried to persuade myself, that the story and the kodaks would follow me there. But if so, at least my fellow-townsmen would give me the benefit of the doubt. For once there had been a fire and a panic in the theater, and I had been lucky enough to help a little. So, if the story reached them, they would listen before they condemned.

When my luggage was placed on the roof of the omnibus, and I was already seated inside, the proprietor of the hotel, who had hitherto held himself discreetly aloof, deigned to wish me good-by.

"Adieu, Mr. Haddon. It will not give you pleasure to remember my hotel, I am afraid," he said with a mournful diffidence.

"That would be too much to expect," I answered, cynically amused at his embarrassment.

He hesitated a moment, one foot on the steps of the omnibus.

"Mr. Haddon, may I say that I have sympathy for you? Do not let the little accidents spoil your life. None of us are always brave. And certainly there is a courage of the spirit as well as of the body. The world condemns hastily, but it will doubt its verdict if you refuse to accept it. And you go now?"

"To America," I replied grimly, "where at present there is no verdict."

"But not at once?"

"Why not?" I asked in surprise.

"It is your affair of course, monsieur, but at least"—he was seeking a pretentious expression of sympathy, but he ended lamely—"but at least do not let this simple affair spoil your digestion."

"Perhaps I shall linger a day or two at Lucerne," I said good-naturedly.

"Ah, yes," he nodded in approval, "monsieur will retreat slowly."

And so I came to Lucerne instead of sailing immediately to America as I had intended. It was not exactly bravado that sent me there to meet the scorn and sneers of those who may have heard of my disgrace. It was the sympathy of the little innkeeper.

When I arrived, Lucerne was en fete. The Schweizerhof was crowded. But in the restaurant I was not recognized. I began to hope that I might not be. In the writing-room, however, a London weekly advertised to the world the story of my disgrace; and one of those cursed kodaks adorned the first page. It was only a question of hours before I should be known. I walked out on the terrace for coffee, profoundly discouraged.

The terrace, screened by bay-trees and cedars from the broad road that ran along the lake, swarmed with the people who came to Switzerland, not to see but to be seen. They were chattering in every tongue in Europe. I stood in full view of everyone until a waiter beckoned to me; for there were few tables unoccupied.

From the railway station to the Hotel Nationale the quay was ablaze with the flare of multicolored lights. Placed in screenlike receptacles at intervals against the facades of the great hotels, the white monotony of outline was transformed into a fairy fabric of blue and green and red. The black masses of the people at the windows and balconies, eager to see the procession of the lake, were thrown into garish relief. Beneath the double rows of chestnut trees flowed a boisterous stream of Swiss peasants, arm in arm, shouting and singing as they marched, and a more sedate crowd of townsfolk and curious tourists.

The lake was a conventional scene of gaudy brilliancy. A procession of floats was passing as I took my seat, each float distinctive of some incident of Swiss life or of Swiss history and glory.

I looked out on this stereotyped scene of gayety with a resolute show of interest. I was determined not to let the incident of the photograph ruin my digestion, as the little innkeeper had said. Perhaps it was my morbid fancy, but already I though people were regarding me curiously. And then I was sure I heard my name spoken by a woman. I refused to look around. I smoked my cigar deliberately, looking out toward the lake.

Suddenly from the Rigi mountain, far off on the left, a dot of light pierced the black gloom. Another and another quivered, until there was a double row of them burning some distance down the mountainside. Then on the right, on austere giant Pilatus, its shaggy head crowned with stars, other lights blazed. And then, very far off, up in the silence of the snows, one solitary beacon light shone like a star, steadily and alone. This little light comforted me, though it glowed from the very region of the tragedy. I liked to think it an emblem of hope. Out of the gloom and despair it burned steadily. It gave me a sort of courage.

My elbow was jogged, and not with deference.

"Pardon, but this seat is reserved."

It was a waiter who spoke, and he was insolent. But I answered quietly:

"I was given this place by another waiter. There was no placard on the table nor were the chairs turned up. Why do you say it is reserved?"

As I asked this question I glanced over my shoulder to see for whom the man was demanding my place.

On the steps leading to the terrace from the dining room stood two ladies. One of them was a handsome, distinguished woman well passed middle age, and saying that of her, one has said everything.

Of the other, one might say everything, and yet feel that one had said nothing. It was not the air of proud distinction that arrested my gaze, for she shared that quality with the other. It was not that she was merely young and beautiful. Other women are young and beautiful. It was rather that there breathed from the quiet presence of this woman a noble serenity and calm that is as adorable as it is rare. The assured, direct look of her eyes was truth itself. She had not seen me. She looked beyond the lake—at the solitary little beacon light that had comforted me only a moment ago.

I gave up my seat at once, of course. I walked slowly to the end of the terrace, and took a less desirable place.

I refused to allow myself to be interested in these people. And yet I was strangely interested in them. It was as if I were waiting. When my elbow was again touched, I felt no surprise. It was the waiter who had spoken to me a moment before.

"Pardon—the ladies who took your seat—"

I turned abruptly.

The younger of the two women had risen. She stood at the table, leaning forward slightly, her expression at once startled and eager. To my astonishment she was smiling at me radiantly, a smile of charming surprise and welcome. But as I stared at her stupidly, the smile was succeeded by an expression of dismay. She addressed the elder woman in an agitated whisper. Her lips were parted in sheer wonder.

Wonder held me spellbound as well as they. I turned vaguely to the waiter. He had already left my side, summoned imperiously, no doubt, by the ladies who had certainly mistaken me for another.

I had half risen. Now I seated myself again, and every nerve tingled with excitement. The adventure was not yet ended; I was sure of it. And I welcomed the diversion, even though pain and humiliation were to be its price. I had come to Lucerne on a momentary impulse, so I thought. What if fate had guided that impulse?

For the third time the waiter spoke to me. I looked up at him calmly; I had known he would come.

"The ladies wish to speak to monsieur, if monsieur is at liberty."

The summons had come, as I knew that it would. I drew in a deep breath. My heart was beating fast, though outwardly I was calm enough. I turned; I advanced toward them.

MANY IMPROVEMENTS AT THE STATE HOSPITAL.

Since Dr. Henry A. Cotton has taken charge at the State Hospital for the Insane at Trenton as medical director restraint has been removed from seventy-five per cent. of the patients formerly in strait jackets or other appliances of that sort. In the insane hospital at Danvers, Mass., from which Dr. Cotton came to Trenton, there are 1,300 patients, and there has been no restraint there for fifteen years. It is the intention of the new medical director to remove all restraints here as soon as possible, but the method cannot be put into effect fully now, because there are not a sufficient number of nurses to watch the patients in the wards.

Infirmaries are being established in the east and west wings and the annex near the dining-room. Into these will be placed the sick and feeble patients, with nurses on duty night and day, the same as in a hospital. This will remove from the wards patients who now require the most care.

When Dr. Cotton assumed charge as medical director he outlined his method to the doctors and attendants. He found that in one of the women's wards all restraint had been voluntarily removed by the nurse. He received co-operation from the doctors and attendants, but two of the latter left because of the new order of caring for the patients.

Another new feature is a morning meeting of the medical staff, at 8:30, at which every case is discussed. In this way each patient gets the benefit of every doctor's diagonsis and attention.

Samuel A. Atchley, the new warden, too, is making many improvements about the buildings.

A PUNISHMENT RECORD.

Mary Kelly and Minnie Roberts, two New York pickpockets, were sentenced to five and three years, respectively, in State prison.

Several saloonkeepers who took chances violating the Sunday excise law were fined $250 each and may lose their licenses by revocation.

Football and General Sports

BOWLING.

A series of three good games in the five-men tourney is on the tapis for tonight. The last two teams to make their entrance in the contest will clash—the Grants and the Roderick Dhus. Chief Kiely is the captain and mainstay of the Grants and he is backed up by Edward A. Laing, William Kiely, Dr. E. A. Giddes and Thomas McInerney. "Lucky Dutch" Meyer heads the Roderick Dhus and delegates that despite the handicapping name tacked to his aggregation it is surely going to "roll some." His team is made up of Harry Van Emburgh, Charles Ortleb, Tunis Vail and Fred Koller.

The Bismarcks, the only team in the tourney to take three straight games, will be on the alleys again Friday night. They will have a try at the Lafayettes, Louis Skelly's whirlwind shooters, who have been getting their arms in shape ever since the schedule was made up. Beside Louis, the Lafayettes comprise John Wirth, Tunis Hewitt, Fred Hillman and James Edwards. Captain Britton, of the Bismarcks, says "it's a shame to take the money."

The Armright bowlers, of this city, are in a fair way to claim the championship of Union county. They have swamped almost every aggregation they have had a try at and are willing to take on any or all comers. Their victories have been made at Westfield, Garwood, Rahway, Elizabeth and Summit and also Bound Brook and Somerville in Somerset county. Every man on the team is good for a double century at almost any time.

WISH TO RAISE $15,000 FOR LOCAL HOSPITAL

For the purpose of forming plans whereby subscriptions to the amount of $15,000 can be raised for the support of Muhlenberg Hospital without the usual method of holding carnivals, fairs, etc., a meeting of the Muhlenberg Hospital League was held at te Casino, last night. There were about twenty-five of the 300 members present and the proposition met with general approval. Charles J. Fisk presided as chairman and directed the discussion.

It was decided that under the circumstances it would be wise to give up the holding of carnivals, fais, etc., with the exception of the annual charity ball and the recepts from that affair will be divided among all the city charities. George A. Beaton was made chairman of the committee on solicitors and it was voted that the finance committee from the Board of Governors of the hospital should act in the same capacity for the league. Secretary W. R. Townsend was instructed to inform the committee of the action.

Subscriptions of any amount will be gratefully received and it is proposed to make a systematic canvas of the city and borough.

The ornament was a pearl and diamond circle, the gift of the groom. The matrons-of-honor were gowned in irredescent spangled robes over pale green silk and trimmed with green satin. They met the groom and best man at the altar, they having entered the edifice from the front, in company with the officiating minister, Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, pastor, who performed the ceremony. The wedding march from Mendelssohn was played as the party and guests left the church.

At the home of the bride's parents, where a reception followed, the decorations were very attractive. CALLS CHILDREN "FIENDS"

Netherwood Woman Flays Young Hopefuls of Neighbors in Her Complaint.

RECITES LONG LIST OF WOES.

Her Story Shows That All Is Not Harmony In One Section of the Fashionable District.

That the children of her next door neighbors are fiends, that she is the most abused and maligned woman in fashionable Netherwood and that the indignities she has undergone have given her attacks of sciatica and other nervous troubles, were part of a string of startling assertions that Mrs. Adelaide Caldwell, of Belvidere avenue, made before Judge Runyon in the city court this morning.

Compelled by five years of persecution, she said, she had restorted to the police to have life made a pleasure instead of a burden and enable her to continue living in the house that she bought and paid for and which is her own private "castle." She didn't wish to have her rich and fashionable neighbors in court, Mrs. Caldwell said, but she did want relief and she demanded that she be given it immediately or she would be in a state of collapse.

"It's all due to those children next door," she exclaimed to Judge Runyon and Chief Kiely, "as they are utterly out of the control of their parents and anyway the fathers and mothers countenance anything they do. It's terrible the way I have suffered. They have broken the windows in my home, they use my beautiful terrace for coasting in wagons and sleds, they sneak into my cellar to see what I have there and then tell the servants at their home so that they come over and offer to buy things that I have stored away, and when I say anything to the children they jeer and hoot at me. Why, Judge, honestly, the coachman of the family next to me shattered my stone steps by using them without permission."

When Judge Runyon ventured to ask if she was sure the coachman had "shattered" the steps she said he most assuredly had.

"My husband advised me to move away," she continued, "but that would give too much satisfaction to the parents. The whole trouble is due to pure maliciousness and something has surely got to be done or I will be a sick woman. My doctor says I shouldn't talk too much about this trouble as I have bronchial trouble and my throat will be affected."

When Chief Kiely ventured to ask if a certain "Mr." Blank's son had been one of her annoyers, Mrs. Caldwell exclaimed in withering tones:

"Charlie Blank's son is, yes. He's not entitled to the respectful address of "Mr." As far as I'm concerned it's plain Charlie Blank."

The recital of Mrs. Caldwell's troubles required a full half hour to hear and when she had rattled on for that length of time she said in conclusion:

"Well, I think I've talked enough but anyway I wouldn't have entered this court if a neighbor hadn't recommended Chief Kiely to me as being a most beautiful and accommodating man and I am entitled to protection."

Mrs. Caldwell was assured that she was right in surmising that she had talked enough and she was promised that the wheels of justice would be set in motion. Consequently if the young "fiends" continue their maliciousness, some wealthy Netherwood fathers and mothers may be lined up in the city court on her complaint.

DINNERS FOR POOR.

Congregational C. E. Society Provides Them.

Under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Congregational church a Thanksgiving entertainment was held in the church parlors last night. It afforded an opportunity for members of the society as well as the church to make donations for Thanksgiving dinners to be sent to a number of poor families. The donations of fruits, vegetables, etc., as well as money were liberal. The dinners will be distributed under the direction of James McClymont, Jr., president of the society.

During the evening an excellent entertainment was provided by Emil Closs, impersonator; William Spier, violinist; Robert Spier, pianist, and Miss Nora B. Schenck, soprano. The artists were well received, and the hour's entertainment was much enjoyed. The affair was in charge of the missionary committee of which Miss Bessie Millar is chairman.

Michael A. Hinton and his sister, Miss Pattie V. Hinton, of East Third street, returned yesterday from a visit to the Jamestown Exposition.

LANEHART WILL FORGED SO WITNESSES TESTIFY

The trial of William H. Skillman, of Belle Mead, who is charged with forging the will of his friend and neighbor, William Lanehart, was continued yesterday before Judge Booraem, of New Brunswick, at Somerville. The State produced a number of witnesses who were familiar with the handwriting of the deceased, and all testied that, in their opinion, the signature to the will was not genuine.

Miss Laura Kellogg, who was housekeeper for Lanehart for a number of years, said she had frequently seen him sign his name to documents, and, in her opinion, the signature to the disputed will was a forgery.

Alfred S. Osborne, a handwriting epert, said the signature was not Lanehart's. He declared that where the signature to the will departed in its characteristics from the undisputed signatures of Lanehart they agreed with the characteristics of the writing in the body of the will.

Photographs of Lanehart's signature were distributed among the jurors. The case was continued today.

DR. F. J. HUGHES WEDS MISS LORETTA FLANNAGAN

Miss Loretta Flannagan, daughter of Mrs. Catharine Flannagan, of West Sixth street, and Dr. Frederick J. Hughes, of Somerset street, were married in St. Mary's church at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Delehanty, and was witnessed only by relatives and a few immediate friends. It was originally planned to have the wedding today but the date had to be changed in order to comply with the sailing time of the Bermuda boat, the couple leaving today for the islands to spend their honeymoon.

Miss Flannagan had as her attendant Miss Lydia Hughes, sister of the groom. The best man was Dr. P. J. Zeglio, who has been closely associated with Dr. Hughes in his medical practice. There were no other members of the bridal party.

Following their stay in the Bermudas, Dr. and Mrs. Hughes will make their home on Somerset street

The groom is one of the best known of the younger practitioners in the city and borough. He graduated from the Columbia College of Physicians and Surgeons and was one of the honor men of the class. After completing his course he served four years in New York hospitals and for the same length of time has practiced in Plainfield. His bride is the daughter of the late P. J. Flannagan and is also very well known.

Radiator Company's Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Ackroyd True Radiator Company, a local concern having a factory at New Brunswick, was held at the offices in the Woodhull & Martin building this morning. The following officers were elected: President, F. T. Woodhull; vice president, James P. Powers; secretary, John H. Ackroyd; treasurer, Edson C. Martin. A. S. Hollingsworth, of Sotch Plains, was elected a director. The reading of the annual report showed the business to be in a very prosperous condition and was the cause for much congratulation from the stockholders.

Working Fraud Scheme.

Pastor J. O. McKelvey and officials of Warren chapel were informed today that two children had been visiting borough residents soliciting funds for the new chapel. No one has been authorized to do this and the work of the children is a swindling scheme. A short time ago the chapel officials were much annoyed by two little girls doing the same thing and it was thought that the practice had been stopped. Residents of the city and borough are requested to make no contributions to anyone purporting to be collecting for the fund.

P. S. C. Gets Busy.

Under the direction of City Engineer A. J. Gavett everybody got busy on Front street, today, showing that the agitation yesterday on the part of the merchants was fruitful. The trolley company has had two large cars and a gang of men employed all day removing dirt and to assist Mr. Gavett ordered out a part of the city street gang with several horses and carts to haul the dirt away. Under the present condition that thoroughfare should be cleared of obstructions within a short time.

AUTOIST'S HEROIC ACT SAVES A CHILD'S LIFE

To Prevent Running Down of Little Girl, Drove Machine Into Pile of Bricks.

CHILD ESCAPES SERIOUS INJURY

Dr. Waterman, of New York, Owner of the Car, His Wife and a Friend Figure in the Accident.

Preferring to risk his own life and that of his wife and a friend in the machine with him, Dr. Whitney Waterman, of New York, today sent his automobile crashing into a pile of bricks at the junction of North and Park avenues to avoid striking Grace Alcorn, an eight-year-old girl living at 332 East Front street.

A wheel of the car struck the child a glancing blow and she was knocked to one side while Dr. and Mrs. Waterman and Mrs. Maynard, of Evergreen avenue, were pitched forward on top of the bricks. They escaped with a slight shaking up but the little girl was cut and bruised about the face and was taken to Armstrong's drug store for treatment. She was afterward sent to her home in a cab.

Dr. Waterman was proceeding up Park avenue toward North avenue and when almost at the corner Miss Alcorn started to cross in front of the machine. She suddenly stopped and then turned back only to reverse the movement as the driver attempted to go around her. He applied the emergency brake but he was so close to the child his only alternative was to steer the machine directly into the brick pile, left standing by the street improving contractor, to avoid running her down. The doctor decided upon it at the instant and had only time to warn Mrs. Waterman and Mrs. Maynard to hold tight when the collision occurred.

The auto was jammed into the bricks, smashing the front and springing the whole frame. The moment it stopped the owner jumped to the ground and picking up the child carried her into the pharmacy. It was believed at first that her nose was broken and the child was beside herself with fear that she would be scarred for life and this gave her more concern than her hurts. As soon as the blood was washed from her face she called for a mirror in order to have a look at her features.

Dr. Waterman's feat was witnessed by a dozen people who unhesitatingly declared that it was an act of heroism seldom seen.

The officers and directors of the Plainfield Riding and Driving Association met at the Casion Monday night and received complete reports for the past year, including the last hore show. Assurances already have been received of strong support from all the previous exhibitors and it is quite likely that a number of new ones will be included in the list.

RETIRED BUSINESS MAN FAVORS NEW THEORY

E. H. Lambert, of Everett, Massachusetts, Believes Stomach the Seat of Life.

One of the most interesting statements made recently concerning the much discussed Cooper theory, that has spread over the country during the past year, is made by E. H. Lambert, a retired business man, whose home is at 115 Francis Street, Everett, Mass.

Mr. Lambert has this to say in connection with Cooper and his medicines: "Some time ago I read an article about this man Cooper, in which he claimed that stomach trouble was directly responsible for most ill health. He went on to say that, although his medicine did nothing but get the stomach in sound condition, it would, in many cases, remove kidney and liver trouble and various other ailments. He argued from this that the stomach was the main cause of sickness, and stated that the success he has had with his medicines was due entirely to this fact.

"I am now fully convinced that this theory is correct, and believe Cooper has a really remarkable medicine, judging from my own experience.

"I have been a sick man for five years. Three years ago I was told by a physician that I had Bright's disease of the kidneys. I have treated constantly for this trouble since, without results. After reading the article I have mentioned, I purchased some of this man Cooper's medicine. I have been astounded by what it has done for me. I was relieved to some extent within 24 hours. Today my health is better than for five years, and so far as I can tell, my kidney trouble has disappeared.

"My wife, who had stomach trouble for some time, tried the preparation after noting its action in my case, and her improvement is fully as marked as mine. She now eats heartily three times a day without any distress whatsoever. Her nervousness has also left her. I certainly believe this man's success is fully justified, as he undoubtedly has a wonderful medicine."

We will gladly describe the remarkable record made by the Cooper medicines to all who wish to know of them.

—T. S. Armstrong.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

The test of time as applied to dramas is something that cannot be "faked." If a play is good it lives, if bad it dies, and is soon forgotten. The judgment of the public is sure and swift and though the end may be averted for a time, it must come to the unworthy ones. "Why Girls Leave Home" has been before the public four solid years, and is still popular. People who have seen it want to see it again and advise others to see it. And so, Time, that has so ruthlessly driven hundreds of plays into oblivion, has only brought success to "Why Girls Leave Home." It is a good play, a funny play, a play that makes you better for having seen it. That is why it is so popular, even after four years of constant playing. It comes to the New Plainfield theatre tonight.

"The Convict's Daughter," one of the solid melodramatic successes of the season, will be the attraction at the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow afternoon and night. The secret of the success of "The Convict's Daughter" is that it touches the heartstrings of its auditors. It is also filled with comedy of the highest order and does not depend upon buffoonery or vulgarity to amuse the public. It comes to us this year with entirely new scenery and altogether brighter and better than ever.

The dramatic note is sounded shap and clear in "The Original Cohen," the new Hebrew heart story which appears at the New Plainfield theatre Saturday afternoon and night. The story teems with excitement, with pathos and also with comedy. There is an abundance of scenery and more electrical effects than are usually found in a dozen melodramas. "The Original Cohen" is "The Music Master" of the Bowery. The Rowland and Clifford Amusement Co. claim it to be the best production ever sent from their workshop. The company numbers thirty, with Louis Hartman as the star, and includes E. M. Lowenwirth and Miss Cuba Niblo. Specialties are given by the Four Banta Brothers, the Winnings, the Gould Sisters and others, supported by a well dressed chorus of singers and dancers.

MONTCLAIR'S WAR ON SALOONS.

Ministers Ask $1,000 License and That Places Be Closed at 10 P. M.

Montclair ministers last night petitioned the Town Council for a radical reformation in liquor selling there. The ministers, backed by their respective congregations, demand that the saloons be closed at 10 o'clock on every night except Saturday. On Saturday they want the saloons closed at 7 p. m., because they say that on those days the poor man gets his wages, and is tempted to spend them in saloons if they are kept open at night.

The petition also requests that the sale of liquor be entirely prohibited on holidays and the license fee be advanced to $1,000. The demands of the ministers have caused consternation among the liquor interests, for the reason that the new Town Council is inclined to favor the reformation.

The Rev. Amory H. Bradford and the Rev. Henry E. Forsdyk are at the head of the movement.

DESERTED; TAKES POISON.

Hobokenite Leaves Letter for Wife and Kills Himself.

Hoboken, Nov. 27.—After writing a note on the back of a photograph of his wife, James Davis, 35 years old, committed suicide by taking carbolic acid in his room at 826 Park avenue yesterday morning. The note read as follows:

"Dear Flo—I hate to do this, because I love you. You know how luck has been against us since we have been here. You could have saved this, as I told you right along. So don't blame me. Goodby. JIM."

"P. S.—Others have done it—not you."

At the top of the note there was another postcript saying, "Beware of the Jews!" Davis' wife left him Sunday, taking with her their two children. Monday night Davis bought the poison at a drug store, saying he wanted to use it to kill bugs.

Logan Would-be Confederate?

Captain J. White Edwards, who fired the first shot at the battle of Mansfield, where he commanded the rear guard under General Taylor, adds a chapter to the controversy over the assertion that Admiral Farragut and Generals Grant, Thomas and Logan once applied for commissions in the Confederacy.

"I cannot say positively as to the others," declares Captain Edwards, "but I know General John A. Logan not only applied for a commission, but actually raised a company and started for the Ohio river, with the intention of crossing and joining the Confederate forces operating in Kentucky. Logan left his company when it reached the Ohio, having in the meantime received a commission as colonel of volunteers in the federal army. His men continued across the Ohio and did actually join the Confederates. I had occasion to visit Southern Illinois after the war, and received my information from Logan's mother and from his brothers."

New Brunswick, Nov. 27.—The Rev. Paul Hamborsky, who was horsewhipped on the street here a week ago by Mrs. L. Nanassy, the wife of a minister of Alpha, who claimed that Hamborsky had defamed her name, has sworn out a warrant for libel against two prominent members of the Hungarian Reformed church. The horsewhipping was the result of a war between the Reformed and the Presbyterian Hungarian churches.

Sentenced for Non-support of Child.

Elie Burex, a widower, admitted, when arraigned before Judge McCarthy, in Jersey City yesterday, that he would not know his daughter, now thirteen years old, if he met her, as he had not seen her for seven years. It was for neglect to provide for the child that he was sentenced for a year and a day, the extreme penalty. In imposing the sentence the judge said: "If I could sentence you to a longer term I would do it. You are a disgrace to the human race."

—The dirt on West Front street thrown out by the trolley company is being carried to West Front street and Grant avenue, where it will be used for filling in West End avenue.

It is worth considerable to any citizen of Plainfield to know how to be cured of painful, annoying and itching piles. Know then that Doan's Ointment is a positive remedy for all itchiness of the skin, for piles, eczema, etc. One application relieves and soothes. Read this testimony of its merit:

Thomas Haskard, of 941 West Third street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "I was a member of Co. A, First Regiment, N. J., Vols., under Col. Montgomery. During the Rebellion I contracted itching piles and they have bothered me off and on ever since. No one who has not suffered from this trouble knows what the irritation is. I tried about every salve, wash and ointment known in the hope of finding a caure but nothing helped me until I got Doan's Ointment. It took just three boxes to put me in shape so I could rest nights. A continued use cured me so that I have been free ever since from any trouble arising from piles."

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

FOOTBALL.

By making twelve points against Harvard Yale joined the group of teams which scored a total of over 200 points this season. The others are Princeton, Pennsylvania, Carlisle, Fordham and Trinity. The last named is very prominent in the point making even if it is not in the class with the big teams. Trinity's schedule was considerably different, but what Trinity had to do she did well. Her opponents were not all easy marks either, two of them being West Point and Amherst. Speaking of Yale, somebody wants to know, in view of the Blue's inability to do more in the Harvard game, if Yale spirit has changed. Judging from the twelve points made in the second half against Princeton and the stand made by Yale on her own goal line against Harvard, it appears not. Yale has not lost a game since the rules were changed; for that matter, has not been beaten since 1904, when West Point turned the trick. As a matter of fact, Yale has lost only two games in the last five years—one to Princeton in 1903 and one to West Point in 1904.

The Indians wound up by bringing their total points up to within fifteen of Princeton's. The reds went through the most remarkable campaign ever made by a team, playing Pennsylvania, Harvard, Princeton, Minnesota and Chicago in succession and winning four of these five games. They must have physiques of iron. In Hauser they have the best goal kicker from placement in the country and a ground gaining back who ranks in the class composed of McCormick, Coy and Wendell.

Rivals who are more evenly matched in points made than usually is the case are West Point and Annapolis. The Army has made thirteen more points than the Navy and has scored on sixteen points less.

One of the hardest matters to be decided by the All-America pickers will be to hit upon who he thinks is the best centre for the mythical eleven. It is not often than there are so many good centres so well matched, and there is likely to be a good deal of variety in the final selections. Schulz, of Michigan, is conceded to be the best centre in the West, and they think out there he is the best pivot in the country. For an All-Eastern team there are to choose from: Phillips, of Princeton; Dwyer, of Pennsylvania; May, of Cornell; Grant, of Harvard; Coble, of Swarthmore, and Congdon and Dunbar, of Yale. Dwyer, May, Grant, Congdon and Dunbar are much the same in weight and are not as heavy as Phillips, Coble or Schulz. Dunbar quite held his own with Grant, of Harvard, who is a prominent candidate for the place, and Congdon had a pretty tussle with Phillips, of Yale; but neither of the Yale men played in as many games as the other two. They did not have as much of a chance to prove their worth game in and game out, which is their misfortune, for when they did play they made good. Phillips, Grant, Dwyer and May have played consistently well all season, and all else being equal, the natural choice would be the man who has done the most work. The big games tomorrow and Saturday will have a bearing on the selections for the "all" teams.

GOLF.

Tomorrow will mark the close of the active golf season in this city, when the Plainfield Country Club will hold its final competition for the year, a cross country tournament. If the weather is favorable it is expected that a large field will be out to take part.

The steam heating system having been installed in the Plainfield Country Clubhouse, arrangements have been made to keep it open for the present at least for the convenience of the members. Heretofore it has been the custom to close the clubhouse right after Thanksgiving Day. As long as the weather remains favorable play on the course will continue.

Inasmuch as arrangements have been made to keep the Plainfield Country Clubhouse open for the present it will afford an opportunity for the members to enjoy social events there, in fact several functions have been given at the club during the past week or two.

An event of interest among the younger society set will be a barn dance to be given at the Plainfield Country Club tonight by Miss Anna Fisk and Miss Dorothy Fisk. A large number of young people have been invited and the affair promises to be one of great pleasure.

Police Working on Jewel Robbery.

It leaked out yesterday that the Jersey City police had been working since last Friday night to recover jewelry valued at $1,000 stolen from the home of O. H. Perry, finance commissioner and a coal dealer, at No. 582 Bergen avenue. The loss was discovered late Friday night by Miss Helen Perry. The stolen jewels belonged to her and her mother.

Miss Emily Stout, of New Brunswick, who has been spending several days with Plainfield friends, has returned home.

Now if some enterprising press agent floods the public print with burglary stories, the hoarded wealth will be scared back again into the bank vaults.

The New York newspapers speak of Representative Charles N. Fowler as "of Connecticut." They should have made it Vermont.—Newark Evening News.

General Manager Danforth, of the P. S. How about it, Mr. Mayor?

RECEIVER WOULD SELL ROAD.

Big Mortgage on Trenton, Lakewood and Atlantic Railway.

John M. Dickinson, receiver for the Trenton, Lakewood and Atlantic Railway Company, applied to Vice-Chancellor Walker at the State House yesterday at Trenton for an order to permit him to sell the road. The vice-chancellor made a rule to show cause why the road should not be disposed of, and why it should not be sold free of incumbrance.

There is a mortgage of $2,500,000 against the road, but no bonds have been issued. Little actual work on the line has been done, but the right of way has been secured from Trenton to the seashore.

Verona Wants Five-Cent Fare.

Montclair, Nov. 27.—The town of Verona has arisen in its might to compel the Public Service Corporation to reduce the fare from Verona to Bloomfield to five cents. The rate is now ten cents for the four mile ride, and the residents of Verona think they are being discriminated against. The Town Council has acted in the matter, and Thomas N. McCarter, president of the Public Service Corporation, will be appealed to.

WHY THEY'RE THANKFUL

These Messages Received Not "Through the Ribs" but Via "Wireless Brainstorm".

HAVE ALL SORTS OF REASONS.

City Officials and Private Citizens Are Credited With Explaining Their Rejoicings.

Every inhabitant of Plainfield has some reason to be thankful tomorrow. Some of those who have special cause for thanksgiving have told The Daily Press why—at least these messages were received by the "wireless brainstorm" system:

James E. Martine—That I didn't run for Governor.

William R. Townsend—It feels good to be taxed collector; there's $2,250 per in the job.

Walter L. Hetfield, Jr.—There's something coming to me. Jerome will have to take a back seat.

Andrew McCardell—Six cents will go a long way towards buying a turkey.

Charles J. Fisk—I'm glad I'm only a plain financier and not a bank president.

George P. Mellick—Maybe, I can't rejoice over the hospital tax, but then I am happy that there's no Captain Kidd to get at that gold floating our way.

Andrew J. Gavett—Well, I can be thankful that the street brick pavement work may be finished before 1909.

Francis L. Montgomery—I'm going to "blow" Amos Andrews tomorrow; he's been a friend to me.

T. O. Doane—I'm going to be thankful that at the last three fires no apparatus was broken.

William N. Runyon—Well, they gave me a raise to $1,000, but I get more fun than that out of the job.

James T. MacMurray—Because the Colbyites didn't get a majority of councilmen, but any way my position holds good for two years yet.

Charles P. Sebring—My men laid three more brick that I had calculated on my West Front street building yesterday.

Maze Edwards—That I don't get in a runaway accident every day.

C. M. Meeker—That a man can live long enough to lay a brick pavement.

Frank H. Smith—That Jim Martine wasn't nominated for Governor.

Charles H. Hand—I ought to be glad that assessors are not elected by the people.

P. S. Kiely—That the Ides of March proved to be worse than "Dutch" Ides.

Alexander Ayres—It certainly seems good to me to wear a white vest since the mayor made me the official pen wiper.

Sam Cunningham—I'm glad "Mr. Bluebeard" didn't have a return date.

Herbert Buxton—Promises are like pie crust and I like pie.

Elias H. Bird—That a Plainfield date line was not attached to that dispatch about taking thirty years to deliver a letter.

Amos Andrews—That you can't be sent to jail for dreaming of riches in gold mines.

BOY DROWNED IN CANAL.

Good Swimmer, But Heavy Clothing Bore Him Down.

Howard Miller, 16 years old, of Upper Black Eddy, Pa., fell from a canal boat in Morrisville yesterday morning. A heavy "slicker" and rubber boots which he was wearing dragged him down and he was drowned, in spite of the frantic efforts of companions to save him. His body was recovered three hours later.

The boy was a good swimmer, but could do nothing in the heavy clothing which he wore. His fall from the boat was caused by the slipping of a tiller bar on which he was leaning.

Deadlock In Harrison Council.

At the meeting of the Harrison Common Council last night another unsuccessful attempt was made to elect a president of that body, which has eight members. Five ballots were taken and the vote was 4 to 4, when it was concluded that the deadlock could not be broken. This state of affairs is due to the fact that Joseph P. Riordan was deposed as Mayor of Harrison by a decision of the Supreme Court, which declared that the law under which he was elected was unconstitutional. The present deadlock is similar to that which existed in the same Council seven years ago, when more than 1,700 ballots were taken before a choice was made. The candidates are Thomas O'Connor and John Daly.

Jury Disagrees in Rahway Case.

After a trial lasting three days, in the Union County Court, the jury in the case of John C. Bozung, of Rahway, twenty-two years old, who was indicted on a charge made by Mary A. Daly, sixteen years old, of thit city, came into court yesterday morning, after being locked up eighteen hours, and informed Judge Atwater it was impossible to reach an agreement. Judge Atwater then discharged the jurors. From the first ballot they had stood 6 to 6. This is the second trial of the case, the previous one, last March, also ending in a disagreement of the jury.

CANVASSERS GIVE FORT PLURALITY OF 8,013

The State Board of Canvassers met in the Executive Chamber at Trenton, yesterday afternoon, to canvass the vote cast for Governor at the last election. It received from the Secretary of State two sets of tabulated returns, one giving John Franklin Fort a plurality of 8,013 and the other of 8,030.

As customary the board accepted the figures received by the secretary from the district election boards, giving Fort a plurality of 8,013 and ignored the returns from the county boards of election. All misspelled ballots in which the intention of the voter was clear were counted except one which read "citizen Katzenbach."

The returns corrected on the basis on which they were canvassed by the county boards showed that Mr. Fort received 194,306 votes, as against 186,293 for Mr. Katzenbach. In addition to this, fifteen scattering votes were cast for Mr. Katzenbach and five for Mr. Fort in which the names of candidates were mispelled or incorrect initials given. The total number of names on the poll books was 388,050, and 2,850 ballots were rejected.

The discrepancies between the county board returns and those of the district boards offset one another so as to result in a net difference in the State of only fourteen votes. The greatest number of mistakes occurred in Hudson county. The vote as declared was:

County.	Fort (R.)	Katzenbach (D.)
Atlantic	6,055	4,615

DIVORCE FOR MRS. SMITH.

Tied Appeal For His Return to His Dog, But Got No Answer.

Mrs. Ellen W. Smith, of New Brunswick, yesterday received notice that Vice Chancellor Garretson had allowed her a divorce from her husband, Frederick L. Smith, and the custody of her five minor children. The Smiths were carried in 1891 and lived at New Brunswick for twelve years, when the husband left his wife.

She says that she tried in every way to locate him and failed. Once his dog came back to her house and she wrote an appeal to her husband and fastened it to the dog's collar, expecting that the dog would carry the letter to its master and that there might be a reconciliation for the benefit of the children, but nothing came of it. She was compelled to place the children in a charitable home and go as a servant in local families to make her living.

Both Legs of Boy Broken.

While playing around a wagon from which the driver was unloading some railroad ties, at Filbert and Webster avenues, Roselle Park, yesterday afternoon, Anthony Florio, agel eleven years, whose home is at 282 Westfield avenue, was hit by a falling tie and both of his legs were broken. He was carried to his home by Mr. Straighter, a teacher in the Aldine school, where his injuries were attended to by a physician. He was later removed to the Alexian Brothers' Hospital, Elizabeth.

Wife's Hatpin Pierces His Eye.

Bloomfield, Nov. 27.—Frederick Vanderpool, formerly of Bloomfield, is in a hospital in Chicago from an injury to one of his eyes, caused by a hatpin. He is musical director in a place of amusement in Chicago. While adjusting his wife's coat his eye was accidentally pierced with a pin she wore in her hat. It is feared he will lose his sight. Mrs. Vanderpool is a daughter of Health Inspector Joseph C. Salle, of Bloomfield.

WHAT GRATITUDE MEANS

Rector of Holy Cross Church Theme at Thanksgiving Exercises.

SHOW THANKFULNESS BY ACTS.

Speaker Urges Pupils to Express Gratitude in Living Rather Than by Words—The Program.

"Show your thanks by your deeds. No sense of gratefulness or appreciation can be expressed in words. It is not by saying 'Thank you,' to a person that we express our gratitude, but by our actions with that person in our everyday life." This, according to Rev. George A. Warner, rector of Holy Cross church, who spoke at the Thanksgiving exercises at the city high school this afternoon, is the true Thanksgiving spirit. The address was given in connection with exercises appropriate to Thanksgiving which were held in the school auditorium at noon today.

Introduced by Principal Ira W. Travell, of the high school, Mr. Warner, who had previously made an address in connection with the Thanksgiving exercises at Cedarcroft school, said in part:

"I suppose you are all thankful for a good many things today. You are thankful, I guess, for the three days of vacation coming, the teachers are thankful for the three days of rest they will have, but probably all your parents will be thankful when school opens again on Monday. Thankfulness is something that should come home to each one of us as a personal thing. As a man who goes into the homes of all classes of people, I have special opportunities for observation and the knowledge I have derived from just this experience is this: The young people of today are guilty of the sin of ingratitude, and their parents are too prone to the spirit of criticism. The two go hand in hand. It doesn't require much for a person to be critical, but it requires the best that is in each one of us to see the good in a person rather than criticise the faults. Just so soon as a person has come to see the good as well as the bad traits in another, he has reason for the greatest feeling of thanksgiving on this account. In the first place, we must be patient with others. Some people may be 'the limit,' as we say, but if we try to find their better side, we will find that they are only 'the limit' in some ways.

"I think there is a great deal for us to be thankful for at this time, especially if we look at the conditions as they existed in this country 300 years ago, when the Pilgrims came. One of those old Pilgrims would certainly be thankful if he could live as we do today, or could come back and see all the advantages we have under the broad, just government of Uncle Sam, with his eighty-five millions of people.

"Someone has said that gratitude is the memory of the heart. The trouble with most people today is that while they appreciate what has been done for them, they don't take any pains to show it. You probably never think of thanking your parents for the provision they are making for you year by year. You take everything for granted. Well, how are you to show this thankfulness? If you do appreciate what has been done for you, you cannot express it by saying 'thank you' to father or mother, but only in your love toward them as expressed in your actions. It is only necessary to show gratitude, you don't have to say anything.

"If you think God has blessed you during this past year, be thankful and grateful to God for what He has done. Show that you have the true meaning of Thanksgiving in a way that is deeper, stronger, and truer than anything you may say. Let everyone see your gratitude in deed as well as in word. Thank God, thank your parents, and be grateful"

A special feature of the program of exercises was the cornet playing by William S. Mygrant and his son, Percy Mygrant, a student of the school. They played several selections together, with a fullness of tone and accuracy of execution that won sustained applause for the encores. Mr. Mygrant also played a solo. He is a cornetist in Pryor's band and both he and his son are well known in local musical circles. The program follows:

Prelude, by the high school orchestra; song, Thanksgiving Hymn, by the school; the President's Proclamation, read by Principal I. W. Travell; Harvest Anthem, "Praise the Lord, O My Soul," (Watson) by the school; "The Trees' Thanksgiving," written by Miss Clara Savage, recited by Miss Margaret Hutchinsen; "What Thanksgiving Day Means to the Average American Family," written by Donald Mortimer, read by Cornelius Schenck; anthem, "While the Earth Remaineth," (Tours), by the school; Thanksgiving address, by Rev. George A. Warner; anthem, "Ye Shall Dwell in the Land," (Steiner) by the school; "November," written and recited by Miss Bessie Alpaugh; "The Old Maid's Thanksgiving," Miss Ouida Hetfield; Thanksgiving Anthem, "To Thee, O Lord, Our Hearts We Raise," (Brockett) by the school; "For Love of the Minister," Miss Eleanor Van Tuyl; cornet duet, by William S. and Percy Mygrant; "The Thanksgiving Composition," Richard Harrigan; cornet solo, by William S. Mygrant; song, "Plainfield High School," by the school; postlude, by the high school orchestra.

Moving Picture Show.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Dec. 1, 1907.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—The beauty and utility of gratitude.—Ps. iii, 1-10. (A Thanksgiving consecration meeting.)

The word gratitude is derived from the Latin word gratitudo, which means grateful, agreeable. In our standard American dictionaries it is defined in various phases, but undoubtedly one of the finest of these definitions is that "gratitude is a warm and friendly feeling toward a benefactor." And when we realize that the benefactor is God and that His benefactions cannot be numbered for multitude and cannot be comprehended because of their variety and extent it is easy to see that there is no limit to "warmth and friendly feeling" which we should exercise toward men. No one can comprehend the depth of gratitude that we owe to God. Milton could only define it as "the depth immense of an endless gratitude"—a depth immense and eternal, endless gratitude. Who can comprehend it, and who can meet all its requirements? Who can render unto God all that should be rendered of gratitude and love unto Him for all His benefits?

What have we that we have not received from God? We live, and life is a gift from Him. "He hath made us and not we ourselves; we are the sheep of His pasture." Have we health, home, happiness? All these are from God. Have we wealth? It comes from Him. "The earth is the Lord's and the fullness thereof." "The gold is mine, the silver is mine, saith the Lord." Every temporal blessing and hope comes from God. But these even are small in comparison to our spiritual blessings. What endless gratitude is due to God for redemption and salvation through the death of His Son Jesus Christ! How much we owe Him when we consider the privileges and joys of the Christian life and for the hope—yea, assurance—of eternal life in heaven! Well may we say with the psalmist, "I will praise the Lord with my whole heart." Let us place the emphasis upon the pronoun "I" and to limit of our capabilities be grateful to our God for all His benefits.

Gratitude is beautiful. What more beautiful than a grateful, thankful heart, expressing its feeling in a devoted, consecrated life for God! The beauty of gratitude is strikingly seen in contrasting it with its opposite, ingratitude. What is baser than ingratitude! The world scorns the man who accepts kind deeds from others and then turns away with unthankfulness and ingratitude. Yet how many such there are, and especially toward God. Men take God's gifts, yet forget the Giver. It should not be so. Gratitude, sincere and honest, should rise to God as a sweet incense from all our hearts and live for all His goodness.

There is also utility in gratitude. Appreciated gifts and blessings inspire others. Gratitude should inspire us to do more for others. As we think of some kind act of another for us or all God's blessings to us we should show our gratefulness by doing what we can for those to whom we can be a benefactor and a blessing.

BIBLE READINGS.

Isa. i, 1-4; Ps. xxxviii, 1-8; i, 14, 15; xcv, 1-11; c, 1-5; Mark v, 18-21; Acts xxii, 44-47; II Cor. ix, 8-11; Acts iii, 1-10; Phil. iv, 1-6.

Wide Awake Endeavor Leader.

Charles G. Dean, president of the Tennessee Christian Endeavor union, was born Aug. 27, 1879, in Pleasant Hill, Miss. He has lived in Memphis since 1898 and is a member of the Court Avenue Presbyterian church, where he is the superintendent of the Sunday school. He was serving the Christian Endeavor local union as president for the third year when elected president of the state union last April. Tennessee President Leah tells us, will do Christian Endeavor missionary work this year. They expect to raise $1,000 and send workers from the organized points into the towns adjacent to their homes. Thus they hope to organize many new societies and unions and strengthen those now in the work. Many have volunteered for this service, for Tennessee is the Volunteer State.

CHARLES G. DEAN.

The Key Word Training.

The key word of Christian Endeavor is training, training in expression, training in service, training in living, training of the heart, training of the mind, training of the tongue, training of the boy and girl, training of the young man and woman, training to make men and women, training to make citizens, training to make effective Christians, training in the church, training for the church, training by the church.—President Clark at Seattle.

Millions of Prayer Meetings.

Consider the weekly Christian Endeavor prayer meeting. There is something sublimely inspiring in the thought of what it has become—nearly 70,000 meetings held every week in the year. Multiply 70,000 by 50 and you have approximately the number of Endeavor prayer meetings held every twelve months. If my arithmetic does not fail me, that means 3,500,000 meetings every year.—Dr. Clark at Seattle.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Dec. 1: "Self mastery."—I Cor. ix, 19-27. "Every man that striveth in the games exerciseth self control in all things."

By REV. WALTER J. YATES, D. D.

Passages for reference—Prov. xvi, 32; xix, 11; Matt. v, 43-48; Tit. ii, 11-13.

We are learning, and that somewhat rapidly, that the price of success in work is self control. At least this is part of the price which must be paid. Skill in any business is acquired only by practice. The hand has to be trained to any mechanical art. Not only is it necessary to know how to do a task, but the muscles must be so exercised that they can actually accomplish it.

To become a good pitcher in baseball requires long practice. Watch a first class pitcher and see what it takes to deliver the ball well. There is more than arm and finger work to it. The whole man is in it from his head to his toe tips.

Our athletics are of value in teaching the necessity for self mastery. We believe it in those matters. The trouble is we have not fully grasped the meaning of life as a whole. We have put business by itself, and social life by itself, and religion by itself. We have never combined all in one great whole and realized that life is one vast arena of struggle for mastery. We are in earnest in some things, and in others we are careless and negligent.

And the serious thing about it all is that the carelessness is in those matters of most importance and the application is in the minor and frivolous items.

You have perhaps spent some time learning stenography, typewriting, some trade or some branch of business. It took time and effort to become proficient, and you must keep in practice or you will lose much of your skill.

Have you ever set as earnestly about the cultivation of your powers of soul? Indeed, have you ever seriously considered what those powers are? Have you ever been conscious of any lack in that regard? You are well acquainted with your bodily powers and early acquired skill to walk, to talk and a score of other things. You have a good knowledge of your mental powers and have cultivated powers of observation, some reasoning, memory and judgment. How about the soul faculties?

Have you found the need of patience? Have you mastered it adequately? Are you capable of self control under great provocation, or do you go to pieces and get mad? Do you know the value or meaning of gentleness? What do you know of meekness? Has it ever had any value in your estimation? You have a large amount of self esteem some call it conceit if it is in any one but themselves. Have you ever acquired its opposite? That is a good thing to have in stock. It is self forgetfulness. Did you ever suspect yourself of selfishness? I warrant others have seen it in you. What have you done for it? Fed it, haven't you? Has it grown? Better overcome it.

Self mastery—it is worth getting. It is a mighty task, will take all the man in you to do it; but, oh, what a man or woman it will make of you!

Lessons From Nature.

Jesus preached from a lily and from a handful of wheat and from the stones of the temple and from the vines and from a coin. Lessons of faith and honor and purity and charity exhale with the morning dew. Every sunrise is the proem and every sunset the peroration of a noble discourse from God to His children. The man who feels with and suffers with and smiles with nature, to which every flower and every grain of sand is a thought of God and every leaf a note in a continuous coronation song, has an ever increasing resource from which to draw as a wise lover and leader of souls. As Goethe says: "To such there came trooping up out of the meadows and singing down out of the skies thoughts like free children of God, crying out: 'Here we are! Here we are!'"—William Mountford.

Virtues Which Command Success.

Vigilance in watching opportunity, tact and daring in seizing upon opportunity, force and persistence in crowding opportunity to its utmost of possible achievement—these are the martial virtues which must command success.—Austin Phelps.

Try Smiling.

Your burden is heavy, I haven't a doubt.
But others have loads they must carry about,
And they are not whining.
Some people are glad if but half of the way
Lies out of the shadow or part of the day
They see the sun shining.
Suppose you try smiling.

I know you are lonely, but other hearts ache
And bravely refuse to be bitter or break
Because of life's sorrow.
They think of the joy in the land far away
And hasten the slow passing hours of to-day
With hopes of tomorrow.
Suppose you try smiling.

This funny old world is a mirror, you know.
Turn its way with a sneer or face of a foe
And you will see trouble.
But meet it with laughter and looks full of cheer,
And back will come sunshine and love true and dear
Your blessings to double.
Suppose you try smiling.

All places are open to those who are glad.
Too many lack courage, too many are sad.
Those near you need cheering.
So sing with your burdens; the way is not long.
And if you look upward your heart will grow strong
And skies will be clearing.
Suppose you try smiling.

CHAPTER III.
The One Woman.

I scanned each face intently as I approached them. There was a high, delicate color on the cheeks of the elder woman. She was frowning slightly. I could not be sure whether curiosity or annoyance was the dominant note of her bearing. But presently I saw that it was rather resentment and thinly veiled contempt. During the past week scorn and contempt had flashed from too many eyes that I should misinterpret that look. They knew, then, the story of my disgrace. That fact would explain the expression of contempt; but why this strange resentment, this indignation?

The younger woman, the daughter, for the likeness was unmistakable, sat motionless as I approached. The attitude was significant of a feeling more hostile and deeper than that which agitated the mother.

It was the mother who spoke, not without evident reluctance:

"Is it true that you are Mr. Haddon—Mr. Ernest Haddon?

"It is true," I replied quietly.

"Then you were with Mr. Lawrence Willoughby when the tragedy occurred?" she continued in a deep, even voice.

"Yes, madam."

"I am Mrs. Brett. This is my daughter, Miss Brett."

Again I bowed gravely. The girl made a slight inclination, but her eyes still gazed intently at the little beacon light that still burned on the mountain.

I heard the name at first with an idle curiosity. Then vaguely I repeated it to myself. I had heard it before. It awoke startled memories. I vainly tried to place these people who were compelling themselves to speak to me with so evident a reluctance and hesitation.

"I am sure I have heard, only lately—"

"Perhaps," assented Mrs. Brett bitterly, "it was Mr. Willoughby himself—"

"Mother!" The daughter touched the mother's arm appealingly.

"Yes," I said in a low voice, "I remember now."

"Then, sir," and the question rose to a crescendo of restrained feeling,

"I Wish to Hear Everything."

"when we were informed only a moment ago that you were Mr. Haddon, you will understand why we have sent for you?"

"Yes, madam, I understand. You wish to hear from my lips—the lips of the survivor—of the tragedy?"

Willoughby had loved the daughter. When death had faced us together, he had spoken of her. At such a time one opens one's heart, even to a stranger. And he had told me of his heart's desire; he had told me of his despair that she had not returned his love. At least not openly. But now, when it was too late, perhaps she realized that she had loved him after all. If that were so, with what abhorrence must she regard me. And if I were to tell her everything—that he had died reproaching me for cowardice— Yes, pain and humiliation were indeed to be the price of this meeting.

Yet outwardly I maintained a stoic calm. I knew there must be no excuses for myself. Whether this woman had loved him or not, at least his memory must be sacred to her. The man who was dead had paid the last penalty of presumption and folly. But that must not be hinted at; it was my weakness and cowardice that I must emphasize.

"Helena," Mrs. Brett turned to her daughter, "would you prefer that Mr. Haddon speak to you alone?"

"Yes, mother, I should prefer that."

"I shall wait for you, Helena, in the writing room. Good evening, Mr. Haddon."

As she left me I again caught the look of wonder, a resentful wonder, a curiosity that was even harsh and stern.

I seated myself opposite the woman I had unconsciously wronged. For the first time she looked at me, and I saw with relief that neither pain nor anguish lurked in her clear eyes. There was no outraged love nor tenderness. Nor was there pity for herself or for me. But even so, it seemed to me pathetic that a woman should be so strong.

"I wish to hear everything. Begin, please, with your first meeting with Mr. Willoughby. Tell me all—to the last moment."

"I shall not spare either yourself or myself," I promised.

CHAPTER IV.
The Coward.

"Did you know Mr. Willoughby intimately? Were you at Oxford with him? I think I do not remember his speaking of you."

She spoke slowly, with a certain aloofness. A desire to be just struggled with a manifest dislike—a dislike that was evidently not lessened because of my studied calm. Perhaps she thought a fervent expression of penitence more fitting. But instinctively I knew that an hysterical repentance would increase her contempt for me. I preferred her hatred to that. And so I told my story absolutely without feeling.

"I met him for the first time the night before his death."

"Indeed!" Her voice trembled with anger. She was indignant that he should have discussed his love with an utter stranger.

"It was not until we had both given up hope that he mentioned you, Miss Brett," I said with some sternness.

"But surely his death was the result of a quite unexpected accident? The newspapers gave one that impression," she exclaimed suspiciously. The words and the look accused me of falsehood.

"The accident came only after we were both utterly exhausted by the sufferings of a night spent on the mountain paths."

"And were the newspapers correct in saying that you were not an experienced mountain climber? And did Mr. Willoughby know that?"

"Yes, I am simply a tourist. This is the first time I have been in Europe. I came to Switzerland as thousands of others come—to see the mountains from an hotel piazza or a railway train. To me, as to most tourists, the Alps were simply a gigantic panorama to be viewed complaisantly, as one looks at Niagara Falls. To climb them never occurred to me until I met Mr. Willoughby.

"I was making the usual circular tour, Interlaken, Scheidegg, Lauterbrunnen, Grindelwald. Mr. Willoughby happened to sit next to me at the table d'hote at the Bear hotel. He was an athlete; Switzerland to him was simply an immense playground; he spoke of the trophies he had won at Queen's fields in the same breath as his exploits in scaling a mountain top. At first I listened to him with indifference; his enthusiasm amused me—nothing more. I had supposed that people climbed mountains simply for the view; because on the summit one could see a little farther than if one were merely on the mountain-side. But as he talked I began to understand. It was a game—a conflict—a battle if you wish—in which one pitted one's strength and wit in a hand-to-hand fight with nature.

"Gradually his enthusiasm aroused mine. I was wearied of sight-seeing; the horde of tourists disgusted me. Before we had finished our cigars I longed to pluck my first edelweiss; to play this new game myself. I hinted vaguely at dangers, but my companion laughed at them. I was presumptuous enough to think that where he led I might follow."

"The usual mistake of the tourist, I believe," commented Miss Brett, coldly. "And you begged that you might go with him on his next climb?"

"At least I was willing enough to do so when he suggested that. He was planning to make the Stralegg Pass. I confess that the word 'pass' did not sound especially formidable, for he declared that guides were not at all necessary. So I agreed to make the ascent with him. I did not realize that mountain climbing, more than any other sport, required arduous training.

"The next morning at 11 o'clock we started from Grindelwald. We were provided with the customary paraphernalia of the Alpine climber; but our climb to the Schwarzegg Club Hut, at the Upper Ice-fall, where we were to spend the night, might have been made with walking sticks instead of alpenstocks. It was for the most part a simple path over glassy slopes on the eastern side of the Lower Grindelwald Glacier—a bypath winding along the cliffs.

"We were aroused the next morning before it was light, and I was rather relieved when two guides, who were waiting at the hut for a party expected that day, shook their heads at the weather, and warned us that it would not be safe to attempt the pass alone. My companion laughed at their fears. The heavens were quite clear; the stars shone faintly; the moon was waning; there was no hint of wind or storm. He assured me that the protests of the guides was a clumsy attempt to frighten us into engaging their services. They were waiting for us; it was the usual trick. I accepted his explanation as plausible enough. I was unwilling to disappoint him now that we had started; but for the first time I felt some misgiving.

"I shall not weary you with the description of our climb. The ascent was steep and trying in places, over ice and rock. In about four hours we reached the Zasenberg Chalets and the Central Ice-fall. A stiff scramble of an hour brought us to the frozen snow of a plateau. Here our path seemed to me less clear, but my companion advanced with confidence. I felt the altitude now distressingly; I had qualms of mountain sickness. Still I struggled after him, until we came to the base of a precipitous wall of ice. We had passed over the last of the glaciers; we had reached the summit.

"I supposed now that the worst was over. But the descent was by far the most difficult and dangerous part of our day's work. Every step had to be taken with extreme care. We were roped, of course; and I annoyed Mr. Willoughby by being compelled to halt repeatedly. The fact is, I was frightfully exhausted, though I struggled after him as doggedly as I could.

"At last the descent became less hazardous. I believe that we should have arrived at Grimsel safely had we continued our way in a direct line and with the care that had characterized our first movements. But my companion attempted more and more difficult feats of climbing. As a rule I did not follow him. But presently a mountain ledge obstructed our path. Two courses were open to us: we could make a long but safe detour around it, or we could scale it. My companion decided upon the latter course. I again fastened the rope about my waist and followed him."

"Do you wish me to infer that the boyish confidence of Mr Willoughby led to the tragedy?" Helena asked in a passionless voice.

"I wish you to infer nothing."

"But you place the blame, at least tacitly, on one who is dead and cannot defend himself," she insisted angrily.

"I am sorry you should think so. I am trying to give you the facts quite simply—the absolute truth."

"I do not wish to wrong you," she said in a low voice. "I wish to be just to you, Mr. Haddon."

"Just when I realized that we were in danger I hardly know. Or perhaps I should be more honest if I said that I cannot tell just when I began to feel afraid. We had climbed cautiously and slowly around the ledge. Mr. Willoughby was in the lead. Suddenly, as we rounded this shoulder, a flake of snow touched my cheek.

"Clinging to the face of the rock, I looked down. The ice slopes were turning yellow in the cold early evening light. But far below they were hidden by mists, which even as we looked seemed to gather volume and to roll onward and upward, threatening to engulf us. The sky was laden. As we made the ledge a gust of wind almost swept us from our foothold. The snow fell more thickly; it came, it seemed, from every quarter in an instant.

"We had made the ledge in safety, but even as we looked about us the mist enveloped us. It was impossible to see more than a few yards ahead. Still we struggled on slowly and mechanically. Rocks, which in ordinary circumstances would have seemed quite easy, suddenly appalled us; for we were unable to see where to put hand or foot.

"Even to my inexperienced eyes we were in a terrible predicament. Willoughby, however, was cheerful and confident. If he had misgivings he kept them to himself. I followed him blindly.

"Suddenly to our complete dismay the descent was cut off by a precipice, the rocks on either side falling almost sheer to the glacier beneath. Further attempt was useless that night. Even Willoughby acknowledged that. There was nothing for it but to bivouac for the night, and trust for better luck on the morrow.

"It is impossible for me to describe for you the sufferings of that terrible night. We gathered such stones as we could find on the narrow mountain ledge, and placed them as a protection against the biting wind. We consumed the last morsel of food. We had already drunk our tea. We huddled close to each other for warmth. We shivered, not for moments, but for 15 minutes at a time. Every now and then we chafed each other's hands to prevent their being frost-bitten. But the greatest suffering was caused by our efforts to fight off the deadly numbness and drowsiness."

"Did you give up all hope then?" asked Helena, shuddering.

"I am sure that Willoughby did not. His courage and heroism were unfailing. Until the cold had exhausted us we attempted to wile away the hours by relating to each other incidents of our past life. It was natural that our talk should become increasingly intimate. Death stared us in the face. At such an hour as that one forgets that one is speaking to a stranger. It was then that Mr. Willoughby told me of you."

"I understand," said Helena in a voice that was strangely gentle. For the first time there were tears in her eyes.

"THE BATTLE OF ANTIETAM" BY THE LATE COL. JULIAN SCOTT, OF THIS CITY.
—Courtesy of Newark Sunday Call.

President Frelinghuysen of the Essex Club, of Newark, has announced that Hon. Franklin Murphy has offered to present to the club a picture by the late Col. Julian Scott, of this city, of the Battle of Antietam, and on behalf of the board of governors, he has accepted the same, returning the thanks of the club to Mr. Murphy. The picture is one of unusual merit and attracted the attention of Mr. Murphy who decided to purchase it for the club.

Special local interest attaches to Col. Scott's painting as he was a resident of Plainfield for many years and had a host of friends here. In the painting appears General McClellan, who performed heroic deeds during the battle of Antietam.

Colonel Julian Scott was famous as an artist and also for many brave deeds performed during his service in the Civil War. He seemed destined for an eventful career from his boyhood days in Vermont, where he attended the same school with Admiral George Dewey. Early in life he displayed ability as an artist, when, in boy-fashion, he spent much time sketching with a lead pencil. Among his companions his work aroused not a little interest.

At the outbreak of the Civil War Colonel Scott, still a resident of Vermont, decided to enlist. He was rejected for his youth by the recruiting officer and sent home. Not discouraged over this, he hit upon another plan to render service to his country. He finally succeeded in going to the front with a Vermont regiment as a drummer boy. During one of the early engagements, noted for a large loss of life, Colonel Scott performed heroic deeds, for which he was among the very first to receive a medal of honor from the Government. Later he secured a place on General "Baldy" Smith's staff, where he remained during a greater part of the war.

During the Civil War Colonel Scott spent much of his spare moments in doing sketch work, his talent again asserting itself in clever fashion. These years afterward formed the basis for many of his celebrated paintings. At the close of the war wealthy and influential friends became interested in him and he went to Paris, where he studied art and made rapid improvement in painting. He afterward was elected a member of the National Academy of Arts, a distinction he always cherished among other honors.

"The Battle of Antietam" furnished a subject for several beautiful paintings, one of which is hung in the Seventh Regiment Armory, New York. This was painted for the late Colonel Elliot F. Shepard, of New York, who became interested in Col. Scott's work as an artist. The other painting of the same subject presented an altogether different view of that famous battlefield. This painting, together with one of General Hancock, and a third one, entitled "All Quiet on the Potomac," became the property of Drake's Veteran Zouaves, of Elizabeth.

An effort was made to persuade the Union County Board of Freeholders to purchase the three paintings for the county to be hung in the courthouse at Elizabeth, but the board learned that it had no right to do so. Colonel Scott was especially well acquainted with the battlefield at Antietam, and inspired by the terrible scenes enacted there during the war, transferred them in a realistic manner on canvas.

Several paintings by Colonel Scott now hang in the State Capitol of Vermont. One, "The Death of General Sedgwick," is hung in the Plainfield Art Gallery, and it has been the wish of the State officials of Vermont that it might be transferred to that State. One of the artist's gems is entitled "Freeze Out," a painting showing two drummer boys playing poker on the head of a drum.

Other notable works by the artist included illustrations of Edna Dean Proctor's well known "Song of the Ancient People." This has been pronounced by critics to be a masterpiece. Colonel Scott was employed by the Government as a special commissioner to go among the Indian reservations in the West and make a close study of the Indian, his habits and condition. In connection with this he illustrated the eleventh census in a way that called forth special commendation. Because of the peculiar interest shown in the Indian, the members of the various tribles visited by him became life-long friends. He lived among them as one of them, and it is said that his report to the Government was one of the most complete ever recorded. During his stay in the West Colonel Scott collected many valuable Indian relics, which later formed a part of a rare collection. Like many artists, Colonel Scott was of a retiring disposition a ndlived in a few rooms in the Stillman building, where his studio was located. It was a significant fact that he died on the morning of July 4, 1901, especially because of the fact that he was always known best among his intimate friends as a true patriot. After his death his brother, who now resides in Kansas City, took possession of the personal effects of the artist, among them being many valuable paintings, some of them being in a half-finished state.

PRACTISE TO BEGIN MONDAY.

Call For Candidates Brings Out Much Good Material—School Has Heavy Schedule.

With the football season concluded by the game with Rutgers Preparatory school last week, a call has been issued for candidates for the basketball team at the city high school and regular practises will begin next week. Manager Gus Nash has arranged a schedule of eleven games with high schools in the vicinity, and the school will be represented by a team in the local interscholastic basketball league. The season will be opened Tuesday evening, December 17, with a game with the borough high school in the scholastic league. Friday afternoon, December 21, the local high school will play the Stuyvesant High School, of New York city, in the school gymnasium.

At a meeting of the team and candidates held at the school Monday, Walter Caldwell, 1908, was elected temporary captain, and the first practise will be held at the school Monday afternoon. The five lost two men, Joe Gavett and Edgar Freeman, by graduation, and Charles Loizeaux, who played substitute with the team last year, will not be in the game this season. The other members of last year's squad who will come out for the team this season are Russel Morris, F. Clyde Doane, Allen Snyder, and Charles Line. Doane and Caldwell played forwards last year, with Snyder and Morris as guards. The most promising candidates in the new material are Roy Woodhull and Jack Riffert.

Football has prevented the team from organizing sooner, but now that the moleskins have been laid aside, the schoolboys will work hard at basketball. No arrangements have been completed as yet for a coach, but the boys will eventually have one. With the exception of the league games, the scheduled games will be played in the school gymnasium. Manager Nash has but one open date on the school schedule, which includes games with several of the strongest schools in the State and will last through until March.

CROSS COUNTRY GOLF AT THE COUNTRY CLUB

The cross country competition at the Plainfield Country Club tomorrow morning, winding up the active season, will be a handicap best ball foursome. The handicap of each pair is one-half of that of lowest handicapped player of each team. The reason for this is that there will be only nine holes, half the usual course.

The course is laid out to be played in various unusual directions, starting from the tee of one hole and ending on the green of some other hole. This kind of a competition has been held every Thanksgiving Day morning for the past three years and has always proved popular. This course will be followed tomorrow morning beginning at 9 o'clock.

First tee to eleventh green, twelfth tee to eighth green, ninth tee to seventh green, sixth tee to third green, tenth tee to second green, eleventh tee to fourteenth green, fifteenth tee to sixteenth green, seventeenth tee to first green and second tee to eighteenth green.

—Neuman Brothers' store will be closed all day tomorrow but will remain open until 9:30 tonight. Don't forget it is the proper place to go for all Thanksgiving dinner necessities.

AT THE BOROUGH SCHOOL

Dr. James R. Joy Speaks on Governor Bradford to the High School.

EXERCISES OF OTHER GRADES.

Primary Classes Held Special Exercises In Somerset Street School At Noon—Music a Feature.

Dr. James R. Joy, president of the North Plainfield Board of Education, made the annual Thanksgiving address at the exercises of the high school and grammar grades at the Somerset street school this morning. Music was a feature of the exercises, which were held at the opening of school.

Dr. Joy spoke especially of the patriotic spirit of the Pilgrim forefathers, saying that if such personal interest were felt in the government of the nation today, much of the present difficulty, both financial and political, could be avoided. His subject was William Bradford, one of the early governors of the Plymouth colony. In connection with a sketch of the life of the man, the speaker said that he had taken advantage of an opportunity presented while the Pilgrims were in Holland to learn the Dutch language, the instruction being given by Rev. John Robinson. This knowledge of the Dutch language gave him invaluable service later in the colonies, when he was able to arrange treaties with the Dutch of the New York colony. Dr. Joy, after speaking of this incident, pointed out that many of the pupils of the school expressed dissatisfaction with the subjects offered in the curriculum because history, Latin and modern languages were included in the requirements. "This knowledge may not be of any practical use now," the speaker said, "but you would do well to get all the knowledge you can and have it always available. It may be the inestimable value to each one, just as Dutch proved to Governor Bradford."

Special exercises were held at noon for the primary grades of the Somerset street school. A program of songs and recitations was rendered, and there was a piano solo by Miss Stella McDonald. Among those who took part in the recitations were the Misses Marion Woolley, Magdalen Layton, Elsie Kurfihals, Bertha Bodine, Marielle Dunham, Eva Turner, Marguerite Barkalew, Marjorie Burtis, Emma Cardwell, Henrietta Stewart, Ruth Small, Thomas Ball, Robert Ball, Stanley Burner, William Seidel, Ernest Stahl, and Fred Tomlinson. Pupils of the second and third grades took part in special songs. All the children showed especially good drilling in their various parts and several of the parents were present at the exercises.

Hungarian Editor On Libel Charge.

Rev. Paul Hamborsky, pastor of the Hungarian Presbyterian church, at New Brunswick, has had Arnold Fuchs, a local Hungarian "banker" and editor, arrested on a charge of criminal libel. The charge is based upon statements alleged to have been made by Fuchs in his paper. Fuchs gave bail before Justice of the Peace Sedam in $500. The trouble arises out of a rivalry between two congregations, the Hungarian Presbyterian and the Hungarian Reformed. A week ago Rev. Mr. Hamborskq was horsewhipped by Mrs. A. Nanassy, wife of the Hungarian Reformed pastor at Alpha.

UNITED IN THANKSGIVING

All Protestant Congregations Gather Together in Observance of the National Feast.

MANY MINISTERS TAKE PART.

Dr. Zelie Presides and Rev. Mr. Finn Preaches on "The Royalty Bounty"—Dr. Chambliss Reads Proclamation.

The union Thanksgiving service held at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, yesterday morning, was largely attended by the members of all the evangelical churches of the city and borough. The platform was occupied by ministers from the churches represented, many of whom had a part in the service.

The program with a prelude, "Allegro," Mendelssohn, on the organ, followed with an anthem, "He Sendeth the Spring," Wareing, by the quartet choir. The reading of sentences of Scripture was led by Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, who presided at the service. Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, of the First Baptist church, read the National Thanksgiving Proclamation, and the invocation and the Lord's prayer was by Rev. C. L. Goodrich, of the Congregational church. Rev. J. W. Musson, of Faith chapel, read the Psalter which was concluded with the singing of "The Gloria," by the choir.

Rev. George B. Shaw, of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, read the Scripture lesson and following the singing of a hymn, Rev. E. E. Roberson, of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, offered prayer. The sermon was by Rev. A. E. Finn, of the Park Avenue Baptist church. After the singing of "America," Rev. C. E. Herring, of the First Presbyterian church, read "The General Thanksgiving," the congregation uniting. The choir sang "Now Heaven in Fullest Glory Shone," as an offertory. The collection was for the Plainfield Relief Association. The service closed with the doxology, benediction and postlude, "Festal March," by Smart.

Mr. Finn delivered his sermon from the text, "The Royal Bounty or Retrospection a Stimulus to Thanksgiving." In part he spoke as follows:

"Moments of meditation are not by any means lost moments. If rightly spent they help us to see what God has done for us in the past, force us to make comparisons with the present and inspire us with new hope for the future. When the great trains run into the terminal depot men waiting with hammer and wrench inspect the wheels and try the bolts. It is a time for inspection to see how they have stood the long journey and to see how much more they will endure. Thanksgiving Day is a sort of a great terminal depot, into which the entire human family ought to run at least once a year to reflect upon what God has done for us through the year.

"The circumstances leading up to our text are very significant because what was feared would happen has happened time and again in the human family. People are prone to forget God in the midst of prosperity and abundance.

"Here was a people who had bountiful harvest, whose birds and flock had multiplied, who had been led through a great and terrible wilderness, filled with fiery serpents, and who when the food supply gave out was supplied with manna from heaven. When they began to build their houses they were in danger of sitting down and with boastful spirit saying, 'My power and the might of my hand hath gotten me this wealth.' Moses fearing this charges them 'Remember the Lord Thy God for it is He that giveth thee power to get wealth.'

"It is a great mistake to think that wealth is estimated only in the number of dollars a man has. It has long thought that the wealth of the nation consisted chiefly in the amount of gold and silver they could draw to themselves, and every state endeavored to get from other States as much of it as possible by bounties, custom dues and by regulations restricting trade with foreign countries. Hence rose commercial rivalry, political hostility and finally open war. In the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries more than fifty years of war was caused solely by this false idea of wealth.

"Many regard wealth as only what can be bought and sold. On the contrary it is what is good and useful and there are many things in this world good and useful which money could not buy. A good climate, wells of pure water, broad rivers carrying millions of tons of freight, seas teeming with fish, inexhaustible coal mines, forests filled with timber are some of the things making a country wealthy which money could not place in the land. Besides material wealth there is the immaterial, like knowledge, manual skill and taste for

COUNTRY CLUB DANCE GIVEN BY MISSES FISK

Among the many pleasing social functions held in connection with the Thanksgiving celebration, was the country dance given at the Plainfield Country Club Wednesday night by the Misses Anna and Dorothy Fisk. In all about 100 young society people from this city, New York, Brooklyn and distant points were among the guests. The clubhouse was appropriately decorated with corn husks, straw, pumpkins and Jack-'o-lanterns. Many of the young folks were attired in farmer dress, the men wearing overalls, straw hats and boots, while the young women were gowned in ginghams and sun-bonnets.

Music for the dance was furnished by Austin, of Brooklyn, and the program was one of the best. Supper was served during the evening by David Shay.

Among some of the out-of-town guests were Miss Dixon, of Chicago; Miss Hiccock, of Toledo; Loomis Dana, Harold McCollom, Ernest Hudson, C. B. Stuart, Hart Farley, Ford Johnson, Richard Duane and John Rumsey, of New York.

FIRST ENTERTAINMENT OF Y. M. C. A. STAR COURSE

The Lotus Glee Club and Mrs. Minnie Marshall Smith entertained a large and appreciative audience at the Y. M. C. A. last night in the first of the series of the winter entertainments of the association star course. Every seat in the hall was taken, and the singers and reader were enthusiastically received, giving many encores to the eleven numbers of the program. The Lotus Glee Club, which aside from Charles L. Lewis, musical instructor in the local schools, is made up of Harvey Hindermeyer, first tenor; G. Morgan Stricklett, second tenor, and George Bemus, second bass. Frank J. Smith is conductor and accompanist. The singers appeared in eight numbers on the program and were called out for eleven encores. The selections, combining humerous selections with rounds and part songs, won enthusiastic applause time after time. They were especially successful in their rendition of a grand opera burlesque, where the incident of a fire in an apartment forms the theme for much excellent part singing.

Mrs. Minnie Marshall Smith did well in each of her three numbers. She was accompanied on the piano by L. J. Smith, of the glee club, and her "song," "I like a tune with a raggity measure," given as an encore to the monologue "Behind a Curtain," was especially well received.

The program follows: "Gypsy John," (Clay), Lutus Glee Club; "The Story of the Other Wise Man," (Van Dyke), Mrs. Smith; "The Secret," (Scott), Mr. Hindermeyer; "The Three Fishers," (Goldbeck), Glee Club; "Rory Darling," (Hope Temple), Mr. Lewis; "Behind a Curtain," (Harrison), Mrs. Smith; "Oh, That We Two Were Maying," (Nevin), Mr. Stricklett; "Grand Opera Up To Date," Glee Club; "The Tin Gee-Gee," Mrs. Smith; "The Toreador Love Song," (Conchois), Mr. Bemus; quartette, "You Never Can Tell About a Woman," Glee Club.

Lively Session Expected.

The December meeting of the Common Council will be held Monday night and it is quite likely to be a warm session. A number of matters, including street improvement work will probably be aired by some of the members and an attempt will be made to ascertain who is to blame for the needless delay which has caused merchants so much inconvenience. It is also possible that report may be made concerning the sale of the $68,000 sewer bonds.

HAND WANTS REDRESS

May Seek to Have His Neighbor, Mrs. Caldwell, Indicted as "Common Scold".

IN FASHIONABLE NETHERWOOD.

C. H. Hand Consults Lawyer But A. C. Wilmerding Makes No Move Against the Late John Daniell's Daughter.

Taking exception to remarks made by Mrs. Adelaide Caldwell in her recital of neighborhood troubles to City Judge William N. Runyon, Wednesday, Charles H. Hand, of Belvidere avenue, today consulted a lawyer with a view to bringing suit against her for slander to have her indicted under an old statue as a "common scold." She has repeatedly made charges against her neighbors in fashionable Netherwood and Mr. Hand is backed up by other Belvidere avenue residents who have felt the sting of her allegations.

During the recital of her troubles in the city court, Mrs. Caldwell stated that the children living near her were "fiends." She was asked by Chief Kiely if Herbert Hand, Mr. Hand's son, had annoyed her at any time and she replied:

"Charlie Hand's son has, yes He's not entitled to the respectful address 'Mr.' As far as I'm concerned it's plain Charlie Hand."

It was to this remark that Mr. Hand took especial umbrage and induced him to seek redress He asserted today that Mrs. Caldwell keeps the entire neighborhood in an uproar and that the annoyances she talks about are no more than any resident undergoes. The boys of the neighborhood occasionally run across her lawn, he said, but as a rule they keep as far away from the house as possible. In her statement to Judge Runyon Mrs. Caldwell said the principal offenders were the children of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Wildmerding, who she declared were "utterly out of the control of their parents."

Mrs. Caldwell is the daughter of the late John Daniell, founder of the New York firm of John Daniell and Sons. Her husband is Henry Caldwell who conducts a retail dry goods business in New York.

OVERSEER OF POOR AYER WINS CASE AT FLEMINGTON

Represented by Corporation Counsel Craig Marsh, Overseer of the Poor Alexander Ayres was awarded the ruling in the Hunterdon county court at Flemington today in action brought by Oyerseer of the Poor Van Sickle, of Readington township, that county, for the bill of expenses for care, nursing and medical attention to Mrs. Richard Davis, which Van Sickle claimed the local overseer should pay. The action was in an appealed case and was brought by VanSickle on the grounds that the husband of Mrs. Davis was a Plainfielder. The attempt to shift the expense to this city was frustrated by the local counsel's proof that Davis is legally a resident of Readington township, though he has been living in this city for a time. No witnesses were necessary for the defense. Van Sickle was represented by Newton Wyckliff, assisted by Senator Lodge, of Flemington.

The legal opinions of Corporation Counsel Marsh were sustained by the court in awarding judgment to the defendant in the case.

Following the ceremony, a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride on Grandview avenue and the young couple left shortly after noon for a wedding trip to Washington. "PEACHED" ON SON-IN-LAW

Newarker Sought Revenge on Daughter's Husband by Telling He Ran a "Speak Easy".

ALBERT APGAR THE ACCUSED.

Charge Made Against Him Because He Assaulted His Relative During a Thanksgiving Visit.

Mr. and Mrs. William Haggerty, of Newark, came to Plainfield yesterday to eat Thanksgiving dinner at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Albert Apgar, of Rock avenue. When the appointed dining hour arrived and the big turkey and all the side dishes were on the table, the daughter's husband went down cellar to chop wood and insisted on staying there. The viands began to get cold and the guests became uneasy, so much so that Mrs. Apgar took it upon herself to give her better two-thirds a proper "call down."

Apgar resented what he termed a "jawing" and by way of reply slapped his wife in no gentle way. Father Haggerty 'lowed that he wasn't going to stand by and see his daughter abused and pitched into the son-in-law. The latter wielded his fists in rapid-fire style and pummeled the Newarker pretty badly, finally driving him out of the house by threatening to brain him with a hatchet. After that Mrs. Haggerty and her daughter picked up a few belongings and went to Newark and Mr. Haggerty remained behind to get revenge.

He made his way to police headquarters with his badly marked up features and after relating the story of the fight said he wished to make a complaint against Apgar, not for assaulting him but for selling liquor without a license. He gave facts that showed he knew what he was talking about and Chief Kiely held him until this morning in order to let Judge Runyon receive a formal statemen.

This morning he repeated his charge against the son-in-law and asserted that Apgar had sold liquor regularly to West End shop employes for the past two years. A formal complaint was made out and signed by Haggerty and Detective-Sergeant John Flynn was sent to Rock avenue to arrest the accused.

POLAKS HAVE BIG TIME WITH PARADE AND DANCE

Members of the Seventh battery, First brigade of Polish artillery, reinforced by about a hundred Polish military organizations from out of town, had a day of festivity in the borough yesterday, and wound up a holiday good time with a dance at Saengerbund Hall in the evening. The visiting companies, from Newark, New York and nearby cities, arrived early and the military went to St. Joseph's church at 9:30, where mass was held by Father Miller. A large Polish flag, recently purchased by the South Plainfield corps, was dedicated and blessed at this service, and there was a short address by Father Miller.

The main event of the day was the parade, which started from Saengerbund Hall shortly before noon. With about 200 men in line, the gaudily unformed Polaks, carrying wicked-looking sabres, paraded behind a band from Newark through the principal streets of the city and borough. The Newark corps brought along a field piece and at the house of Mayor-elect Samuel Townsend four salutes were fired and a short drill was held. After marching to Grant avenue, the line turned and came back past Mayor Charles J. Fisk's house. Here there was a stop, but the mayor was at his office, so only three salutes were fired and the drill was curtailed. Most of the paraders got back to Saengerbund Hall about 1 o'clock, and afterwards there was a lunch at the Waldorf Hotel. Though the companies are mostly cavalry, Major Joseph Falkiewicz absolutely refused to mount the horse provided for him as chief marshal of the parade. The animal was a formidable looking beast, so the "major"—who has a long military record, of course—said that he was ashamed to be seen on such a looking beast. He accordingly walked, though hampered by his long sword.

New York talent was supposed to have furnished theatrical entertainment at Saengerbund Hall in the evening, but the committee, while "very much disappointed," got Jan very much disappointed," got Jan Kantarski's band from Jersey City, on the platform to furnish music for a dance, with which the festivities of the tenth annual affair of the South Plainfield corps. J. W. Manhattan was chairman of the committee in charge of the affair.

LOCAL ELKS HOLD A THANKSGIVING SOCIAL

Plainfield Lodge, No. 885, B. P. O. E., entertained its members and guests from out of town with an "old fashioned" Thanksgiving social Wednesday night. The entertainment committee had prepared an enjoyable program and the affair proved to be one of the most enjoyable the "best people" have had in the past year.

Jack Armour, of New York, a professional monologist, furnished the greater part of the program and "made good" with stories, witticisms and imitations. He was ably assisted by Bert Self, also a professional, who rendered several very good baritone solos. Other vocal selections were given by Harry Messersmith, James Stewart and John Traynor, while William Howard made a big hit with dramatic recitations. Judge Runyon and J. Edmund Skiff acted as accompanists on the piano.

At the close of the program, refreshments were served and an hour or more was spent in an informal way.

The entertainment committee, which arranged the affair, was headed by Herbert Buxton.

MISS WARING TO WED ON NEW YEAR'S DAY

Announcement is made of the approaching marriage of Miss May Waring, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. T. Waring, of Park avenue, and Theodore F. Reynolds, of Orange and New York. The event will be celebrated New Year's Day at the home of the bride's parents at 12 o'clock noon, and Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, rector of Grace church, will officiate.

The ceremony will be witnessed by the relatives and intimate friends of the couple, which will include a number of people prominent in society in New York, Orange and this city.

Miss Waring has been a leader in the young society set of this city, and is a favorite in a large host of friends. Mr. Reynolds is also prominent in social circles. He is a member of the New York Stock Exchange and is very active as a trader. He is a graduate of Princeton University and is a member of several New York clubs.

MISS GERTRUDE NEWMILLER NOW MRS. FREDERICK ALLEN.

Miss Gertrude Newmiller, of Summit avenue, and Frederick Augustus Allen, son of David C. Allen, of Harrison street, were married early yesterday afternoon at the home of Rev. Laurance R. Howard, pastor of Hope Chapel. The ceremony was a quiet affair, only a few of the immediate friends of the couple being present. The bride was gowned in a steel grey travelling dress, and was attended by Miss Caroline White. After the ceremony, the couple went to the home of the bride on Summit avenue, where a collation was served.

The couple left for a short wedding trip late in the afternoon and on their return will reside at the home of the bride for the winter. Mr. Allen is a pattern maker in a local shop.

Rahway Girl a Bride.

Miss Florence L. Coffey, of Rahway, who is very well known in Plainfield, and Frank J. Knox, of Elizabeth, were married in St. Mary's church, Rahway, Wednesday afternoon. The ceremony was witnessed by a large gathering of relatives and friends, including many from this city. Miss Coffey was attended by Miss Ada Lammerding, of Trenton, a niece, while the best man was Andrew Knox, of Elizabeth, brother of the groom. The couple afterward left for Washington, D. C., on a wedding trip. Mrs. Knox is a sister to Mrs. Frank J. Shattle, of this city.

Horse Suffocated Itself.

Mrs. Mary Hague, of West Front street, lost one of her valuable horses Wednesday night. The animal got its head fast in a feed tub and suffocated. It was found dead yesterday morning when the workmen went to the barn to feed the horses. This is the second animal she has lost by death within a short time.

An Enjoyable Gathering.

Among the many family gatherings yesterday none was more enjoyable than the one at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore H. Hardy, of Brooklyn, where Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Force and daughter, Miss Lillian A. Force, and Mr. Force's sister, Mrs. S. E. Prescott, enjoyed the day together.

Wilson—Simons.

Miss Elizabeth Simons and William Wilson, colored, of this city, were married last night at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Brinkley, of 410 East Third street, Rev. G. W. Bailey officiating. The couple will reside in Newark.

MARTINE GREETS BRYAN

"Commoner" and "Farmer-orator" Hold Secret Conference in New York.

BOTH DISCUSS THE SITUATION.

New Jersey's "Fearless" Leader Tells Democracy's "Peerless" Leader That He Is "The Man of the Hour."

"Farmer-orator James E. Martine, who was defeated for the Democratic nomination for Governor at the last convention of the party in this State, thereby costing the Democrats the office according to former Congressman Allen McDermott and other wise ones, held a secret conference with William Jennings Bryan at the Hoffman House in New York early today. His visit was in response to a telegram from the "Boy Orator of the Platte" to see him in New York and as the Jersey stalwart is his most ardent admirer and warmest personal friend in the East it is needless to say that he took the first train to Gotham shortly after the sun rose this morning.

For more than an hour, the two Democratic leaders talked privately in Mr. Bryan's suite of rooms at the Hoffman House and afterwards neither would say anything about what transpired excepting to give out that it was "merely an informal meeting among old friends." It is known, however, that Mr. Martine impressed upon Mr. Bryan that in his opinion the Nebraskan was stronger than ever in the East and that it was his duty to become a candidate for the Presidential nomination again. The Plainfielder explained to Mr. Bryan why he had recently defended the President in attacks made on him by local people and his attitude met with the hearty approval of the author of "The First Battle" and "The Second Battle."

Mr. Bryan complimented Mr. Martine on the showing he made in the United States Senatorial election in the Legislature last winter when he was defeated by United States Senator Frank O. Briggs by just six votes. He also expressed regret, it is said, that Martine had not received the Democratic nomination for Governor.

Mr. Martine was the happiest man in New York today, for he said he saw visions of a Democratic landslide in the next Presidential campaign.

Mr. Bryan left the Hoffman House shortly after 8 a. m. to fill an engagement.

MISS GRACE DUNN THE BRIDE OF JAMES SCOTT.

Miss Grace Dunn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrtick Dunn, of South avenue, and James Scott, of West Fifth street, were married in St. Mary's church at 10 o'clock yesterday morning. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Delehanty and was witnessed by a large gathering of friends. Miss Margaret Daley, of Richmond street, and Neil Scott, brother of the groom, were the attendants.

Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Scott were tendered a reception at the home of the bride's parents after which they left for Staten Island, where they will remain a short time. They will make their home for the winter with Mr. and Mrs. Dunn. The groom is employed at the Rushmore Dynamo Works and is well known as a baseball player.

Miss Garthwaite Entertains.

Miss Jessie Garthwaite entertained about forty of her friends at her home, 531 West Front street, Wednesday night. The feature of the evening was a progressive Salamagundi, and a peanut game, together with a musical program. Prizes were awarded at the conclusion of the games. Charles Merquelin received the prize for the men and Miss Viola Taylor the one for the women. The booby prizes were won by Miss Emma Monahan and Edwin Monahan. There were guests from Newburg, Union Hill, Elizabeth, Somerville and Plainfield.

Services to Close Sunday Night.

Rev. Charles S. Dennis, who has been conducting evangelistic services at the Rescue Mission, W. C. T. U. rooms, will conclude his labors here Sunday night with a rally at the Y. M. C. A. Hall. Charles L. Lewis will sing several selections, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Lewis.

Will Tell of Conference Work.

Swedish Lutheran services will be held at the German Lutheran church on Grove street tonight at 8 o'clock. A feature will be addresses by four ministers from the annual conference, who will tell of the work accomplished there.

"A Value Always Better Than Elsewhere."

The Suits Prove Our Claims of Watson Superiority.

It isn't what we SAY about Watson-made suits that makes them the best values in Newark. Good advertising, good salesmanship, good apeparance of suits when displayed—these things help to sell suits, ONCE, to buyers, but thinking buyers do not return later unless they are satisfied with the SERVICE given by the suits. Our big business has been built up on CONTINUED, repeated buying by the same customers, year after year. And if we can sell you a Watson-made suit, and induce you to compare it with other suits, point by point, in PERMANENCE of fit, elegance, style and actual wearing qualities—then you'll always buy Watson-made clothing. It's plain commonsense.

Watson-made Suits, $10, $12, $15, $18, $20, $22, $25.

Overcoat Values That Break Records.

Watson values are always good. We have never sold an overcoat that was not worth the price—seldom sold one that was not better than could be had elsewhere in Newark. But THIS season we're making a new record—partly due to fortunate buying of fabrics, partly to additional economies in one department of our business, making it possible to put more careful work into the tailoring. So you can pick from our magnificent line of diagonal grays, correct browns, mixtures and blacks, knowing that you are getting better value than ever before—and far better than you could possibly find elsewhere.

Overcoats, $10, $12, $15, $18, $20, $22, $25 to $40.

LITERARY

The Christmas number of Scribner's Magazine contains many rich and beautiful illustrations in color, notably "The Child in Fairyland," a series of drawings by Sarah S. Stilwelll, fanciful and graceful, which is accompanied with verses by Edith B. Sturgis. Another striking series of illustrations accompanies "Josiah Wedgewood: American Sympathizer and Portrait Maker." R. T. H. Halsey, who for many years has been making this collection, which is probably the finest in existence, has made a selection of portraits of particular interest to Americans. These are reproduced with the blue background and the white portrait in relief, with all the beauty and delicacy of the originals. Mr. Halsey's article contains a great deal of little-known history in regard to Wedgwood's sympathy with the American Revolution, with many unpublished letters.

The Fight for the Forests.

Stewart Edward White is to publish an article in the January American Magazine on "The Fight for the Forests." On one side, he says, is the destructive greed of a few and on the other the splendid work of the government in preserving wealth which, if riotously invaded, may later have to be replaced at a cost of three billion dollars. The article is to be published just as Congress is opening in the hope that it will help awaken the public to the danger of a sudden attack upon the Forestry Service in Washington this winter. Last year an organized raid on the Service was made. The attack failed, but more trouble is promised this winter.

The Patient Contributors.

They are a patient tribe, these poor contributors, and they seldom turned upon me. Now and then they did, though, and weakened a just resentment. This I took meekly when I had some excuse; when I had none, I returned it with a high professional scorn, tacit or explicit, which I am afraid editors still practive toward injured contributors; for if I, a very good man, as editors go, could carry myself so to their indignation, what must be the behavior of the average wicked editor of this degenerate day? I hate still to think of their vengeance, but how much more of their pardon, patient, silent sanitly?—W. D. Howells, in the November Atlantic.

Russian Priests.

Between the higher clergy and the village priests stretches a gulf deep and wide. The former have opportunities for education and have open to them all the higher positions in the church; the latter are barred from attaining the higher positions, and as a class are very poor and very ignorant. And even worse. On all sides I heard stories of bribe-taking, of drunkenness, of cheating, of lying, of lowest immorality, even of plain stealing.—Leroy Scott, in the December Everybody's.

Millionaire's Artistic Concrete Residence.

The new John D. Spreckels mansion in Southern California, says Cement Age, will be one of the most costly and artistic buildings in that section of the country. It will be reinforced concrete. In color, it is to be a light cream, with inlays of Alps green marble faience These, with a plentiful use of potted cedars, and bay and olive trees as accessory decorations, will complete the color scheme.

In the Circle.

The real Santa Claus must have come straight from his toy-shop to pose for the cover which J. C. Leyendecker has painted for the Christmas number of The Circle. The cover is but an introduction to a wealth of Yule-tide good things for The Circle celebrates its first Christmas right royally. There is appropriate fiction by such notable writers as Gilbert Parker, Maude L. Radford, Frank H. Sweet, Georgia Wood Pangborn, and Egerton Castle, in all a splendid collection of Christmas tales. . . . . The turkey and plum pudding will taste far better after reading Ethel M. Colson's article, "Christmas Day in the Stock Yards District." This is an account of the genuine joy which the University of Chicago Settlement brings each year to "Packingtown." Reginald de Koven, this country's favorite composer, has linked us with Christmases of centuries ago by setting to new music two old English carols.

Letters of An Old Soldier.

Gen. Charles Hamilton, an old West Pointer, who began his military career during the Mexican War, wrote a number of letters while with Taylor's army which are published for the first time in the Christmas Metropolitan Magazine. The general, then a dashing young lieutenant, tells simply of the tragic and stirring events in which he played a part. He was apparently a young man of very strong convictions, and his comments upon his superior officers, especially those about General, afterward President, Zachary Taylor, are extremely interesting, to personal are they, and, perhaps, impertinent.

The Red Book.

The thousands of Americans who laughed over Gelett Burgess' admirable essay, "Are You a Bromide," will read with keen relish his sparkling motor story, "Courtesy of the Road," which serves to open the feast of fiction in The Red Book Magazine for Christmas. No less interesting, if of quite another sort, is F. L. Stealey's tale of the border,

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS

DUNELLEN

The holiday passed off quietly in the borough. Many were away, visiting out of town friends in city or country, but so many entertained guests that, if anything, there was a temporary increase in the population. In the morning, about a score of football enthusiasts "heeled" the local eleven to Somerville for the football game and as many, in small parties, went off with dog and gun on a day's shooting. Though a few of the hunters brought back rabbits or birds, many said they "only went for the walk," and took a gun along only in case they scared up anything. After the holiday dinner, parties went to Plainfield for basketball or the theatre though there was a large congregation at the union Thanksgiving service held in the evening at the Seventh-Day Baptist church, New Market. The church was decorated with chrysanthemums, grain and corn, and there was special Thanksgiving music by a choir including members from the other churches. The sermon was preached by Rev. E. C. Dutcher, pastor of the Methodist church and the offering received will be turned over to the Children's Home at Trenton.

Nearly $30 was netted as the result of the bread, cake and pie sale held under the auspices of the ladies of the First Baptist church in the parish house Wednesday afternoon.

Charles H. Thornton, of New Market, distributed turkeys, geese, chickens and pigs to his tenants Wednesday night, according to his regular annual custom.

The Defender Fire Company will hold a regular meeting in the fire house tonight, when officers will be elected for the coming year.

Raymond and John Dutcher attended the masquerade ball given at the Westfield Club Wednesday night.

Dr. D. C. Main has moved into the flat he recently rented in the new Kuldoshes building.

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Booth and Miss Booth, of Central avenue, sailed last Saturday on the Coronia for Europe. They will spend the winter in the South of France for the benefit of Mr. Booth's health.

A Woman Director.

Miss Mary E. Orr, assistant treasurer and director of the Remington Typewriter Company, is the first woman ever to enter the directorate of a great American corporation. The fact that she has done so simply by her own efforts is also a wonderful phase of her life story. THE MODERN LOCHINVAR.

When young Lochinvar rode out from the west,
He claimed that his automobile was the best;
It was painted dark red and it brilliantly shone.
He went like a streak and he rode all alone;
He shot over ruts with a zipp and a ja:,
And people fled madly from young Lochinvar.

With a whirr of his wheels and a hum of his cogs
He knocked down the childfen and ran over dogs;
He frightened the horses and laughed at their pranks,
And men who got angry he looked on as cranks;
He gave her the very last notch on the bar
And a cloud of dust followed the gay Lochinvar.

He stayed not at bridges, he stopped not for stone,
He calmly took all of the roads as his own,
Till he came to a crossing and smashed through a gate
And endeavored to butt through a trainload of freight—
They searched, and at last, lying under a car,
They found a few chunks of the bold Lochinvar.

WHEN DAD'S MAD.

Brave men have fears at times, I know,
And suffer quaking knees;
When face to face they meet a foe,
In times of danger brave men show
The sturdiness of trees.
And yet when calling on his girl,
The brave man trembles so;
If suddenly there comes a call,
Resounding from the upper hall:
"Why don't you let him go?"

He may not heed the lion's roar,
Nor dread a savage beast;
In dead of night a sudden noise,
May not disturb his mental poise,
Nor scare him in the least.
But clinging in a fond embrace.
If there should come this shout,
(He'll quickly drop his little dear,
Reach for his hat and run in fear);
"Pray turn that fellow out!"

The time must come to every man,
When fear his wits enthrall;
But there's no danger that compares
With that which thunders down the stairs,
And ends a pleasant call.
Brave though he be, he trembles then
And fearfully takes flight,
When father leaves his peaceful bed
And shouts these words from overhead:
"Think you he'll stay all night?"

THE SHIRTWAIST BOX.

Something much neater and prettier than the print-covered shirtwaist boxes can be made into a splendid house ornament as well as a serviceable article. Select the size wooden box which you wish to hold the waists. Cover with leatherette. This is remarkably cheap and can be purchased at any furniture store or where upholstering is done. With it one can buy leatherette binding and tacks of the same material. Chocolate brown and olive green or deep wine colors are the best for this work. The box can be plainly covered or tufted. In tufting the outside must be covered with a layer or two of cotton, and begin tacking the goods in the very centre, working toward the edges. This makes the little puffs more even. In driving the leather-headed tacks, place a piece of goods over each tack when pounding with the hammer. Allow plenty of goods to work with if tufting is done. They are easily cleaned, hold no dust and are quite an improvement over the first ones we had.

Somerset Council, No. 102, J. O. U. A. M., will initiate its three hundredth member tonight, and on Friday night, December 6, the council will celebrate the event.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

FOOTBALL.

The football season of 1907 will come to a close tomorrow when West Point and Annapolis will engage in their annual contest on Franklin Field, Philadelphia. This is always one of the greatest gridiron battles of the year owing to the pronounced rivalry between the two institutions. The feeling existing between Uncle Sam's representative football teams is probably keener than the spirit existing between partisans at a Princeton-Yale game. Before the new rules came in vogue two years ago the Army-Navy contest was generally looked upon as a test of strength, rather than skill, and now under new conditions strategy and skill play an important part with bulldog strength.

It is estimated that a crowd between twenty and twenty-five thousand will see the contest, including many distinguished visitors from Washington, which will include President Roosevelt and his cabinet, foreign diplomats, judges, Senators and Congressmen. The Army and Navy will also be represented by the high officials from these departments.

On past performances during the present season West Point is a slight favorite over the midshipmen. What makes the chances of the cadets look particularly bright was the game against Yale, in which neither team has experienced a few setbacks, but the midshipmen are doubly confident of defeating their old rivals. The team has improved in its work during the past few weeks and is in fine condition for a hard battle. Rodney Smith, captain of the West Point eleven, predicts a victory for the soldiers. As both teams are reported to be in good condition, the general impression is that the game will result in a close score.

Emil Waseuka, left tackle of this season's team, has been elected captain of the Carlisle eleven for next year. The balloting was held on the train returning from Chicago, and the new captain was almost unanimously elected. Waseuka is twenty-three years old, weighs 190 pounds and is five feet nine inches tall. He is expected to make as magnetic a leader as his immediate predecessor, Lubs.

Arthur Brides, who has been a brilliant star in Yale's backfield this season, is spoken of as the likely candidate for the Yale captaincy for next year.

A report from West Point states that the time-honored Army mule will be relegated to the rear this season and that a huge Teddy Bear will be the mascot of the Army eleven against Annapolis tomorrow.

The Carlisle Indians had the longest and hardest schedules of any of the big teams this season. Although the Indians played practically all of their games on foreign gridirons; they cleaned up $90,000 on the season.

Coach Yost, of Michigan, after viewing the Chicago-Carlisle game Saturday, said: "Give Michigan, Chicago and Minnesota the free lance and handicap the East to seven games, no pre-season training and no training table, and the three Western teams would win from any three Eastern teams. And still, with the restrictions in the West, Michigan earned a tie with Pennsylvania this year, and it has been mathematically demonstrated that Captain Magoffin's touchdown should have been allowed. The East has yet to show me where they have it on the West under equal conditions.

work. Both the material and immaterial wealth combines to make a country rich and happy.

"While these are things to remember there are also in the words of Paul things to forget. Let us forget the things that have contributed to the development of pride, envy and malice and to spiritual degeneracy. We are confronted with a danger of remembering the events of the past few weeks and their shrunken fortunes, great losses, great failures, suicides and gloom in business, home and social life, while we forget the royal bounties that have been ours during the year. We give thanks this morning that our God is the God of nations as well as individuals, that the fields and flocks have brought forth their increase; that no pestilence have destroyed our people, that no drought has made our planting vane, that we have been preserved from strife among ourselves and have been kept in peace with nations of the world, that advance movements have been made toward safeguarding the sacred institution of the home, that by legislative enactment and growth of public sentiment the power of the liquor traffic is being lessened, that capital and labor are coming to a better understanding, that our sense of social obligations is deepening and civic conscience is awakening; that there is a growing sentiment among us that national defense against war than armies and navies and fortifications of earth and stone. Reflecting upon all these things we can still say the the Lord of Host is with us, the God of Jacob is our refuge.

"Thanksgiving Day comes with its annual reminder of the fathers who in the midst of their poverty and distress, their danger and turmoil, thank God for the meager blessings they were permitted to enjoy. If our fathers with their scanty store remember to thank God, how much more ought we with comfortable homes, abundance of everything and free from hostility and danger remember to thank God from whom all blessings flow.

"Conditions of peace are essential to conditions of prosperity. They give the people power to gain wealth. So we ought to remember the Lord because He has kept war from devastating our land, and preserved us from disease.

"In this age we are always looking at results and want to know where we stand. Thanksgiving time is the time to take account of stock, to know how God has been dealing with us. In taking this account we shall find that our blessings for outnumber our sorrows. As I think of the power that God has given the American people, and of the immense wealth we have been able to accumulate; the wonderful mineral resources, forests filled with timber such as can be found in no other land, a climate and soil producing every variety of fruit and grain known to the world; as I think how the knowledge and skill of man has been able to cover the earth with means of rapid transit, span the ocean depths with means of international navigation and flash the wireless message through the air; how they have been able to make the wind their charioteer, the sun their artist and the lightning their messenger, I ask myself the question, are we not God's chosen people? Is He worthy to be remembered? and worthy of all praise and thanksgiving?"

INCREASE IN RATABLES

In Union County 7 Per Cent Higher as Against 92 Per Cent Last Year.

ACTUAL RAISE IS $106,259,437.

State Board of Tax Equalization Reports That In the State the Increase Is Fifty-one Per Cent.

According to the figures contained in the annual report of the State Board of Tax Equalization the ratables of Mercer county were increased $8,203,403 over last year's figures.

The total increase in the valuation of taxable property in this State for the year 1907, over the year 1906, is $271,317,345, the total ratables this year being $1,841,527,418, as against $1,570,210,073 for 1906, an increase of 17 per cent. Of this increase $168,460,308 occurs in Hudson county, which is an advance of 56 per cent. over last year's assessment, and is over 62 per cent. of the whole State increase for this year. In Union county the increase this year is seven per cent. against ninty-two per cent. last year. The increase in Union county is $106,259,437, and in Somerset county, $22,547,093. In its report the Board of Tax Equalization further says:

"The county boards of taxation have proved as a rule very efficient factors in bringing about assessments according to law, and it was due to the fact that last year's assessment in Hudson county was made without such supervision, the board not having then been appointed, that true value was ignored and so great an increase this year was necessitated.

"This board caused to be passed by the Legislature—Chapter 127, Laws of 1907—which included in the return of ratables and exemptions from eavh taxing district the amount of money to be raised by taxation for local purposes, that is, the local tax budget. Thus, for the first time, the tables disclose the total amount to be raised by taxation in each taxing district of the State, and how this is divided among State school tax, county tax and the tax for local expenditures. The total amounts in the State are as follows: State school tax, $3,238,676.41; county tax, $6,501,614.58; local tax, $20,784,520.80."

It will be seen from these figures that the total amount of tax raised throughout the State is $30,524,811.79. The report reviews the railroad taxation legislation and court opinions, concluding the review as follows:

"The full effect of this legislation is not yet felt, because of the litigation by which the railroads are fighting this enormous but just increase of their tax burden. So far, every decision rendered has sustained these enactments, and it is confidently expected that they will be upheld by the courts of last resort. The only question concerning railroad taxation remaining in controversy is not one of amount of tax, but, shall the main stem be assessed as a whole by the State for the benefit of all the localities, or shell it be assessed in parcels by and for the benefit of the respective localities wherein it is located? Public sentiment differs thereon in accordance with geographical conditions."

N.P.H.S. ELEVEN IN TIE GAME

Scored Ten Points in Second Half of Game With Alumni Eleven Yesterday.

THE FINAL SCORE WAS 10-10.

With the score of 10-0 against them in the first half of the game with the alumni eleven yesterday morning, the North Plainfield high school got together at the whistle for the second half, and were almost successful in their effort to repeat the Yale-Princeton game, for when time was called at the end of the game, the score was 10-10. The game was played on the Westervelt avenue field, and about 400 people turned out to see the gridiron combat.

The borough schoolboys played nine men of their regular team and Nash, of the Holy Cross club, and Taylor Mahaffey, a former graduate of the school, took the places of the absent undergraduates. In the absence of "Tone" Overton, the borough captain, "Bully" McClintock, fullback for the undergraduates, acted as temporary captain. "Turkey" Webster captained the alumni team, which outweighed the schoolboys by nearly fifteen pounds to the man. Each team scored a touchdown, Peacock got a goal from the field, and Fullback McClintock made the other four points for the undergraduates by a kick from placement.

The alumni started the game with a rush, gaining steadily through the line adn occasionally using the forward pass for yards at a time. Rob Hamilton went over the line with ths ball about five minutes after the game started. Peacock kicked the goal. After the next kick-off, the alumni forced the boroughites to punt and worked the ball to the undergraduates' 25-yard line near the edd of the half. Here Peacock kicked a field goal, and the half ended shortly afterwards with the score 10-0 in favor of the alumni.

In the second half, the undergraduates got busy and by fast and accurate play, gains around the ends of the line, and the successful use of the forward pass, soon had the ball in the alumni territory. After three minutes of play, Nash took the ball on a forward pass and ran 35 yards for a touchdown. McClintock kicked the goal. Near the end of the half, with the ball near their opponents' 25 yard line, "Bully" McClintock signalled for a fair catch of a punt. Webster and M. Van Arsdale interfered, and the referee gave the undergraduates fifteen yards. On the next line-up McClintock kicked a goal from placement, near the 25-yard line. Time was called shortly afterwards.

CIVIL WAR DRAMA ACTED BY SOUTH PLAINFIELD PEOPLE

With a cast of characters made up of South Plainfield people, the Civil War drama, "Our Jim," was presented with great suc cessat Washington Hall, South Plainfield, Wednesday night. The "S. R. O." sign was put out early, and each of the characters did well in their parts. Among the amateur footlight stars deserving especial mention was William Hamilton, who gave an excellent character sketch, and whose work as "Deacon Hezekiah Tidd" in the Virginia reel brought down the house. The dance was played by Miss Emma Faulks and Howard Snowden. The Misses Una and Edna Eckart, soprano and alto, and Frank Fisher, basso, rendered several selections between the acts. Niel Potter acted as accompanist.

The Misses Ray and Anna Warnock, of Craig place, are spending the Thanksgiving holidays with relatives at Leonia.

BROKE, BROKE, BROKE.

(With apologies to the memory of Tennyson.)

Broke, broke, broke,
I am old gray Jones, I be.
And I would that the bread and butter
Had brought no surprise to me.

Oh, h—l for the restaurant boy
That he shouts to me: "Mister, you pay!"
Oh, h—l for the tailor's lad
That he sings to the cop 'cross the way.

And the stately cops came on
From the station under the hill;
But I owe for a lunch of the vanished ham,
And I'm bound to owe for it still.

Broke, broke, broke,
Head to foot in my rags to be;
But the tender taste of the ham and the bread
Will ever come back to me.

To Lessen Hours of Labor.

The German government has sent to the federal council for its approval an important measure to be laid before the reichstag in November, reducing and limiting the hours of labor for females in factories and workshops and in other particulars approaching the proposals of the Berne convention. The maximum hours for females are to be reduced from eleven to ten, and all employment of females is to be forbidden which interferes with their night's rest. The bill also provides for the regulation of home industries in such a way that numerous existing abuses will be remedied.

Boston Printers Get Raise.

A new scale of wages for newspaper printers has been successfully negotiated at Boston by Typographical Union No. 13. Hereafter the morning newspapers will pay $27 per week of forty-two hours and the evening papers $25 for the same number of hours. No one will be allowed to work more than eight hours in any one day except in case of emergency.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church will hold a Thanksgiving service tonight. Miss Ethel Lorton will lead.

MAY BE MANY CHANGES BY GAME COMMISSION.

As outlined the New State Fish and Game Commission at its meeting for organization at Trentan Monday elected B. C. Kuser and Walter H. Fell, of Trenton, president and secretary respectively. William A. Logue, of Bridgeton, was elected treasurer. The other members of the board, S. H. Rollinson, of West Orange, and Percival A. Christie, of High Bridge, were also present. The books and papers of the old board were turned over by Benjamin P. Morris, of Long Branch, who was president of that body and also filled the other offices.

Commissioner Rollinson named E. D. Wood, of Hopewell, as game warden for Mercer county as successor of H. L. Cook. Other wardens who will not be retained are A. W. Hughes, Passaic county; Charles Minard, Morris county; Louis 2. Foulks, Ocean county, and Charles Ross, of Cape May county. Protector James M. Stratton and the remainder of the wardens will be retained for the present, at least, but sweeping changes are expected to be made by the new board.

The new president is a brother of Colonel A. R. Kuser, of Newark; John L. and Rudolph V. Kuser, of Trenton. He is a coal and ice merchant and has a large game preserve in Pennsylvania. He is deeply interested in game protection. Mr. Fell is city editor of the Trenton State Gazette.

The board will submit the following recommendations for changes of the present fish and game law to the incoming Legislature:

To exact a gun license and a license for non-residents, no spring shooting, abolishing July shooting of woodcock, no sale of game, woodcock season October 1 in North Jersey and November 1 in South Jersey.

Bass fishing to open July 15, no nets except for minnows to be used after July 15, limit amount of game one person can shoot and amount of game to be taken out of the State.

License fee to be exacted from unnaturalized foreigners the same as from non-residents.

Prevent use of fish baskets and eel weirs and no pound net fishing within one mile of the coast.

Besides these recommendations the commission took up the matter of making plans for the raising of pheasant within the State for stocking purposes.

To Form Negro Democratic Clubs.

The first of a number of Democratic clubs of colored voters for Union county is about to be organized in Elizabeth. When it has succeeded in opening a home for itself the work of organizing other clubs throughout the county will be pushed with quiet vigor. During the last campaign there was much talk of the colored vote, which has always been looked upon as solidly Republican, swinging into the Democratic fold, but it was not taken seriously until yesterday, when David Merritt, who is a sort of factotum for General Dennis F. Collins, the chairman of the Democratic county committee and president of the City Council, called on a number of the more prominent Democratic office-holders for contributions toward the establishment of a club. Mr. Merritt said that it was the aim of the Republican promoters of the Democratic club idea to make the organization primarily political and incidentally a social coterie.

Matter of Fact.

A visitor from London found in a cafe at Rotterdam a Dutchman who had been about a bit and who spoke English perfectly well.

This Dutchman was smoking a china pipe of remarkable size and beauty, and the Londoner, an admirer and collector of such bric-a-brac, took the liberty to comment upon it.

"You could not stumble upon a pipe like that every day," said the Englishman.

The Dutchman took three or four whiffs at the pipe and then slowly removed it from his mouth.

"Certainly not without breaking it," he said, gravely.—London Chronicle.

Lanning's Store Sold.

Florham Park, Nov. 29—The store property formerly owned by former Postmaster George M. Lanning, who is serving a seven years' sentence for forging borough notes, has just been sold by the Morristown Trust Company to the highest bidder, Charles Corey, of Newark, brother of Frederick Corey, custodian for Florham Park. Mr. Corey purchased the store, contents, horses and wagons. The price paid was $3,500. Besides the store there are two other properties for sale, the homestead and a very handsome house of twelve rooms on Ridgedale avenue.

Soft and Light.

A lady famed for her skill in cooking was entertaining a number of her friends at tea. Everything on the table was much admired, but the excellence of the sponge cake was especially the subject of remark.

"Oh," exclaimed one of the guests, "it is so beautifully soft and light! Do tell me where you got the recipe!"

"I am very glad," replied the hostess, "that you find it so soft and light. I made it out of my own head."—Illustrated Bits.

HON. S. B. HERMAN IS WELL AGAIN

Noted Oregon Statesman Restored to Health on Recent Eastern Trip.

Hon. Shiller B. Herman, distinguished statesman and legislator of Portland, Oregon, who was recently on an eastern trip, is among those strongly in favor of L. T. Cooper, in the discussion over Cooper and his medicines, which has raged for the past year in cities visited by the young man on his educative campaigns, as he calls them.

Cooper was explaining his new theories and medicines to Boston people during the Oregonian's visit to that city, and in a recent interview Mr. Herman said: "My trip east accomplished more for me than I ever believed possible. It has actually been the means of restoring my health. While in Boston I heard a great deal about this man Cooper and his medicines, and one morning I talked with a Boston banker who told me that he had been relieved by Cooper's medicines after ten years' chronic dyspepsia. For the past twenty years I have been a fearful sufferer with nervous dyspepsia. It has been so bad that it all but forced me to resign from the legislature.

"I was feeling wretchedly that morning, and I made up my mind to try the medicine. I had seen leading physicians without number both East and West. They had been unable to help me in the least, and I no more believed this Cooper medicine could help me than it could bring a dead man back to life. I really don't know why I bought it. It was like a drowning man clutching at a straw.

"To make a long story short, it has been astonishingly successful in my case. Today I am enjoying a sound stomach and perfect health for the first time in twenty years. I can eat heartily without the slightest inconvenience afterward. I have a fine appetite, and sleep well. I am no longer moody and depressed, and my nervousness has entirely disappeared.

"Any man who has chronic dyspepsia owes it to his family to try this medicine."

In all our experience as druggists, we have never seen anything to surpass the famous Cooper preparations.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

Always alert for novelties in the field dramatic the Rowland and Clifford Amusement Co. will tender to patrons of the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow afternoon and night, a great melodramatic and musical comedy success in "The Original Cohen." It is a true character study of the people who have made New York's Bowery world-famous. The play relates a thrilling story through which runs a tale of love, a strain of pathetic interest and embodies a masterly characterization of the simple life that lives and breathes in every tenement section. There are also a number of singing and dancing specialties, a chorus, and a great deal of comedy.

Lillian Russell, in her search for accuracy of detail in scenes for her new racing comedy, "Wildfire," made a study of the stables and quarters of the racetrack at Sheepshead Bay. All of the information garnered by Miss Russell was put to use when the second act of the comedy, which is laid in a trainer's quarters, was staged, and on next Monday night at the New Plainfield theatre the public will have opportunity to note the result of her observations. John Hyland, the famous trainer, was Miss Russell's guide and mentor in her hunt for local color. Little Willie Cullan was her tutor on the duties of a jockey, and the racer "Monopolist" posed as a model for "Wildfire," the horse in the Broadhurst and Hobart comedy.

"Brown from Missouri," which will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre next Tuesday night, "will show you" the best evening's enjoyment you have had in years. Tuneful music, bright dialogue, clever comedians, pretty women, good singers and dancers of high order, all contribute in making one of the most successful farce comedies produced in recent years. As popular prices rule with this excellent attraction, the theatre should be packed to its utmost capacity.

Lew Welch, the versatile character actor, will be seen in a new play entitled "The Shoemaker," written for him by Hal Reid, at the New Plainfield theatre next Thursday night. "The Shoemaker" is said to hold the attention of the audience from start to finish, and mirrors human nature in all of its saillent and truthful phases.

SAW HIS OPPORTUNITY.

The Reporter Seized It and Got His Real Start In Life.

All the city travelling public loves a strap hanger because it has a fellow feeling for him. This is why the story of how Frank Vanderlip, the banker, got his start has an almost universal appeal. It happened when Vanderlip was a reporter on a Chicago newspaper and writing financial news. The traction situation then, as now, was almost impossible. Chas. T. Yerkes was traction dictator, and the stockholders and the public never had a word to say in the conduct of the roads. Nor could they get any definite idea of the financial condition of the properties.

The time for the annual meeting of the stockholders of the principal road came along. At all the meetings Mr. Yerkes had rattled off the reports in the usual undecipherable corporation way, and no one knew what was doing. So Vanderlip planned a coup. He bought a share of stock, which admitted him to the meeting. He had been a stenographer before he became a newspaper man. When Mr. Yerkes sailed into his breezy explanation of finances the young reporter took down everything he said. Mr. Yerkes used one striking phrase, and it was this:

"The passengers who have seats pay the operating expenses, but the strap hangers pay your dividends."

The next day the sentence topped Vanderlip's account of the meeting. It aroused a storm of discussion, for it laid bare some of the traction methods; also it got Vanderlip a raise in salary and a promotion.—Saturday Evening Post.

A Bit of Sarcasm.

Tennis Season Concluded.

The tennis season at the Plainfield Country Club was concluded yesterday when the finals in the mixed doubles event were played. They were postponed from time to time and yesterday seemed to be the first opportunity for the contestants to play. Miss Edna Wildey and Wylie Brown beat Miss Mildred Wildey and Willard Wadsworth, 7—5, 6—2.

Kerro Knox and his friend, Mr. Dowd, of Philadelphia, spent Thanksgiving Day at the home of the former on Rockview avenue.

Edwin B. Smith, of Westfield, was one of the American travellers who signed the register at the Paris office of the New York Herald yesterday.

Holiday Chase Postponed.

On account of the very soft condition of the ground the Watchung Hunt Club decided to hold no chase yesterday as planned. The riders were to meet at the Mt. Pleasant Schoolhouse, but after a conference it was decided to meet at the same place Saturday afternoon, when the Thanksgiving Day course will be followed.

Paul A. Sorg's string of thoroughbred show horses to the number of sixteen, together with Judge William H. Moore's fine string arrived here yesterday and will be stabled at the horse show grounds of the Plainfield Riding and Driving Club for the winter in charge of James Gethin. Mr. Sorg's horses made a great showing when they arrived in town yesterday attached to a handsome tally-ho. Some of the New Yorkers and others who came to Plainfield yesterday to take part in the weekly chase of the Watchung Hunt Club, spent a part of the morning making difficult jumps near the club's quarters on Park avenue.

NAVAL RESERVES LOST

Y. M. C. A. Five Defeated Fast Hoboken Team by Score of 55 to 32.

MORE THAN 200 SAW GAME.

Second Team Won From Business Men 36-14 Between the Halves —Plainfielder On Reserve Five.

A holiday crowd of more than 200 people saw the Y. M. C. A. five defeat the Naval Reserves of Hoboken 55-32 at the association gymnasium yesterday afternoon and between the halves of this game saw the Y. M. C. A. second team win from the five class 36-14. The Naval Reserve game was the first regular game of the season for the association five and the boys showed lots of speed in the game yesterday, trimming decisively the team that took a game from them during last season. A good part of the crowd stood up during both contests, overflowing the seating capacity of the gallery, and the play, though in both the contests loose and ragged at times, was fast and snappy on the whole.

Y. M. C. A. 55, Naval Reserve 32.

The regular game was started at the conclusion of the first half of the second team's game with the business men. The visitors caged the ball within a minute after the whistle blew and scored another basket before the local five began the scoring by a basket from the floor. At the start, the teams see-sawed for the lead for a time, but soon the local five took the lead and kept well ahead of the Reserves, leading by fifteen points at the end of the half, when the score stood 30-15. Harvey Douglass, who played left forward for the visitors, is a member of the local association.

In the second half, the visitors showed a tendency to "rought it up" in the playing and, though the passing and shooting of the home team was good at times, the game showed some loose playing and careless passing on both sides. Time after time fouls were called for roughness. The final score was 55 to 32, and the summaries follow:

Y. M. C. A.		NAVAL RESERVES.
Gilmore	left forward	Douglass
Rumsey, Miner, Hoagland	right forward	Vogt
Collier	centre	Dwyer
Loizeaux	right guard	Campion

Baskets from the floor, Loizeaux, 8; Collier, 7; Gilmore, 6; Dougless, 5; Vogt, 5; Bredenbeck, 3; Rumsey, 2; Hoagland, Dwyer, Campion. Goals from fouls, Collier, 7; Douglass, 2.

Y. M. C. A. 2nd 36, Business Men 14.

The second team had it all their own was from the whistle and the game was marked by individual playing rather than by team work. The passing was ragged and inaccurate, but some of the baskets were from brilliant shots from the floor. At the end of the first half, the score was 21-8, and the business men could not overcome the big lead in the second half. The summaries:

Y. M. C. A. 2nd—Templin, lf; Bentley, rf; Martin, c; Woodland, lg; Jacot, rg.

Business Men—Doane, lf; J. Spicer, rf; Dunning, c; Adams, lg; Jarvis, rg.

Baskets from the floor, Bentley, 7; Templin, 5; Jacot, 4; Doane, 3; Spicer, 2; Martin, Dunning. Goals from fouls, Templin, Doane. Each team awarded a point for being interfered with while shooting a basket.

During both games, Charles B. Morse acted as referee and Harry Thompson as umpire. Collins, of Westfield, was scorer. Twenty minute halves.

LOW SCORES RETURNED IN COUNTRY CLUB PLAY

After one of the most successful seasons in its history, the active schedule was concluded at the Plainfield Country Club, yesterday with a cross country tournament, four-ball foursome, handicap, nine holes. The competition attracted a good-sized field and the scores were generally low, especially that of the winners, Dudley H. Barrows and Morris J. Dumont, who returned a 37 net.

The handicap of each pair was one-half of that of the lowest handicapped player of each team. The winning pair played especially good golf as the score shows. The number of strokes on each hole was as follows: 4 3 5 5 5 4 6 3 4—39, which with a handicap of 2 gave them a 37 net. The nine holes were selected as follows:

First tee to eleventh green, twelfth tee to eighth green, ninth tee to seventh green, sixth tee to third green, tenth tee to second green, eleventh tee to fourteenth green, fifteenth tee to sixteenth green, seventeenth teet to first green and second tee to eighteenth green.

These scores were returned in the competition:

Dudley H. Barrows and Morris J. Dumont, 39, 2-37; W. Lester Glenney and Frank O. Reinhart, 41, 2-39; Frank C. Talmadge and C. B. Morgan, 43, 3-40; J. A. Lane and Julius E. Erickson, 48, 7-41; Henry D. Hibbard and W. T. Glenney, 47, 5-42; Hugh F. Fox and Edward J. Patterson, 52, 10-42; Edward T. Willson and Stuart H. Patterson, 49, 7-42; W. L. C. Glenney and C. C. Burke, Jr., 54, 10-44; G. F. Earl and Thomas Beard, 54, 9-45; Arthur Murphy and T. W. T. Maxwell, 53, 6-47; A. G. Henderson and L. A. Chase, 55, 8-47.

DUNELLEN ELEVEN WINS FROM SOMERVILLE, 6-0

Accompanied to Somerville by more than a hundred football fans, the Dunellen eleven defeated a picked team of the Somerville A. C. at West End Park yesterday morning by a score of 6-0. The Dunellenites scored in the first half on a forward pass trick, Smith getting the ball on the pass about a yard from the line, and falling over for the touchdown. The play was on a cleverly faked wing shift, the Dunellen line going over to the right, so that the centre was on the left end of the line. Smith broke through when the ball was snapped back and had no trouble going around the end, because the Somerville team expected a play through the right of the line. The pass was about thirty feet. O'Rourke kicked the goal.

Again in the second half, the Dunellenites had a chance to score, but Maltby, receiving a forward pass, slipped on the wet field and was downed before he could get up again. This was twenty yards from the line. Somerville, though slightly outweighing the local eleven, could not make gains through the line, and were less successful in working the forward pass. The mainstay in the first half was Higgins, a Hudson River Military Academy player, and the regular Somerville team was padded by players who had never played together before, so that the team could only gain ground by individual playing. Somerville never got within striking distance of the Dunellen goal line.

Both teams were greatly hampered by the muddy field, for in some parts there was standing water and the mud was thick. There was a good deal of punting, for the back field was slow in starting on account of the heavy ground. Smith, of the Dunellen eleven, excelled in the punting. The Dunellenites lined up as follows:

Rutledge, le; Caulifield, lt; Logan, Dineen, lg; Myers, c; Snyder, rg; Dealaman, rt; Lyons, re; Lake, qb; O'Rourke, lhb; Smith, rhb; Maltby (capt.), fb. Refree, Lew Churchill, of Dunellen. Twenty-five minute halves.

Mr. and Mrs. John Shurts, of Lebanon, Hunterdon county, returned home today after a pleasant visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. VanEmburgh, of East Second street.

Mr. and Mrs. David King and daughters, Miss Ethel King and Miss Gertrude King, of Craig place, ate Thanksgiving turkey at the home of Mr. King's mother in Brooklyn.

Miss Viola Taylor and Wilbur Bradley, of Newburgh; Miss Emma Monahan and Edwin Monahan, of Union Hill, and Miss Anna VanFleet, of Somerville, spent yesterday with Miss Jessie Garthwaite, of West Front street.

"At half past two the snow ceased falling. The sky cleared. The stars shone out one by one in a blackened sky. It was now, I think, for the first time I felt our utter helplessness. The terror of the mountains, the awful loneliness, the stillness, the sense of utter isolation—all overwhelmed me. The ghostly whiteness of the mountain peaks shone out against the dark sky. The moon shed an unearthly radiance over all. Shadowy and unreal, a phantom host, mountain after mountain stretched as far as one could see. And our helplessness was made the more pitiable because at our feet we could see the lights of the village.

"The sun rose at last. But I was terribly exhausted with the cold, the night's vigil, and fatigue. Three times we attempted to resume our descent, and three times my exhaustion paralyzed every effort. I wish to make no excuses, and yet—"

I paused. I looked at her wistfully. I saw no pity or sympathy in her eyes. She came from a race of soldiers. They, too, had suffered and died, and their honor had been stainless. Why should she make any allowance for my suffering and weakness? When all is said, weakness to her meant cowardice. She forgot, as the world had forgotten, that it is not so difficult to be brave when the danger is a familiar one. She looked at me quite unmoved.

"The rocks," I continued, "were covered with snow and were ice-glazed. Willoughby was anxious now. And yet it was impossible to linger; no one would dream of looking for us on this side of the mountain. So that presently when the sun rose higher and we were partially warm, I stumbled painfully and slowly after my companion.

"For a time I followed him mechanically in perfect silence. Suddenly he came to a pause. He told me very quietly that we were lost. He pointed as a proof of that to the overhanging ledge around which we had climbed the evening before. I am nearly at the end of my story, Miss Brett."

Again she shuddered, and we both looked at the little beacon light flickering very faintly now. About us the people laughed and talked; the orchestra was playing a Strauss waltz.

"Do not spare me, please," whispered Helena.

"To retrace our steps was impossible. Just around the mountain-side we knew that we should find ourselves in comparative safety. But to climb down the overhanging precipice had been appallingly difficult the day before. Now, exhausted in mind and body, the rocks slippery with snow and ice, it seemed impossible—for me, at least. And yet it is I who am alive to tell you how desperate that chance was.

"Generous to the last, he insisted that I go first. The rope was fastened about my waist; I climbed down the overhanging cliff, supported by the rope held by my companion above.

"I reached the ledge. I was safe. But I had put forth the last of my strength. I could only stand there, fighting for my breath. Almost immediately Willoughby flung down the rope and warned me that he was coming, and that I should be ready to give him what assistance I could. I tried to speak—to implore him to delay the descent for a few moments; my voice seemed a mere whisper. Probably he did not hear me. Or he dared not delay lest he should lose his own nerve; for he must have known that the chances were wholly against him.

"Not even for you can I linger over the details of these last awful moments. He had almost accomplished the impossible. He was just above me. I could have reached up and clasped his body. And then what I had feared, what I had known would happen, did happen. His feet slipped. He was hanging by his arms. He called to me in a strong and steady voice to come to his aid. I did not. At least, until it was too late. He hung there one frightful instant, and then—"

Helena clasped her hands convulsively. "And so the end came," she murmured. "And he died without one word?"

I hesitated.

"It is my right to know." She looked at me with burning eyes.

"Yes, he spoke one word—one—"

"And that was—?"

"'Coward!'" I whispered.

CHAPTER V.
A Life for a Life.

A long silence fell between us. I looked where the little beacon light had flickered feebly a few moments before. It had gone out. With an effort, I sought the face of the girl who sat opposite me.

She had judged. I knew that. She looked at me as if I were a being apart, of another world. By my own confession I had shut myself out of her world. The man who had loved her loyally had died as the strong people of her race had died. That proud fact supported her. For her I existed no longer. She gathered her skirts about her. She inclined her head slightly. She was going out of my life. She had uttered no spoken reproach. But her look, her every movement, echoed the verdict of the man who was dead.

I pushed back my chair. Thank Heaven, the ordeal was over; that was my first thought. Then I hesitated. Suddenly I longed to make this woman understand.

When others had pointed the finger of scorn I had refused to be crushed, because I believed their censure unjust. I had grown almost indifferent as to whether people despised me or not. But this was the first woman to whom I had spoken since the tragedy. Had she loved Willoughby, it would have been hopeless to expect any sympathy from her. She would have felt toward me a lifelong hatred.

But she did not love Willoughby. It was merely a sense of duty that had urged her to seek from me my story. Perhaps she wished to tell it to his bereaved parents. It was to be a sort of reparation owed to the memory of the man who had loved her.

She had judged me without emotion, without passion. She had spoken no words of reproach or anger. She was leaving me in silence. But I knew that the silence of this woman would haunt me as no spoken word of bitterness ever could. It was a silence that would irritate and madden with the coming years. It was hopeless to make her understand, to expect one word of sympathy. But at least she should speak, though it were in anger. I leaned toward her; there was a certain pride in my humility.

"Like the others, you think I have forfeited the right to one word of sympathy."

"More than all the others, I should think," she answered calmly, without hesitation.

"Yes," I said, wearily, "you have placed a placard on my back, as they used to put a high paper cap on the boys in school. On the cap the schoolmasters used to write the word 'Dunce;' on the placard you have written the word 'Coward.' And yet I am not quite a coward. Do you refuse to see that I am simply one of those men whose fate it has been to be tried to the uttermost? Forgive me; I am appealing to your sympathy after all. You resent that. It is quite natural. It was a moment of weakness." Again I pushed back my chair.

She regarded me half curiously.

Perhaps she noticed I was haggard and pale. Perhaps in spite of herself, she was a little sorry for me.

"Oh, I suppose," she said, very gently, "that there is something to be said in the defense of everyone. By and by I may feel less bitter toward you, Mr. Haddon. I shall remember that you did not spare yourself—that you might not have told me"—her voice fell to a whisper—"everything."

"Thank you for saying so much. If there were any reparation I would make it. You should know that."

"Reparation!" Her eyes flashed. "How can you speak of reparation?"

"And is there no atonement possible, even for the most wretched?"

She looked down at me almost sternly, for she had risen at the question. Then, as if a thin veil had been drawn from her face, I saw the gentle pity of womanhood reflected there. A strange sweetness came into her voice as she spoke slowly, almost unwillingly. It was a mystical message of comfort she was bringing to me. She was suggesting a way of hope after all.

"Because of you a life has been lost to the world. I leave out the personal loss to myself. Because of your weakness, to call it by the most charitable name, the world is the poorer for one strong soul."

"Yes," I said, humbly, "yes."

"But if," she spoke more eagerly, "if through you a life were saved for the world—if it were to be a life for a life—"

A moment I stared at her, uncomprehending. She had suggested a way of escape so romantic that to one living in this twentieth century it may seem absurd. But the very audacity of the suggestion appealed to me.

"Yes," I cried, passionately, "I understand. It is to be a life for a life! In some way, no matter how, I am to save a life for the life that has been lost through me."

"At least that should restore your self-respect," she assented almost coldly. She wished me to understand that whatever I might or might not do was no concern of hers. But I was not to be discouraged.

"And if I am so fortunate as to accomplish this"—I held her eyes steadily—"will you, I should say rather, will the world, your world, remember that? Shall I then stand on the same plane as other men in your respect?"

"I vouch nothing for the world, and certainly not," she added, haughtily, "for myself."

I felt an emotion that was very near that of triumph. It is extraordinary how in the most sacred of moments the passion to conquer, to subdue, obtrudes itself. Henceforth, whether this woman would have it so or not, there was a bond between us. She had suggested a way of escape! I accepted it with passionate gratitude. I swore to myself, as I stood before her, that I would not rest until I had accomplished the sacred task she had set me. I answered with a boldness that surprised even myself:

"From this day my one object in life shall be to make the reparation you have suggested. But when that is done you will know it."

I saw her hand tremble as she lightly touched her hair. It was not so much embarrassment that brought the slow blush to her cheek as anger. She turned from me without a word. I watched her disappear with a strange exultation.

Ways of the Men Who Lose Their All In Wall Street.

What becomes of the men who lose in Wall street? They are seldom heard of. The visitor to New York gets the notion that the gay crowd of men at the Waldorf—the "uptown 'street' "—comprises them all. But this crowd is altogether misrepresentative and has no true sign value, says a writer on Wall street in the New Broadway Magazine.

You can retain your equilibrium easily in watching them by remembering that Runner of New Britain is hiding somewhere, a fugitive from justice; that Jumper of Milwaukee is in prison; that there are many other men who went down hard with big crashes, and that for every one of the big men there are 10,000 little men whose losses are smaller, but not a whit less fatal.

You would find some of them tonight in New York, if you knew in what window to look, figuring anxiously and endlessly, looking over insurance papers to see if further loans are admissible.

Their wives are sewing; their daughters are studying stenography. You will find others hanging about hotel lobbies, and the moment you catch their eye or grip their hands you know that they are nervous, distraught, broke, restless—typical Wall street victims.

The others, professionals, parasites, satellites, winners, you will find in the cafes and hotel restaurants, making up a large part of the crowds at Sherry's and Delmonico's, Martin's and Rector's, the Waldorf, Manhattan, Astor, St. Regis and Holland House. Wall street by day demands the Great White Way at night. From the moment the market opens till its close the game is a fast and furious one of sharp trickery, clever dodging, raillery, bluffing, hypocrisy, lying.

Nerves are constantly tense; the brain must be clear and quick at every move. Successful lying uses up gray matter, and the flash and festivity of the Tenderloin at night are just unnatural enough to fit it and offer the kind of recreation desired.

EASY DOOR FASTENERS.

"There's only one lock in the world that I can't open if you'll give me a few minutes at it, and as for ordinary door and drawer locks, I'll open them as easily as if there was no lock there. Any expert burglar can do the same."

The foregoing statement was made by an experienced locksmith of Kansas City.

"Few persons know how insecure their homes are," he continues. "Few persons realize that the average lock is absolutely worthless for keeping out an experienced burglar. The ordinary door lock is good for nothing but reminding casual business or social callers that they must ring to be admitted. None of these ordinary 'door fasteners,' and that's the best you can call them, will deter a burglar two whole minutes. If there's no key in the lock, he soon fits one to it. If there is a key in the lock, he inserts a pair of pinchers and in ten seconds has it opened. Understand me, I am speaking of the experienced burglar. The clumsy burglar is the one who gets in trouble. He'll fumble around with a lock until somebody hears him. There is only one unpickable lock made. That's the six pin lock used by the government. It will defy any expert. There are six little steel pins in the lock, which have to be raised just a certain distance to open it. Some of the pins are one-fourth of an inch long and some of them a half inch. If one of the pins lacks even a hairbreath of being raised the proper distance the lock will not open. It baffles all the experts."

This locksmith is so expert he can open the majority of safes by putting his ear to the combination and listening to how the tumblers click into place as he turns it.

"I intended at one time to be a burglar," this locksmith declares. "I had it all planned out—even had a set of burglar's tools made. Then I decided that honesty was the best policy, and I stuck to my trade."—Kansas City Star.

One Legged Man in Two Mile Chase.

Nutley, Nov. 29.—Three men who were loitering about High street, Nutley, early yesterday morning gave Constable Adams a lively two mile chase. The constable succeeded in capturing Patrick Martay, who had one leg. His companion escaped. As Martay could not give a satisfactory account of himself he was sent to jail.

USE HOSE TO STOP ERECTION OF POLE.

But While Contestants Are in Court Electric Company Sends Another Force That Finishes Job.

Morristown, Nov. 29.—Workmen in the employ of William J. Sheehan & Co. who are installing the electric plant for the newly formed Morris and Somerset Electric Company, received a lively reception Wednesday when they attempted to set a pole in front of Tompkins & Welsh's store. The men had succeeded in digging a hole for the pole when the members of the firm and employes attempted to block the work by putting two shovels in the excavation. This did not stop to suffice to stop the electric company's employes, so two lines of hose were connected with hydrants and the men were drenched with water. Not satisfied with this, a charge of assault was made against them and William Carpenter, John Haggerty and William Harmbright were put under arrest.

The contestants then adjourned to the police court and in their absence another gang of men erected the pole. The case, after discussion by counsel for the interested parties, was adjourned until tomorrow. This is not the first trouble the new company has experienced. Several prominent citizens are publishing letters in the local newspapers signed "Taxpayers," protesting against the company erecting poles along the streets.

Unknown persons have broken several of the large manhole covers which had been placed about the streets previous to their being set into position. The new company is a competitor of the Public Service Corporation, which has enjoyed a monopoly in the local electric lighting field. The new company has obtained the contract for lighting Morristown's streets, beginning January 1, and a large force of workmen is erecting an extensive plant.

CORRESPONDENT DECIDES TO BECOME A BENEDICT.

Cards have been issued for the marriage of Miss Ann Baldwin Passano, daughter of Joseph Ferdinand Passano, of Baltimore, and Charles A. Ransom, political and legislative writer of the Newark Evening News. Mr. Ransom is well known all over the State.

He was at one time city editor of the Trenton State Gazette, later going to the city desk of the Jersey City News. He held the post of New Jersey editor of the New York Herald for some time prior to connecting with the Newark News about ten years ago. The marriage ceremony will be performed in Memorial Episcopal church, Baltimore, at noon on Tuesday, December 17.

When Mr. Ransom made his usual Governor's day visit to Governor Stokes at Trenton Wednesday, he was greeted in the outer executive office with a chorus of congratulations. Mr. Stokes told the newspaperman that he had received the news with a good deal of pleasure, and wished him great happiness. Mr. Ransom turned the laugh on the Governor by saying: "The same to you and many of them." The Governor is a bachelor.

BOY, 5, ORDERS LEG CUT OFF.

Lad Pinned Under Street Car Tells Father to Sever Flesh and Free Him.

Trenton, Nov. 29.—James Dunigan, five years old, was run over by a trolley car Wednesday and his right leg was so badly mangled that amputation near the hip was necessary.

Pinned under the car, between one of the wheels and a brake iron, the child showed unusual fortitude. His first thought was for his little brother, with whom he had been playing in the street.

"How is Johnnie? Was he hurt?" he asked between his groans. Assured that 'Johnnie" was all right and uninjured, James' next words were—"Say, papa, take your knife and cut that leg loose and take me home."

Even in the operating room he wanted to explain to the surgeons how the accident happened. He revived quickly after the operation.

2,200 MILES BY "WIRELESS."

Transport Thomas Gets a Message from Far-off Sitka.

Possibly electrical conditions over the Pacific Ocean are more favorable for wireless telegram work than elsewhere, but it is certain that with apparatus with small power compared to the giant transmitters employed in the Atlantic wireless telegraph service, the army transports on the Pacific have been extraordinarily successful in maintaining communication.

The Thomas picked up the naval station at San Francisco recently while she was 1,400 miles distant, but even better, on the same trip, that transport caught a message from the naval station at Sitka, distant in a straight line 2,200 miles, the best performance yet recorded by the wireless afloat.

Odd Way to Pay Election Bet.

John McIntosh, a prominent politician of Rome, N. Y., made a wager on the election for mayor, the loser to ride horseback from Rome to Chicago, a distance of 600 miles, says a dispatch from Utica to the New York American. McIntosh lost the bet. He has purchased a horse and saddle. He is to blow a bugle to announce his arrival at each place. He promises faithfully to carry out the contract.

SHOT HIM FOR GOING OUT.

Mrs. Ernest Fassett Employs Unusual Method to Keep Husband Home at Night.

Ernest Fassett, twenty-three years old, and his wife, Rose, sixteen years old, who have been married nearly two years, quarrelled last night in their home, at No. 18 Beach street, Newark, because he wanted to go out and she objected. Fassett finally started out. As he reached the door she fired a shot at him from a .32-calibre pistol. The bullet struck him in the fleshy part of the right thigh, making a serious wound.

Fassett was assisted to the office of a doctor in the neighborhood, and was later taken to St. Barnabas' Hospital. When the police reached the home of the Fassetts the young woman had disappeared. She was arrested later.

CLEVELAND RECOVERS.

Got Indigestion After Eating Imprudently.

It was declared at the residence of Grover Cleveland at Princeton yesterday that the report of his illness was exaggerated and that he had been suffering only from an attack of indigestion from which he had completely recovered yesterday morning.

Dr. Carnochan, Mr. Cleveland's physician, visited his patient yesterday morning and afterward stated that Mr. Cleveland was up and moving around the house, and apparently showing no signs of Sunday's attack of his old enemy from which he has suffered for years whenever he eats imprudently.

LABOR BRIEFS.

The eight hour day proposed by the International Association of Machinists for last May having been to a certain extent unsuccessful, it is now proposed to renew the agitation with a view to a successful outcome next spring.

The State Federation of Labor of Michigan adopted resolutions declaring in favor of suffrage for women in general and for Michigan women in particular.

The Boston Book Binding Company of Cambridge has established the eight hour workday.

At future meetings of the Rhode Island branch of the American Federation of Labor no delegate will be seated unless his clothing bears the union label.

The iron molders of St. Louis have accepted a 15 cents per day increase in wages offered by the employers in place of 25 cents demanded.

New P. O. for Montclair.

Herbert H. Biddulph, postmaster at Montclair, has been notified by the Postmaster-General to advertise for bids for a new and larger location for the Montclair postoffice. This action was taken on the strength of a recommendation made by the postmaster, who claims that the present quarters are too crowded. The lease on the building now occupied expires September 1 next. Mr. Biddulph said yesterday that David Tuers, the owner of a lot on Bloomfield avenue, opposite the present postoffice, had agreed to submit plans for a building especially designed to meet the needs of the postal authorities which he would erect and lease to the government for ten years if desired.

Soldiers and Sailors' Monument.

At a meeting Wednesday night, which was attended by many citizens of Bayonne, arrangements were furthered for the erection of a soldiers' and sailors' monument in the City Park on Memorial Day. The monument will cost about $5,000, and the money will be secured by popular subscriptions. A number of well known women are taking an active interest in the project and will assist in raising the money. A committee will determine whether the monument shall be a bronze casting of life sized figures of a sailor and soldier or a square block of rough granite.

To Build New Church in Runyon.

The New Brunswick Classis of the Reformed church at a meeting at New Brunswick Wednesday afternoon made arrangements to build a new church at Runyon, near South Amboy. A big glass industry is to locate there, and its management has given a plot of ground for the church. The Rev. Dr. P. Theodore Pockman, of New Brunswick; the Rev. Henry Lockwood, of Millstone, and the Rev. F. T. B. Reynolds, of Spotswood, are the committee in charge of the new church.

RESPONSIBLE FOR DELAY

Some Material Questions Propounded by Mr. MacDonald on Paving Delay.

IT'S UP TO THE CITY FATHERS.

Common Council On Monday Night to Take Up Subject of Slow Work On Brick Pave Improvement.

Placing the responsibility for the continued delay in laying the brick pavement in the business section of the city, principally on West Front street, will occupy the attention of the Common Council at its meeting on Monday night. No end of discussion and much adverse criticism has been caused by the alleged lax methods in getting the work finished. The merchants principally are loudly protesting over the condition, and with them are the property-owners along the affected thoroughfares. Many are inclined to lay the blame on the city fathers and not on the contractor.

When seen by a Daily Press reporter this morning, J. Fred MacDonald, a large property owners in the affected section, said:

"As a man around town seeing and hearing what is going on I would suggest that the councilmen first ask themselves if they are not to blame for giving out so large a contract so late in the season?

"Second, if they or their street committee are not to blame for not giving notice to the Public Service Corporation and the water company to put in all extra wires and pipes before the contractor had to start his work and then see to it that they did their work as ordered, and not left as it was until the contractor had excavated and rolled the street ready for concrete before they make a move to do their work, and thereby delayed Mr. Meeker. Also, if the same committee did see to it that all sewer connections were made before, causing still another delay.

"Third, if it was not their fault assisted by the mayor in rushing through a resolution granting the street railroad permission for double track in the face of a protest of nearly ninety per cent. of the property owners, and if they did not do it so hurriedly that they did not get in any time limit when they should finish the work, or who should own or move the dirt off the street excavation by them. If they did not neglect to state how and in what manner they should tear up the streets so as not to interfere entirely with business, or if all these provisions were in the resolution, has the committee been one the job to see that they were carried out? If they have been on the job any, so to speak, since the newness of paving of Park avenue wore off, then they were extremely nice that not even two colors of brick should go in the street and others had to be brought and matched as to shade Are they doing that now? Are they causing the road bed to be rolled down to a hard and even surface as they did then before the concrete was laid? Or is it being put on soft loose dirt only pounded in spots by one laborer? Are they seeing to it that after bricks are laid and cement is run on that wagons keep off until it is hard, or are they letting the contractor drive them with dirt as fast as it is put on? Have they done anything in interest of anybody except the railroad? Have they taken the bricks rejected on Park avenue off the sidewalk in front of the merchants stores? If they agreed to accept an old curve of Somerset street that did not fit and have to be made on the ground?

"If they will ask themselves these questions and many more, they will know who to blame for some of the blockups for the past seven weeks on Watchung avenue and East Front street. Let them ask themselves if they, or the street railroad don't owe something extra to the contractor for his loss of time and inconvenience in shifting around from place to place to suit them, when he should of at least had one side of a block at a time to complete? Let them ask themselves if they haven't put too much work on Mr. Gavett with sewers and everything else, without sufficient competen aid to assist him?

"After answering these questions, then let them decide where to place the blame that is causing the merchant so much loss just at their busy season and about which they are so bitterly complaining."

County Endeavorers to Meet.

Members of the executive committee of the Union County Christian Endeavor Union will meet in the chapel of the First Presbyterian church at Westfield, Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock.

The Sunday-school of the Park Avenue Baptist church will continue the rehearsal of Christmas music tomorrow afternoon following the session of the school.

SERVED 6 YEARS, COLBY WANTS ONE MORE TERM

Senator Everett Colby was asked yesterday regarding his plans for the coming legislative session and as to whether he would again consent to be a candidate for legislative honors. Concerning his fight for reform and the effect upon it of the last election he said:

"The results of the recent election have not deterred me in the least from continuing the same fight which we have been waging for six years or more. We are in to stick and to win, and we're going to do both. The election was entirely satisfactory to us, and we have a better opportunity now to carry on our issues to success than we have ever had. We are going to continue our work for a primary recount, a public utilities act of the Hughes kind, a comprehensive employers' liability act and other reforms."

Asked whether he would again be a candidate for re-election he said:

"I'd like to retire. I've had six years of it, and it has been six years of fighting continually, but much has yet to be done. No, I am going to be a candidate for re-election next year."

INVADED HOME AND WENT TO SLEEP ON TABLE

Returning to her home at Third and New streets at 6 o'clock last night, after a visit, Mrs. John F. Casey was astonished to find a man of unusually large proportions stretched at full length on her dining room table. A series of staccato obligatos played on two keys in the guise of snores gave evidence of the fact that he was sleeping soundly and after recovering from her surprise and fright, she summoned the police by 'phone.

Patrolmen Dobson and McCarthy were sent to the house and found the interuder to be Michael Griffin, of Prescott place, a machinist, who measures just six feet one and a half inches in height and is built in proportion. It was all the two husky cops could do to lift him up and a bystander declared the table gave an audible sigh of relief when he was removed. Liquor was the cause of his heavy slumbering and it was not until this morning that he was fully himself.

When arraigned before Jurge Runyon in the city court today Griffin was unable to tell just how he came to get in the Casey residence. He evidently took it for his own home, though his is nine blocks away, and finding the front door open made his way inside. Every member of the family was absent and he proceeded to the dining room table and stretched out for a nap without molestation. He had been there a couple of hours, at least, when Mrs. Casey returned home.

Griffin has a clean record with the police and the fact earned him a suspension of sentence.

Eighty-first Birthday.

Mrs. David J. Yerkes, widow of the late beloved pastor of the First Baptist church, is quietly observing the eighty-first anniversary of her birthday today at her home on Grove street. During the day many loving tributes and remembrances were received by Mrs. Yerkes as pleasant reminders of the occasion. A year ago upon the celebration of the eightieth anniversary a delegation of members from the First Baptist church, including the pastor, Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, waited on Mrs. Yerkes and presented her with a purse of $80 in gold and other gifts. She is still in possession of all her faculties and continues to take a lively interest in affairs, especially matters pertaining to the church of which she has been a member for a great many years.

Rev. Mr. Griffin Quite Ill.

Rev. Walter T. Griffin, of East Seventh street, formerly U. S. Consul to Limoges, France, is quite ill at the home of his physician in New York with pneumonia. He was taken ill while abroad recently, and upon the advice of physicians whom he called, he sailed at once for home, arriving in New York a few days ago. Yesterday he was reported as being slightly improved, and it is believed by his physician that he has a good chance for recovery.

Trinity's Annual Inspection.

Trinity Commandery, No. 7, K. T., will hold a conclave Monday night at 8 o'clock. This is the date for the annual inspection, which will be conducted by Eminent Sir Charles J. Hazard, Grand Captain General. He will be accompanied by his associates of the Grand Commandery. The Fraters of Demascus Commandery, No. 5, of Newark, will visit Trinity Commandery at this time and a banquet will follow.

BEGIN FORGERY DEFENSE

Witnesses Tell of Use of Lead Pencil in Signing of Will by Lanehart.

SON TESTIFIES FOR FATHER.

Miss Kellogg, Niece of Lnehart, Now a Witness for the State, Is Put On the Stand.

The defence for William H. Skillman, former president of the New Jersey Horticultural Society, who has been on trial in the Somerset court at Somerville for forging the will of the late William Lanehart, a wealthy farmer, opened yesterday afternoon. Edward A. Skillman, eldest son of the defendant, was the first witness for the defence. He told of the signing of the will at his father's house some time in the latter part of March or first of April, 1905. The witness said Lanehart had on two overcoats and his hands were swollen. He sat down to a sloping desk, and first signed his name with a lead pencil and then traced the signature with a pen. The witness stood only about ten feet from Lanehart.

William H. Ely, Skillman's friend, who swore that he drove to the Skillman farm to make a social call on the day that Lanehart signed the will and was called in as a witness, corroborated most of the testimony of the preceding witness, except that he did not see the lead pencil used. Elva Skillman, a daughter of the defendant, declared that she stood within ten feet of the desk at which Lanehart sat to sign the will, and saw him use a lead pencil.

The state closed its case yesterday afternoon by placing Miss Laura Kellogg, a niece of Lanehart, on the stanr. She is a beneficiary of two wills alleged to have been executed for Lanehart. She testified in behalf of Skillman when the will was contested in the Orphan's Court, but she is now arrayed on the side of the state.

SAME OLD STORY, MORE TIME FOR CONTRACTOR

Contractor C. H. Meeker's time allowed for completing the brick pavement work and macadamizing of West End avenue expired today, and it was necessary for him to arrange with City Engineer A. J. Gavett for an extension of time. That he may make the best of the present weather conditions, Mr. Meeker has arranged to work his gang tomorrow that no time may be lost. This will give him an opportunity to complete the concreting of Watchung avenue and put in shape for the brick pavers by Monday.

This morning Mr. Gavett put the city street gang and teams at work on West Front street cleaning up the dirt, stones, etc., left by the trolley company in changing its tracks between Somerset street and Madison avenue. This job should be completed today and the nothing will interfere with Mr. Meeker's gang starting in to concrete between the tracks so that the brick can be laid within a few days.

Special Musical Service.

The monthly special musical service will be held at the First Presbyterian church tomorrow night under the direction of Clifford A. Braider, organist. The regular quartet, Miss Anna Case, soprano; Miss Jessamine Burd, contralto; F. C. Iglehart, Jr., bass, and E. Maxwell Honeyman, tenor, will be assisted by Miss Alice C. Miller at the piano. The program will be as follows: Organ and piano duet, "Largo," Handel; "God So Loved the World," Gaul, unaccompanied quartet; trio, "I Will Give Unto Him," Coombs, soprano, contralto and tenor; duet, "Quis est Homo," from the "Stabat Mater," soprano and contralto, repeated by special request; soprano solo, "With Verdure Clad," from "The Creation," Haydn, by request; "God Shall Wipe Away All Tears," MacFarlane, quartet; organ and piano duet, "Melody in F," Rubenstein.

Rushing Brick Work.

Contractor Meeker will now make every effort to complete the brick paving on Watchung avenue and between the trolley tracks on Front street as far as Madison avenue, as well as the little strip on Somerset street, before bad weather sets in. The paving between the tracks on Watchung avenue is finished and will be open to traffic in a few days. In the meantime the laborers are rushing the concrete work on either side, that on the north side being finished yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur D. Stout are spending their honeymoon at Atlantic City. They are registered at the Chalfonte.

URGES A CLOSER UNION

James O'Connell, President of International Association of Machinists, Speaks.

500 OUT AT SAENGERBUND HALL

Members of Local Shops Hear Talk on Abolishing Caste in Labor Union by Washington Man —Other Speakers.

Strongly endorsing a closer organization among the local machinists, James O'Connell, president of the International Association of Machinists, made a strong address at Saengerbund Hall, last night, before a mass meeting of about 500 local machinists. All the local shops were represented and other out of town speakers at the meeting spoke enthusiastically of the big turnout and urged the men to work together for the best interests of local trade.

The meeting was called to order at about 8:30 by the local chairman and Robert Gibbs, of Newark, business agent of the general association, was introduced asa the first speaker. He spoke in general about the value of the association to the individual, both in bringing a man closer to his fellow workman in a social way and in furthering the interests of the trade and protecting the men. After him, John Roache, of Newark, was introduced. Mr. Roache is president of the Leather Workers and Tanners Union of America and spoke about the organization in these trades and the benefit it has proved to the employes.

Mr. O'Connell, who comes from Washington, D. C., was the next speaker. He dwelt especially upon the harm done to the union by individuality of some of the members of the union and a tendency to feelings of caste which was proving detrimental to the best interests of all by weakening the organization. He said that organization was useless if the men were going to clique and not stand united for the best interests of all classes in the trade. In speaking about strikes, Mr. OConnell said that he did not approve of violence by strikers. Nothing can be accomplished by mob force in these days, he said, and the cause is only weakened by giving organized labor a black eye to the general public. The way to secure the machinists' demands now lies in arbitration, and the men should aim to keep in as close personal touch with their employers as possible, for the best interests of the trade. Mr. O'Connell concluded with a statement of the power of the machinists if organized, saying that they controlled the highest branch of skilled labor.

AT WASHINGTON YESTERDAY.

Subject of Discussion the N. Y., N. H. and H. Cancellation of Through Traffic Rates.

Three officials of the Central Railroad of New Jersey and the general solicitor of the Philadelphia & Reading Railway went to Washington from New York yesterday and held a conference with the Interstate Commerce Commissioners in the office of Chairman Knapp. The subject under discussion was the withdrawal by the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad of its through traffic rates in connection with the Central Railroad of New Jersey, the Philadelphia & Reading and the Baltimore & Ohio at Jersey City.

The railroad men at the conference were R. W. De Forest, vice-president and general counsel; W. G. Besler, of Plainfield, vice-president and general manager; T. B. Koons, of Plainfield, freight traffic manager of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, and J. D. Campbell, general solicitor of the Philadelphia & Reading. Every effort is being made to maintain the connection of the three roads with the New York, New Haven & Hartford at Jersey City, but the last named road has filed notice that its tariffs with these roads will be cancelled on December 17, the proper announcement having been made to the Interstate Commerce Commission thirty days before that date.

Such phases of the interstate commerce law as might relate to the New Haven road's withdrawal of its through tariffs were discussed in an informal manner with the commissioners. The New York, New Haven and Hartford has announced that its tariff withdrawals from the roads in question apply only on New York harbor traffic, and not to its transfer route north of New York city.

$68,000 BOND ISSUE NOT TO BE SOLD NOW

In the opinion of those who have the matter in charge it is believed that nothing will be done by the Common Council for the present with the $68,000 sewer bond issue which A. B. Leach & Co., of New York, refused to take after its bid was accepted. City Treasurer W. F. Arnold does not anticipate any trouble in selling the bonds as soon as the bond market regains its normal condition which he thinks will be within a short time.

The city had an opportunity to sell these bonds last summer for $100.02 and it is the opinion that they should have been disposed of at that time, when a considerable sum could have been saved to the city. The bonds were issued to cover a number of notes with which the city has been paying for the sewer work during the past two or three years and as soon as the bonds are sold this indebtedness will be liquidated.

Y. W. C. A. Vesper Service.

At the Young Women's Christian Association tomorrow afternoon the December vesper service will be held at 4 o'clock. Miss Brenizer is a student volunteer and an interesting speaker. Miss Mary Hubbell will sing. It promises to be an especially good meeting, and every young woman in Plainfield is invited to join in the service.

He recovered his mount and was among the first in at the death.

OBSERVE THEIR SILVER WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

In honor of the twenty-fifth anniversary of their wedding, a surprise party was given to Mr. and Mrs. Samuel N. Giles, of 10 Craig place, last night. There were relatives and friends present from Newark, Brooklyn, Elizabeth, Port Richmond, S. I., Somerville, Dunellen and this city, and many pleasant features combined to make the event an enjoyoble one. Music, games and dancing comprised the program and at midnight supper was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Giles were married in Essex county, near Newark, twenty-five years ago yesterday. Since then they have lived in Elizabeth, Dunellen, Somerville, Bound Brook, Port Richmond, S. I., and for several years have resided here.

Among those present last night were Mr. and Mrs. Manley Giles and son, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Harris, Mr. and Mrs. Randolph Gaskill, Mrs. Lena Ryno and daughter, of this city; Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Smiles, of Port Richmond; Miss Katheryn Henry, Miss Louise James, Miss Kitty Penny, William Anderson, J. F. Meaney and George Giles, of Brooklyn.

The couple received many gifts of use and value from relatives and friends, including silverware, goldware, bric-a-brac, linen, etc. They also received the hearty congratulations of the guests.

ELECTROLYSIS FOUND IN SERVICE WATER PIPES

The first case of electrolysis in the case of a service water pipe occurred early this morning in front of Harry Werner's clothing store on West Front street. The break was directly between the westbound trolley tracks and a considerable amount of water escaped before repairs were made.

It was considered fortunate that the break happened before the brick pavement was laid on that side of the street, although Superintendent Amos Andrews, of the Plainfield-Union Water Company, says that the laying of a five-inch concrete foundation with a brick pavement on top is no guarantee that the same thing will not occur at any time. The trouble always occurs in the case of service pipes and not with the mains. The service pipes are laid about three feet below the surface and the electric current will penetrate the ground to the pipe at various intervals gradually eating the iron, the same way that insects eat their way into the bark of a tree until the pipe becomes so thin that the water forces itself through. Unless promptly attended to much damage is likely to result.

In case of future trouble of this nature it will certainly be an expensive thing to tear up the brick pavement to repair breaks. The service pipes should be thoroughly inspected before the pavement is allowed to be put down, is the opinion of water company officials. The one which broke this morning was new, having been laid within the last few weeks.

MRS. JOHN MORTIMER DIES AFTER BRIEF ILLNESS.

The body of Mrs. Helen E. Mortimer, who died at her home at Flatbush, L. I., Wednesday night, was brought to this city today and a funeral service was held at 1 o'clock this afternoon at the home of her mother, Mrs. William Anderson, of Franklin place. It was conducted by Rev. A. E. Finn, pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church, and was attended by a gathering of relatives and friends. Burial was made at Hillside.

Mrs. Mortimer was a native of Morristown and came to this city with her husband in 1883. The family lived here until ten years ago when they removed to New York, although Mrs. Moritmer returned at frequent intervals and kept up her friendships. She had been ailing for several years but her death came suddenly after a few days illness. Surviving Mrs. Mortimer are two children, Francis R. Mortimer, of New York, and Marion C. Mortimer, who lives with her grandmother on Franklin place.

ADMITS ILLEGAL SELLING

Apgar Changes Plea After Night in Cell and is Held for Grand Jury.

FATHER-IN-LAW THE INFORMER

West End Man Had Done Thriving Business Without Paying $1,000 License Fee—To Be Sentenced Wednesday.

Albert Apgar, of Rock avenue, whose father-in-law, William Haggerty, "peached" on him for selling liquor illegally, as told exclusively in yesterday's Daily Press, was arraigned before Judge Runyon in the city court yesterday afternoon. He pleaded not guilty and was held in $200 bail to await the action of the Grand Jury. He failed in his effort to secure a bondsman and remained in a cell over night.

At this morning's session of the city court, Apgar made a request to change his plea from not guilty to guilty. He was allowed to do so and the bond was again fixed at $200 to insure his appearance in the county court for sentence next Wednesday morning. The security was furnished by his employer

According to Haggerty, Apgar has been selling liquor at his home on Rock avenue for the past two years. The informant told Chief Kiely that he even made it a regular practice to carry bottles of beer to the yard of one of the West End shops and leave it in corners for the workmen at noon. They would put the empty bottles in the same place and Apgar would carry them back home. Beside this trade, regular customers called at the residence for their red eye and "German joy" and all-in-all Apgar did a thriving business without the formality of paying $1,000 a year license.

When the warrant for the accused man's arrest was placed in Detective-Sergeant Flynn's hands he could not be found at his home or place of employment. The police later received a tip that he was holding forth in a Front street saloon and an officer was sent there but Apgar saw him first and made a hurried exit. With a young man named Sandford, of Dunellen, he made his way to a borough hotel and from there they ordered an automobile from the Martin garage by telephone. The machine was delivered to them and they journeyed up to Pedeflous' place for a mushroom dinner and conference. Fate was against Apgar, however, as one of the auto tires contracted a puncture and he was forced to turn back to Plainfield to have it repaired. The police in the meantime had learned of the machine hiring and were keeping a look-out for it when it hove into town, getting Apgar as he stered into the garage.

Sandford accompanied the prisoner to headquarters and became decidedly flippant in his manner during the preliminary hearing. He advised Apgar what to do and forbade him to pay $5 for the hire of the automobile, an amount asked for by Mr. Martin in court.

"I may not be a lawyer," he said, "but I know that they can't do anything against you for that in here. Make the auto people sue you on civil summons."

Just about that time Chief Kiely concluded Sandford had no further business in court and he was shown his way to the street.

Buried This Afternoon.

The funeral of Miss Bertha E. Gordon, the fourteen-year-old daughter of Mrs. Mereida Connor, of Mountain avenue, was held from her late home this afternoon at 1 o'clock. Rev. Charles H. About a score of the friends and relatives of the departed attended and there were many floral tributes. The interment was in the Piscataway cemetery, the pall bearers were James Lawler, Charles Burk, William Fraught and Isaac Lambert.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

The Dunellen eleven are playing the Marathon A. C. team, of Bloomfield, on the local gridiron. Most of the players who were in the Thanksgiving Day game at Somerville are in the local lineup, for the visitors are fast material. Manager Ayres has not yet arranged for a game with the Orange Y. M. C. A., though he has tried for several dates. The local team has lots of weight and speed and would put up a good game with the association eleven, who claim the county championship. But the Orange players are only scheduling games on the home gridiron and a game at Orange would not pay the local management, though the local association, supported by more than one hundred rooters, made money at the game at Somerville. Manager Ayres said yesterday that he would continue to schedule games until the snow flies, despite the fact that most players put away their pigskins after Thanksgiving.

LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

What promises to be a real comedy knockout will be the presentation of the first Yiddish play of the season in local theatricals. The piece, termed "The Original Cohen," comes to the New Plainfield theatre this afternoon and tonight, with a reputation gained for brightness and consistency.

One of the attractive events of the present theatrical season in this city will be the appearance at the New Plainfield theatre Monday night of Lillian Russell in a new racing play by George Broadhurst and George Hobart. Mr. Broadhurst is the author of "The Man of the Hour," "Why Smith Left Home," and "The Girl from Lane's." Mr. Hobart is the author of several plays and a clever writer in the German dialect. The two gentlemen have written for Miss Russell a pleasant comedy with the scenes laid in Saratoga at the height of the racing season and in Albany at the end of a live session of the Legislature.

What is conceded to be the best play in which Lew Welch, the versatile comedian and character actor, has appeared in his long and eminently successful career, will be the attraction at the New Plainfield theatre next Thursday night. It is called "The Shoemaker," a four act melodrama by Hal Reid, and it is said to be the best thing in a dramatic way that he has thus far turned out. "The Shoemaker" was written expressly to exploit the peculiar and unique talents of Mr. Welch, who as the interpreter of a certain kind of an East Side Hebrew stands without an imitator.

"Brown from Missouri" is a farce comedy with excellent musical numbers, and is a play built on lines similar in the style of treatment to "What Happened to Jones" and "Charley's Aunt." The action of the piece involves a poor country girl married to a young millionaire, an English Lord and his lady touring America, a rich uncle from Missouri on a visit to New York, an old farmer who comes to town to see his father, and a cute French maid who makes all the trouble she can. These are the principal characters in the funniest show produced in years. Come to laugh, roar and scream, and you will not be disappointed. It will be seen at the New Plainfield theatre next Tuesday night.

CENSUS MAN TELLS OF HIS WORK

Washington, Nov. 30.—Director of census, S. N. D. North, says that the population of continental United States June 1, 1907, was 85,244,581. He prophesies that the population of the United States June 1, 1927; twenty years hence, will be 111,306,000.

"These figures," says he, "are the result of a simple calculation, based upon the growth of the population of the United States from census to census, the arbitrary rule by which this calculation is made assuming that the annual percentage of growth, which these censuses reveal will continue in the future. The rule works well enough, when applied to the whole country and to a single decade, or even to two decades. I entertain little doubt that the estimate of a population of 111,306,000 in 1927 will prove to be within 5,000,000 of the actual fact.

"The two forces at work which throw doubt upon the accuracy of such a forecast are the decreasing birth rate in this country and the increasing immigration. Thus far in our history, the latter has not been sufficient to overcome the former, in maintaining the rate of increase. The increase in our population was 30.1 at the census of 1880; 24.9 at that of 1890, and 20.7 at that of 1900. So that immigration has not been sufficiently large to counteract the significant decline in the birth rate. Since the census of 1900, the immigration has assumed proportions undreamed of heretofore, and we may therefore assume that the falling off in percentage of increases shown at the census of 1910 will not be as marked as in the last two decades. But it does not seem at all probable that this enormous immigration is to continue indefinitely without check.

"The census office has been the subject of some severe criticism, because it has ventured to make these estimates of population for the intercensal years. So far as the nation as a whole is concerned, this criticism is without justification. As to the individual States in the well-settled sections of the country, it is also without justification. This is proven by the several State censuses taken in 1904 and 1905. In Michigan, for instance, the census estimate of population in 1904 was 2,551,818; the actual census of that year revealed 2,530,016, in other words the estimate was only 0.9 per cent. too high. In Massachusetts the census estimate for 1905 was 3,088,546; the census revealed 3,003,680—an over-estimate of 2.8 only. On the other hand, in North Dakota the census estimate was 12.8 per cent. too low. For the 14 States which took census in 1904-05, the actual results and the census estimates were practically identical.

"Of course, it must happen that in certain localities, where new development is progressing rapidly, the arbitrary rule of census estimating will show a population much too small. For instance, by the census method of estimating, the population of the new State of Oklahoma was 1,162,609. By the actual census taken as of June 1, 1907, the population of the State was 1,414,177. These hundreds of thousands of people have been pouring into that State from other parts of the Union. They have reduced the population of other States, while increasing that of Oklahoma. So that, erroneous as the method is in such an exceptional instance, its general accuracy for the Nation is a whole remains unimpeached.

"But if this element of error exists, why make the estimate at all? That is a fair question, which I hope I can satisfactorily answer. The estimate are required and demanded for a great variety of reasons. The annual death rate in American cities can only be computed on the basis of an estimated population in the absence of an actual enumeration. It is also computed in all the European countries, where the intercensal population estimates are shown to be no closer to absolute accuracy than our own. These municipal death rates are of vital value, in maintaining sanitary conditions and protecting the public health. A variation of 10 per cent, more or less, in absolute accuracy, does not impair their practical value in any appreciable degree.

"Per capita taxation from year to year can only be computed by utilizing these estimates. These are but illustrations of the thousands and one uses to which the estimates are put, and of the actual business necessity which exists for making them. Since they must be made, it is obvious that they ought to be made by one authority, and by a uniform rule. The only governmental authority authority properly equipped to make them, is the census office, which devotes a large part of its work to the study of population and its movement. I believe it is true that every department of the Federal Government now recognizes this fact, and bases its per capita calculation, for intercensal years, upon the census estimate of population. It is clear that an enormous advantage over old methods results, when the estimates of population, for whatever purpose, in whatever part of the Union, are all calculated on the same basis. It eliminates the directory census, the police census, and my experience and observation justify me in stating that none of these so-called censuses have any scientific or statistical value."

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

GOLF.

With the cross country golf tournament at the Plainfield Country Club on Thursday, the local season closed and there will be no further competitions on either the Plainfield Country Club or Park Golf Club links until next spring. Altogether the season has been a very successful one and the various competitions have attracted an unusually large number of contestants.

A golf enthusiast has furnished The Daily Press with an account of a Thanksgiving Day event in golf, which, if true, is perhaps the only one of the kind in this part of the country. According to the story, no names are mentioned, two golfers, one a member of the Cranford Golf Club, and the other of the Plainfield Country Club, engaged in a novel match. Starting from the first tee at the Plainfield Country Club, the contestants followed a cross country course to the last hole at the Park Golf Club in the borough. Two friends acted as scorers and caddies. The course followed was directly through Plainfield. The Cranford man won the match with a score of 124, while his opponent made it in 126. Both golfers believe that they can better the scores made.

According to Donald Ross, the professional, the new eighteen-hole course at Pinehurst is an improvement on the old. It is the intention to have nearly all of the tournaments run off over the new links this winter. Pinehurst now has three courses, two of eighteen holes and one of nine.

Many well-known amateurs gathered at Lakewood Thursday for the annual fall open tournament at the Country Club. There was an eighteen-hole qualifying round, contestants to qualify in four sixteens.

Upward of four thousand amateurs competed in open tournaments in New England during the past season. This does not include the Connecticut tourneys nor those held in the mountains.

There is a story from Ireland to the effect that while two members of the Nairn Club were playing the second hole crows swooped down and carried away both balls, which had been driven a reasonable distance from the tee. The remarkable part of the tale is that the birds, after flying off to a considerable distance, circled round and dropped the balls on the course, but at a point considerably nearer the hole.

FOOTBALL.

That college football had enjoyed a most prosperous financial season is attested by the big returns from the games and the enormous attendances this year. The mad clamor for seats which attended the Princeton-Yale, Yale-Harvard and other important contests is still on by those who are looking around for seats at the Cornell-Pennsylvania in Philadelphia today and for the Army-Navy contest in the same city today. Reports from Philadelphia state that the whole seating capacity of Franklin Field, which will accommodate 28,000 persons, is sold out for these two games. The cash proceeds from today's game will alone amount to $50,000.

According to attendance records this year and the big rushes for tickets in advance of the contests, it is to be seen there isn't as yet a field big enough in the country to accommodate all who would witness the big games. This condition of affairs was illustrated by the unprecedented demand for seats to the annual game between Princeton and Yale at New Haven, when it was said fully ten thousand people who desired to purchase tickets were turned down. There were upward of thirty-four thousand persons at the Harvard-Yale game, which netted $68,000; there were 33,000 at the Yale-Princeton game, which netted $66,000. More than thirty thousand people saw the Indians play Harvard, which brought $50,000 in at the gate. Almost as many saw Princeton play the Indians on the Polo grounds, New York, netting nearly as much, while the Redskins and Pennsylvania drew 25,000 and returned $40,000; 27,000 persons saw Chicago and the Indians play, and 17,000 spectators witnessed the Minnesota-Indian game, while Syracuse and the Redskins drew 14,000 in Buffalo.

The Penn-Michigan game was attended by 17,000 persons, with a net return of $20,000, while Penn drew close to twenty thousand in both the Lafayette and State College games. In the Minnesota and Chicago game there were nearly twenty thousand present. These were the main games and the principal money makers, but the crowds that saw all the minor games were unusually large, and show that the attendance at all the more important contests of the season is only limited by the capacity of the fields where the game is played.

SOME GOOD READING FOR THE PRISONERS

The State Library at Trenton, through Miss Sarah B. Askew, organizer, is sending special libraries to the women's department of the State Prison, Mercer county workhouse, State Home for Girls, State Home for Boys at Jamesburg, Rahway Reformatory, Essex and Hudson penitentiaries and all county jails.

The State appropriate $1,000 of which $400 was to be available in the year ending November, 1907, and $600 to be available the ensuing year. It was found that the number of inmates in the different prisons and jails amounted to nearly 1,800. It was not, therefore, possible to do anything about sending the libraries out in the year ending November, 1907, as it was thought inadvisable to place the libraries in some before it was possible to send some books at least to all.

With the $400, 637 books were bought. Since the first of November the remaining $600 has been sent for books. In order to eke out the number of books sent to each prison in any way adequate, it has been necessary to transfer some of the books from the regular trtaveling library collection. The books bought are good, clean stories of adventure, art, biographies, histories, etc.

Everything has been avoided in the way of problem books. An effort has been made to secure books that would interest the inmates in learning a trade. Books with a moral have been avoided for books that would teach good living by force of example. In selecting these authorities on the subject have been taken to find just the right thing. With the small amount appropriated the expenses of the libraries have had to be paid out of the regular commission fund, and it has been necessary to send them out in rather rude cases.

There will be no interchange of these libraries with the regular traveling library books. All of these books bear a special label. To carry on this work as it should be there should be twice as many books as there are inmates in the prisons or the average number of inmates.

A letter is sent to each warden with full instructions and lists of books for the prisoner's use, and each warden has been consulted in regard to the kind of books wished, the character of the inmates, and as to whether the books would be appreciated. In every instance the reply has been enthusiastic.

PLANS FOR COLORED COLONY IN RAHWAY

The Metropolitan Mercantile and Realty Company of New York, which is to shortly open a colored people's department store in Rahway, and which has a grocery store in this city and a department store in Baltimore, Md., proposes to establish a negro colony in Rahway.

The company, of which P. Sheridan Ball is president, L. C. Collins secretary and J. H. Atkins treasurer, has purchased at Rahway over 1,000 building lots and the territory extending from Jefferson street, over to Milton Lake and through which the trolley line passes, and the company proposes to dispose of these lots to stockholders in the company and other members of the race. The property has a frontage of 600 feet on Milton Lake and the company is willing to erect houses for dwelling purposes upon the ground after the purchasers have secured one or more lots, and the owners will be given time in which to pay for the same.

The property is only a few blocks removed from St. George's avenue, the desirable residential section of the city. According to Frank J. Hyman, of 91 Monroe street, who is the agent at Rahway for the company, many of the colored people of that place and vicinity are buying up the lots and the company intends to shortly erect several houses on the land to give impetus to the enterprise.

Edward Hopper, one of Rahway's best known negro workers and property owners, is interested in the enterprise, as is also Benjamin Cromwell, John Robison and others of influence among their own people.

DR. WILSON ON TEACHING

Princeton's President Holds that Schools Merely Impart Information.

A PERIOD OF DISSOLUTION.

The Idea of Teaching English Literature, He Adds, Must Be Abandoned—We Don't Educate.

Speaking before a meeting of some of the most prominent educators in the country, last night, at a session of the annual convention of the Association of Colleges and Preparatory Schools of the Middle States and in Townsend Harris Hall of the College of the City of New York, President Woodrow Wilson, of Princeton, declared that the schools and colleges of the country are not educating their pupils, but are simply imparting information

"We have been passing through a period of dissolution of the standards of education," he said. "We have been trying a series of reckless experiments upon the lads and youths, girls and maidens of this country, instead of educating them. The children of the last two or three decades have not been educated. The pupils of our colleges of the last few decades have not been educated. With all our educating we have instructed nobody, and with all our instructing we have educated nobody.

"I have been teaching for some twenty years—that is, I have been conducting classroom exercises, but I do not think that I have been teaching any appreciable part of that time. I have been delivering lectures, sometimes about things of which I knew, but more often about things of which I had heard. The result has been that my pupils have remembered my stories and forgotten my lectures.

"We must remember that information is not education. The greater part of the work that we are doing in our colleges today is to impart information. My father, who was a man who used very precise English, once said: 'The mind is not a prolix gut to be stuffed.' One of the principal objects of education should be enlightenment, or the unloading from the minds of the pupils of the misinformation that they have received.

"Instead, we are daily cramming their minds with an enormous mass of irrelevant facts. It is better to see one thing than to look at a hundred. It is better to conduct a student to the inner chamber of one fact than to take him on a strip seeing greater knowledge.

"Another important thing is the establishment in the pupil's mind of the relation between the facts that we impart to him. I have always contended that every university should have a Professor of Things in General. Then there is discipline. There is nothing practical in the physical discipline of the gymnasium. The student is simply training his body to meet the emergencies of life. It should be the same with the mind.

"Any course of study that disciplines the mind is beneficial to the student. Anything that does not is not beneficial to him. Anything that is easy does not discipline. I would advocate giving children the tasks that are hardest for them to do, and then when they begin to get easy giving them something else.

"We have also got to do away with the idea that one branch of our association is preparing children for the other branch to teach. Both branches are doing the same work, or should do so. A boy does not cross a bridge into a new land when he leaves school and enters college. He just continues on his fair journey of education. School does not prepare the boy for college. Both are doing the best they can to educate them."

President Wilson also contended that technical schools should be separated from colleges, and laid down what he considered the ideal course of study for a boy's education. In the preparatory school he should study mathematics, Latin, and one other language. In college, he should study one of the sciences correlated with mathematics, continue his one language until he can read, write, and speak it fluently, and history, he said.

"We must give up the idea," he continued, "of teaching English literature. The appreciation of English can no more be pedagogically imported than the appreciation of the song of a bird.

"I do not know what would happen to our average college classes if all examination papers in which there are mistakes in the English were discarded. In defense, they say that they have to write too hurriedly to watch their English, meaning that they know so little about English that they have to use time and deliberation in order to use it correctly.

"The trouble is that we are trying to teach a little of everything, and instead are not teaching anything of anything. We should reduce education to a small body of great subjects. We have developed a great genius for everything but simplification. We should get the the elements of education; and then bring them together as a standard at least of what we are trying to do. As it is, we have missed the meaning of education."

The amusement room at the State Hospital for the Insant at Morris Plains was crowded by patients and attendants Thursday night, on the occasion of the annual Thanksgiving entertainment, a vaudeville performance that included both local and imported talent, being followed by a dance. Music was provided by the hospital orchestra and the event was one of the most satisfactory ever given here. Three members of the board of managers, President John C. Eisele, Vice-President Rev. Dr. James M. Buckley and the newly appointed member, George W. Jagle, visited the institution.

BLDG. AND LOAN REPORT

Banking and Insurance Commissioner Watkins Says Organizations are Prosperous.

42 THE RECORD FOR LAST YEAR.

All Associations Except One Are Locals—12,688 Members Gained Last Year.

According to the annual report of State Banking and Insurance Commissioner David O. Watkins on the subject of building and loan associations the total number in operation on October 31 last was 461, an increase for the year of 33. In the last year 42 associations have been incorporated and nine have discontinued business.

In the report Commissioner Watkins states that with the winding up of the affairs of the State Mutual Building and Loan Association of Camden, there remains but one of the "State" institutions in New Jersey. All of the "National" associations have been forced out of business and the "local" associations have been gradually securing the field to themselves. Commenting on the Camden association the report says:

"This institution was the oldest and largest of the class known as 'State' which differ from the regular or 'local' associations in that the business is conducted at a much greater expense. Agents are employed to solicit members, branch offices are maintained and loans are made throughout the State instead of being confined to particular localities. The elimination of this association leaves but one active survivor of the kind in the State, and that that one is still in existence is mainly due to the changes in its methods necessitated by the building loan law of 1903.

"The history of this class of building and loan associations is one of failure and disappointment and loss to their members, and it is a matter for congratulation that the restrictions and limitations are such as to preclude the organization of any more of them."

Concerning the general conditions of all the associations now in existence Commission Watkins says:

"The returns of the 'local' associations indicate prosperous conditions. There was a gain in the number of members of 12,668, the total now being 143,886. This increase exceeds that made in the preceding year by 2,646. The borrowing members number 36,960, or 26 per cent. of the whole. Gross assets have increased $5,814,215 and aggregated $67,802,407. The real estate holdings have been reduced $267,163. The total of $1,420,979 is but two and nine-hundredth per cent. of the whole gross assets, and nearly one-half of the amount is reported as sold under contract. The foreclosures during the year were fifty-one in number or thirty-three less than the year before.

"The dues or subscriptions on outstanding shares are reported at $50,764,249. This is an increase of $4,138,312. The profits apportioned and unapportioned amount to $11,744,216, which is an increase of $837,331. The total net assets or net worth of the associations is obtained by adding the stock dues or subscriptions to the accumulated profits which gives $62,508,467.

"In 361 or 91 per cent. of the institutions shares are issued in series which accords with the partnership theory underlying the building loan scheme; thirty-three are conducted upon the 'perpetual' or 'permanent' plan and are 'terminating' or one-series associations. One-half operate the 'gross' premium plan, i. e., the premium bid is deducted from the amount of the loan and the balance advanced to the borrower, the premium not being actually earned and paid until the shares pledged are worth their par value, or in other words, have matured; 173 or 41 per cent. collect the premium in instalments; eight have both plans, and in 27 no premium is charged.

"The amount of prepaid or paid-up shares outstanding shows an increase of $461,404, or nearly 38 per cent. for the year, the aggregate being $1,687,276. The issuance of this kind of stock has never been retarded with favor by the great mapority of local associations, although it has always been a feature of the 'State' and 'National' concerns. It appears, however, to have recently become popular among some of the local societies in the larger cities.

"The subscribers to such shares pay the full par value thereof in advance and receive a fixed rate of interest instead of sharing equally with the instalment shareholders in the total profits earned. By means of such payment the association is placed in immediate possession of funds for making loans which otherwise would have to be accumulated gradually from the instalment dues. The scheme has its limitations, however, and if overdone may cause embarrassment to an association, as would result in case any large number of shares noticed for withdrawal at one time, thereby necessitating heavy cash payments. The amount of paid-up stock should be kept down to a small proportion of the total liabilities in every association. It should be fully understood by subscribers of paid-up shares that they do not stand in the relation of creditors, but on the contrary are subject to debts and loans the same as instalment shareholders; nor are they entitled to preference of payment over the latter."

The report contains statistical information obtained from the annual statements of the 417 associations of which 15 are "local" and two "State."

BECOMING INSANE, HE TRIES TO KILL FAMILY.

Abram Grossman Attacks Wife and Children, Attempts Suicide and Fights Several Men.

Asbury Park, Nov. 30.—Becoming violently insane at his home, No. 1,037 Springwood avenue, early yesterday morning, Abraham Grossman, formerly a shoemaker in Cookman avenue, attempted to kill his whole family and threatened the lives of several men who sought to subdue him. He gashed an artery in his wrist while attempting to throw himself from a second story window and was later in the morning lodged in the city jail. A raving maniac, Grossman was taken to the State Hospital for the Insane at Trenton.

Mrs. Grossman was the first attacked, Grossman hurling a tea kettle at her as she ran down the back stairs to escape from him. Picking up crockery and other glassware he could lay hands on, Grossman began an attack on the other members of the family, all of whom ran to the street.

Grossman then tried to hurl himself from a second story window. He was stopped from falling by Isaac Maltzman, a butcher, occupying the store directly beneath the Grossman home, who had been attracted to the apartments. When he was pulled back into the room Grossman had a wound in the right wrist. Grossman ran out and put his fist through a plate glass window of the grocery store at No. 1,020 Springwood avenue.

After a struggle he was captured by Max Epstein and a negro, who bound him and carried him back to his home. Dr. James F. Ackerman and Dr. H. B. Shafto were summoned and administered a quieting draught.

Grossman is the father of eleven children, eight sons and three daughters. He came to this country from Warsaw, Poland, eighteen years ago and has lived in this city fourteen years. He owns the building in which he lives in Springwood avenue and was prosperous.

TO SINK PROBE INTO STATE PRISON SYSTEM.

Chairman Simon Hahn, of the Hahn investigating committee, sent out notices yesterday for a meeting of his committee Wednesday, December 4, when the probe will be sunk into the State prison. Later the probers will take up the work of the oyster commissioners, which cost the State $20,000 last year. A small portion of this amount came back to the State in license fees.

Mr. Hahn says that the committee will continue the probe until the first of the year, when the power of the committee expires, because of the Assemblymen going out of office. The report of the Legislature will make some drastic recommendations.

Topic, "Man As a Brother."

The next sermon in the course on "The Kingdom of God in the Life of Man," will be given at All Souls' church, tomorrow night, by Rev. John Haynes Holmes, who is the successor to Rev. Dr. Minot Judson Savage, at the Church of the Messiah, in New York. His subject will be "Man As a Brother." The service will begin at 7:45 o'clock. Mr. Holmes is considered a very young man to fill so important a pulpit, but he is reputed to be very eloquent and magnetic and in his few years in the ministry has made a brilliant record.

Assemblyman Tumulty to Quit.

Assemblyman Joseph P. Tumulty at Jersey City yesterday morning announced that when the next session of the Legislature ends he will have finished his Assembly work. "I will not accept another renomination," he said. "I will fight for Democratic principles this winter, and then I am through."

SKYSCRAPER FACTS IN NEW YORK CITY.

The New York Building Department's records for Manhattan and the Bronx shows that plans for fifty-one buildings more than ten stories high were filed between January 1 and October 31 this year. In the corresponding period last year were filed plans for forty-eight buildings of more than ten stories.

Twelve stories appear to be the favorite height among structures of eleven or more. Plans for twenty-nine twelve-story buildings were filed up to October 31 this year, and for twenty-two in the same ten months of 1906. The record-breaker in height, with forty-one stories belongs to 1906, as does also the record-breaker in size, but neither of these will be finished until 1908.

The Baltimore and San Francisco conflagarations emphasized the need of safe construction, and the high buildings projected in New York within the last two years are made to withstand the fiercest heat. The largest and highest of them have their steel frames protected by hollow terra cotta blocks, with floors and partitions of the same material. Elevators and stairways are so enclosed as to prevent fires spreading from one floor to another. It has been said by the architect of the highest building of all that not one bushel of combustible material went into it.

The "plan book" at the Bureau of Buildings gives evidence of the effect of the financial stringency upon building operations. The cost of all buildings in Manhattan and the Bronx for which plans were filed from November 1 to November 19, 1906, was $2,002,550, as compared with $1,270,064 for the first nineteen days of November this year. The total number of plans filed from January 1 to November 19, 1907.

Held Up and Robbed.

A man whose name could not be learned called on Borough Marshal Andrew Flammer, at Bound Brook, Wednesday, and told him that he had been held up by three men and robbed of $50. The stranger, who claimed Newark as his home, said he was walking along the Lehigh Valley Railroad on his way to a farm about three miles from there, where he was going to work for the winter. When a short distance from New Brunswick he was approached by three men who demanded his money. He endeavored to escape, but was knocked down and his money taken from him.

35 "No Seat, No Fare" Complaints.

Justice Higgins at Jersey City yesterday afternoon issued summonses on over thirty-five complaints against the Public Service Corporation, returnable on Monday, each complaint charging a violation of the "No seat, nar fare" ordinance.

THE ART OF HAIR CULTURE.

Says a well known artist, "There is nothing so decorative as a lovely head of hair, nothing so easily ruined by ill-usage, and fortunately nothing that will respond more quickly to sensible treatment."

The hair is a sort of barometer of general health. In other words, if you possess a healthy body and a healthy skin your hair will be strong and glossy. Hair which has no gloss and is of a dead, spiritless appearance is nearly always an indication of the enfeebled condition of its owner.

The first essential to healthful growth of the hair is cleanliness. And by cleanliness wo do not mean incessant washing. Too much water—particularly soapy water—has a tendency to wash out the natural oil of the scalp and so weaken the roots. The best method of keeping the hair clean and sweet is to use a good stiff brush well and regularly. The hair should be carefully parted in sections, and brushed from the very scalp out to the ends with smooth, even strokes. If this is done, then once a month is quite often enough for washing. Of course many girls are obliged to work in places where the air is liable at times to be thick with smoke, whilst others have to travel daily by smoky trains or dusty cars, and for them a fortnightly wash is necessary.

The hairbrush itself is an important feature. It should be of stiff, medium coarse but smooth bristles, closely set, and above all things it must be clean, as all the soil of the hair adheres to the brush after a thorough brushing. Even while brushing the hair it is wise to take a clean towel and wipe the bristles of the brush. Combing the scalp with a fine comb will remove every particle of dust remaining.

If the hair becomes unduly oily and unmanageable in a short time, powdered orris root may be lightly shaken over it and then thoroughly brushed out again—a dry shampoo of this nature will leave the hair in fine condition.

A good method for shampooing is the following: Rub tincture of green soap well into the scalp, taking care not to bruise or scratch the skin, then add enough water to make a good lather and rinse thoroughly; then repeat the process with a lather made of pure white castile. The rinsing should be done through three waters at least. The ideal method of drying is to sit or walk about in the sun until every drop of the moisture is gone from the hair, letting the wind blow through it freely, as the sun and wind will impart a beautiful gloss to hair obtainable in no other way, and in addition stimulate the skin of the scalp and make it healthy. If the sun treatment is not practicable, use soft towels and then fanning, being careful to avoid roughness in handling and rubbing, as in its softened condition the hair is very easily broken and split. After a complete drying the scalp should be messaged and loosened with the fingers until the whole surface it pink and active looking—much depends on a good massage treatment.

Two Ways of Looking at It.

There is a young artist in Washington who classes himself as of the impressionistic school and who, being somewhat out in drawing, generally makes up for his lack of technique by spreading color recklessly and counting on distance for his effect.

At an amateur exhibition he once hung one of his most extraordinary performances.

"Well," said a friend whom the artist had taken to see the work, "I don't want to flatter you, old chap, but that is far and away the best stuff you have ever done. I congratulate you."

Much pleased, the artist was receiving the compliment with becoming modesty when he chanced again to glance at the picture and turned very red. The committee had hung it upside down.

Hurrying to the head of the committee, he was about to launch into a loud complaint when he was informed of the good news that an hour before the picture had been sold for $61. The original price mark had been $19.—Lippincott's Magazine.

—Atlanta Constitution.

Keep the Mouth Shut.

He—A person should never boast of his possessions.

She—Why not?

"Well, I read only today of a circus elephant at Innsbruck, Germany, which had $70 worth of gold taken out of a filled tooth one night."

"Can't see what that has to do with it?"

"Well, if the elephant had kept it's mouth shut, it couldn't have lost it!"—Yonkers Statesman.

Stephen Blanier, of Elmwood place, has returned from a visit with his son at Madison.

CARE FOR YOUR SHIRTWAISTS.

It has grown to be considerable question as to how the many shirt waists, now a necessary part of a woman's wardrobe, are to be properly cared for.

Many things enter into the question of this care, and include such varying things as the laundering of wash waists, the cleaning of silk and wool waists, the ending of all the waists and last but not least, the keeping of them in a convenient place that will also preserve them in freshness.

The only way to insure this freshness is to have the garments kept in a place secure from crushing and rumpling.

If a drawer can be set aside for each one so much the better; but there are few houses, and no flats, large enough to allow one woman unlimited room for keeping her clothes, and if there are several women in a family they could not be accommodated at all in any such proportion.

The way out of the difficulty is to devise a scheme by which one can easily and speedily get at the garments wanted, lift them out and not crush others in doing so.

Some young girls are very careless of the manner in which they dispose of their clothes when they arrive from the laundry, recklessly stuffing them into any convenient receptacle, where they are bound to be crushed, particularly when seeking other articles which may be contained in the same place.

A shirt waist which has been well laundered and carefully put away will not only look well at the end of a day's wear, but, in case of the girl or woman who has to economize on her laundry bill, can perhaps be worn a second time and still not look "mussy" if it is cared for after being taken off.

If shirt waists require so much care in folding away, the more delicate lingerie waists, which as frequently pay a visit to the laundry certainly should be given intelligent care.

These become crushed and untidy, looking before worn if not given sufficient space. It will compensate one for a little forethought in this matter.

And be it remembered, the care of a waist depends not as much upon the way it is worn as the manner in which it is put away.

It should be folded at the underarm seam and the sleeves bent over at the elbow and brought around in front.

In order to make the space it occupies smaller it can be folded a trifle above the waist line.

SOME TEMPTING SWEETS.

Ginger Puffs.

One cup light brown sugar, one egg, one egg, one teaspoonful of ginger, one cup molasses, two level teaspoonfuls of saleratus, dissolved in one cup hot water, one cup melted lard, four cupfuls flour; mix in the order given and drop by a tablespoon about two inches apart in a dropping pan. Bake in a quick oven.

Velvet Sherbet.

Scald one quart of milk in a double boiler. Add two cups of sugar and stir until dissolved and the milk looks blue, then set away to cool. Pack the freezer, pour into the can the cold milk, and let stand five minutes. Then add the strained juice of two lemons or oranges and the whites of two eggs (beaten), with two tablespoons of powdered sugar. Freeze, repack, and set away for two hours to ripen. Serve with this a delicate white cake.

Plumbanna Jam.

Take wild plums, or the large red cultivated plum, cover with water, in granite or porcelain kettle, and cook to a mush. Strain through a colander and for each cup of the strained jam take two bananas. Cook bananas in a little water and mash nd dd to the plums. To five cups of the combined fruit dd four cups of granulated sugar. Cook for two hours, or until the consistency of jam, stirring frequently to keep from scorching. Put in glasses and cover with paraffin, or seal in cans.

A NEW IDEA.

Many women have been obliged or have preferred to replace long silk gloves, not by a new pair, but by short ones, which they sew to the perfectly good arms of the old ones.

This seam, however, makes an unsightly line, which immediately proclaims economy to all the world. One clever woman crocheted instead of sewing the parts together.

The crocheted band was in a pretty pattern, and of silk to match the gloves in shade, was an ornament in place of a blemish, and for months her friends haunted the stores in a vain search for a counterpart.

Not only does the crocheting improve the appearance of the old gloves, but it also lengthens them, and relieves that distressingly "short" feeling often present in inexpensive kinds.

Wouldn't Go Round.

Mrs. Winks—It's a perfect outrage, Mr. Winks. The idea of inviting those gentlemen to dinner, when you knew the house was full of company. Why, it will make thirteen at table!

Mr. Winks—Surely you are not superstitious about that? Having thirteen at table won't worry me in the least.

Mrs. Winks—Well, it will when you see what a small joint the butcher has sent.

CHAPTER VI.
The Other Woman.

There is no enemy that the average man must crush more ruthlessly beneath the iron heel than his imagination. The ties of home, of society, the necessity of earning his daily bread—these are barriers that hem him in the narrow rut of routine and duty. He dare not look over the romance that beckon alluringly. Or, if he dare, he must throw prudence and sometimes conscience to the wind.

But occasionally a cataclysm, both physical and mental, thrusts one without the familiar landmarks. The habits of a lifetime are forgotten then. It is then that one dares the impossible, and refuses to see to what extravagant and fantastic extremes he is recklessly plunging.

From dreaming to action is but a step. It is true that the divine madness too soon passes; the reaction comes; one is restored sharply to the normal poise by the rude awakening that comes with failure or with self-consciousness. But sometimes consequences are already set in motion, and it is too late to draw back; there is nothing for it but to be borne onward with the tide.

So it was with me. I might return to America—take up the threads of life where I had left them—laugh at the newspaper accounts of the tragedy—deny them, or at least live them down. If I did that, I should know exactly what would happen to me. I could count upon just how much happiness would come to my life, how much interest routine and duty would yield me.

But my imagination had been set aflame. A world of chivalry and romance beckoned to me alluringly. And if I trod the mazes of that fairy world, there would be none to ridicule, for there would be none to know that I had set out to find it. If it proved to be only a world of dreams and fantasy, I should at least have had the delicious excitement of seeking it, of playing make-believe—the most fascinating game, after all is said, for boy or man.

I had come to Europe secretly cherishing the hope that just such an adventure would come to me as had happened to-night. The 33 years of my life had been passed in an atmosphere unusally dead and prosaic.

When I had left the university, I had acted as secretary to an uncle, a multi-millionaire who lived in an obscure town of the middle West. I had trudged the dreary and stupid circle of business routine, my eyes bent somberly to earth. Success had come, or what world calls success—money and a measure of respect that is given to one with a substantial bank account. But that is not life.

And then one day I awoke. I realized with a start that life was slipping away from me; and with the hours the golden aspirations and delights that make life worth while. I was simply a machine, rather a cog in the huge machine of business. I rebelled. In one day I broke the shackles that bound me. I was free. My life was at last my very own. I could do with it what I pleased. I could go where I wished.

And so I had come to Europe. I had hugged to my breast the common but pathetic delusion that across the seas I should find something—just what I did not know—something that would make life more joyous, give to it charm and interest.

I had searched diligently for the magic talisman in strange cities, and of course I had not found it. The blue flower is not to be plucked so easily. Instead of happiness and diversion, disgrace and misery had come. Should I return home, then, imbittered, averting the eyes? Or should I avail myself of the way of escape which this woman had lightly suggested?

And if I chose to consider it a quest a challenge, there was none, not even she, to forbid, though she, of all the people in the world, would be the last to consider it such. And if fortune aided me, as it aids most adventurous souls, I would seek her out, though I searched the wide world for her. And then, perhaps—

I crushed in my hand the programme of music that lay on the table. Pshaw, it was the woman, then, that gave to this fantastic mission its vague thrill; not the idea of the mission itself! It was the woman whom I had wronged, and who hated me, that called. She sat in the lists; in her hands was the laurel wreath; for her I would endure the shock of battle.

I sat quietly, still staring out into the night. The lights of green and red and blue had burned away long ago. The lake, rocked in its cradle of shadowy mountains, stirred gently under the moon. The terrace was almost deserted, and still I lingered. Disillusionment must come too soon, and with the morrow inevitable depression.

Suddenly I became ill at ease. I turned slowly in my seat. I looked furtively about me. It was as if I had spoken a secret thought aloud, and one were listening, watching.

I was watched, and with a curious intentness that was almost savage. A woman was seated at the window of the writing room. She held rigidly in both hands the English journal in which my photograph had appeared.

Our eyes met. I gazed at her standing perfectly still. It was not embarrassment or anger that held me; it was rather wonder. For on the face of this woman was the same intent, curious surprise that had astonished me so much earlier in the evening, when I first met Mrs. Brett and her daughter.

A measure of surprise is natural enough, when the original of a photograph unexpectedly appears before one. But I knew that this fact alone did not explain the strained look of the womna at the open window. Defiance (or was it sheer anxiety?) flashed from the burning depths of these eyes that held me fascinated.

She stirred. I saw her toss the paper lightly to the table. Then she disappeared.

I entered the hotel. I paused uncertainly in the hall, then walked swiftly into the reading room. Apparently it was deserted.

I reached for the paper; I tore out the page in which my photograph appeared; I crushed it savagely in my hand.

There was a light, mocking laugh. I looked up, startled. It was the woman again.

She stood almost in shadow. One

It Was the Woman Again.

bare arm was placed lightly on her hips; the other stretched its white length on the low mantel and supported her.

There was something oriental in her magnificent costume. The dress was black velvet. About her neck hung a narrow stole of Eastern embroidery, studded at intervals with turquoises. From the extended arm draped a scarf of shimmering gold thread. About the left arm, both at the wrist and above the elbow, were several bracelets of bizarre design. The corsage, too, flashed with gems as she breathed slowly and deeply. Her pose, as her costume, had something almost barbaric in its sensuous extravagance. The small head, exquisitely coiffured, was turned slightly, thrown back so that her white throat gleamed out of the shadow. The lips were parted, still smiling; and more sensuous, more brilliant, more devouring than the gleam of the jewels about her person, was the flame that burned in her eyes.

She laughed again. It was impossible not to know that she was challenging me. The pose, the look, the laugh—all were a challenge. But I was in no mind to accept it, and glanced idly at the papers on the table. Presently I walked toward the door. Again her light laughter pursued me.

"Pardon, monsieur," she called, still mockingly.

I turned and looked silently at my tormentor.

Mischievously she pointed a jeweled finger to a placard on the wall.

"Guests are forbidden to carry away the papers from the reading room," I read.

To assume a tragic mien at this delicious bit of badinage would have been absurd. I could not help laughing. But I answered with some pique:

"Hotel proprietors are forbidden to annoy guests with offensive photographs in the hotel reading rooms! That is a new rule I shall have placed upon the walls to-morrow."

She clapped her hands delightedly. "A beautiful and much-needed rule," she murmured, her eyes sparkling. Then she came toward me a few steps, and stood, a dazzling and fascinating figure in the full light. Her eyes no longer mocked; they beseeched.

"Forgive me. It was cruel to laugh. But when I catch you, like a naughty child—ah, that is too droll!"

"On the contrary, madam, I should thank you. It was my first laugh for weeks."

"Monsieur!" She came a step still nearer, her dress gleaming and glittering as she moved. She looked at me pitifully.

But her sympathy was too easily awakened to be convincing. I understood perfectly that she had been determined to speak to me when I first entered the room.

"Madam," I said cynically, "it is you who are breaking a rule now—a rule of society."

"Par example?" she demanded, her eyes darkening.

"It is forbidden to show sympathy to one who has been unfortunate."

She sighed her relief. Evidently she has expected from me a banality to the effect that society does not sanction a woman's speaking to a strange man.

"But"—she made a gesture of contempt—"the canard of a newspaper! Who believes that?"

"All the world, apparently," I answered, amused at the vigor of her denial.

"Well, I for one, do not."

I regarded her, still cynical, and yet I was moved. Hers was the first sympathy shown to me. I felt instinctively that it was the cheap and insincere sympathy of an adventuress, who offered it for her own ends. She would demand its price presently. And yet I was not ungrateful for her interest. As for the price—well, is anything quite gratuitous? Whether the payment be in gold or gratitude or love or obedience—we all have our price.

"And why do you not believe the account of this newspaper?"

"You are a race of warriors. One with such blood in one's veins does not play the coward. No!" She struck her hand together to emphasize her conviction.

"A race of warriors?" I repeated wonderingly.

"Has not every English gentleman the blood of warriors in his veins?" she protested.

"But I am an American," I said quietly.

"Impossible!" She looked at me, really bewildered now. "An American! But the ladies that you spoke to half an hour ago?"

"And can an American not speak to Englishwomen?" I demanded coldly. That she should mention them at all annoyed me.

"Then you are not"—she twisted a bracelet about her arm, then looked up swiftly—"you are not even a relation?"

"I am not even a friend," I said, still more coldly. "Good night, madam."

"Good night, monsieur."

She sank into a fauteuil, as one who is too astonished to make even the physical effort of standing. For the first time since she had spoken she was not acting. As I walked toward the door she stared after me, frowning in her perplexity.

CHAPTER VII.
Countess Sarahoff Wins and Loses.

The next morning, when I first awoke, I wondered vaguely why this day seemed to be so different from the long and dreary succession of yesterdays—why it promised eager hopes and eager interests to be fulfilled. Then I remembered, and my pulses beat faster. Yesterday I despaired; to-day I hoped.

A woman had come into my life—a goddess—Diana of the silver bow. Chaste and cold as the snows on the Alpine heights I could not see from my window in the blue distance, yet she had called, she had spoken to me. Then, disdainfully cruel, she had gone as she had come. But I was to pursue.

The very audacity of my resolution gave to it its charm. I was not to rest until I had accomplished my uncertain mission. That it was by its very nature so incredibly difficult did not daunt me. But how was I to set about it? A life for a life. To save to the world a strong and buoyant soul for the strong and buoyant soul that had perished because of my helplessness and my weakness. However romantic, it was a tangible enough ideal.

But was I to wander about, like a knight of medevial times, seeking to succor one in peril and distress—to rescue beautiful maidens from grim ogres and terrible dragons? I smiled at the absurd resemblance of my uncertain task to theirs.

So far as it lay in my power, I would perform my self-imposed task in a direct and businesslike method. As to this method, a dozen extravagant courses of action occurred to me at once. Of the dozen I selected two as possible.

"Every English gentleman comes of a race of warriors," the mysterious woman of the reading room had said to me last night. Miss Brett, being an Englishwoman, had the blood of soldiers in her veins. The physical courage of the battlefield, then, must appeal to her. If, for instance, I should enlist in the Foreign Legion, there was the Legion of Honor to be won. The little ribbon would tell its eloquent story.

But Willoughby's life had been lost amid the dread silence of the white snows. I looked long and earnestly where the sun touched the mountaintop with a rosy light out of the morning mists. The mountains seemed to beckon, to wait for me.

I had shuddered—I still shuddered, as I thought of their awful gloom and loneliness. And yet they seemed to beckon—to wait for me. I had been helpless and weak. They had conquered me. Well, I must return to conquer them. Their very immensity need not appal me. Man's glory is to subdue the vast forces of nature—to make them his own.

I thought of the Hospice of St. Bernard. There for centuries men had even laid down their lives to save the perishing. Well, why should I not be one of the little band for the time being? Why should I not become a novitiate in the order? A few months of arduous training, and I should be ready for the battle.

If I went to the monastery and told the good father superior of the sacred vow I had made, would he laugh at me for a madman, or would he understand and help me to fulfill it?

I began the day, therefore, vaguely hopeful. I no longer permitted myself to be troubled at the whispers of servants and guests. I even courted the society of my fellowmen. I paid my two francs admission to the kursaal, and listened with real enjoyment to its excellent orchestra.

My coat was lightly brushed. There was a faint but exquisite perfume. I glanced, as did a dozen others, at the woman who was passing.

The small, but superbly poised figure, gowned with a marvelous simplicity, paused by my side a fraction of a second. It was my acquaintance of the reading room again, and she had murmured a good morning. A dozen had noted the greeting and envied me.

I did not return it. She continued her way daintily, punishing me for my rudeness by smiling across at me mockingly as she seated herself at my right. There was something of a childish, almost fairy malice in the illusive smile.

The intermission came. All the world pushed back their chairs, and made their way through glazed doors at the rear, whence an electric bell rang persistently. The motley crowd of officers, tourists, and such of the society of Lucerne as was at the kursaal passed through the glazed doors to play the petits chevaux—a rather harmless form of dissipation, a gambling toy that permits one to lose at the most a five-franc piece.

I mingled with the crowd about the green-baize table on which the little metal horses were whirling around an imaginary race course. A croupier changed a 50-franc note for me. I tossed a coin on one of the numbers; and lost. I staked another coin, this time against the field. Again I lost. I staked all my five-franc pieces but two.

While I weighed them thoughtfully in my palm, my arm was touched lightly. It was my adventuress of the reading room once more. She lifted her eyebrows in whimsical concern at my ill luck.

"Even these little horses, you see, madam, know that I am to be shunned," I said in a low voice.

"My friend," she smiled, vivaciously, "they are simply frightened at your black face. They are sensitive, the little horses. But if you coax—we shall see. Allons, we will be prudent, a little shining franc on number 27. Now, if my brave horses only know that it is I who am asking them to win for us, we shall win."

"Ne rien va plus," croaked an official in a dingy dress suit and crumpled shirt bosom. He spun the mechanism briskly between two bony fingers and thumb. The tiny jockeys in blue, buff, green, and red sped swiftly around the course. Presently they straggled one behind the other, and came to a pause. The croupier stretched out his rake, and drew in our two shining francs with the other winnings of the bank.

I turned to her sternly. "You see?" I cried in tragic dismay.

"Pouf! A little patience, monsieur. It is the jockeys who are sulky. I have forgotten to blow them a kiss. Quick, a five-franc piece, the maximum, on the field. This time we shall certainly win."

Three times in succesion we won—now at even odds, now with the odds in our favor. But again the electric bell rang. She shrugged her shoulders, and made a moue of regret.

"Alas! At the hour of our triumph the voice of art clamors."

We returned to the concert room.

"Is it not strange," she murmured after a pause in the music, "that one longs so much for what is just beyond one's reach, while other fruit, as sweet, may be plucked for the asking?"

The boldness of the metaphor startled and repelled me.

"You speak in riddles, madam," I said, coldly. Frankly, I had not placed her exactly as that sort of a woman.

"Riddles?" She lifted her eyebrows, hesitating. "I mean, Mr. Haddon, that I should be so glad if we might be friends."

I was unconvinced. "You are too generous," I said, ironically. "Does your interest in mankind embrace all the world?"

"But you have been unfortunate," she said, softly. "Are you angry that I should be sorry for you?"

"I am perplexed, at least."

"If you are only perplexed, I shall not despair." She smiled at me gayly across the table, her elbows supporting the clasped hands that framed her exquisite beauty. "Come, are we to be friends?"

"I remember," I said, boldly, "when I was at college, a story of Socrates that pointed an obvious moral. Would you like to hear it?"

A Costly Autograph.

At a charitable sale in Paris once Baron Rothschild stopped at a stall conducted by Gyp, and the fair litterateur addressed him with the usual request to buy something.

"What am I to buy?" said the baron. "You have nothing at all suitable for me. But I have an idea. I should like to have your autograph Sell me that."

Taking a sheet of paper, the lady wrote upon it, "Received from Baron Rothschild the sum of 1,000 francs for the benefit of charity. Gyp."

Baron Rothschild read it, thanked her and, handing her a note for the amount named, went away delighted with the lady's ingenuity.

EVER HAVE IT?
If You Have, the Statement of This Plainfield Citizen Will Interest You.

Ever have a "low-down" pain in the back?
In the "small," right over the hips?
That's the home of backache.
It's caused by sick kidneys.
That's why Doan's Kidney Pills cure it.
Plainfield people endorse this. Read a case of it:
Mrs. Julia Hynes, of 523 Sixth street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "For nearly a year I was suffering from a severe pain in the loins, or what is generally called backache. I was also afflicted with a stiffness or lameness of the limbs and the kidney secretions were highly colored and contained some sediment. Any remedies that I took to clear up the kidney secretions and rid me of my aches and pains did me apparently no good. I heard of Doan's Kidney Pills doing so much for people suffering as I was, so began using them, getting a supply at Randolph's drug store. Though at first I saw no change in my condition, I soon began to have less pain in my back and my limbs were not stiff any more. I kept right on with their use and took them several months, with the result that they cured me of my trouble for which I am glad to endorse them."
For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

CHURCH ATHLETES PREPARE FOR INDOOR TRACK MEET.

Members of the athletic teams of the various local churches entered in the Sunday-school athletic league this year are already commencing practise for the indoor meet to be held at the Y. M. C. A. two weeks from tonight and some of the events promise to be closely contested. The team from the First Baptist church, which has carried off the honors three times now in meets of the league, has many of the same contestants and is perhaps in the best form. The Congregationalists, who were only defeated by six points in the out-door meet held last year, have a good bunch of candidates out for the points again this season and Hope chapel will have a team in the meet which includes several point winners.

There will be no individual ribbons awarded at the meet this year, but two cups—one for seniors and the other for juniors—will be awarded to the champion teams, and the contests will be separate events for seniors and juniors. The entries close with Phycical Director George L. Listman, of the Y. M. C. A., Saturday night, December 7, and the churches to be represented are the First Baptist, First Presbyterian, Trinity Reformed, Hope chapel, Congregational, First Methodist and Warren chapel.

FOUR CHURCH BASKETBALL TEAMS HOLDING PRACTISE.

Though the basketball league of the Sunday-school Athletic League will not begin their regular league schedule until after Christmas, several of the teams have organized already and are holding regular practises. The five which will represent the Congregational church in the league will play a practise game with the business men's team at the Y. M. C. A. Monday night, and have been practising for the past week.

Each of the seven churches in the league will probably have a team on the floor to compete for the local honors, and the fives of the Congregational church, Hope chapel, the First Baptist church and the Seventh-Day Baptist church are already organized for practise.

BOWLING.

The first game in the Cenertal Journal Bowling League to be rolled by the Park Club on its home alleys will be Thursday night, December 5, when the team will entertain the Jersey City Club. This will be the first match between these teams this season and the outcome will be watched with considerable interest. The Parks are considered much stronger this season than in the past and will make every club in the league hustle to win.

Awarded Thirteen Ribbons.

A. C. Bechstein, of Park avenue, won thirteen ribbons as prizes at the Westchester County Poultry and Pigeon Show, with his prize-winning chickens and pigeons. There was strong competition. Among the thirteen awards were many firsts. The show is being held this week at White Plains, N. Y.

Basketball Monday Night.

The Y. M. C. A. basketball team will play the five from the Twenty-sixth ward Y. M. C. A. at the local association gymnasium Monday night. There will also be a game between the business men's five of the association and the Congregational church team. The first game will start at 8:15.

—The electric department of the P. S. C. began its underground conduit work on North avenue today.

—Rapid progress is being made in the work of laying pipe for the Southside sanitary sewer and City Engineer Gavatt believes that it will be completed within two or three weeks provided the weather remains favorable.

HIGH SCHOOL SECOND WON FROM LEAL'S 15-0

The second team of the city high school defeated a football eleven composed of Leal's school boys on Hope Common yesterday morning by a score of 15-0. Neither of the elevens had ever played together before but the school holiday gave the boys an opportunity for the game and the teams were quickly made up. The high school players proved the better bunch and scored their first touchdown about five minutes after the game began, Fawcett carrying the ball over the line. Horace Earle, captain of the high school eleven, kicked the goal. A few minutes later, when the high school had the ball on Leal's 35-yard line, Nash, who plays on the Holy Cross club eleven, kicked a pretty field goal, and the half closed with the score 10-0 in favor of the local school boys.

In the second period, the Leal's boys played better football and the city eleven had a harder time gaining ground. Near the end of the half, however, Fawcett made another touchdown, after the ball had been worked down the field in steady gains. The attempt at goal failed. F. Clyde Doane, who plays end on the city high school team, acted as referee and twenty minute halves were played. The teams lined up as follows:

BISMARCKS WIN AGAIN

Captain Britton's Team Takes Two Out of Three Games from Skelly's Lafayettes.

CHAUNCEY STOUT THE "HERO."

Made an Average of 227, the Most Remarkable Ever Recorded In a Local Tourney.

Ed. Britton's Bismarck bowling team reappeared in the tourney at Campbell's allays last night and scored another victory by taking two out of three games from Louis Skelly's Lafayettes, losing the one tally by only three points. It was one of the best series that has yet been rolled at the academy and though every one of the Bismarcks worked hard to win, honors for the night went to Chauncey F. Stout. Notwithstanding that he was hampered by a bleeding thumb bound up in a bandage he made the most remarkable average that has ever been recorded in a local match game or tourney series.

His scores for the three games were 232, 221 and 228, giving him the surprising average of 227. In his last game he hit the timber for six straight strikes and would have had a beautiful score but for a bad split in the seventh that left an impossible spare. He brought his shooting eye back in the eighth and continued his good work, getting cheered to the echo by a big crowd of rooters.

Captain Britton fell down from his usual game and ended with an average of 159.1, something scandalous for him. Captain Skelly, of the Lafayettes, made an uphill fight and got a 188 average, but it was not enough to pull up his weak men. His lieutenant, John Wirth, made some good tallies and "Tune" Hewitt walked away with a 154 average. Fred Hillman was in poor form and because of James Edwards failure to arrive in time a "dummy" average had to be rolled for him. It tallied up 144.2.

Tom Muir again got second best average on the Bismarcks, 169.1, while Charles W. Runyon and Frank McInerney went below their first games by many pins. Runyon's average was 132 and McInerney's 133 though both are capable of much better work:

Nash, Jr., captain; William Skinner, George Ortleb, James O'Keefe and Rudolph Toense.

Funeral of Mrs. Smalley.

Relatives and friends of the late Mrs. Mary E. Smalley, who died Tuesday, gathered at her late home on Norwood avenue yesterday afternoon, where simple funeral services were conducted by Rev. J. W. Musson, pastor of Faith chapel. Dr. Musson took occasion to speak of the useful life of the departed and the esteem in which she was held by all who knew her. The floral tributes were bountiful, including a large wreath from the local carpenters' union. Mrs. Smalley was a member of the Home Department of Trinity Reformed church and among the flowers were as mass of chrysanthemums, a token of remembrance from the department. Six brothers-in-law of the dead woman acted as her pall bearers; these were John Parlee, Robert Parlee, Jas. B. Lambert, S. W. Lambert, James Line and John Sharkey. The interment was in the family plot at the Bound Brook cemetery.

Court Fined Thomas $2.

At his hearing before Borough Recorder Dolliver in the borough court last night, Edward Thomas, who was arrested by Marshal Pope helplessly drunk Thanksgiving night, was fined $2. Thomas slept in his cell all day yesterday and said he was thoroughly warmed through after his cold evening in a Somerset street doorway, where the officer found him.

ELKS SERVICE TOMORROW

Plainfield Lodge to Hold Its Annual Memorial Meeting at Theatre.

CINCINNATI LAWYER ORATOR.

Vice Mayor John Galvin to Make the Address—Judge William A. Runyon Also to Speak.

With all plans completed, the annual memorial service of Plainfield Lodge, No. 885, B. P. O. E., to be held in the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow night, will be the most elaborate the local organization has yet conducted. The Somerville lodge will attend in a body and assist in the exercises, the officers occupying seats upon the stage. Invitations to the number of 1,000 have been issued to non-members of the order.

The memorial address will be delivered by John Galvin, vice mayor of Cincinnati and one of the leading members of the Ohio bar. He is a past grand exalted ruler of the Elks and was secured by the Plainfield lodge after good-natured competition with many others. He is coming to Plainfield for the express purpose of delivering the address. Judge William N. Runyon will also speak.

Music for the occasion will be furnished by a quarette composed of Miss Campbell, Mrs. Turnbull, Mr. Barenblatt and Mr. Fellows, all of New York. This part of the program is in charge of Mr. Fellows, who has appeared at all of the previous memorial services.

The deceased members of No. 885, for whom the lodge of sorrow is held, are Daniel Detweiler, Herbert S. Taylor, Robert L. Thomae, Dr. O. L. Jenkins, Herbert B. Brooks and Charles C. Burnett.

VARIOUS SPORTS.

The arrival of the French Liner La Provence yesterday heralded the appearance of another installment of the foreign stars who are to take part in the great international six-day bicyle race at Madison Square Garden December 8 to 14. Several of the foreign stars including the famous Darragon champion of Europe, preceeded the delegation on the La Provence. The bulk of them, however, were on this boat and from now until the big race starts there will be some lively times in the training camp at Vailsburg. The La Provence shipment included Petit Breton, who is to ride with Darragon; Walter Rutt and Johann Stol, who will team together; Edmund Jacquelin, who is to race Frank Kramer for the world's sprinting championship Saturday night, December 7, and ride in the six-day race with Carlo Vanoni; Leon Georget and Victor Dupre, who will team in the long grind and Thornwald Ellegaard, who is to ride exhibitions and also meet Kramer in two match races during the week.

The Cunard Liner Carmania, which is due to arrive in New York tomorrow morning, will bring another team for the race, Harry Reynolds, the famous Irish champion, who has captured honors throughout the entire cycle racing world, and Benyon, the champion of England. Immediately upon their arrival Reynolds and Benyon will join the other foreigners at Vailsburg. From the records and past performances of the foreign riders it would appear that never before has the six-day championship been in such danger of being carried across the water. Not only will the pick of the champions from abroad try for the prize, but there will be more foreigners competing than ever before.

Largest Blast Set Off Thursday.

Thousands of tons were dislodged at Smalley's stone quarry at the end of Somerset street Thanksgiving night, when 100 pounds of dynamite were used in the biggest blast ever touched off at the quarry. The workmen tunnelled twenty-five feet into the side of the ledge about a hundred feet from the top of the cliff and the explosion shattered the whole edge of the quarry. The dynamite was set off late in the evening, care being taken to be sure that no one was on the cliff or within range of the flying rock. The stone broken off will keep the crushers supplied till early spring.

Adrian Bergen.

Adrian Bergen, a former feed merchant of Flatbush, who has been living in South Plainfield for the past few years, died Thursday at Muhlenberg Hospital. He was stricken with paralysis about a week ago. The body is being held at the Dunellen morgue, and his relatives in Flatbush have been informed.

Fire in Plumbing Shop.

Sparks from a fire pot started a blaze in the plumbing shop of Henry Eldman in the rear of 118 Liberty street at 7 o'clock last night and resulted in an alarm from box 46 being turned in. A stream from the chemical engine killed the flames before any consequential damage had been occasioned.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church held a meeting of special interest last night. It was appropriate to Thanksgiving time and Miss Ethel Lorton was in charge.

FORGER GETS 3 MONTHS FOR RAISING $4 CHECK

Roy Wilson, the eighteen-year-old boy who raised the amount of a $4 check to $40 and tried to cash it in Werner's clothing store in September, was sentenced to three months in State prison at his hearing before Judge Atwater in Union county court at Elizabeth today. The lad pleaded guilty to the charge of forgery. He was committed to the jail September 28, to await a hearing.

Wilson was in the employ of William F. Rogers, a farmer who lives in Piscatway township. He was given a check for $4 in payment for a bill at Werner's store. The check was drawn on the Dunellen National Bank. The lad inserted a zero after the four in a very clumsy way, and Mr. Werner detected the forgery as soon as the check was offered in payment of the bill. Engaging the lad in conversation, the clothier sent for Sergeant Overbaugh, who made the arrest.

HUNTER KILLED BY ENGINE.

John Mack, of Glen Gardner, Meets Death and His Two Companions Escape.

While walking the railroad track near Glen Gardner Thursday, John Mack, of that place, lost his life. In company with Harry and Fred Rush, he started on a gunning trip to High Bridge early in the morning, going down the railroad track. About a mile below Glen Gardner a passenger train passed them going east, the trio walking on the outer edge of the westbound track.

The noise of the passenger train prevented the hunters from hearing an engine going east on the westbound track. Fred Rush happened to glace around and saw the engine almost upon them, and, grabbing his brother, who was just ahead of him, pulled him from the track and shouted to Mack, who was several yards ahead.

Mack did not hear the others calling to him, and the engine, which was running backward, struck him, killing him instantly.

Mr. Mack was twenty-nine years old, and was employed in the office of the Taylor Iron and Steel Company at High Bridge. He was a nephew of the late Dr. Mack, former Mayor of Elizabeth, and leaves his mother, one sister, Miss Elizabeth Mack, of New York city. The funeral will be held in St. Ann's church, Hampton Junction, Monday morning at 9:30 o'clock. Interment will be in the adjoining cemetery.

Thanksgiving services were held at the Mt. Zion A. M. E. church Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock, when the pastor, Rev. J. T. Diggs delivered an appropriate sermon. An offering was received for Muhlenberg Hospital.

speak; I regarded her with concern. A beautiful woman is always dangerous, but a beautiful woman in trouble is doubly so. The friendship she had lightly begged of me a moment ago, I was tempted to offer seriously now. She had piqued and fascinated me. Now her unhappiness touched my heart.

But suddenly I doubted. Was it a clever ruse, this advent of the telegram so aply timed? Was she a consummate actress, confident of her dupe? No; the agony the message had caused her was undoubtedly genuine. When she looked at me, it was with eyes heavy with despair. When at last she spoke, her eyes burned fiercely, her voice was harsh with anger. The words she uttered were certainly not addressed to me. They were spoken rather in spite of my presence than because of it.

"Look! I stake all in one throw! I lose all—in a moment. I hold in my clenched hands the liberty and happiness of 10,000 women and children. And then a cursed fate strikes from my grasp this priceless happiness. My poor people, my poor people! Again I fail you; I betray you!"

She stared at me with eyes that did not see. Her small hands pressed her temples convulsively.

"Perhaps, madam, it is fate also who has sent me to you now, to help you."

"Perhaps," she said, heavily, scarcely listening.

Then suddenly an expression, quite merciless, distorted her features. Her pupils dilated in her fierce excitement. She studied my face critically, coldly deliberate. There was something portentous, almost ominous, in this cool stare. It disconcerted me; it made me already regret my proffer of friendship. She smiled; but the smile was Medusa-like.

"Yes, I believe it. Fate has sent you to me. And you—are you willing to follow where Fate leads?"

"Why not?" I demanded with more curiosity than sincerity, I confess.

"Ah, you are courageous enough for that? Monsieur, you are a bold man."

"Surely not so bold as you, madam, in asking courage of a man who has been disgraced for cowardice." It was difficult to keep the sneer out of my voice.

"I know to whom I speak, my dear monsieur. The task I would set you demands not the brute courage of the fool, but the devotion of a crusader. It is a sacred cause; its servants are not easily found."

"I am flattered that I fulfill the requirements so admirably," I returned cynically. "But you will find it difficult to convince me that my extraordinary courage and devotion to a good cause make my services invaluable. Why should you choose me from a score of men to help you?

"You are right. Above all things we must be frank with each other. You are at the Schweitzerhof? Au revoir, you will hear from me soon."

I bowed over the hand she held languidly toward me. I was embarked on an adventure. Where would it lead me?

I returned to my hotel soberly enough. I had told my little allegory lightly. Now I asked myself if I should not apply it seriously to myself. Only this morning I had mapped out for myself a clear path to be followed. And already was a siren beckoning? Already was I enchanted?

I was intensely irritated that I should have allowed myself to be interested by this Sophie de Varnier. ast hour I had been playing near the fire. It had not e; but could I honestly d not warmed, intoxi- Very well, I must be ompromise myself in ow another woman had come —radiant, glittering, a subtle perfume lulling the senses. Her wild beauty, her charm, had been frankly displayed to enthrall me. She had promised a definite adventure. As to the reward it seemed to me too brazenly obvious.

I flicked the ash angrily from my cigarette. And was I really tempted? Hardly, I resolved savagely. And yet I was not fool enough to be blind to the fact that the situation was not without its danger.

My shoulder was tapped. I was seated in the vestibule of my hotel. I looked up, startled. A well-groomed man in the early thirties towered over me, an American I saw at once. The round, jocund face was vaguely familiar.

"Yes," exclaimed a burly voice, "it really old Haddon."

grasped the hand he held toward motion. Here was a friend, and I needed a friend

I had not seen Locke since we were at college together. We had never been intimate, but the big-hearted Robinson Locke had been a character among his classmates.

At first I hesitated to his cordial greetings; I was afraid he had not heard my story. But presently he plunged into the episode that had made me notorious for a day. Then I knew he had come to stand by me.

"It is a brutal lie, of course," he stormed indignantly, 'but even if it were true—" He clapped my shoulder.

"It is true—at least in a measure."

"Rot!" he exclaimed with cheerful skepticism, lowering his person into the yielding expanse of an armchair by my side. "Tell me about it."

"Unless you insist, I prefer not to," I said quietly, beckoning a waiter. "It was just a horrible accident. Frankly, to have saved his life was impossible. But I might have died with him. I didn't. There you have my disgrace in a nutshell."

He looked somewhat glum at this cold-blooded explanation and stirred uneasily in his chair. I watched him, not without grim amusement. He pulled at his cigar, searching my face keenly.

"Rot!" he cried again, and this time with conviction. "If you feel any disgrace, it is your own fault, Haddon. If you were the coward they say you are, you wouldn't sit there smiling at me. You would rave and swear by all the gods that you were innocent. I don't want to hear your story. But I want you to know that you have one friend from home to stick up for you, and to believe in you."

I was too moved to speak.

"That's all right, then," he said with gruff gentleness. "It must be hell to be over here alone and everybody kicking you."

"Oh, that was to be expected, of course! But last night I had an experience that I wouldn't go through again if I could help it."

"Do you mind telling me what it was?"

"Willoughby, the man who was killed, loved a Miss Brett. She was at this hotel last night with her mother. They heard of my being here, and did me the honor to send for me, and to ask from me the details of the tragedy."

Locke's heavy face was agitated equally by sympathy and surprise.

"Miss Brett!" he cried. "That must be the sister of Sir Mortimer Brett."

"You know her?" I demanded eagerly.

"I have never seen her, but I know something of Sir Mortimer. He is the most picturesque figure in the English diplomatic service."

"Why picturesque? That is a strange adjective to describe a British minister. Who is he, and how do you happen to know him?"

"He is consul general and minister plenipotentiary at Sofia, Bulgaria. There is not an attache in Europe today who has not an inquisitive eye cocked at Sir Mortimer Brett."

"And his claims to distinction?"

"Two only, my dear fellow, but they are sufficient to make any man notorious. First of all, scandal has been busy with his illustrious name. However I am afraid that's a very ordinary sort of notoriety. But when I tell you the sober fact that if he just winked war would break out in the Balkan peninsula you will grant that he is a factor in the game of European politics."

"I have heard enough to have my curiosity excited. Tell me more of the man who controls the destiny of a nation. The scandal, for instance. Is it a matter of common newspaper publicity? I have figured in the papers myself lately, and I feel a certain sympathy for a fellow-sufferer?"

"Oh, the newspapers have made him squirm a bit, no doubt. But my sources of information are more accurate than mere newspaper gossip. You see, I happen to be the American consul here."

"Then your gossip of the embassies ought to be worth listening to."

I settled myself in my chair and lighted a fresh cigarette.

"My dear chap, you are asking too much of me—really you are! The situation in the Balkans! Good Lord,

"The Situation in the Balkans! Good Lord, That's Too Appalling a Subject to Be Discussed."

that's too appalling a subject to be discussed between two friends who have just met."

"Locke," I replied diplomatically, "I suppose you wish to discuss me and my unfortunate affair. Well, I don't. If you wish to show me that you believe me not quite so black as I am painted, ignore the matter completely."

ORANGE MADE 102 POINTS

Plainfield Y.M.C.A. Completely Outclassed in First League Basketball.

SECOND TEAM LOSES 45-76.

Whirlwind Basketball at Orange Saturday When Last Lear's Champions Snowed Under Local Five.

While there was snow in this city last night, the Y. M. C. A. basketball five ran into a heavy storm at Orange Saturday night in the first game of the season in the Northern New Jersey Y. M. C. A. basketball league and were conclusively snowed under by a score of 102 to 19. Scoring on the average of a basket every minute of play, the Orange players had it all over the local team from the very start, and passed the hundred mark in the scoring a minute or two before time was called in the second half. Captain Shorter, of the Orange five, shot twenty-two baskets from the floor during the game, and Poeller caged the ball sixteen times. In a preliminary game the second team of the Orange Y. M. C. A. defeated the local team 45-16.

Orange, 102; Plainfield, 19.

The Orange five, last year's champions in the league, started the game with a rush, and in the first few minutes of play, Shorter broke away from his man and shot two baskets in succession. Then Loizeaux scored for the local five, and for a time it looked as if the local five would give the home team a rub. But the Orange five had their team work down to a high degree of perfection, and this, with some brilliant goals from the floor, soon put them well in the lead. The score at the end of the first half was 57 to 8 in favor of Orange.

In the second half, the home five continued their fast play and the local team could only score eleven eleven points. It was whirlwind basketball from whistle and when the game finally ended the score board showed that last year's championship five had run up a total of 102 points. The lineup and summaries:

ORANGE.		PLAINFIELD.
Shorter	right forward.	Gilmore
Hand	left forward.	Rumsey
Poeller	centre.	Collier
Trembley	right guard.	Loizeaux, Miner

Goals from the field—Shorter 22, Hand and Poeller 16, Trembley, Patten 2, Gilmore 2, Rumsey 2, Collier 2, Loizeaux, Gavett. Free throws—Hand 3, Patten, Colllier 3. Referee—Henckel, Orange Y. M. C. A. Umpire—Listman, Plainfield. Timers—McCall, Stevens; Hansel, Plainfield. Twenty minute halves.

Orange 2nd, 45; Plainfield 2nd, 16.

The local second team also were defeated, though they were more in the class with their opponents. At the end of the first half, the score was 27-11 in favor of the Orange five, and though the home team continued to play the same kind of fast basketball, the Plainfielders could only score five points in the second period. The summaries follow:

ORANGE 2D.		PLAINFIELD 2D.
Williams, Barker	right forward.	Bentley
Poeller	centre.	Martin
Wiberalski	right guard.	Jacot

Goals from field—Williams 2, Leimer 4, Poeller 5, Wiberalski 7, Barker 4, Templin 2, Martin 3 Jacot 2. Free throwns—Poeller, Templin 2. Referee—Henckel, Orange Y. M. C. A. Timers—McGall, Stevens; Listman, Plainfield. Fifteen minutes halves.

Y. M. C. A. TRACK ATHLETES READY FOR WINTER MEETS.

Eager to get back at the Orange Y. M. C. A. for the basketball defeat Saturday, the local association track team will go to Orange Saturday night to take part in a dual track meet to be held in the Orange gymnasium. Competitors in the various events have been holding regular practises in the local gymnasium and are said to be in winning form.

Physical Director Listman, of the Y. M. C. A., has already closed dates for five indoor track meets to be held with State associations in the vicinity, and has two or three other dates pending. The meets scheduled so far are all out of town, and the dates follow: Saturday, December 7, Orange Y. M. C. A., at Orange; Friday, January 24, Elizabeth Y. M. C. A., at Elizabeth; Saturday, February 29, Paterson Y. M. C. A., at Paterson; Saturday, March 14, Inter-Y. M. C. A. meet, at Orange. All the meets will be in the evening.

Y. M. C. A. vs. Orange Reserves.

Word has been received from the Twenty-sixth Ward Y. M. C. A. team, which was to have played the local association five tonight that on account of a confusion of dates, the team would be unable to come. Physical Director Listman, of the Y. M. C. A., has arranged for a game with the Orange Reserves to be played in the gymnasium in place of the regularly scheduled game. Most of the members of this team are members of the Orange Y. M. C. A., and they are a fast five. In the preliminary game, the Business Men's five will play the team from the Congregational church. This will be the first game in the local league.

There were no spills and the chase was full of excitement from start to finish.

NEW WITNESS FOR SKILLMAN IN THE FORGERY CASE.

A surprise was sprung on the State Saturday in the Skillman trial at Somerville, when the defense produced a witness who did not appear in any of the former trials, Mrs. Jennie Updike, a neighbor of Lanehart and Skillman. She testified that she was talking with Lanehart at her home one day in the spring of 1905, when Skillman drove by. She said that Lanehart said:

"There goes friend Skillman. I think a lot of that man. He is white all through. I would trust him forther than any man I know. He wrote my will, and when I die he will get a large share of my property."

The witness said the reason she had not told of the conversation before was because she was a sufferer from heart disease and did not want to be drawn into the case. The trial will be continued tomorrow.

Musical Service Largely Attended.

The special monthly musical service attracted a large congregation to the First Presbyterian church, last night, and the program was greatly enjoyed. The quartete choir comprising Miss Anna Lucretia Case, soprano; Miss Jessamine Burd, contralto; F. C. Iglehart, Jr., bass and E. Maxwell Honeyman, tenor, assisted by Miss Alice C. Miller, pianist, and Clifford A. Braider, organist, rendered an excellent program of sacred selections. The numbers for soprano, contralto and tenor, as well as those given by request, from the "Stabat Mater," and the "Creation," were especially well given.

CONGRESS OPENS TODAY

Frank O. Briggs Takes His Seat as the Junior Senator from New Jersey.

KEAN'S IMPORTANT COMMITTEES

Ira W. Wood May Be Chairman of Coinage Committee—Fowler Again Head of Currency Committee.

Frank O. Briggs, who succeeds John F. Dryden in the United States Senate, took his seat at the opening session of Congress at noon today. That will mean, as a matter of course, that he will take unimportant committee assignments for the first year at least, and, as a result, New Jersey will lose considerable prestige, because Mr. Dryden was chairman of an important committee, that of enrolled bills, and also a member of a number of important committees.

John Kean, the other representative in the upper legislative body of the United States, will hold all of his committee assignments, and may have even more important places than at present. Mr. Kean is chairman of the Committee on Audit and Control of the Contingent Expenses of the Senate, and in that capacity he has charge of the purse-strings of the contingent expense fund of that body—a position of considerable importance. He is also a member of the Committees on Foreign Relations, Claims, Interstate Commerce, Territories and Private Land Claims.

There is a chance that New Jersey may get another chairmanship in the House which will give her five in ten Congressmen—an unusually large showing.

The fifth chairmanship which may come to New Jersey is that of the Committee of Coinage, Weights and Measures. Congressman Ira W. Wood, representing Somerset, Mercer and Hunterdon counties, is the man likely to be chosen. He is in line for the appointment, and if he does not get it precedent will be disregarded by the Speaker.

Representative Loudenslager has acted as chairman of the Committee on Pensions for several Congresses. He has also been on the Committee on Naval Affairs. Representative Gardner has looked after the bills affecting labor, as chairman of the Labor Committee, and he has also served on Postoffices and Post Roads. Representative Howell, of the Third district, has been chairman of the Committee on Immigration and Naturalization, and as a member of Public Buildings and Grounds.

Congressman Charles N. Fowler, representing Union, Morris and Warren counties, the expert on financial affairs, who has been the chairman of the Banking and Currency Committee, a committee which will be a busy one his year, is likely to be reappointed.

Representative Parker will no doubt get his old assignments on Judiciary and Military Affairs, and Mr. Wood may also be assigned again as a member on Immigration and Naturalization.

Just what assignments will be handed out to the four Democrats from New Jersey remains to be seen. Colonel Le Gage Pratt, of Newark, who succeeded Major Wiley, can hardly expect anything like the assignments that Mr. Wiley had. Mr. Hughes has been here before and may bare better as a result, but Mr. Hammill and Mr. Leake will find that the minority assignments are not very flattering at best.

St. John's Vestry.

At the annual parish meeting at St. John's Episcopal church, Somerville, the following officers were elected: Senior warden, William H. Taylor; junior warden, Hugh K. Gaston; vestrymen, John B. Osbourn, John B. Parmalee, Francis S. Vanderveer, John Ringlemann, A. G. Anderson, William A. Smalley and Geo. A. Thompson; clerkof the vestry, Francis S. Vanderveer; treasurer, John B. Parmalee; delegates to diocesan convention, William H. Taylor, John B. Osbourn, William D. Nolan; alternates, Milton Labaw, William Wittnebert and J. F. Andrews.

Auction Sale of Horses.

James Gethin, who conducts the stables at the Riding and Driving Club, has announced that he will sell thirteen of his string of hunters and saddle horses at auction next Saturday afternoon. The lot comprises four hunters that have participated in the runs of the Watchung Hunt Club the past season and nine combination saddle and harness horses. The sale will be possitive and will afford some good bargains.

Second Concert in the Series.

The second concert in the series of entertainments being given at Grace M. E. church this winter, will be held at the church on Thursday night. John H. B. Conger, of Newark, a talented musician, has charge of the details for the entertainment and the talent will be the best obtainable. There will be vocal and instrumental music.

Miss Gertrude Hunter, of West Fourth street, who is a student at Barnard College, has returned to her studies after the Thanksgiving vacation.

Dr. A. D. Melvin, chief of the Bureau of Animal Industry, of Washington, D. C., will speak on the subject "Tuberculous Meat," and "Meat Inspection" will be the topic of James B. Pierce is a member of the reception committee and the committee on resolutions.
